CLEANER ADVERTISING IS SLOGAN OF AD MEN

Will Present Petition to State Legislature Asking Protection From Fake Publicity

The Ad Men's Club of Atlanta will have introduced before the next session of the Georgia legislature a bill to prohibit untrue and misleading advertisements. Representative-elect John T. Smith, of Fulton county, will father the bill and Ad Men propose to get right in behind the legislators and see to it that their prosed bill becomes a law.

Work to get this bill before the legislature was begun in 1911 and since that time the Ad Men have been busy upon it. The committee now active in this matter, which is known as the legislative committee, is composed of William F. Parkhurst, southern advertising manager Orange Judd company, chairman; Ben Lee Crew, vice president Phillips & Crew Piano company; R. I. Fahy, advertising manager Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company; I. H. Cassett, advertising manager M. Rich & Bros. tary of the Ad Men's club, and a promcompany, and Howard Geldert, secretent insurance agent.

Following is a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Ad Men's club, and also a copy of the proposed bill:

RESOLUTIONS.

Believing firmly in the principle of "honesty in advertising" and desiring to rid this city and state of the faker and grafter in advertising, be it

Resolved, by the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, in regular meeting assembled, That it is the sense of this organization that the general assembly of the state of Georgia at its next regular session be importuned to pass the bill we present herewith, for the good of the public at large; and be it

Resolved, further, That the secretary of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta be instructed to transmit a copy of this proposed bill to a member of the general assembly of the state of Georgia, from Fulton county, with the request that said member introduce said bill at the next session of the general assembly of the state of Georgia.

AN ACT Prohibiting Untrue and Misleading Advertisements, and to Punish Violations Thereof.

Section 1. That any person, firm, corporation or association, or any employe thereof, who, in circular, newspaper or any other publication published in this state, or by any painted signs, posters or printed matter of any kind, knowingly makes or disseminates any statement or assertion of fact, concerning the quality, the quantity, the value, the method of production or manufacture, the reason of the price of his, theirs or its merchandise, or the motive or purpose of the sale intended to give the appearance of an offer advantageous to the purchaser, which is untrue or calculated to mislead, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 2. Any person, firm, corporation or association, or any employe thereof who violates any of the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be punished as provided for in section 1065 of the criminal code of the state of Georgia in 1910.

OSTEOPATHISTS MEET IN LOOKOUT CITY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, May 17.—The fifteenth annual convention of the Tennessee Osteopathic association opened here this morning. An interesting program has been arranged, and papers will be read on various subjects pertaining to the work of osteopathy.

One of the features of the convention will be the address of Dr. E. R. Booth, M. A. D. O., of Cincinnati, on "The Way of Osteopathy." The officers of the association, which is one of the strongest and most active in the state, are:

H. Yeiser, D. O., of Memphis, president; W. S. McClain, D. O., of Nashville, vice president, and Ethel Brittain, D. O., of Riversburg, secretary. Mayor Thompson delivered the address of welcome. The convention closed Saturday night.

The body of Milton Springfield, uncle of Willard F. Springfield, of this city, was brought to Chattanooga this morning from Rome, Ga., where he died yesterday. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence of W. T. Yarnell this afternoon, the Rev. C. E. Sprague officiating. Interment will be in the White Oak cemetery.

PROBE OF UNITED FRUIT COMPANY IS HALTED

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—After examining more than fifty witnesses the federal grand jury, before which the government has been seeking an indictment against the United Fruit company as a monopolistic corporation was adjourned today subject to call.

Government counsel announced that one or two witnesses might be called next week after which the case would be closed. Whether indictments would then be handed down, the attorneys refused to say.

Most of the witnesses examined are officials of the subsidiary companies of the concern, including those of the agent. Higher officials of the company and some of the directors were not subpoenaed, for to do so would give them immunity.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 17.—Upon an order of Judge Emory Speer, $63,170.68, of the Huff estate will be distributed at once. A balance of about $25,000 will be left in the bank that cannot be distributed until the appeal of Colonel W. A. Huff, Mrs. Mattie J. C. Jennings and Edison Huff can be passed on by the court of appeals. The largest amount of the $63,170.68 that will be distributed will be drawn by the Scottish American Mortgage company, which company will be paid $23,839.64.

Bibb county will receive over $1,000 due as back taxes and the tax receiver will be paid more than $5,000 as state taxes. The city of Macon will receive $7,450.26. It is the intention of the city to appeal against the payment of 10 per cent of their amount to attorneys who brought the original suit.

GRID-IRON DINNER COMMITTEE OF THE AD-MEN'S CLUB

Through Pullman Has Been Secured and Party Will Leave June 7—Those Who Will Make the Trip and Advertise Atlanta at Convention

The Ad Men's club expects to have its full quota of delegates to the ninth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America when that association convenes in Baltimore June 8, as well as carrying with them a number of representative business men.

A through Pullman train has been secured and the party will leave Atlanta Saturday, June 7, over the Southern railway direct to Baltimore. A number of ladies will accompany the party. Arriving at Baltimore, a committee from the Baltimore Ad club will meet the Atlanta train and escort the visitors to their hotel. The entire Atlanta delegation will be quartered at Hotel Rennert. Reservations have already been made for the entire party, and room numbers at Hotel Rennert can be secured, together with full information, by communicating with Fred Houser, secretary Atlanta convention bureau, 817 Empire building. The general chairman of the Atlanta delegation is Albert S. Adams, 209 Grant building.

Several Atlantians are on the program during the several days of the Baltimore convention sessions, and all the party is preparing to let everyone know that Atlanta is decidedly on the map. Various publicity stunts will be pulled off, plans for which are being carefully made.

The On-To-Baltimore committees are as folows:

General Chairman—A. S. Adams.

Ways and Means and Finance—Ivan E. Allen, chairman; St. Elmo Massengale, E. H. Goodhart, Howard Geldert, Wylie West.

Transportation—J. H. Lewis, chairman; Charles A. Smith.

Hotel Accommodations—Fred Houser, chairman; L. E. Rogers, Edwin F. Johnson.

Badges, Souvenirs and Uniforms—E. H. Cone, chairman; L. D. Hicks, Kendall Weisegar.

Entertainment—Paul P. Reese, chairman; J. F. Lewis, Lindsay Hopkins, Paul E. Wilkes, John Gilmore, T. H. Brannen and W. F. Parkhurst.

W. S. LOUNSBURY,
Treasurer of Atlanta Ad Men's club and an enthusiastic worker. He is vice president of Travelers' Bank and Trust company.

Ad Men invite anyone interested to make the Baltimore trip with them. An exceedingly low round trip rate has been made by the railroads. Baltimore is well prepared to handle any and all who may attend the convention, and a good time is assured. An entertainment fund of over $35,000 has been raised in Baltimore.

A number of people who will doubtless attend this advertising convention have not as yet announced their plans, but the following have agreed to go to Baltimore: Ivan E. Allen, L. E. Rogers, George A. Campbell, William J. Davis, Charles D. Atkinson, Jule D. Jernigan, George M. Kohn, Paul P. Reese, Fred Houser, Jack H. Lewis, Joseph W. Hill, M. Greer, J. Lee Barnes, E. H. Goodhart, St. Elmo Massengale, Edwin F. Johnson, J. C. McMichael, W. G. Peebles, J. D. Wester, Allen M. Pierce, William A. Sims, Albert S. Adams, L. D. Hicks, Donald A. Loyless, W. S. Lounsbury, Howard Geldert, S. D. Zacharais, Evelyn Harris, Wiley West, W. P. Walthall, Kendall Weisegar, Thomas H. Brannen and Samuel C. Dobbs.

PARKHURST TO ADDRESS BALTIMORE CONVENTION

District Compliment Given Local Ad Club by Selection of Mr. Parkhust as Speaker

William F. Parkhurst, ex-president of the Atlanta Ad Men's club, and now a member of the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, has been assigned a speaker's place on the program of the national convention which meets in Baltimore June 8 to 13.

Mr. Parkhurst will, on Tuesday, June 10, address that convention at the afternoon session on the subject of "Opportunity and Duty of Each Club." His remarks will be largely along the line of the importance of each club co-operating in the vigilance movement, not only for its local good, but for the good of the cause nationally.

The Ad Men's Club of America considers the selection of Mr. Parkhurst as one of the speakers to address this national convention of over 4,000 advertising men, as a distinct compliment to the local club, and a recognition of his services in working for honest advertising and fighting the faker. Mr. Parkhurst is southern advertising manager of the Orange Judd company, of New York, the largest publishers of agricultural papers in the United States.

MESSAGE FROM AD MEN'S HEAD CONCERNING WORK OF LOCAL CLUB

George W. Coleman, of Boston, Tells of the Great Work of the Advertising Organizations

BY GEORGE W. COLEMAN,
Of Boston, President Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

It is only eighteen years since the first advertising club was formed. It was the Agate club of Chicago, and is still at work on its original lines, being made up exclusively of men who sell magazine advertising space. The Kansas City Advertising club was perhaps the first organization of advertising men that opened its membership to men interested in all phases of advertising. Even as recent as seven or eight years ago there were not more than thirty-odd advertising clubs throughout the country. Now there are more than 150; in fact, there are about that many officially enrolled in the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which now has an individual-dues-paying membership of nearly 5,000.

This rather sudden rise and development of the advertising club movement has been most remarkable. The national organization itself is [illegible] years old, and it is only within [illegible] two or three years that it has really assumed national proportions, as well as in name. [illegible] conventions were all held in western cities—Chicago, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Detroit. Up to Atlanta, Kansas City and Louisville. Up to little or no interest in the movement and the men on the Pacific coast were not related to the organization.

ATLANTA MAN'S SPIRIT.

A new day was ushered in at Louisville in the summer of 1909, when S. C. Dobbs, of Atlanta, was made national president. Although at that time Mr. Dobbs was untrained in public life, he brought to the position exceptional gifts and a spirit of rare devotion. He traveled all over the country in the interest of the work, and when he finished his second year as the head of the organization he had made it a mighty instrument for the advancement of the advertising interests of the country. The Boston convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America impressed the whole country with the strength, the dignity and the serious purposes of the men engaged in the advertising business. Two thousand three hundred delegates were present, representing every section of this country, Canada and Great Britain. The best men in the business were glad to be identified with it.

GEORGE W. COLEMAN,

Notwithstanding Dallas was a thousand miles or more beyond the advertising centers of the country, the convention held there May 19-23, 1912, made a record in attendance and in the good work accomplished. Words of praise for the convention was emphasized more strongly than ever by the remarkable event which took place on the Friday preceding the opening of the convention.

Sixteen of the leading pulpits of Dallas were occupied on Sunday morning by an advertising representative and worthy advertising men selected from all parts of the country, each of whom preached a lay sermon on advertising.

This same plan will be followed at the Baltimore convention. On Sunday, June 8, thirty of the leading church pulpits will be filled by prominent advertising men of the United States each of whom will bring out the strong points of honesty in advertising statements and plans.

The discussion at Baltimore of advertising topics and the planning of definite lines of work for the advancement of advertising will go beyond anything which has heretofore been attempted.

EAT APPLES IN PUBLIC, DECREE ATLANTA AD MEN

It's the National Fruit, They Resolve, at Instance of Portland Ad Club

If you feel like munching an apple hereafter, no matter where you be, go to it—if you've got the apple. The Ad Men's Club of Atlanta will stand by you that it's perfect form and the best of etiquette and quite de trop (whatever that is) to eat apples in public or private till you just plain out-and-out bust.

Here's the documentary evidence below. The Portland, Ore., Ad Men's club, being imbued with the zeal and fervor that prevails in all great apple-growing regions, put it up to the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta to amend their social code by decreeing that whereas the apple is the national fruit of the United States like baseball is its national game, therefore apples may be eaten in public at any and all times.

Read this, and be convinced:

"Mr. Howard Geldert, Secretary Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Mr. Geldert: I beg to acknowledge your communication of April 4 to which is attached a communication from the Portland Ad Men's club of Portland, Ore., containing the suggestion and request that the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta adopt a certain resolution to amend the social code of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, to wit:

"' RESOLUTION.

" 'Whereas, the apple is pre-eminently the national fruit of America, and

" 'Whereas, it is good on all occasions; therefore be it

" 'Resolved, That the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, other clubs concurring, hereby amends the social code to permit of the eating of apples in public at any time or place.'

"I also note from your letter that the communication from the Portland Ad Men's Club of Oregon was read at a meeting of the club, April 3, and that the president was good enough to appoint me chairman of the apple committee, which I accept with pleasure and ask you to be good enough to convey my thanks for this appointment to the president of our club.

"In behalf of the apple committee I recommend that the above quoted resolution be adopted.

"If the resolution is adopted, as chairman of the apple committee, I announce to the members of our club and ask them in turn to inform the public at large that it is the proper thing and in keeping with the social code of good ethics 'to eat apples in public at any time or at any place.'

"I further recommend to the unmarried members in good standing of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta to have in their possession at all times a few big red apples, especially of the varieties grown in northeast Georgia, when they take their lady love to some public place of amusement and to eat the same at the said public place of amusement. (I mean eat the apples, not the lady.)

"At any time when a member of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta is in trouble it is well to remember the wise words of King Solomon, who said, 'Comfort me with apples.'

"To the membership committee I respectfully suggest that in the consideration of new applicants for membership in the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, that they ascertain from said applicant if he is fond of apples, if not, it is well to remember the words of Charles Lamb, who said, 'a man cannot have a pure mind who refuses apple dumpling,' as there must be something radically wrong with a man who doesn't like a good apple and such a person is not fit for membership in the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta.

"In conclusion, I beg to suggest in behalf of the apple committee that the following motto be adopted by the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

" 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away.'

"Respectfully yours,

(Signed) "LOUIS B. MAGID.

"Chairman of the Apple Committee, Ad Men's Club of Atlanta."

The above report by the apple committee was unanimously passed upon favorably at the last meeting of the Ad Men, held at the Kimball house on the evening of May 13.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED AGAINST COMMISSION

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 17.—Information received last night by the state railroad commission from Huntsville, Ala., says that Judge Grubb, of the federal bench, last night granted an eight-day temporary restraining order against the state commission in the application of the Louisville and Nashville railroad against the enforcement of the two and one-half cent passenger fare.

A night session was held in Huntsville to hear the arguments of the attorneys. It is understood here that the restraining order only postpones from May 20 the enforcement of the lower rate, and that, unless the temporary order is then made permanent, on May 28 Judge Grubb will hear arguments to make the order permanent, and if he refuses the request, no appeal will be taken.

BASEBALL ATTENDANCE CUP WAS WON BY THE AD CLUB

To the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

Whenever the directors of the Atlanta Baseball association desire to boost anything connected with baseball, which is a high-class, clean sport, their first thought is to turn to the Ad Men's club of Atlanta. The members of this organization are among the very best people in this progressive city. My experience is that they can do more to boost a game than any organization of a similar character I have ever seen. A few days previous to the opening day of baseball for the season of 1913 in Atlanta I went to a luncheon given by the members of the Ad Men's club and told them that Atlanta wanted to show the other cities in the Southern league what they could do on opening day in the matter of attendance, and wanted to get the trophy offered for the largest attendance, and that it would be a big advertisement for Atlanta, and that was all that was necessary. Immediately they entered into the spirit of the thing, and I knew from that minute that Atlanta had the trophy. They didn't stop a minute, and they saw everybody and did everything that was necessary to accomplish the purpose. They did it with an enthusiasm that was irresistible, and that is the way they do everything that makes for the good of this city. As an advertising force I know of no organization that can accomplish more.

The members are thoroughly clean cut, up-to-date, smart business men, men from all walks and all professions, and they are a unit in boosting Atlanta and anything in Atlanta that is beneficial. I take off my hat to the Ad Men's club, and I honestly believe that they have caught the spirit that has made this city the greatest of all the southern cities to a greater extent than any organization in Atlanta.

A Wonderful Memory

(Chicago Tribune.)

"You boast of your memory, Rivers! I'll bet you a cigar you can't quote, on the spur of the moment, a single stanza of any kind you sang in Sunday school when you was a boy."

"I'll take you up on that, Brooks. In fact, I'll sing you one:

"'Kind words can never die,
Never die, never die;
Kind words can never die,
No, not-e-e-e die!'"

"You win, old chap; I didn't think you could do it!"

The World Has Outgrown Silent Pianos

IS the Piano in your home a musical instrument; and do you use it as such? Or is it like so many others, merely an article of furniture—a costly ornament? The piano is meant to be played. Actually no other such superb musical instrument exists.

Its presence in the home should mean entertainment without measure, culture, education. Its influence should be constantly apparent, brightening and enlivening the home atmosphere.

If your piano is not providing you with music—if you and the members of your family cannot play it—then it is not the piano you should have. You are losing more than you can estimate by not replacing it at once with the piano of the present day.

The Pianola Piano

For hand-playing it is a superb piano with tone and action of the very highest quality.

Played with music-roll, the Pianola Piano gives a performance as artistic and correct as the playing of the best pianists.

Anyone Can Play The Pianola Piano

No previous knowledge of music is necessary to play the Pianola Piano. The notes of a composition are played by the music-roll. The expression, you put in.

And the wonderful Metrostyle—the Pianola Piano's crowning feature—furnishes the performer with a musical understanding, that enables even the novice to play with true musicianly effect.

If you do not play—if you play a little—even if you play very well—the Pianola Piano is the most logical, most satisfying piano you can buy.

There Is But One Genuine Pianola

It is built into but five Pianos—The Steinway—Weber—Steck—Wheelock—Stuyvesant.

The Pianola Piano is recognized in every country of the world as the leading instrument of its type.

It is the only piano-player manufactured by an organization specialized to produce such instruments—who have made a life study of the player and its application to the pianoforte.

By reason of its conspicuous superiority the Pianola Piano has received the endorsement of the world's leading musical authorities and the exclusive patronage of the cultured classes of all countries.

A Visit to Our Warerooms

If you are at all interested in player-pianos it will pay you to visit our warerooms. We carry a complete line of Pianola Pianos and will gladly demonstrate these superb instruments to you without your incurring any obligation whatever.

Prices and Terms—Pianola Pianos cost from $550 upwards. A liberal allowance will be made on other pianos in exchange and monthly terms to suit your convenience may be arranged.

LONDON PREPARES BIG TIME FOR POINCARE

President of France Will Visit English Capital During June

BY OLIVER GWYNNE.

LONDON, May 17.—Owing to the coming visit of the French president in June, we are going to have an even better season than was expected. M. Poincare will be in mourning for his mother almost up to the time of his arrival here, but it will not interfere with his stay. I was told at the French embassy that he had accepted an invitation to the city, and I think that his reception during his progress to the guild hall will fill all Frenchmen with wild delight. The city, like Rodgers, can do it when it likes.

M. Poincare will be entertained at lunch, and already the civic chefs are looking forward to decorations as a reward for their hospitality. Honors have not come much in the way of the city magnates lately. King George does not exactly throw knighthoods and the Victorian Order about, and lord mayors have gone out of office without being made baronets. There have been tears shed over this, for it is not a cheap business, figuring highly in city affairs. The French president is, therefore, regarded as a welcome guest.

The chief of the republic will stay with the king and queen at Buckingham palace, and will be feted at a state dinner at which will be gathered the principal representatives of politics, the navy and the army. The president will return the compliment by giving a dinner at the embassy at Albertgate, where the guests will include the more prominent men of the French colony in London. The man M. Poincare is probably most looking forward to meeting is Sir Edward Grey. They know each other, of course, but in June they will have many more things to discuss than is quite obvious at this moment.

Wealth in Canada

LONDON, May 17.—The Duke of Connaught at the dinner of the Canada club the other evening said that he did not know a prouder position that any Englishman could hold than the governor generalship of Canada. His year and a half in the dominion had been as happy as any in his life.

He was astonished at the progress he saw everywhere during his tour of the dominion. To those Englishmen who had not been to Canada he could only say that the sooner they went there, the better. With British justice and British freedom a great dominion was being built up. Many of the people were of alien races, but they were gradually and surely being moulded into good Canadians, and he hoped they would be able to see them made into good British citizens.

There was a great future before Canada. The dominion was progressing by leaps and bounds, and was a great field for Englishmen who had a little money and who were prepared to put their shoulder to the wheel.

My advice to every Englishman," the duke said, "is that if they are prepared to work and prepared to wait for the result of their labors in Canada they will get on splendidly." If the duchess' health permitted they might go back to spend another year among the Canadian people. He felt so much interested in the progress and advancement of Canada that it would be a great regret to him were he to sever just now his connection with the great dominion, for he felt himself from his association with her from a boy, half a Canadian.

AD MEN HELPED SECURE HOME FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

To the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

It would give me pleasure to write any kind of a statement that you may require relative to the valuable assistance given to the Atlanta chamber of commerce by the Ad Men's club. The chamber owes them a debt of gratitude, first for coming to their assistance and in making a success of the campaign which will give to the chamber a permanent home. The recently remarkable successful membership campaign is an evidence that the aid and co-operation of the ad men is a valuable acquisition not only to the chamber, but to any other organization which is fortunate enough to have their support and indorsement.

As president of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, I feel that any activity which the chamber might wish to undertake, if they can bring to bear the co-operation and support of the ad men, that it will be an assured success.

Cordially yours,
WILMER L. MOORE,
President Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Sea Urchins

LONDON, May 10.—Two little sea urchins—marine animals covered with prickles like a hedgehog—that have never seen the sea, have been born in the zoological laboratory of the Imperial College of Science, South Kensington, and are being reared by Prof. MacBride.

Their parents were brought from Plymouth some months ago, said Prof. MacBride yesterday for the purpose of studying hybridization. The eggs when they appeared were no bigger than the point of a pin. They were put into four large glass tanks filled with sea water and containing a species of seaweed as food. In a few months the sea urchins made their appearance.

"To give the sea urchins the impression that they were actually living in the sea, a glass plate connected with a rod, which in its turn is connected with a little hydraulic pump, was fixed in each tank. When the glass plate moves up and down a gentle motion is given to the water. The sea urchins imagine it is their first experience of the swell of the sea. This is the first time any sea urchin has been born under such conditions and so far from the sea."

ATLANTIC BEACH
THE NEW CITY BY THE SEA

This most remarkable Real Estate development, on Florida's east coast, appeals to every portion of the Great Southeast.

It offers in the wonderfully beautiful lands surrounding the Atlantic Beach Hotel, formerly The Continental, which is known everywhere, the choicest home sites, either on the finest ocean beach in the world, or back a few hundred feet in the no less attractive palm and oak forests.

It offers homes already built and ready for occupancy, or lots where you may build you own home and surround yourself with your own belongings. You may live here one month or twelve, and rent your home when you do not occupy it yourself.

Atlantic Beach was equipped with an electric lighting plant and an abundant supply of artesian water before the foundations of a single residence was laid.

Where, on the first of March, was an almost impenetrable jungle, there are now a score of beautiful bungalows and houses under roof, and most of them will be ready for occupancy early in June. The materials for forty more are on the ground, waiting for the masons and carpenters. Some of them have been sold in advance of their completion and the new owners are impatient for possession. Streets have been laid out, ready for top dressing of hard surface, sidewalks and sewer lines have been run and the ornamental light posts are ready for the electric wiring.

Atlantic Beach appeals also as an investment proposition.

Since March 1 the sales here have amounted to EIGHTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS. Less than one-fifth of the property has been prepared for this season's sales. At the present rate, most of this, perhaps all, will be under contract to bona-fide purchasers by July 15.

It is exclusively high-class property. It will be kept so. The demand for it is strong, and growing stronger. It will increase, probably double, its value within two years. You cannot lose. You must make money if you buy here merely as an investment, and without intending to build a home. With a lot improved your profit would be even greater, and surer.

Here is the finest suburb of Florida's most rapidly growing city. There is no more desirable location, nor one with more natural beauties and advantages anywhere in the country. You need only to see to be convinced that this is no over-statement. It will become one of the great resorts, and one of the most beautiful cities on the entire Atlantic coast.

The prices of lots here range upward from six hundred and twenty-five dollars. While it is not a ten-dollar-down-and-ten-a-month proposition, it is within the reach of any desirable citizen who can afford to pay twenty dollars or more a month for house rental.

The way to be convinced is to see it, and when you know what you can find out by writing for the information, you will at least want to come. It costs very little, after all, to write.

ATLANTA AD MEN HAVE BOOSTED CITY'S PROGRESS AND SECURED THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS OF PUBLICITY

Organized in March, 1909, It Has Become One of Strongest Advertising Institutions in Country

MEMBERSHIP OF CLUB GROWS FROM 50 TO 200

Many National Honors Have Come to Atlanta Body as Result of Notable Achievements

BY WM. F. PARKHURST.

The Ad Men's club of Atlanta is one of the livest organizations this city has known. Organized March 4, 1909, with less than 50 members, the organization has grown to a membership of nearly 200. It has worked for the best in advertising and from the start has been a booster in all undertakings for the good of Atlanta. The following well known young Atlanta business men have served the Ad Men's club as president: T. H. Brannen, George M. Chapin, William F. Parkhurst, Paul Reese and Albert S. Adams. The present officers are: E. H. Goodhart, of the Southern Photo Material company, president; Jack H. Lewis, manager Joseph Dixon Crucible company, vice president; W. Joseph Hubbard, of Foote & Davies company, second vice president; W. S. Lounsbury vice president Travelers' Bank and Trust company treasurer; Howard Geidert with Coke Davis Insurance Agency secretary; executive committee Jack H. Lewis Albert S. Adams Ivan E. Allen E. H. Cone and L. D. Hicks.

The membership is composed not only of men in the advertising profession but of progressive business men who are interested in the upbuilding of Atlanta. Thousands of dollars' worth of advertising for Atlanta have been secured by the club at various conventions notably in Omaha and Boston and at Dallas.

The purpose of the organization is stated as follows: "For the development of the best in advertising to assist each other by the interchange of ideas; for the purpose of producing better copy; and more profitable results; to correct existing abuses in the advertising business; to discharge dishonesty and misrepresentation of every form in advertising; to bring up to the full measure of usefulness the members of the association; to promote social fellowship and co-operate in every possible way with the civic organizations of Atlanta in their efforts to advertise the advantages of Atlanta as a good place to live and do business."

The Ad Men's club has ever been a booster for any cause which would contribute to the good of Atlanta and its efforts have accomplished noticeable results.

J. C. MCMICHAEL,
One of the best known southern advertising agents and who will attend the Baltimore convention.

AD MEN OPEN WHITE WAY.

When the initial installation of Atlanta's Great White Way was planned, it was at once decided to have the Ad Men take charge of the parade and exercises. This was in December, 1910. One of the longest parades ever held in Atlanta was pulled off and the floats, decorated automobiles and costumed Ad Men made a hit. The streets were thronged, everybody had horns, confetti and various instruments for noise making and, under the auspices of the Ad Men, Atlanta enjoyed its first real carnival night. The procession was headed by Mayor Robert F. Maddox and President William F. Parkhurst, of the Ad Men's club, and the lights were turned on block by block as the procession marched down Peachtree street from the Aragon hotel, across Whitehall street and into Mitchell street to the Terminal station. The parade was under the direction of Clarence Haverty, who had been appointed chairman of the Ad Men's White Way committee. It was estimated that over 80,000 people thronged the streets to enjoy the festivities.

Then the Ad Men got busy to extend the White Way along other central business streets, with the result that Pryor street from the Union depot to the Grand opera house was soon lighted up, and connecting streets between Pryor and Peachtree were also given the lights. The Ad Men freely gave their time and energy to this municipal improvement.

AD MEN FIGHT THE FAKIR.

One of the primary objects of the Ad Men's club is to discourage misrepresentation of any kind in advertisements and to fight the dishonest advertiser and the fakir. Working to this end, the organization has saved thousands of dollars to the buying public of Atlanta by running out several so-called "fire sales" and "fallen down building sales," which attempted to unload a lot of practically worthless stocks in this city. This work has also been appreciated by the Atlanta merchants, who have worked with the club in running out the fakir. The club also succeeded in holding up the payments in certain publications for alleged "special Atlanta write-ups" which, upon investigation, were found not to be as represented.

That the work of the Ad Men's club along these lines is appreciated not only here, but also around the south, is shown by the numerous letters and telegrams received from time to time from other cities, asking reports on supposed fake "fire sales" and similar schemes to get the public's money.

NATIONAL HONORS FOR LOCAL MEN

Probably greater honors have come to members of the Atlanta club from the national organization than to any other club in the United States. At the present time several important offices in the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, are held by members of the local organization.

Samuel C. Dobbs, general sales and advertising manager of the Coca Cola company, was twice elected to the presidency of the national organization and held that high office with credit to himself and to the Atlanta club. He succeeded in nearly doubling the number of the clubs affiliated with the national organization, and traveled from coast to coast preaching the gospel of honest advertising and the value of advertising clubs to a town or city. So great was the appreciation of Mr. Dobbs' efforts that, when he retired from the presidency at the Boston convention, he was presented by the Ad Men with a five-passenger auto car, fully equipped and various presents of silver. Mr. Dobbs is now chairman of the executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and is one of the available speakers to make addresses before local clubs selected by the national organization.

IVAN E. ALLEN,
Chairman of ways, means and finance committee On-To-Baltimore delegation Atlanta Ad Men's club.

William F. Parkhurst, who was the third president of the Atlanta club, now holds one of the places appointed from the several sections of the United States by the president of the associated clubs, George W. Coleman, of Boston, to serve as a national vigilance committee. The object of this committee is to formulate plans to fight the faker and to discourage misrepresentation in advertising, and their work is being felt all over the United States.

L. D. Hicks is now the president of the southeastern division of the Associated Advertising clubs of America, having been unanimously elected to this high office at the annual convention held in Atlanta. The southeastern division is composed of the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. William F. Parkhurst is a former president of the southeastern division, having been succeeded by L. D. Hicks.

The Atlanta club had the honor at the annual convention, which was held in Boston, of placing in nomination George W. Coleman, of Boston, who was elected national president to succeed S. C. Dobbs, and also in placing before the convention as the place for holding the annual convention the name of Dallas, Texas.

FRED HOUSER,

The local club has on a number of occasions had as guests some of the foremost men known to the advertising world, most of whom came here for the purpose of making addresses to the Atlanta club. These occasions have been filled with valuable information not only to advertising men, but to business men generally. Many of the dinners and banquets held on these occasions have been unusually elaborate and have done much to spread Atlanta's fame as a delightful place of entertainment and as an up-to-date and progressive city.

WORK FOR CHAMBER COMMERCE.

The Ad Men's club has constantly shown a willingness to work with all other local organizations for the good of the city. Last year good work was done by the Ad Men in assisting the clean-up committee in making Atlanta a cleaner and healthier city—a city beautiful.

When the chamber of commerce was at work raising funds with which to purchase the old Y. M. C. A. building and make of it a splendid home for the Atlanta chamber, the ad men worked shoulder to shoulder with the older and it really is "tip-top." Before I discovered Tip-Top Bread, I thought I could bake—and I could bake too, but my bread always seemed to lack "something." The flavor was absent, the crust was not right, or it was not baked through. One trial of Tip-Top proved it better than my own baking.

"Notice the Name"

TIP-TOP BREAD

"Why is it better? Because in the first place, it is always uniform in flavor and quality, and again, it is light, snow white, close grained, of fine texture, easily digested and wonderfully appetizing."

"No wonder I buy it and no wonder we all like it. Try it yourself."

ATLANTA AD MEN BOOST CITY

organization and put a splendid stimulus to its efforts. The ad men raised a substantial part of the necessary funds. In commenting upon the work done by the ad men, "Progress," official organ of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, stated in the April issue:

"Among the many committees it would be invidious to discriminate, except in the case of the committee from the Ad Men's club, whose energetic, enthusiastic and brilliantly successful canvass brought in the largest total and well-nigh completed the campaign from start to finish.

In the recent membership campaign of the chamber of commerce, of which Ivan E. Allen was general chairman, by which over 800 members were added to that body, the Ad Men's committee, under the leadership of Fred Houser, led all other committees in the work of soliciting and securing new members. This Ad Men's committee was awarded a silver loving cup by the directors of the chamber of commerce.

RAISED $11,000 FOR ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

The week previous to last Thanksgiving, the Ad Men were called upon by the directors of the Atlanta Associated Charities organization to raise funds with which to pay off some old debts and to carry on the work during 1912-1914. The Ad Men promptly got busy. Committees were appointed and headquarters were opened in a vacant store on Peachtree street. The newspapers were filled with reading notices and statistics concerning the needs and the work of the Associated Charities, and on the Monday preceding Thanksgiving day all space in the Atlanta dailies was donated by the various advertisers to the Ad Men's club, and these boosters filled the spaces with talks concerning the Associated Charities. A slogan was adopted reading "Help the Ad Men Help the Associated Charities Help Others to Help Themselves," and this slogan was freely exploited. The result of this publicity and the personal solicitations of the Ad Men's committee was the raising of a fund on Thanksgiving day of over $11,000 to carry on the work of the Associated Charities.

SECURED $100,000 FREE ADVERTISING.

When he delegation from the Atlanta Ad Men's club went to the annual convention in Boston these live wires determined to pull of a stunt which would set all New England to talking, and focus the eyes of the country on Georgia. That they succeeded admirably is well known. On the evening of August 2, 1911, the Atlanta club acted as hosts to nearly 5,000 invited guests at a Georgia watermelon cutting in historic Copley square (opposite Boston public library). The local club had shipped over 1,000 genuine rattlesnake melons to Boston, and kept them on ice three days, serving them to their guests sweet and cold, and the New Englanders and all delegates were enthusiastic in praising their hospitality. It was really an event in Boston, many persons tasting good watermelon for the first time. It was generally acknowledged that the Atlanta delegation pulled off the greatest publicity stunt of the convention and gave Georgia and all of the south a vast amount of advertising when they held this great "y feast of the week. The newspapers of Boston, New York and other eastern cities were unusually generous with news articles, photographs and editorials on Atlanta's enterprise and hospitality. It is estimated that if the space used by the papers in describing the watermelon cutting had been charged for at regular rates, the Atlanta Ad Men secured over $100,000 value in advertising for this city and the state.

NOTABLE ENTERTAINMENTS GIVEN.

In addition to the weekly luncheons and the monthly dinners given to members and friends by the Ad Men, this club has pulled off a number of banquets and affairs which have attracted nation-wide attention. One of the most elaborate banquets ever given in the south was the one tendered S. C. Dobbs, sales and advertising manager of the Coca-Cola company, Atlanta, when he was elected national president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. This was held at the Piedmont hotel, and in addition to the members of the local Ad Men's club, many advertising men famous in their various lines from different sections of the United States, were the guests. The president of the club, Thomas H. Brandon, was assisted as toastmaster, by the then governor of Georgia, Joseph M. Brown.

The dinner at the Kimball house on February 22, under the auspices of the Gridiron club, which is an inner circle of the Ad Men's club, was conceded to be one of the cleverest and most enjoyable stunts ever pulled off in Atlanta. Visiting publicity men from Birmingham, Macon and Augusta were featured in the "gridironing," and many local celebrities were startled good-naturedly by the Ad Men when they tried to speak. The guest list was limited on this occasion to 100. The more recent "gigantic jag of joy" pulled off at the Cafe Denechaud on the evening of May 6, was attended by 150, and was an occasion of fun and frolic from start to finish. Cabaret performers added to the festivities, and some clever sleight-of-hand work and caricaturing was done by some of the members.

DELEGATES TO GO TO BALTIMORE.

The Atlanta delegation which went to the last annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America at Dallas, Tex., last year, covered themselves with glory and secured valuable advertising for Atlanta on that occasion. This year the convention will be held in Baltimore, and the Atlanta delegates will leave via the Southern railway in special sleepers on the afternoon of June 7. The Ad Men propose to this year even exceed the honors they won at the previous conventions at Louisville, Omaha, Boston and Dallas. They have various committees hard at work framing up publicity stunts which will open the eyes not only of the Baltimore delegates, but also the delegates from every state in the union, and those from Canada and England. And this is why the Ad Men's club of Atlanta is producing today's edition of The Atlanta Journal. They will use the profits thus secured to advertise Atlanta and Georgia at the Baltimore convention, and from the way these hustlers usually go at it, it is safe to predict that the money will be spent judiciously, and will open the eyes of most of the other delegates.

FACE WOULD BURN AND ITCH
With Pimples and Blackheads, Obliged to Scratch. Would Fester and Come to Head. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Buchanan, Va.—"For years and years I had been troubled with pimples and blackheads. The first sign of the pimples would be a little red swollen place about the size of a pin-head. It would stay this way for a day or two, then the pimples would begin to burn and itch so that I would be obliged to scratch them with my fingers all the while, making them worse. In a day or two they would fester and come to a head, causing me so much trouble that I could not do any hard work that caused perspiration. My whole face was like a perforated tin pan, caused by my pinching the pimples with my finger nails. My face would burn and itch so that I would have to get up nights and walk about in the open air.

"I saw that my face was getting in a serious condition, so I bought some blood medicine and began using it, but after a while I did not notice any improvement. I had become discouraged owing to the condition of my face. I happened to see the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I at once got a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and began using them. After a very few applications my face began to improve and I kept on using them every day for two weeks until I was completely cured." (Signed) Charlie C. McCormick, July 10, '12.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

The Vital Need of Physical Culture in Girls' High School.

There was never a time, except in the fair and fruitful days of old Greece, when medical science stressed so earnestly as it does today the importance of wholesome exercise and recreation. These have come to be the favorite and really potent prescriptions for the prevention and cure of disease. Walking, golfing and other sports of field or gymnasium are commended not simply for the pleasure they afford but also for the efficiency, mental and moral as well as physical, which they develop.

Especially significant is the part which intelligently directed physical culture has come to play in our modern school systems. Every plan of education worthy the name recognizes and applies the truth that boys and girls should be trained not simply for books but for life and that the chief end of the school should be to promote their power and happiness and usefulness to themselves and others. There appears elsewhere in today's Journal a timely and interesting article by Dr. Theodore Toepel on the importance or physical culture to Atlanta's public schools in general and to the Girls' High school in particular. It seems almost incredible that no provision has yet been made for physical training in the Girls' High school, a place where it is more vitally needed than in any other school of the entire system. We commend Dr. Toepel's discussion of this subject to every citizen who is interested in the welfare of Atlanta's schools and particularly to parents who are directly concerned.

The period of a girl's life which is spent in the High school is crucial. It is a period of profound biologic change. Her first year at the High school, as Dr. Toepel declares, demands close application and hard mental work, just when she is least able to meet this demand. Home duties call for much of her time and outside studies in music or painting "add to the already heavy burden."

"Often the young woman of twenty or thirty pays the penalty of the lack of proper physical care or training at ten or sixteen."

Furthermore, as Dr. Toepel points out, between these years the average girl has, for each pound of weight, scarcely more than three-fourths of the lung capacity of boys of the same age. "Experiments prove," he says, "that rational and regular physical training will give the girl of this age lung capacity at least thirty per cent above that of girls who lack such training. The exercise increases and improves the appetite and stimulates all the vital organs by flooding them with pure and healthful blood. The nervous system is toned up, the tissues are properly nourished and disorders already started on their course are corrected."

It is a mistaken idea that all girls or any considerable portion of them in cities can get, or will get, a due amount and the right kind of exercise without competent supervision. Dr. Toepel well says in this connection:

"The ideal system of physical training for young girls comes only from long and careful experiment. Otherwise we may increase the fatigue and disorder which we should remove. The girl is anything but strong and mature; hence the exercise must be light. She has little endurance; therefore active exercises and rest periods must alternate as in any good game. . . The main purpose is to give refreshment and recreation from the nervous strain and long sitting of school hours. If we want healthy school girls ana women, we must have a wise and well directed system of physical training in the Girls' High School."

It is to be hoped that the board of education will be vigorously supported by the public sentiment and the public judgment of Atlanta in an appeal to council for funds sufficient to perfect the system of physical culture in all the schools and, particularly, to provide such a system for the Girls' High school.

No greater need is evident; no better service could be rendered.

Calling a Bluff.

The Democratic administration is not to be bulldozed by the threats of special interests to close their factories or cut their employes' pay when the Underwood tariff bill becomes a law. It is an old trick of the trusts to cry "panic" whenever an honest tariff revision is proposed. Interests that have fattened on special privilege dolefully exclaim that they cannot continue to exist without the government's patronage in the form of exorbitant tariff duties. And now, they have grown so bold as to intimate that if they are deprived of these favors they will take revenge against the party and against the public by suspending their industries or by cutting their scale of wages.

A more impudent or malicious attitude could scarcely be conceived. Here are pampered monopolies that have been taxing the consumer as they pleased, monopolies that have grown so arrogant in their privileges that they defy a Democratic administration, representing the people of the United States, to carry out the people's mandate. They do not propose to await a fair and practical test of the new tariff schedules but to retaliate forthwith, simply because their old favors from the government have been cut off. But the present administration will not be bluffed by such threats. Mr. Underwood, voicing the purpose of the President and the sentiment of Democracy, declared just before the final passage of the new bill through the house:

"I give you notice now that if any manufacturer attempts in the interest of the Republican party to threaten labor, there is a bureau in this government, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, created by the Democratic party, that will go into the factory, make a thorough investigation and report the reason why."

That is to say, if a plant shuts down or cuts wages on the pretext that it cannot continue to operate profitably because of the Democratic law, its claim will be scrupulously sifted, will be subjected to the test of facts and figures gathered by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and, if its action is shown to be one of ill temper or spite and not of good reason or necessity, it will be placed before the public in its true light. In short, the people in whose behalf the new tariff bill is designed, will be told the full truth in all such cases in order that they themselves may pass judgment on men and interests that seek to intimidate the government. Mr. Underwood further explained the administration's purpose when he said:

"When a manufacturer says he is cutting wages because of tariff reductions, we want to know if he is telling the truth. If he is not and he is simply punishing labor, then the fact shall be made public. If he is telling the truth, we want to know it. If we have made a mistake in any particular instance, we are not afraid to acknowledge it and correct it."

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce is empowered to ascertain the cost of producing dutiable articles in the United States and in foreign countries and the different elements of cost in the production of such articles, "including the wages paid in such industries, the hours employed *a day, the profits of manufacturers and produc*ers, the comparative cost of living and the kind of living, what articles are controlled by trusts or other combinations of capital and what effect the trusts or other combinations of capital have upon production and prices." It will thus be possible to determine the sincerity or the trickery of those interests that seek to play politics with the welfare of their employes and with the rights of the American people.

This would in no wise mean government interference with business rights. But it would mean that big business should not interfere with the government's rights and the public's rights. It would simply mean that a group of men who conspired to alarm the country or to bring on a panic from selfish or political motives would be exhibited in their true character. And we may be sure that if would-be mischief-makers know that they must either justify their claims or stand condemned by the nation, they will be very slow to make uncalled for trouble.

The truth is high protective duties do not benefit the wage earner. Statistics show that employes in highly protected industries receive lower wages than those in unprotected industries. It has been conservatively reckoned that only about one-seventh of the total number of persons engaged in manufacturing of all kinds in the United States are helped to the slightest degree by protective duties. But the remaining six-sevenths are compelled to pay an enormous tax in the form of a high and steadily rising cost of living. The total tariff tax for the average American family is approximately one hundred and sixteen dollars a year, of which amount only sixteen dollars goes to the government as revenue and ninety-nine dollars to the protected trust. Thus it is evident that the high tariff is simply a device for maintaining exorbitant prices and for protecting particular interests against natural competition.

When we find American trusts successfully competing in foreign markets and selling their products more cheaply abroad than at home, we can see no reason why they cannot continue to operate prosperously when tariff duties have been reduced. The cry that they are being ruined is a shallow political bluff that will deceive no one familiar with the facts.

The country has demanded tariff reduction; it expects tariff reduction and competent business is already making such readjustments as the change in duties may require. The Underwood bill, far from discouraging wholesome industry or chilling prosperity, will in reality release fresh forces of enterprise and send new currents of warmth and cheer through the great body of American business.

A Park for the West Side.

The petition signed by more than a thousand residents of the west side urging the city to purchase a now available tract of land, known as the Moseley estate, for use as a public park merits the earnest consideration of council and the finance committee. No enterprise means more to the upbuilding of Atlanta's interests and the happiness of her people than the extension and improvement of the park system. Every dollar wisely spent in this cause is a wondrously fruitful investment for good citizenship.

The tract now suggested for purchase is reputed to be especially desirable. It consists of thirty-eight acres of rare natural beauty and of rich historic association. Situated on the famous battlefield of Ezra church, it still preserves the old fortifications and other interesting relics. In its midst stands a colonial mansion, as another reminder of times bygone. It contains two lake basins which could easily be filled and turned to pleasurable and picturesque account. The land is abundantly wooded and is also provided with flowers, shrubbery and driveways so that the cost of improvements would be almost negligible.

The fact that a thousand or more citizens of the west side have joined in urging council to consider this proposition is within itself significant. They feel that their section of the city is entitled to a park comparable to those already provided for the south and the north sides. It is noteworthy, too, that the president of the park *board and the general manager of the park sys*tem are enthusiastic in their indorsement of the suggestion. It is to be hoped that means will be found for carrying this enterprise into effect.

Here's hoping the rainy season will continue a little while.

A New Pilgrimage of the Old Guard

The approaching pilgrimage of Atlanta's "Old Guard" to the cities of the north and the east to renew the friendships made in their historic peace mission more than thirty years ago is an event of national interest. Their first journey, it will be recalled, fell in the darksome aftermath of the Civil war when old wounds were just beginning to heal and when the country's heart was still divided. The visit of these southern soldiers to the homes of their one-time foes did more perhaps than any other incident of the decade to reunite the north and the south and to warm the way to a new and deeper fraternalism. They went in a spirit of true brotherhood and in that same gracious spirit they were universally received.

It is a pleasing circumstance that many of the men who took part in the peace mission of 1879 are among those who will be the guests and the hosts of this later journey. Colonel Joseph F. Burke is still commander of the "Old Guard," a number of his early comrades are still in the ranks and they will be entertained at Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other cities by the same famous military organizations that elcomed them in the seventies.

At the unveiling of the "Old Guard" peace memorial some seasons ago it was Atlanta's pleasure to have as its guests many of these organizations. They are now to repeat on their own part the hospitalities of that delightful occasion, "The Old Guard" will bear the friendly greetings of its city and of the entire south to our fellow Americans of the north and east.

Where is the old fashioned man who called a long dry spell a "drout?"

The next thing on the controversial program will be a discussion of the sane Fourth.

It is extremely probable that the tariff will go through as per schedule—sugar, wool and everything.

That Long Dry Spell.

This is a season when that Methuselah of conversion, "the Long Dry Spell," grows sprightly and permissible. Men talk of the need of showers not because their wits are dull or their stock of gossip is out but because that is a matter of really vital interest. Gardens show signs of languishing and the larger crops are backward for lack of a drink.

It is a noteworthy fact, however, that weather problems nearly always settle themselves. Reports from the farm demonstration agents of the State College of Agriculture are, on the whole, optimistic, despite the rather untoward conditions in certain groups of counties. The long-delayed rains are at length falling in many parts of the state, and, what is a particularly cheering circumstance, food crops are for the most part thriving. Agricultural conditions of the country are good and in Georgia, where scientific methods of farming are more widely applied this year than ever before, we may hope for plenteous harvests.

"The engagement of Prince Arsene is denied in Persia." Which is an indication of why it costs money to run a newspaper.

Some people think the world is growing less romantic, and yet only yesterday appeared the account of a man who eloped with a whole family.

Beween Oxford and Covington they are doing away with the horse car. Still, there are enough left in New York City to keep the species from becoming quite extinct.

THE INCOME TAX

XI.—THE SUPREME COURT DECISION.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Perhaps no decision ever rendered by a federal court in the United States tended to shake the faith of the people in the courts more than the decision of the supreme court that the law of 1894 was unconstitutional. Having the misfortune to reverse the construction and practice of a hundred years, coupled with a practical reversal of its own first decision, the court, however righteous its aim or high its purpose, might have brought down upon itself a storm of adverse and distrustful criticism.

As soon as the law of 1894 went into effect all of the big interests of the country got ready to fight it, on the ground that it was unconstitutional. Many suits were brought contesting it, but the one which finally had the honor of being the test case was that of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. Some of the ablest lawyers at the American bar were brought in to attack the constitutionality of the law. Few cases in that court ever have been more thoroughly argued or expounded than was this one, the arguments and briefs filling several volumes. There were two principal grounds upon which the opponents of the tax declared it unconstitutional—that it was not a uniform tax, and that it was a direct tax. They laid more emphasis on the former than on the latter assertion. They attempted to persuade the supreme court that it should pronounce the tax unconstitutional without reversing the former decisions of that body. The court paid little attention to the argument that the tax was not a uniform one within the meaning of the constitution, and, indeed, in a later decision, the government's contention in this particular was upheld.

The court had declared by a unanimous vote in 1870, in the case of Springer against the United States, in which Springer resisted the payment of a tax upon his professional income, that "it does not appear that any tax like the one here in question was ever regarded or treated by congress as a direct tax. This uniform practical construction of the constitution touching so important a point is a consideration of great weigth." It further added that "our conclusions are that direct taxes, within the meaning of the constitution, are only capitation taxes as expressed in that instrument, and taxes on real estate." It further declared that the tax upon Springer's income was in the nature of an excise or duty, and, therefore, not a direct tax.

Unfortunately the income of Springer was not derived from lands, but rather from United States bonds and professional earnings. When the law of 1894 came before the supreme court counsel argued that income from *land cannot be distinguished from land it*self, and, therefore, if a tax on land is a direct tax, as every one concedes, it follows that a tax on an income derived from land is also a direct tax. Upon this argument the court decided in the first case that a tax upon income derived from lands was a direct tax, and, therefore, inhibited by the constitution except under apportionment. There was an even division of the court upon the question of whether the remainder of the law should be declared unconstitutional because this part of it was so held. There was one phase of the controversy, however, upon which the court was unanimous, and that was in declaring that the part of the law which put a tax upon incomes derived from state bonds was unconstitutional, because it was a direct tax, but because the federal government had no right to tax the instrumentalities of a state.

Of course such a decision tore the income tax law to pieces, and there seemed no other way out of the difficulty than to reopen the whole matter and to argue it all over again. Counsel opposed to the law built their arguments upon the opinions of the court in the first case, and declared that if, as the court had held, a tax upon income derived from land were a direct tax, then also a tax upon the income from personal property would be a direct tax. Justice Jackson had not participated in the hearing of the first case, and arose from what proved to be his death bed to hear the arguments on the rehearing. He voted in favor of the constitutionality of the law, and since the vote had stood four to four on the first hearing, his vote in favor of the law must have made it constitutional, had not one of the justices affirming the constitutionality of the law in the first case changed his vote and registered himself against it. Who that justice was is not known. For a long time it was claimed that it was Justice Shiras, but more recently claims were made that it was not he, but Justice Brown. Others assert that it was Justice Field. Probably it will never be known. But, at any rate, one man who, on the first hearing, had voted to uphold the law, changed his mind and voted against it on the rehearing.

Many careful authorities assert that the court did not take time to make its own investigations, and, therefore, relying upon the representations of counsel, it was gravely misled, and that this fact is disclosed by an examination of the affirmative opinions. For instance, it was argued that a Frenchman by the name of Turgot had written a pamphlet on taxation in which he pronounced an income tax a direct tax, and that this work was in the hands of the framers of the constitution. Chief Justice Fuller accepted this and used it as an argument in his opinion. Seligman, of Columbia university, shows that no such work ever was published in France, much less translated in the United States. Turgot did write a little memoir, in which he contended that the only direct taxes were poll taxes and land taxes.

Again, it was contended by counsel and adopted in the opinions of the court that the clause in the constitution forbidding the levying of direct taxes except by apportionment was inserted to protect the small states against the large ones, whereas, such authorities as Prof. Seligman produce the words of the constitution framers themselves to show it was put there as a compromise to protect the slave states in the three-fifths rule, whereby, in determining the ratio of representation in the house of representatives and direct taxation three white people should count as much as five negroes.

OUR PRECISE ARTIST

Jim planted his feet firmly.

FUTURISTS

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

"If," writes Sir Francis Younghusband, "we take a two-foot rule on end and take it to represent the period which has elapsed since man first appeared, it will be only the top inch that will represent the distance of time since the dawn of civilization, and only the last eighth of an inch that will denote the period of European civilization."

As far as scientists are able to judge, the earth is still in its infancy. In all probability the human race is to continue for a million years or so. Before us, therefore, stretches out a vast future, inconceivably more influential than the past.

There are two classes of minds. One is dominated by the past and the other by the future. Wherever you find two or more men gathered together you may witness the clash of these two types. There are conservatives and progressives, liberals and standpatters, orthodox and heretics, the adventurous and the safe, all of which amounts to saying that there are souls gripped by what is to be and souls gripped by what has been.

Both tendencies need the moderation of common sense. A certain conservatism is needed, because whatever good there is in the future must grow out of the past; civilization is a growing unit. And a certain progressiveness is needed, because without it the past would paralyze us with its dead head. Too much conservatism means stagnation; too much progressiveness means anarchy.

But it is the future-feeling that most needs to be developed. The past is but too strong intrenched already in the consciousness of the world. It is from those million years to come that we should draw our inspiration.

Law is now, and always has been, but the accumulated wisdom of the past. It ought to grasp the future; there should be more legislation for what will be than from what has been.

Education is past-ridden. It should turn more toward taking as its normal the man yet to be than the man as he has been or is.

Morals that aim to make us conform to present or bygone social standards are irritating, but a morality drawn from wh t society will be can impassion us, and so develop us.

The cities of ancient times are imposing in their ruins, but I like best to wander the streets of those magnificent cities of the days to come, those dream-cities, where democracy expresses itself in beauty and the majesty of work is beyond all that war and kingcraft ever devised.

Even so with life itself. The greatest contribution of religion to human life is the gift of a sense of the future, of another lie beyond this. Whether this be provable or no, the very presence of the notion of it in men's minds lends them a dignity and a power nothing else could induce. If, as old age comes on, we have amassed only a past, a pile of memories and failures, then life moves slowly on to tragedy; but if there looms in the consciousness a feeling of a possible future the mind finds in it a veritable fountain of youth.

I make no bones of saying that I am, or want to be, a "futurist."

Ballade of Anxious Inquiry

If you were wedded true and tight
Unto a dame who seemed to know
Each season by its fashion right,
Its changing style, its costly show;
If she with longing all aglow
Asked for each season garments new—
Outfits complete from head to toe—
What would you do? What would you do?

If she possessed a motor bright,
A little car that, just to go,
Of gasoline must drink at night
And morn and in a constant flow,
If all too often "blowouts" so
Blew in the cash it left you blue,
If "fixing" charges were not low,
What would you do? What would you do?

If grocers' bills, in black and white,
To you on each ill wind would blow;
If butchers told their cashiers plight,
And forthwith did insistent grow;
If thrift sustained an overthrow,
"Expenses running" seemed too true,
While income only followed slow,
What would you do? What would you do?

L'ENVOI.

Good friend, if fate should but bestow
Upon, well say, a man like you,
The problems I have mentioned, oh!
What would you do? What would you do?

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H. WISHAR

"Popcorn," said Captain Barnacle, meditatively, "was what caused the wreck of the schooner Mary Ann, although it was this same popcorn that saved us all from death. I didn't know it was popcorn or I never would have taken it on board, as the Mary Ann was an iron ship. We had loaded the stuff in San Diego, and were to carry it to Newcastle, Australia. The corn was loose, and was run into the ship's hold in big chutes. I didn't pay much attention to the loading during the time we were lying in the harbor of San Diego. Of course, my mates attended to all that.

"Well, we got started on our voyage in good shape. We had fine weather down to the equator, but there we were becalmed. It was so hot I swung my hammock on deck in hope that I might get a breath of fresh air. I was just dozing off when I heard what sounded like a volley of rifle shots. I sat up in wonder. The noise grew louder until it sounded like a whole regiment of infantry firing at another regiment. Finally it became a regular roar. The sailors came rushing aft hand stricken. Suddenly the port quarter seemed to lift when an unusually heavy discharge came and the whole side of the ship blew out with a great crash and there came a perfect deluge of popcorn! Yes, sir; that was what it was. The heat in that iron hold was so intense that it had popped the entire load of corn, and the increased pressure had blown out the side of the ship.

"I saw that we were sinking and that quick action was necessary. I ordered the men below to throw up a big barrel of molasses. Quickly I had this molasses poured on the great pile of popcorn which floated from the ship and floated alongside. The molasses dried in the extreme heat and cemented the whole mass of popped popcorn into one mammoth head, which rode the waves just as light as a bird. Of course we all clambered on this novel raft, first securing a few barrels of water. Then we watched the poor old Mary Ann go down, and she was soon out of sight. Of course we were safe for the time being, but it was a dreary prospect. The first day we made a meal on the popcorn. It was awfully good and the molasses gave it a nice flavor. You know you can eat an enormous quantity when you're out that way with nothing to do but lay in the sun all day. Pretty soon I saw that if we didn't stop eating we'd have no raft left.

"It was hard to choose between the alternatives. On the one hand we faced starving to death if we didn't eat the popcorn, and if we did we faced drowning. To add to our troubles there came a whole school of sharks, and they started eating the lower side of the raft. The only thing that saved us was the fact that a whale ran against our popcorn raft and his head stuck in it. He couldn't see where he was going, so he ran ashore on one of the Friendly Islands and shoved our popcorn raft way up on the beach. When the natives came rushing down I promptly made a bargain with them and sold them both what was left of the raft and the whale for three loads of copra for which I got nearly $2,000, so it wasn't such a bad wreck after all."

Y. M. C. A. NOW IN ITS MOST CRITICAL MEETING

Cincinati Convention a Cross-Roads for International Organization

BY THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.

The "news behind the news" of the international convention of the Young Men's Christian association, now in session in Cincinnati, is the struggle between the "liberal" and "conservative" elements, respecting the association's creed and the tendency toward decentralization of control.

Crises in religious belief may not figure largely in the dispatches, but they are of profound and far-reaching importance. The Y. M. C. A. is facing such a crisis. In this it but shares the experience of most of the denominations, where the battle for and against "orthodoxy" is almost as great as that which went the churches of America nearly a century ago, and eventuated in the formation of the Unitarian denomination. Broadly stated, the issue is the same now as then; namely, what conception shall be held of the deity of Jesus Christ and of the inspiration of the Bible.

At Cincinnati the subject takes the form of the reaffirmation of the "Paris basis" and the "Portland test," two previous deliverances of the association, setting forth its completely evangelical character. The committee which reports to the present convention favors an indorsement of these historic documents. They put the Young Men's Christian association again squarely on record as standing for the most orthodox type of Christianity.

WHY THE STRUGGLE RAGES.

Many men who would scarcely know how to behave in church give the Young Men's Christian association their hearty support. They say it is "practical religion." The fact that the membership numbers more than half a million men speaks volumes concerning the association's popularity. Every city of importance in all the land has its Y. M. C. A. building which is looked upon as a civic institution. The work of the association is really world-wide. The value of its property, as reported at this convention is $74,614,252, and its annual budget is more than $11,000,000. Size, prosperity, public confidence and success the Y. M. C. A. assuredly has. The report of the international committee is an extraordinary document, a luminous statement of an unparalleled work.

The very fact that the association is to such a degree a public institution has led many men to show impatience over any theological limitations. They frankly are not interested in doctrinal matters. On the other hand, the leaders of the churches and all active members of the Y. M. C. A. are members of evangelical churches—are declaring that the association's faith is its life, and if it loses its distinctively religious and evangelical character it will mentally decline and die. So, in all seriousness, the struggle may be called a life and death one.

WIDENING THE DOORS.

Because of the growth of student associations—no college is completely equipped nowadays without its Y. M. C. A.—there has been difficulty in maintaining the "evangelical test." The student associations and their members are often unwilling to subscribe to the statement of evangelical belief. The natural tendency of the student is to take the most "advanced" view of all subjects, religion included. It is from the student secretaries that the principal objections to the present doctrinal basis have come.

Of quite another sort is the objection against the test which would make all active members of the association, and all officers, members of evangelical Protestant churches, for in the railroad and industrial branches of the association there are a great many members of the Roman Catholic church, and these feel that they should be entitled to representation on the governing boards. If the recommendation of the committee is followed, the old rules will still remain in force.

Even more delicate is the problem of the standing of the local association which does not conform to these tests. It is reported that this subject of standardizing the association will be acutely up at Cincinnati.

STANDING BY THE OLD BASIS.

The fact that the association has resisted the "liberalizing" movements of the day, and what is regarded as the desprituatizing tendency in the association, will be acclaimed by many churches with delight, and will assuredly draw the association closer to the churches as well as silence a great deal of criticism. The strictly religious side of the many-sided work of the association will receive renewed attention now.

The oversight of the training schools will be strengthened by this convention. This movement, too, harks back to the theological question. By greater control of the schools, the type of teaching can be better regulated. The schools are of three kinds—the training schools at Chicago and Springfield, the summer schools, and the local "fellowship" classes in connection with local associations. The convention is recommending that a college training, or its equivalent, be required of all young men entering the ranks of the secretaryship.

PENSIONS FOR THE VETERANS.

This matter of securing recruits for association work is a serious one. Directly bearing on it is the fact that no provision has been made for the aged or worn-out workers. At Cincinnati a "retirement fund" is to be started, to provide pensions for the veterans. This is a radical step, but inevitable. The fund will be not less than a million dollars.

JOHN R. MOTT'S RETURN.

Always the outstanding personality at a Y. M. C. A. convention, Mr. John R. Mott, who has been offered the general secretaryship of the international committee, to succeed Richard C. Morse, is more than ever the central figure at the Cincinnati convention, because of the national discussion of his name as minister to China. The president offered Mr. Mott this post, but he declined it, in favor of his religious work. It has been freely said that Mr. Mott has diplomatic gifts fitting him for the highest post at the disposal of the president.

That he has chosen to stand by his chosen life work is not strange. Hundreds of his fellow-secretaries have likewise resisted flattering offers, in order to give their lives to the welfare of young men.

JUDGE NEWMAN DENIES PETITION OF SEABOARD

Judge W. T. Newman, of the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia, has declined to grant an order enjoining the state railroad commission from enforcing its order to require the Seaboard Air Line railroad and the Lawrenceville branch railroad to make a physical connection at Lawrenceville and also to interchange business. The Seaboard resisted the commission's order and applied for an injunction against it.

TWENTY FISHERMEN TO BE HALED TO COURT

State Game Commissioner Jesse E. Mercer returned to Atlanta Saturday morning from Milltown, Berrien county, where he spent two or three days preparing cases against about twenty persons charged with violating the game laws by fishing in the Banks estate lake without having first secured the necessary licenses and permits as required by law.

These cases will be put on trial Tuesday in the Berrien superior court at Nashville. They were the outgrowth of alleged "lawless" conditions obtaining at Milltown, as a result of which the game warden of Berrien county claimed that his life had been threatened because he endeavored to enforce the law applying to fishing.

Mr. Mercer declares that the people of Berrien county are as law abiding as any in the state, and that in future it will be as easy to enforce the law at Milltown as anywhere else. He said only a few of the violations of the law were wilful and deliberate.

HARRY G. POOLE MOVES INTO HIS NEW QUARTERS

Harry G. Poole, the undertaker, who was located for many years on East Hunter street, has moved to handsomer new quarters at 96 South Pryor street.

The new building was especially built for a modern undertaking establishment, and is thoroughly and modernly equipped.

The chapel, where funeral services can be conducted is spacious and is handsomely furnished.

GEORGE MATHIESON GETS NEW COUNTY JOB

Officer of County Force Is Named Assistant Chief by Commissioners

George Mathieson, who has been a member of the county police force since its organization, was named assistant chief at a recent meeting of the Fulton county board of commissioners. The position of assistant chief was created at the meeting at which Officer Mathieson was named to fill the place.

The assistant chief will probably be in complete charge of the county force for some time, as Chief @ach Rowan is still seriously ill at a local sanitarium.

Assistant Chief Mathieson lives near Buckhead and is widely known over the county.

BEER DEALERS INDICTED FOR NOT PAYING TAXES

Bonds of $750 Each Asked of Five Dealers, Who Paid City and Not County

The state's fight to force near-beer dealers to pay the special tax of $300 a year was resumed Friday, when indictments against five dealers were returned by the Fulton county grand jury.

All of the five men indicted had paid their city license, it is said, but failed to pay the state tax. The true bills charging misdemeanors were returned after the grand jury had heard from the city license inspector and officials of the ordinary's office, who collect the state tax.

Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor, who makes the arrests on the grand jury warrant, was instructed accept only gilt-edge bonds for $750 in each case.

Julius Cohen, a Whitehall street dealer, was indicted on three counts, while one bill was brought against each of the following: G. C. Carey, Ike Morris, J. M. Carroll and E. M. Casey.

WALSH LEAVES SICK BED TO CHASE HOUSEBREAKERS

Getting up from a sick bed, J. J. Walsh, of 76 Johnson avenue, chased three negroes for a block in the rain about 3 o'clock Saturday morning, and then fell when his strength gave out. He fired one shot at the men, who attempted to break into the front of the house.

His wife was aroused by some one trying the blinds and then the door. She went to the front of the house, and asked what was wanted. A negro's voice mumbled something about wanting to get in. Mrs. Walsh then returned to the bedroom, found her husband's pistol and helped the sick man dress.

Mr. Walsh found the negroes up the street and commanded them to halt. They broke and ran, and he attempted to [illegible] but he felt exhausted.

Is Your Town Backsliding?

UNLESS it is making the right kind of progress, it's going backward, sure as you live.

¶ And your town isn't making the right kind of progress unless the health conditions, the sanitation, the lighting, the paving, and other physical aspects are what they ought to be.

¶ Has your town correct sewerage?

¶ Is the water supply pure and plentiful?

¶ Is fever liable to break out and take toll of the little children? Are there disease-breeding places to menace the homes of your people?

¶ Is the lighting system adequate to the needs of a wide-awake American town?

¶ Are the paving conditions the kind you ought to have?

¶ The best paying investment any town can make is to spend money enough to make itself a good place to live in.

IMPROVEMENTS that make for the health and comfort of the people are the biggest dividend-producers on earth.

¶ Efficient work, efficient citizenship, efficient service to the community are possible only when the physical conditions are what they should be.

¶ Our business is to bring about correct physical conditions for towns that need them.

¶ We are Municipal Engineers and we can do for YOUR town what we have done for more than 300 other towns and cities. We plan, design, estimate, finance and construct sanitary systems, water and power plants and paving.

¶ What does your town want? Write to us and let us know what's on your mind. We'd like to tell you what we have accomplished in other places, never a fall-down or a break in carrying out our contracts. We believe we can demonstrate that we are the people you need.

Best Efforts

Backbone of Growth

Search the world over and you'll scarcely discover anything going forward under a power pressure less than the very best effort---whether its an ad club or clothing store. It's just good old fashioned "backbone" that puts the power in and pushes on to the point---each to his own endeavor. It's only natural and logical that he should reach it---keeping up his own confidence on the way.

When you think of Atlanta you get a thrill, for it's here that enthusiasm thrives, as the Atlanta Ad Men's Club has had a special injection of the well known "spirit."

When you think of good clothes, you think of Muse's, and tis only natural and logical that you should.

We possess the spirit of the specialist---we have concentrated on clothing. The specialist in any branch of human endeavor is today the man doing the big things, and the tendency grows.

We specialize on Men's Clothing---devoting all time, thought and best effort toward the goal that places this clothing store at the top in America.

You are our patrons because you feel the force of our "best effort" pressure. You feel it in the great rarity of a really good clothing stock to select from; you feel it in the power of the professional clothing experts who serve you, you feel it in the legitimate values offered, and you feel it in the well known, well defined Muse policy.

Such is the going forward power that makes for success in every undertaking.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION MEETS IN MACON

Elaborate Preparations Going Forward for Convention June 17-19

MACON, Ga., June 17.—With the appointment of special committees some weeks ago and the hearty response the Macon people are giving to the solicitations for help to entertain the delegates, the local Baptist Young People's union is making elaborate preparations and arranging an extensive program for the convention of the Georgia State convention of the B. Y. P. U.'s, which meets in Macon, June 17-19.

The local workers assisted by the state officers are planning to make this one of the largest attended and most successful annual gatherings of this Baptist convention. Arrangements are being made to entertain over 300 young people from the various unions in this state.

At the convention which was held in Augusta last year this time the constitution was so altered that each union of a Baptist church may have ten delegates, whereas the previous clause allowed only two. This change should bring an unusually large number to the convention. Every Baptist church in the state, regardless of her affiliations with the convention, should have at least two delegates if not the full quota present.

At a recent meeting of the Macon B. Y. P. U. reports from the various committees showed that the social side of the convention is to be well cared for. A big social is to be given the visitors following the opening session.

The chamber of commerce, through General Secretary Hyman, is lending great aid in trying to make this convention the banner one of the organization. The office of the chamber of commerce will be at the disposal of the delegates at all times.

THE HOUSE WE BUILD

By Rev. Loy Warwick

A Little Sermon for Character Carpenters.

"A wise man built his house upon a rock."—Matthew, 5:25.

In our town some men are building houses and some are pulling houses down. Any common laborer can wreck a building, but it takes art and skill to construct—that will please the eye and furnish a comfortable place for men and women. In anything it is easier to destroy than it is to build, but in all things it is better to be a builder.

We have in our town some men and some institutions that tear down and destroy. And we have other men and other institutions that save and build up.

The saloon, the gambling place, the places that encourage loafing and laziness and impurity—these are wreckers of homes and character. The men who own or operate such places, and all who encourage or wink at them are helping to destroy the world.

The church, the school house, the Y. M. C. A., the hospital, the orphanage, the S. a. hall, the mission room—these are constructive in their work. They help these is to be a blesser and builder in the world. The man is to be envied who can edit a paper, or write a book, or lecture a class, or heal a sick body, or preach a sermon. Such work helps to bring in the kingdom of God.

Are we trying to be builders and saviours as the days go by?

Who Lives for Self Only.

Some people are selfish when they build their homes. They do not like company. They are not hospitable. They say, "Let us build just room enough for our own. If we have a large house we may have to entertain too much. They will expect us to take delegates when conference or convention comes."

Others build more than they need, because they want room for the wayfaring man. They do not forget to entertain strangers, knowing that some have thereby entertained angels unawares. Welcome is writ large on all the doorposts and the latch-string is on the outside.

There are people who seem to build a wall about themselves. They shut themselves in and shut their fellows out. They do not seem to need or to desire help and love. They feel able to care for themselves, and they do not care for the people about them.

Who Lives to Do Good.

But we see other men who live to do good. The cup of their life runs over. They have more than they need and rejoice to dispense the good things of their life to their fellow-travelers. These are the great Hearts of our pilgrimage who help us to find the King's country and bring us to our desired haven. There seems to be no limit to their hospitality. They is always room for one more. No one is ever turned away empty from their gate, and they have no ramine at home. The more they give the more they have. Their scattering abroad seems to make them rich. They seem to give all away one day; but the next day when we see them they appear to have as much as ever.

Some Just for a Day.

Some houses are just built for a day, while others are meant to last for many years. One man says, "I am building this house to be torn down a bit later, so it does not matter much how I build it." But another builds for his children and grandchildren.

Some of us are content to live in and for the present day. We do not see far ahead because we do not try. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof and also the good. Eternity is not in all our thoughts, which means that God is not in them.

But the wise man builds for the days to come. He not only dips into the future as far as human eye can see, but he walks by faith, and with the eye of faith sees things that are invisible. He builds for the long run—the only run worth making.

I passed an orchard one day and saw a gray-haired veteran of the Confederacy and of the Cross at work. He was setting out trees and caring for those he had planted years before. Soon he was to pass away, and he knew it. He could hardly hope to eat of the fruit of those trees. But he thought of and lived for others and for the future. The world would go on and men and women would want fruit when he was far away. So he built and planted for his children and their children and for the years to come. And he built for eternity. Men today are enjoying the fruit of that orchard, and the good man who planted it is eating fruit from the tree of life.

If We Build Well.

If we build well, if we build broad enough and strong enough for ourselves and our friends we must have a good foundation. If we build so that the storms and floods will not destroy our house we must also heed where we build and what we build. The wise man built his house on the rock. The foolish man did not look for the rock, but built on the sand.

The rock on which you and I must build is the Rock of Ages. Jesus said, "In my Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you." The Builder and Maker of our everlasting home is God. But in a sense we build the house we are to occupy when this earthly house shall fall.

To build as Jesus as He points the way of life and not one Him is to build on the sand. To heed what He says and do what He wills is to build on the Rock, and to so build that our house will stand in every evil day and stand forever.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR DEPARTMENT

BY PHILIP T. SAMUEL.

Realizing the increasing interest, both in Atlanta and throughout the state, in matters relating to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, The Atlanta Journal has arranged with officers of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union to have a special department for items relating to that organization. Each Saturday hereafter The Journal will carry interesting information regarding the work of societies, especially those of local, state and international meetings, and other matters of interest to Endeavorers and their friends.

It is expected that Christian Endeavor in the south, especially among the Presbyterian churches, will be stimulated as a result of the great conferences of the four branches of that denomination now in session in Atlanta. Field secretary Karl Leumann, of the United society, while in Georgia recently, had a conference with the superintendent of young people's work of southern Presbyterian churches and was assured that steps would be taken during the present reconstruction of the two increasing sentiment in favor of training the young people for church service by means of Christian Endeavor societies. At the present time only eleven Presbyterian churches in the entire state of Georgia have Endeavor societies, and the state officers expect that this number will be more than doubled within the next few months.

At the last meeting of the executive committee of the Atlanta union it was decided to have a joint meeting of all societies at North Avenue Presbyterian church this evening at 7 o'clock. Dr. Lapsley A. McAfee, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Berkeley, Cal., will be the principal speaker. Dr. McAfee is one of the strongest advocates of Christian Endeavor in the country and will have a prominent part in the international convention at Los Angeles in July. Another speaker will be Rev. Alford S. Badger, D. D., of St. Augustine, Fla. Every Endeavorer in the city is expected to attend this great union meeting and to bring at least one friend who should be interested and taking part in the noble work of the organization for which these leaders will speak.

A familiar name to Christian Endeavorers the world over is that of John Willis Baer, L. L. D., for many years treasurer of the United society, now president of Occidental college, Los Angeles, Cal. Dr. Baer is one of the commissioners of the assembly of the Presbyterian Church U. S. A., and will deliver an evangelistic address to men in the city auditorium at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A special invitation is given the young men of the Endeavor societies to attend this meeting.

On May 4 a Christian Endeavor society was instituted in the Gordon Street Presbyterian church. While this society was not represented at the rally held on the 9th instant, it is hoped that it will be a full fledged member of the Atlanta union at the next bi-monthly meeting. Mr. E. P. Coogler, 37 Langhorn street, is president of the society.

Dr. Hugh K. Walker made the gratifying announcement at the May rally that preparations were being made for the organization of an Endeavor society in the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Walker will realize the increasing people and when the society of his church enters the field, which will be very soon, all others in the city will have to redouble their efforts in order to keep ahead in efficiency and work done.

The society of Central Congregational church was awarded the banner at the last rally for showing the largest percentage of increase in efficiency during the preceding two months. This society rose from 33 per cent, its initial rating, to 44 per cent, an increase of 11 points, or 33 1-3 per cent gain over its previous report. A number of societies failed to submit a statement of their efficiency rating and, therefore, could not be considered in the contest for the banner.

The monthly service at the Confederate Soldiers' home, Tuesday, May 27, should not be forgotten. Keep this date open and support Miss Holdefer in her splendid work by attending the next meeting.

Miss Mabel Langford, of Watkinsville, state field and corresponding secretary, was in Atlanta recently conferring with the local workers and to attend a meeting of the state executive committee. Miss Langford will spend three months this year organizing new societies in Congregational and Presbyterian churches throughout the state.

"No Fusion," Stubbs Asserts

There is no chance of the Bull Moose and Republican parties consolidating, according to ex-Governor Stubbs, of Kansas, who was at the Hotel Wolcott recently.

"The outlook for the Bull Moose party is fine," Mr Stubbs said. "There is no chance of consolidating with the Republicans. The Bull Moosers are farther from the Republicans than the Republicans are from the Democrats. To prove that, see how in Kansas the standpat Republicans and the Democrats united in the election last fall, and how they are now dividing the patronage and are working together in the legislature.

"All the Bull Moosers with whom I have talked are optimistic. I was at a Bull Moose banquet in Brattleboro, Vt., and even in Kansas I never saw a more enthusiastic audience."

Joseph Meets His Brethren.—Genesis xlii.

Golden Text.—Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Gal. vi:7.

(1.) Verses 1-6.—How many of our troubles are there that we cannot end or mitigate by doing something?

(2.) Which is the worse calamity, to be paralyzed with fear by a great trouble, so that we only sit down and do nothing, or the trouble itself? Why?

(3.) Suppose Joseph's brethren had not sold him a slave into Egypt, how would God have protected that country against this great famine?

(4.) Was it better or worse for the world or the cause of God, or the men themselves, that Jacob's sons committed the cruel sin of selling their brother? Why?

(5.) If Joseph had not been reigning in Egypt but had remained in his own country, what would he probably have been doing there?

(6.) Verses 7-14.—Why would you say or not that Joseph treated his brethren when he met them just as God wanted him?

(7.) Would you say or not, and why, that it is ever right to dissemble or act a lie or to say what you do not mean?

(8.) Why did Joseph act and speak roughly to his brethren?

(10.) How were Joseph's dreams fulfilled?

(11.) Verses 15-20.—Is Joseph's expression, "By the fire of Pharaoh" an oath or, at any rate, is it such language that a Christian should imitate?

(12.) If Jesus had been in the place of Joseph do you think He would have compelled these men to bring their youngest brother, Benjamin? Why? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Why does God so frequently "prove" or test His best beloved children with troubles before He gives them some signal blessing?

(14.) Verses 21-24.—How would this event have helped to keep in mind them of their cruelty in selling their brother Joseph into Egypt?

(15.) When sorrow for our sins comes only as a result of the dire trouble brought on us by our sins, may it or not be true repentance? Why?

(16.) What is the connection between conscience and memory as illustrated by Joseph?

(17.) What was Reuben's pleasant memory in connection with the selling of Joseph?

(18.) When is it not right to follow the promptings of a tender heart?

(19.) Verses 25-28.—Would the fact of finding the money they paid for the corn in the mouth of each sack have troubled them so much but for their guilty consciences? Why?

(20.) Why is it that the average sinner thinks of God when he is in great trouble?

(21.) Verses 29-38.—How did their report of their experiences in Egypt affect their father, Jacob, and what do you think of his decision not to let Benjamin go?

Lesson for Sunday, May 25, 1913. Joseph and Benjamin. Gen. xliii.

NOVENA TO ST. ANTHONY HELD AT WEST END CHURCH

The Novena to St. Anthony, which is always held at the church under his invocation, in West End, under the pastorate of Father Jackson, will this year be celebrated with special services. Rev. Father Flavian Larder, a Franciscan from Cincinnati, will this year preach the Novena.

The exercises will begin on June 4 and close on the feast of St. Anthony, June 13. Father Flavian belongs to the same community that St. Anthony did during his lifetime, and the Catholic and non-Catholics of the city are invited to come and hear the sermons of Father Flavian. The services will be fully announced and information will be administered at St. Anthony's church on Sunday, June 8. First communion of the children on June 13.

REV. J. M. SKELTON AT EAST SIDE TABERNACLE

Rev. J. M. Skelton, the pastor of East Side Tabernacle, will preach at both hours next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. by request of Fleming, pastor. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Subject, "What Will You Do?" Evening subject, "Those Who Will Go to Hell?"

The Sunday school at 9:30, W. F. Gresham, superintendent.

Baraca class 9:30 a. m., H. T. Horton, teacher. Philathea class, 9:30 a. m., E. W. Walker, teacher. The Woman's Missionary society at the home of Mrs. E. W. Walker, 30 Gibson street.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT HIGHLAND PARK CHURCH

Dr. H. C. Buckhholz, head of the evangelistic department of the Georgia Baptist convention, will conduct a series of meetings at Highland Park church, beginning Sunday morning, and will continue each night at 7:45.

This is a special opportunity as Brother Buckhoiz cannot be had often, because of the great demand on his time. His singer, Brother Jesse Williams, will lead the singing. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

Holiness Meeting

The Atlanta Holiness union will meet at Bonnie Brae Methodist church, corner Lillian and Taft avenue, Sunday, 3 p. m.

Rev. A. C. Hendley, the pastor, will preach at 11 a. m. and alsho at the evening service, 7:30.

SLOGAN "ATLANTA ALWAYS AHEAD" MAKES A BIG HIT FOR AD MEN

$10 Prize by Club Brings Out Many Suggestions From All Over Country

When staid old Boston awakened one fine morning in the summer of 1911 the residents of the fashionable Back Bay district were amazed to find that the "Keep Off the Grass" signs on sacred Copley Square, upon which the foot of no Bostonian is permitted to tread, had been changed to read "Atlanta Always Ahead." This beautiful grass plot was literally dotted with these signs, and the amazement of the bean eaters increased ten-fold when it was found that the Atlanta advertising men had obtained the privilege of having a Georgia watermelon cutting on this very sacred spot, in the shadow of Philip Brooks' monument. However, a large number of the Boston people were invited to participate in the festivities and entered into it in good spirits, strolling around over Copley Square, wending their way through the rows of signs bearing "Atlanta Always Ahead," and it goes without saying that this slogan made a lasting impression upon those who attended the famous watermelon feast.

"Atlanta Always Ahead" was also very prominent at the convention held at Dallas last summer. It was displayed by big signs all around the city and in the meeting halls, and also when the special trains left Dallas to take the delegates on a tour of the state, this big sign was placed across the front of the engine of the first train, and was thus seen all over Texas.

The slogan will also be used prominently at the Baltimore convention. It was selected in the following manner:

Just prior to the departure of the delegation from the Ad Men's club of Atlanta to the Boston convention in August, 1911, a contest was inaugurated to secure a slogan for the city of Atlanta. A prize of $10 in gold was offered to the one who would suggest the slogan that would best advertise Atlanta. More than 2,500 slogans were submitted, and a number of these were printed in The Journal from day to day during the contest. When the committee met to make the selection they decided that the most appropriate slogan suggested was "Atlanta Always Ahead." There were 87 of the contestants to suggest this particular slogan. The first, however, was Hon. Edgar Watkins, a prominent attorney, and he received the $10 in gold.

EDWIN F. JOHNSON.
Well known among the advertising agents of the south. A live booster for the Atlanta Ad Men.

It was interesting to note that these slogans were sent in from all parts of the United States, indicating that Atlanta is known throughout the country, and the bright, snappy slogans sent in by people in all sections show that Atlanta is regarded as a live and progressive city.

There was more in the contest than the winning of the $10, and it gave Atlanta some splendid advertising. The slogan, "Atlanta Always Ahead," has been adopted by the city and is used on many occasions in advertising Atlanta. The Ad Men's club will have these three words emblazoned upon all of their banners and literature, and the advertising men from all parts of the country will again be reminded that Atlanta is always ahead when the convention opens in Baltimore on June 8.

AD CLUB IS LIVEST BODY IN CITY, SAYS HOPKINS

I have been asked for my opinion of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, its past usefulness and future possibilities in connection with the Associated Charities.

The Ad Men's club I consider the livest organization of intelligent and aggressive young men with which I ever came in contact.

I first became acquainted with it when it undertook last year a campaign to increase the number of subscribers of the charities. The members of the club realized at the outset there was nothing in it for them personally except several days of the hardest kind of work, and that their only reward would be the knowledge of the assistance they had rendered to a valuable institution. They knew that the particular individuals most active would not necessarily be brought forward prominently, and the advertisement and notoriety gained would be inappreciable. They therefore could not possibly have undertaken the campaign on anything but a purely unselfish, philanthropic basis. Just such a campaign I have rarely seen. The indomitable energy and perseverance in the face of all obstacles was remarkable. The success was overwhelming.

So interested had many of the Ad Men become in the work of the Associated Charities that when, a little later, there were some vacancies on the board of directors, we found no trouble in getting five of them to accept positions with that body. One of them, Mr. Ivan Allen, is now the chairman of our finance committee, and has recently completed and installed a new set of books in the office of the association, which I consider probably as valuable a single contribution as has ever been made to the society. Our numerous accounts and almost innumerable cases require a highly complicated bookkeeping system, but Mr. Allen has reduced this to comparative simplicity, and arranged it so it can be handled and kept up with a convenience that is remarkable.

Mr. Albert Adams is now a member of the executive committee which meets once a week, and has also accepted the chairmanship of a new publicity committee which is going to be of the greatest value, and which shows no disposition whatever to shy off at the large amount of work it is facing. Mr. W. S. Lowery and Mr. E. H. Goodhart are also on the board of directors, and are giving splendid service. Mr. Goodhart has accepted the chairmanship of

HICKS TO HAVE SPEAKER'S PLACE ON THE PROGRAM AT BALTIMORE

Well-Known Agricultural Advertising Man to Address Convention—He Has Filled Many Places of Honor in Advertising World

L. D. Hicks, who is now president of the southeastern division of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and an enthusiastic worker for the Atlanta Ad Men's club, has been honored with an important place on the program at the national convention in Baltimore.

In the general discussion along the lines of "Equalizing the Advertising Seasons in the Agricultural Press" Mr. Hicks has been assigned a place to lead in the discussion. He is recognized as one of the leading men now engaged in farm paper publication and advertising manager of the Southern Ruralist, of Atlanta. He has attended all of the advertising conventions held in recent years, at Omaha, Boston and Dallas.

L. D. HICKS.
Well known agricultural advertising man to address convention. He has filled many places of honor in advertising world.

ICE IN PUBLIC DRINKING PLACES MUST BE PURE

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Ice used in chilling water on passenger cars and inland steamers must be pure, according to a ruling handed down today by the federal health service. Having issued its ultimatum against the general drinking cup and insisted that the drinking water in train tanks must be pure, the service has gone one step further.

Hereafter ice that comes in contact with the drinking water must be certified as free from impurities. State or municipalities must examine all such water and see that its impurity is unquestioned. Inspection is required at least once every six months, unless there are contagious diseases in the district from which the water is drawn.

PRESIDENT WILSON TAKES USUAL SATURDAY REST

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—President Wilson today adhered to his program of resting on Saturday. He did not go to the executive office but spent most of the day alone in his study.

Rudolph Speckles, of San Francisco, was one of Mr. Tumulty's visitors. The purpose of his visit, he said, was to arrange for an appointment with the president Monday when he probably will discuss currency reform.

RALPH E. M'KNIGHT SENOIA POSTMASTER

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Congressman Adamson today recommended Mr. Ralph E. McKnight to be postmaster at Senoia, vice Mr. H. B. Sasser, term expired.

PASS SOON UPON STATUS OF ATTORNEY B. EVANS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 17.—The federal court is expected to pass soon upon the status of Bernard Evans, who was disbarred last week by the state supreme court in proceedings brought by former Attorney General Fraser Lyon, following the charges and counter charges of the campaign of last summer. Evans appeared this week before Judge Smith in a bankruptcy case, but the papers were not in proper shape and the hearing was over, with the court taking no action which would define the standing of the disbarred attorney of Columbia, in the federal court.

WILEY WEBB,
Chairman of the baseball game June 21 for the Ad Men's club. He is manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

MARSHALL RULES HIMSELF OUT OF ORDER

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Vice President Marshall ruled himself out of order in the senate today during the free sugar debate.

When Senator James drew evidence of approval from the galleries by pointed remarks about the Republicans, Senator Gallinger demanded that order be restored.

"The shoe was on the other foot the other day, and the vice president cautioned the galleries," responded Mr. Marshall, "and he will do so today."

Mr. Gallinger noted an exception. At the conclusion of the debate, Mr. Marshall announced that he had been out of order in his remark and Senator Gallinger affably accepted what he considered an apology.

IMPORTANT NOTICE AS TO MAIL AT THE CONVENTION

To insure the prompt delivery of all your mail while you are in Baltimore, and to avoid annoying inconvenience to guests and delegates, we have arranged with the postal authorities to establish at the convention headquarters, Fifth regiment armory, a branch postoffice.

Therefore it is very important that you instruct all those who will be sending mail to you while in Baltimore to have it addressed "care of Ad club convention." Use no other address but the above, as the postal authorities will give special attention to this mail, so that no delays in delivery will occur.

A great many visiting previous conventions found that hotel clerks were exceedingly busy and, in fact, overworked to such an extent that frequently serious delays occurred in the delivery of mail, and on the last days of the convention many had left the city without leaving forwarding addresses, and the hotels were at a loss to know where to send such mail that had accumulated.

With the arrangement of this sub-postoffice at the headquarters of the registration committee, the address, both local and permanent, will be on file, thereby showing you that mail addressed as above will be sure to reach you.

Keep Your Papers Safe

THE OFFICE DESK OR TABLE IS certainly not a safe place for such valuable papers as stocks, bonds, insurance policies, mortgages, deeds, notes, etc.; and yet many a so-called "good" business man has sacrificed some such paper upon this altar of carelessness.

If you have been a victim, you know the price of your carelessness. If you have not yet suffered such a loss, don't take any more chances, but come in and let us assign you a Box in our fire-proof and burglar-proof Vault. The cost is very nominal and the protection absolute.

Cleans Blood Through Kidneys

A Most Important Function and One to be Carefully Guarded.

S. S. S. Is a Wonder. It Makes You Look and Feel the Picture of Real Health.

The purpose of the kidneys being to filter the blood the question of treating supposed kidney weakness should be considered carefully. Instead of drugs and alleged kidney stimulants the better plan is to purify the blood with an antidotal effect such as you get from S. S. S.

It should be remembered that the kidneys are made up of a fine net work of blood vessels, and it is to stimulate the functional activity of kidney tissue through this capillary net work that S. S. S. shows one of its most remarkable effects.

The medicinal value of the components of S. S. S. is relatively just as vital to healthy kidney action as the nutriment obtained from grain, meat, fats, sugars, or any other part of our daily food is to the natural reconstructive requirements of the tissues. And there is one component of S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating the cellular tissues of the kidneys to a healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. Thus, in cases of rheumatism, cystitis, chronic sore throat, huskiness of voice, bronchitis, asthma, and the myriad of other reflex indications of weak kidney action, first purify your blood with S. S. S. so it will enable the tissues to rebuild their cellular strength and regain their normal health.

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice. It will be worth your while to do so.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores.

KAISER'S DAUGHTER TO WED PRINCE ERNEST SOON

Son of Duke of Cumberland and Princess Victoria Louise Marry Next Week

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

BERLIN, May 17.—The wedding of Princess Victoria Louise, the kaiser's only daughter, to Prince Ernest Augustus, the youngest son of the duke of Cumberland, next week, will be one of the most brilliant court ceremonies seen in Europe in many years. There will be a meeting of sovereigns such as has not been witnessed since King Edward's funeral.

Besides the German emperor and empress, there will be present the king and queen of England, the tsar, the king and queen of Italy, the archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, the king and princess of Denmark, and possibly the king of Roumania and the king of Norway.

Great preparations will be made at the Berlin and Potsdam palaces for the reception of the royal guests, and the court marshal, Count Eulenburg, will have a delicate question to solve in deciding the precedence at court.

It is expected that the English sovereigns and the tsar, who will remain here only two days, will stay at the palace in Berlin, while the other royal personages will be accommodated in the new palace, Potsdam.

The bride's dress, which was ordered at a Berlin house, is from a Paris model. The veil was made by the pupils of the Selesian lace school.

Wonderful presents are being showered on the princess, not only by her parents, brothers and other relatives, but also by numerous German cities which have secured special votes varying from $5,000 to $50,000 for the purpose.

The kaiser's gifts to his daughter consists mostly of jewels, some of which he designed himself. The aged Emperor Francis Joseph will present a magnificent diamond tiara which he personally designed.

It is estimated that the total value of the gifts will reach $2,500,000.

A Medical Puzzle

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

PARIS, May 17.—A curious case is puzzling the medical fraternity of Cherbourg. Two months ago a young shoemaker, named Leon Jean, fell into a trance, from which he has not yet recovered. He has been nourished by injecting food in the shape of milk and the yolk of eggs through a rubber tube, and has preserved his color and healthy appearance. On other day he suddenly recovered his sense of hearing and an ability to understand what is said to him, although he is still unable to speak, and his eyes remain closed. When he is asked to open his eyes he evi-

Year of Great Reviews

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON, May 17.—This is to be a year of great reviews, and the new ceremonial is in most cases to be used. The king is showing his sympathy and belief in the territorial force by reviewing the London divisions at Wimbledon. This will be a fine sight because all the units are well trained, and the vast common will give ample room on which to move. The great spectacle in London itself will be the review of the guards, who are to parade absolutely complete with every battalion. Owing to some of them serving out of England it is many years since the brigade of guards could muster in its entirety in London, and it will be a spectacle unequaled in our time. Even the recruits and the men of the national reserve who were in the guards' brigade are to be on duty, and the regiments will be led past by men like the duke of Connaught, Lord Roberts and Lord Methuen.

The king's Aldershot visit is to be at Whitsuntide, and promises well. His majesty is also to be present at the maneuvers in the autumn, and he is to spend some time with the fleet. These are all useful efforts on his part, because his presence keeps every one up to concert pitch, but it should not be forgotten that there is always a tendency to show him the best. At Woolwich, for example, much of what he witnessed was not the real thing, even in the ordnance factory. I think this is a pity, for acqualities are always better than mere "fakements," but the latter is usually what meets the eyes of kings.

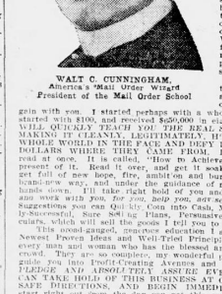
If You Stay BOSSED You'll be LOST



WALT C. CUNNINGHAM,
America's "Mail Order" Wizard
President of the Mail Order School

IN 18 MONTHS I TOOK IN $650,000.00 IN THE MAIL ORDER BUSINESS, STARTING WITH ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS. NOW HAVE ENORMOUS ENTERPRISES, OVER 400,000 CUSTOMERS, AND AM KNOWN EVERYWHERE AS THE MAIL ORDER WIZARD OF AMERICA.

IF YOU WORK OVER A SET OF BOOKS, OR BEHIND THE COUNTER, OR OVER A TYPEWRITER, OR BEHIND A DESK, OR BESIDE A BARBER CHAIR, OR ON A STREET CAR, OR IN A BOILER FACTORY, OR WHEREVER YOU WORK, I CAN SHOW YOU THE REAL, RAPID, RELIABLE ROUTE TO SOMETHING A THOUSAND TIMES BETTER! I SHOW YOU HOW TO MAKE MONEY IN A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN.

You, who read this, no matter who you are, or what you are doing; no matter how low your salary, or how poor your prospects; no matter how discontented, discouraged, you are; no matter, how incapable of achievement your friends or your family may think you are—you can at once become the partner of The Mail Order Wizard of America—you can begin, for the first time in your life, perhaps, to see the money roll in to you at every visit of the postman, without grinding out your heart and soul and body for every dollar of it.

I, Walt C. Cunningham, right now offer you the money-making chance of your life, without asking you to mortgage your life to me, without driving a grim, cold-blooded Shylock's bargain with you. I started perhaps with a whole lot more than you will start with—I started with $100, and received $50,000 in eighteen months in the mail order business. I WILL QUICKLY TEACH YOU THE REAL SECRET OF MAKING MONEY FAST—AND MAKING IT CLEANLY, LEGITIMATELY, HONESTLY, SO THAT YOU CAN LOOK THE WHOLE WORLD IN THE FACE AND DEFY IT TO SAY THAT YOU EVER ASKED YOUR DOLLARS WHERE THEY CAME FROM. I've a book you must get by return mail and read at once. It is called, "How to Achieve Mail Order Success," and I'll make you a present of it. Read it over, and get it soaked into your system from head to heel, and get full of new hope, fire, ambition and burning determination to begin the fight in a brand-new way, and under the guidance of me who has fought in the same fight and won it and work with you, for you, help you, not as your employer, but as your—simply your Money-Multiplying Ideas, Suggestions you can Quickly Coin into Cash, Methods you can Mould into Greenbacks, Swift-to-Successful, Sure Selling Plans, Persuasive Literature, Cash-Getting and Inexpensive Circulars, which will sell the goods I tell you to offer.

This novel-ganged, practice education I am offering you, covering the Entire Field of Newest, Proven Ideas and Well-Tried Principles of Mail Order Money-Making, is open to every man and woman who has the blessed ambition to step up out of the wage-weary crowd. There are no complex, my wonderful plans in long-distance merchandising, that they guide you into Profit-Creating Avenues and Cash-Producing By-Ways. I GUARANTEE, PLEDGE AND ABSOLUTELY ASSURE EVERY MAN OR WOMAN THAT HE OR SHE CAN TAKE HOLD OF THIS BUSINESS AT ONCE, FOLLOW ITS SIMPLE, SURE AND SAFE DIRECTIONS, AND BEGIN IMMEDIATELY TO MAKE MONEY FAST. You can start right out from the day you get this wonderful series of success talks.

IF YOU ARE MAKING $600, OR $900, OR $1,200, OR $2,400 A YEAR, AND REALLY WANT TO MAKE $4,000 TO $40,000 A YEAR, I CAN SHOW YOU HOW.

If you will write me, as suggested above, in answer to this advertisement this very day, I positively can and will equip you, with twenty complete, combined, ready-to-start, live, lucrative mail order businesses, which you can begin operating right in the privacy of your own home, without an office, or any outlay for office equipment.

I CAN SET YOU FREE! I can deliver you from the grim grind! I can liberate you from the treadmill of the time-clock! I can tear the well-worn shackles of wage-slavery from your hands and feet! I can lift the tyranny of boss-bow-beating from your forhead! I can do these things, brothers and sisters, because I was fixed just exactly as you are when I went into this business and made all of this money. I had the same miserable doubts and monstrous fears—I too, was once hand-cuffed to a job and gagged and speechless with heart-fright, ever-cowed, ever-quailing, ever-afraid of getting fired! Those were the things I decided I would be forever free from, and so I am! And so you, too, can be, if you will make up your minds to believe in me and write to me before this day's sun falls behind the horizon.

I will say no more—the opportunity is here, with its arms outstretched; today, right now, Dame Fortune taps on your door, and this message of mine to tell you about it has cost me thousands of dollars to send—it is flashed today across the country to all the ambitious men and women of America in all the walks of life—there is oceans of room for all of you in this business!

Whatever you do, get that letter or postal off NOW asking for my FREE BOOK, "How To Achieve Mail Order Success." Adress, WALT C. CUNNINGHAM, President, The Mail Order School, Suite 6947 Brecht Building, Denver, Colorado.

The Pictures for This Booklovers' Campaign Are Made in This Way

Three members of The Journal's staff, one of whom is the Booklovers' Campaign Editor, are charged with the responsible duty of selecting the titles to be presented.

None of the three men know what titles the others have selected. Each knows only his own titles. Only the General Manager knows all of them, for he must review the titles and the pictures, see that there is no duplication of the titles seleeted, and make sure that the pictures clearly and plainly and fairly represent the titles.

Now the descriptions of the pictures to be drawn to represent the titles are turned over to The Journal's Art Department. Each description is numbered to correspond with the number of the title filed away with the General Manager.

For Example: The artist is told to draw a picture of a crowded street at noonday at Five Points. An officer is directing the streams of people and vehicles.

The title is not given the artist. Just a word description of the man's idea of what the picture should be to represent the book he has in mind.

The description above applies to the book entitled "Traffic," by E. Temple Thurston.

The artist does not know what title he is representing in his drawing. He draws to order, according to the written instructions given him. The Picture is then passed upon by the man who selected the title to be represented. If the picture does not quite fit the title, or if it is faulty in any way, it is changed until it fits the title perfectly.

The MERMAIDS of PIEDMONT

A FEW wild waves and a briny taste are all that Piedmont lake needs to be a part of the sea.

It has the fresh breezes, the life-saver, and the popularity.

During this season, it will be a seaside resort at everyone's front door.

It will also be something of an equarium for mermaids. Swimming clubs are even now being organized in preference to weekly sewing chats or card contentions.

Maids even more than men are making their plans to enjoy surf bathing at Piedmont this season.

The lake will be more popular with mermaids than are old mariners' stories.

A club that will pursue health and happiness by daily dips in the lake is being organized under the name of "Mermaids of Piedmont."

Members must be up each morning at 6 o'clock and take a swim before breakfast, and whoever expresses other than delight in this program will be expelled as a complaining human being and not a real mermaid.

That particular little water nymph who is posed here for her first dive of the season, is one of the organizers of this association of maids who will make swimming their summer pastime.

THE WATER NYMPHS.

The lake has been filled, but it will not be open to swimmers until the latter part of this month. Yet, a water nymph couldn't be expected to observe park board rules. She went for a swim the other day, and pronounced the water of unequaled excellence.

From the moment the lake is opened to bathers until the warm weather ends and the swimming season closes, she will have many companions among the maids of Atlanta. For the most part they will all become water nymphs.

Until Piedmont lake was refilled, swimming as a sport was little known here. But it is as popular now as the cubists' art, new dances, or lyrics of the cabaret bards.

The park board expects more swimmers than ever this year, and has prepared with this thought in mind.

Four hundred and forty-four lockers have been provided for men, and private bathrooms for women. The bottom of the swimming pool has been cemented, a new boat landing has been built, diving towers have been erected, everything has been made spic and span.

OPENING OF THE LAKE.

The time for the opening of the lake will be about May 25. But the exact date has not been determined.

During the week, bathing will be permitted from 5 o'clock in the morning until sundown. On Sunday, both men and women may go swimming from 6 until 8 o'clock in the morning, no bathing will be allowed from 8 until 2 o'clock, and only men will be admitted to the lake from 2 until 7 o'clock.

This rule will permit women to go bathing on Sunday during only two hours in the morning, and will forbid all bathing from 8 until 2 o'clock.

Other forbidden things are one-piece bathing suits, white suits, and suits made of silk.

The rules of the park board concerning swimming and boating are:

"The bath house will be open on week days from 5:00 a. m. until sundown.

"The bath house will be open on Sundays, for men only, from 2:00 p. m. until sundown. For men and women from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m.

"Swimming will not be allowed in the lake at night under any consideration.

"Bathers will be required to use two-piece bathing suits. White suits and suits made of silk will not be permitted.

"No one shall enter the bathing pool except through the regular entrance provided for that purpose.

"Bathers will not be allowed to lounge around the pool, on the banks or in the park when wearing their bathing suits.

"Persons in bathing suits will not be permitted on the platform or in the refreshment stand. The intention of this rule is to require bathers to go directly from their bathroom to the pool and from the pool to their bathroom.

"Bathers will not be allowed to dive from the bridge or to bathe in the south end of the lake.

USE OF BOATS.

"Boats, canoes or crafts of any kind whatsoever, other than those of the concessionaire, will not be allowed on the lake under any circumstances.

"Rowing will not be allowed on the lake after dark.

"Persons showing the slightest evidence of being under the influence of intoxicants will not be permitted on the lake, either in boats or as swimmers.

"The use of boats is limited to two persons in each boat and one of these will be required to state in writing that he knows how to swim.

"No fishing shall be allowed in the lake without a permit.

SATURDAY ON DECATUR STREET

Decatur street, particularly upon Saturday, is the home of humanity as it is. There you will find such picturesqueness as no other street of the city can furnish. Every moment Decatur street is alive, is bubbling over with life, and upon Saturday it is more than usually effervescent. It has what G. E. Chesterton calls a "plebian punency." Every city has its street famous for color and for vivacity. And certainly Decatur street is colorful. Surely there is no town in any land that is more completely colored.

DECATUR street is the home of humanity as it is, where the negro is found in his element of fried fish and gaudy raiment, and characters which might have walked through the pages of Dickens or O. Henry have their joys and their sorrows, and laugh and cry, make love, and die, even as their brothers and sisters of Peachtree street.

The Champes Elysees of Paris and the Strand of London are celebrated for their glitter and gorgeousness; Broadway, the land of the lobster palace, and the Bowery, the haunt of the tough and the sport, are known as widely as the city which mothers them; Canal street in Mardi Gras season is the brightest spot of color in New Orleans; tourists to San Francisco seek Chinatown before they do Knob Hill. But there is not one of these whose romance matches that of Decatur street, whose habitues are quainter or more original.

Here bearded mountaineers from Rabun county brush shoulders with laborers fresh from the Old Country, Jewish shop-keepers pass the time o' day with the clerk of the Greek ice cream parlor next door, the Yankee spieler cries his wares and the Confederate veteran buys 'em, and through it all negroes, yellow, black and brown, thread their laughing, shiftless way, types of the south which could be seen in no other city in the land in all their native picturesqueness. Decatur street is the melting pot of Dixie.

THE HUM OF LIFE.

Life hums here, for Decatur street is a kaleidoscope of sight, noise and bustle from dawn to dawn. No hour is too early for fish and "hot dogs" to be sold, or for a dusky thief to pawn a watch or dispose of a little "blind tiger;" no time too late for a black mammy to buy a red cotton dress or a Jew to auction off ten pairs of number twelve shoes.

Saturday afternoon is the gala day for Decatur street. The people flock up and down in shoals, the noise of peanut venders' whistles clash with the gong of the ambulance and the honk of motor cars, the red flag of the auctioneer waves gally above the checked trousers which he wears, and over all floats the smell of fried fish, chile con carne, near-beer, steaming clothes in Chinese laundries, stale tobacco smoke, horses and harness, and cheap cologne.

If you are in a hurry, and have to go down Decatur street, forget how important your business engagement is. Because there is no use in hurrying. You just can't do it. One thing, the traffic is so congested that you couldn't make quick time even if you had an automobile; and if you have to walk, like the majority, you will find that your fellow pedestrians don't feel at all inclined to hurry. You will soon see that there is nothing to do but fall in with the shiftless tread of the care-free colored folk who make up a vast part of the crowds.

THE BOOTS OF DECATUR STREET.

One of the first impressions that strikes you as you go down this famous street, which is as foreign to the rest of the city in its general make-up as it is possible for one street in a big city to differ from another, is the number of shoes and boots that exhibit themselves in garlands from store after store.

It really appears at first that Decatur street must be about the largest shoe mart in the world. If the truth were known, the street probably has about as big a shoe trade for two blocks as any street in the country. One reason is that Decatur street does not depend solely on the local trade, but its largest business probably is from the floating population that helps make this street the busy place it is. The floaters are both whites and blacks, mostly from the rural districts.

Wagon yards are plentiful further down the street, and it is no uncommon sight to see an old-fashioned prairie schooner, drawn by two mules, or a yoke of oxen, amble down this popular highway until the wagon yard is reached, where the owner decamps with his family, and then starts out to see the sights, which invariably takes the country farmer and his family no farther than the street on which the team was left.

THE WATCH BY DETECTIVES.

In these wagon yards, where the white farmers bring their wagons, the detectives have sometimes found a young still, as well as several jugs of "moonshine," right from the mountains, which the mountaineer has been careful enough to cover with countless bundles of fodder. The city detectives watch the entrance to these wagon yards from the third floor of the police barracks.

If they count over six people going up the narrow alleyway inside of five minutes they know something is doing. It was only last fall that an officer counted eleven within four minutes. They filed up the alley and were out again, all talking and laughing. That was a sure sign. With the assistance of two other officers he ran across the street and not only arrested the driver of the wagon, but confiscated the remnants of a perfectly good still, to say nothing of three gallons of real mountain dew. The farmer was moving, and had stopped in Atlanta, where he had heard things were dry.

The pawn shops are another distinctive feature of this paradise for the negroes. On the street they meet old friends, and talk and gossip to their hearts' content. To hear one colored woman greet another, the question invariably is: "Where you living now?" The question will be answered, and the one spoken to will come back at the questioner with the same interrogation. In this way the negroes let their friends know their new addresses. This saves them the trouble and expense of using any other advertising medium.

MULLET AVENUE.

Decatur street has been referred to as "Mullet avenue." This cognomen arose from the number of fish dealers that line the street. Fish markets are plentiful, and fish lunch rooms, where fish are fried in front of one's eyes, are found everywhere. The negro must have his fish, and on Saturday night, which is the night-of-all-nights, no negro dares go home without his fish.

The markets are flooded with fish then to take care of the trade, and about 10 o'clock at night enterprising fish dealers have their fish auctions.

For years, directly across from police station, a white woman, wearing a black skull cap, played the part of the auctioneer. She could make anyone buy a "pop-eyed mullet," as she termed them, if he came within hearing-distance of her voice. Bids would start at 25 cents and often go beyond a dollar for three and a quarter pounds of fish, which often included a small red snapper and a couple of other fish that her hands happened to alight on.

The "movies" for colored people are nearly all located on Decatur street, and they have vaudeville, too. The "artists" are all colored, and their pictures, in the most "artistic" poses, are shown in front of the theater. One "high-brown" actress had her pet dog, which always accompanied her to the theater. The little spaniel had its coat embroidered with its mistress's name—just like a Broadway star.

But the colored people don't take up the whole street by any means. Over half of the business is done by white people—good business men, too. There are grain merchants, drug stores, dry goods stores, tailors, and numbers of pawn shops. These pawn shops are conducted strictly according to law.

Most of the articles stolen by negroes, as well as by the white criminals, are pawned for cash. This is a fact everywhere. If a negro loses a coat, the first thing he does when he discovers his loss is to hasten to Decatur street and try to "beat the rascal to the pawn shop." Sometimes he catches the man with his coat about to "soak" it.

The delicatessen shops on this street are the best in the city, and one shop within a block of the police station boasts of the patronage of many of the grand opera singers for the past three years. The singers, however, were not the stars, nor soloists, but were Italian chorus men, who hailed from the old country, where their fellow-countryman, Victor, proprietor of the shop, was born. They ate all of their meals there, and would burst out in song, because it was their temperament. The men were known as "Caruso's band," and they explained the title by saying that they sang only in operas with Caruso. "They helped Caruso," the proprietor interpreted for them.

PAT'S PLACE.

"Pat's near-beer place is nearby, and he also runs a pool room. And right here on a rainy day one can find the jovial crowd of men whom "Curley" calls the "weather-beaten" crowd. This term was explained as meaning that they were tinners, carpenters, roofing men, etc., who were thrown out of employment on account of the weather. It was then that they frequented the pool room.

The proprietor is an Irishman, who is the most jovial son of old Erin that ever crossed the water.

His right-hand man is "Curley."

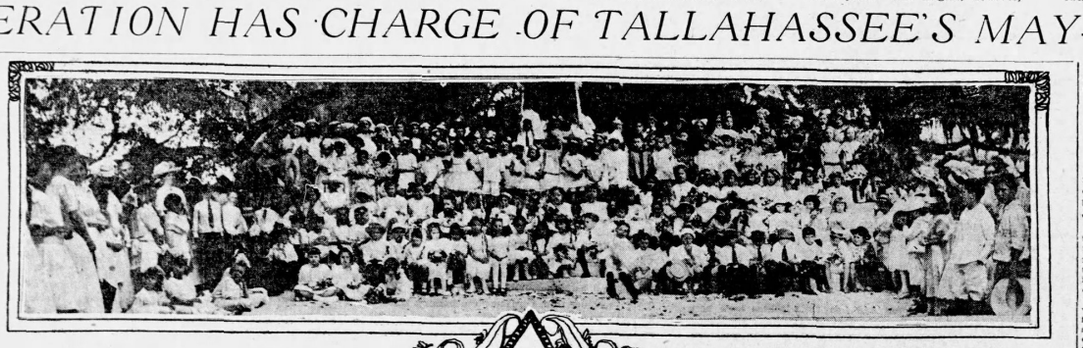
Decatur street is the mecca for the bargain-hunter. The pawn shops display trousers of all hues and stripes for $1.98. Nothing is ever shown on this street for plain two or three dollars. The decimal, or fraction, must always be displayed.

The street camera fakir is a person who makes a livelihood by snapshotting both whites and blacks. All they have to do is to look pleasant, and it is all over. The picture, generally a tin type, is reproduced in the twinkling of an eye.

NEW GENERATION HAS CHARGE OF TALLAHASSEE'S MAY-DAY OAK

Unique Celebration in Florida's Capital City Is Held Anunally Under Oak Tree Which Is Two Hundred Years Old

Many Generations Have Witnessed Knights Riding in Tourney to Win Honor of Crowning Beauty Queen of May



Portion of the fairies and brownies who took part in the recent celebration of May-Day under the great May-Day Oak in Lewis Park, Tallahassee, Fla.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—Like the Romans celebrating their Floralia, so Tallahasseeans hold their annual May day festivities. Owing to its clime, the Florida capital city is a veritable garden the year around, but at no time is it prettier than at the outbreak into beauty which nature makes at the end of April and the beginning of May.

Tallahassee's May day is different from most of the celebrations of a similar nature held elsewhere. For years this day has been to Tallahasseeans as no other of the year. Not even Christmas finds a celebration equal to it, for on May day the entire populace revels in a spirit of happiness.

For many generations has this celebration been fostered in the Florida city and each year in the same spot, beneath the great branches of the May day oak in Lewis park.

This giant oak, which is two hundred years old, is rooted in the center of a park which is the width of a city block, a limb on either side stretches to the street. Its foliage of olive green drapped in graceful tapestries of Spanish grey moss make a fitting shelter and background for the city's most memorable celebrations.

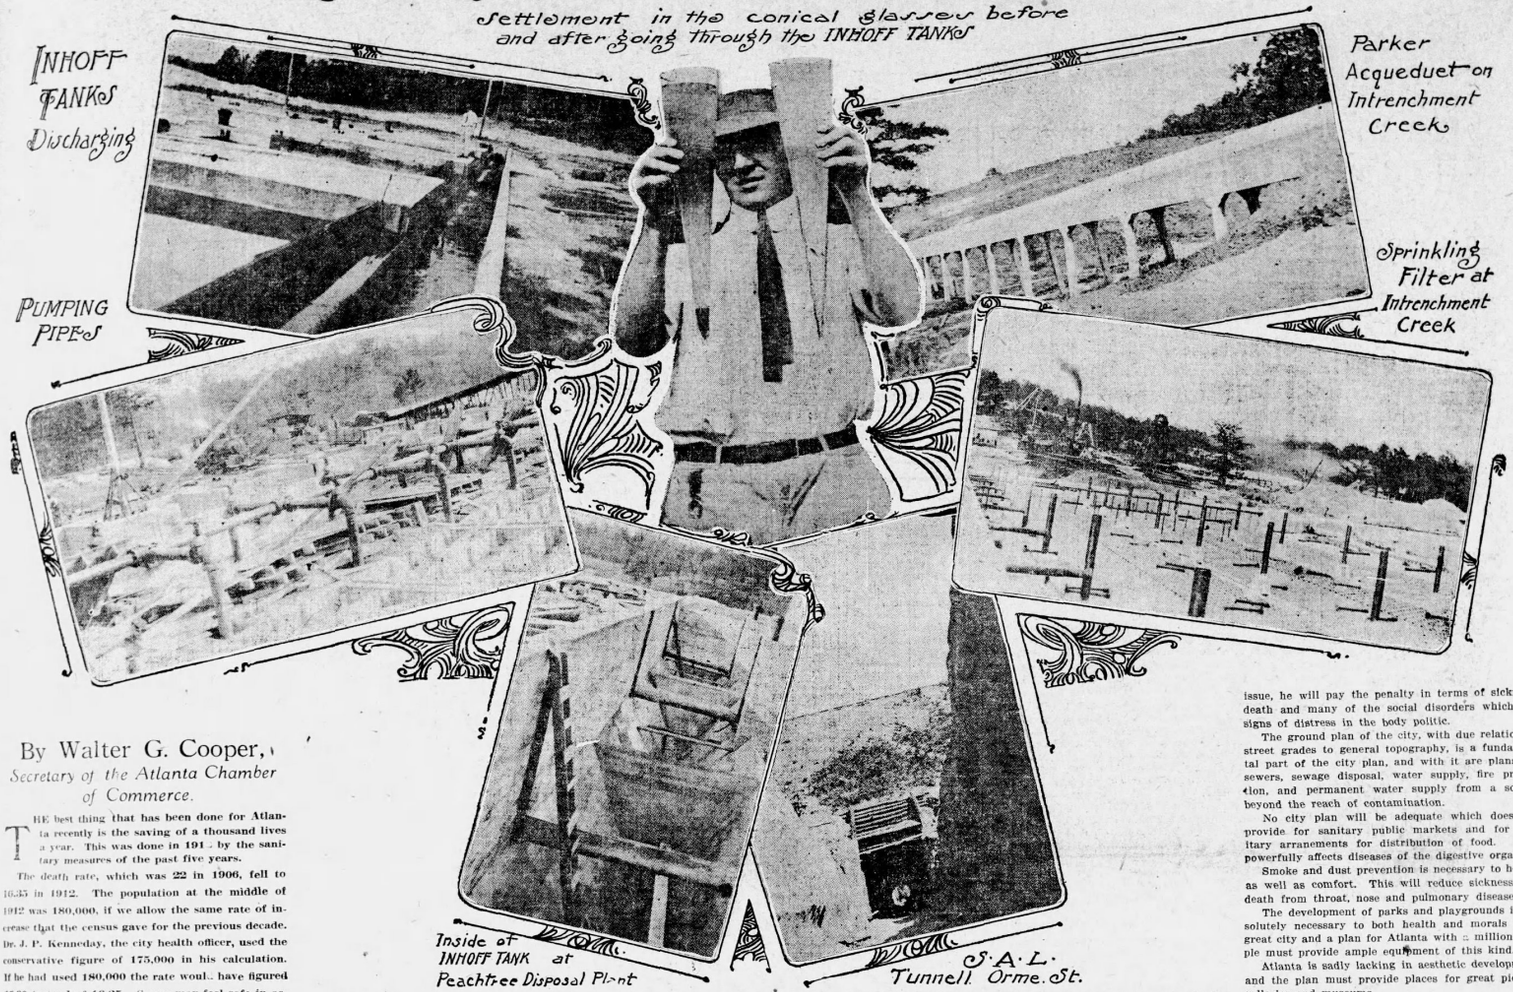
This year finds a new generation taking charge of the historic oak and the populace at its recent May day was present to behold the little fairies, brownies and knights dance around the maypole while the Queen of May reclined in a bower of flowers, a thing of beauty, the city's most beautiful maiden of a certain age.

It is customary with Tallahasseeans to select the queen and a certain number of knights. When the May day festivities are opened the knights contest in a tourney for the honor of placing the crown upon the head of their queen.

The boys knighted are costumed in velvets, cockade hats with plumes and flowing curls. They ride astride swift steeds with spear pointed ahead in an effort to pierce rings suspended above the track.

The plucky knight spearing the greatest number of rings crowns the queen of May and the coronation exercises are held beneath the great limbs of the historic oak. Immediately following the coronation the procession headed by the queen and the winning knight passes around the park.

One Thousand Lives Were Saved by City in 1912; Sanitary Reform Will Save More This Year



By Walter G. Cooper,
Secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

THE best thing that has been done for Atlanta recently is the saving of a thousand lives a year. This was done in 191 . by the sanitary measures of the past five years.

The death rate, which was 22 in 1906, fell to 16.35 in 1912. The population at the middle of 1912 was 180,000, if we allow the same rate of increase that the census gave for the previous decade. Dr. J. P. Kenneday, the city health officer, used the conservative figure of 175,000 in his calculation. If he had used 180,000 the rate would have figured 15.90 instead of 16.35. So we may feel safe in accepting Dr. Kennedy's mortality figures.

If we accepted the federal government's mortality figures for 1906, which were 25.13, there would appear a saving of 1,640 lives in 1912 on 175,000 population.

I don't accept that, for the government's mortality figures for 1906 were made too high by too low an estimate of the population for that year.

When the Chamber of Commerce committee of twenty-five, headed by F. J. Paxon, investigated the urgent needs of Atlanta in 1908, and pointed out some important sanitary reforms, I shocked some people by publishing the statement that it was possible, by adequate sanitary measures, to save a thousand lives a year for Atlanta. This statement is already substantiated by experience.

WE CAN SAVE AS MANY MORE.

I wish now to say that we have hardly begun the work of sanitary reform, and though Atlanta's death rate is lower than that of most southern cities, we can double the saving and add at least another thousand lives per annum to our vital resources on the basis of present population.

Why do I make this statement?

Because I feel sure that Atlanta is capable of as good municipal housekeeping as Sydney, Australia, which has a death rate of 10.1; or Seattle which has 10.4 per thousand.

Even London, with the terrible conditions of its east end, described by Huxley as the worst he had seen in the whole world, with more than 2,000,000 people, according to Booth, living in one-room tenements, had a death rate of 12.7 in 1910.

New York's death rate has been cut down in thirty years from 27.5 to 16; Chicago's from 21.5 to 15.1; Berlin's from 26.5 to 14.7, The Hague's from 23.3 to 12.5, London's from 20.9 to 12.7, Sydney's from 20.8 to 10.4, Dresden's from 25 to 13.8.

WORK TO REDUCE MORTALITY.

We had 11,000 surface closets in 1908 and nearly half of them remain. Of the three great sewage disposal plants, two are not yet in operation. Probably within a year all three of these plants will be in operation and, certainly, in two years we should get rid of the remaining surface closets.

Housing conditions in some parts of Atlanta, particularly in the cheaper negro quarters, are very bad. With the improvements that ought to be made in these conditions in no long time, the rate of negro mortality, already appreciably lowered, will be further cut down.

The fight against tuberculosis is only well begun and the protection of the food supply and the milk supply can be carried very much further.

These are some of the vital things included when we talk about a City Plan.

Atlanta's fine climate and natural drainage give exceptional opportunity for sanitation and health. With these natural advantages we should have the healthiest city in the United States.

ATLANTA'S NEW EQUIPMENT.

During the period which brought about the saving of so many lives these notable institutions were added to the permanent equipment of Atlanta:

The Auditorium.

The new Grady Hospital.

The Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

New school buildings to the value of $600,000.

Waterworks extension, $1,000,000.

Sewage disposal plants, $1,500,000.

The Convention Bureau.

In the meantime private enterprise has doubled the hotel accommodations and added several office buildings.

The year will see added the Chamber of Commerce building, the county court house, an industrial bureau and probably a permanent exhibit of Atlanta manufactures.

In the new municipal institutions the Chamber of Commerce largely took the initiative and the city and county carried the work to completion with its co-operation. The bond issue provided for most of them.

President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Chamber of Commerce, has submitted the following subjects to members of the committee as suggestions for effective committee work:

A permanent exhibit of Atlanta manufactures.

An excursion to Chattanooga to examine its manufacturers' exhibit.

The enactment of a blue sky law.

The building of a public market or markets.

The establishment of public baths and public comforts.

Appropriations from the city and county for an initial survey of the city by the Municipal Research Bureau of New York.

Development of interurban railways.

The carrying out of recommendations by the committee on milk supply, including the Walker-Gordon laboratory and other improvements.

The organization of a publicity bureau, which shall systematically and on a large scale put before the world the advantages and attractions of Atlanta.

The establishment of an art museum by co-operation with the Atlanta Art association and the holding of an art loan exhibit.

The organization of a junior chamber of commerce among school children.

The Georgia corn show.

The organization of a state chamber of commerce, uniting commercial bodies to develop the resources and industries of Georgia.

An organized effort to make Atlanta the financial center of the south.

The development of educational interests, making Atlanta the center of the south.

A cotton, grain and stock exchange with wire service located in the rooms of the chamber.

PRESIDENT MOORE MAKES GOOD.

The middle of President Moore's second year finds his original program three-fourths completed, but the most important feature is the movement which he started for the adoption of a city plan. This matter had been discussed by the newspapers and at times by committees, but it had never been given much life until Mr. Moore took hold of it. Through his suggestions and efforts an ordinance of council was adopted which provided for the appointment by the mayor of the Atlanta Improvement Commission, composed of 100 representative citizens, together with specified city and county officials and the city plan committee of the Chamber of Commerce, making in all a body of 150 men.

Alex W. Smith was elected chairman and Wilmer L. Moore vice chairman, and thus was created an organization whose work, followed up in Atlanta's usual thorough-going way, will affect the comfort, health, pleasure and prosperity of the people for generations to come. It is difficult to give an adequate idea of a city plan in a paragraph, for there be brought into requisition in the making of such is hardly any kind of applied science which will not a plan.

To illustrate: The Commercial club of Chicago brought about a survey of the city and its environment for sixty miles from the center in order to make a plan which will cost $350,000,000 to carry out, and will, it is claimed, make Chicago the most attractive city in the world. In order to secure the adoption of such a plan the Commercial club has deliberately set to work to educate a whole generation in the Chicago public schools, through the use of manuals which have been adopted as a part of the school course.

With the same purpose in view for Atlanta, Mr. Moore has set on foot the organization of a junior order of the chamber of commerce, composed of school boys. It is proposed to interest these boys not only through systematic instruction by carefully prepared text books, but by active personal work, which will develop them as public spirited citizens.

PLAN IS SUCCESSFUL.

This idea is taking like wild-fire among the boys, and only needs intelligent direction to make it the most potent force ever started for the upbuilding of Atlanta. It is easily conceivable that if this movement is developed, as it should be, it will result in ten or fifteen years in a civic organization or series of organizations numbering tens of thousands of vigorous young men full of the Atlanta spirit and largely disciplined to that magnificent teamwork, which, on a large scale, has been the secret of Atlanta's success.

It was an inspiration which suggested the organization of boys' corn clubs, now 10,000 strong in Georgia, and their success shows what may be done among town boys.

For two years the pupils of public schools have done great work for sanitation by collecting thousands of clean-up pledges. The children of Davis street school have bought a piano and have just started a fund for a new school house with the prize they won recently.

POINTS IN CITY PLANNING.

The plan of a city, like the plan of a building, begins with the foundation on which it rests. There must be a place for a city's productive industries with adequate room for their expansion.

There must be terminal facilities big enough and railroad connections sufficient to bring in and carry out the traffic.

There must be streets adequate for the local traffic and travel, not only now, but for years to come.

There must be some provision for the enormous development of rapid transit which will be necessary ten, twenty, thirty, forty and fifty years hence to carry the hundreds of thousands of people who will be here. They will find it utterly impossible to get through the streets we now have.

There will have to be facilities of an entirely different kind to move the local traffic from the center through the residence districts in order to supply food and other necessities of life to the people.

The rapid increase of automobile travel will soon force a crisis in shopping districts, which are already congested to the danger point.

The housing problem will have to be dealt with, so as to abolish slums and establish a sanitary standard in tenements.

THE NEGRO POPULATION.

The negro population is rapidly overgrowing its restricted quarters and some way will have to be found to provide adequate room for these toilers under wholesome conditions. This is a problem with tragic consequences already visible, and one of great difficulty as well as danger. In this matter it is idle to conceal from ourselves the fact that the white man is his brother's keeper and if he fails to meet the issue, he will pay the penalty in terms of sickness, death and many of the social disorders which are signs of distress in the body politic.

The ground plan of the city, with due relation of street grades to general topography, is a fundamental part of the city plan, and with it are plans for sewers, sewage disposal, water supply, fire protection, and permanent water supply from a source beyond the reach of contamination.

No city plan will be adequate which does not provide for sanitary public markets and for sanitary arranements for distribution of food. This powerfully affects diseases of the digestive organs.

Smoke and dust prevention is necessary to health as well as comfort. This will reduce sickness and death from throat, nose and pulmonary diseases.

The development of parks and playgrounds is absolutely necessary to both health and morals in a great city and a plan for Atlanta with a million people must provide ample equipment of this kind.

Atlanta is sadly lacking in aesthetic development and the plan must provide places for great picture galleries and museums.

The architectural development of the city can never be what it should be without plan, harmony and unity. We have no center or centers and no concerted effort toward harmony in the designs of streets or public places. The plan must provide the motive and the method by which the result is to be attained in future structures.

EDUCATION AND ART.

The educational system will require much of the city planners. The demands of trade, industry and business in the complex life of our time require better equipment of the rising generation, and vocational training, super-imposed upon a fairly liberal education, will be necessary to put the youth of Atlanta abreast of the times. Museums of national history, botanical gardens and the like will give our boys and girls a chance to learn nature as it cannot be learned from books.

Amusements cannot be neglected. Wholesomely developed, they are life-preservers for young and old. The new disorders peculiar to the strenuous life of America are best prevented by open air exercise on ball grounds, tennis courts, golf links and the like. As Herbert Spencer says, we do not get the full value of exercise unless the zest of play is in it.

The experience of great cities has shown that the use of school buildings as social centers, under the auspices of parents and teachers' associations, is as valuable as playgrounds in the development of a wholesome community life and no plan will be adequate which does not provide suitable equipment of the buildings for this purpose. It will double the value of these buildings to the people by a nominal expenditure.

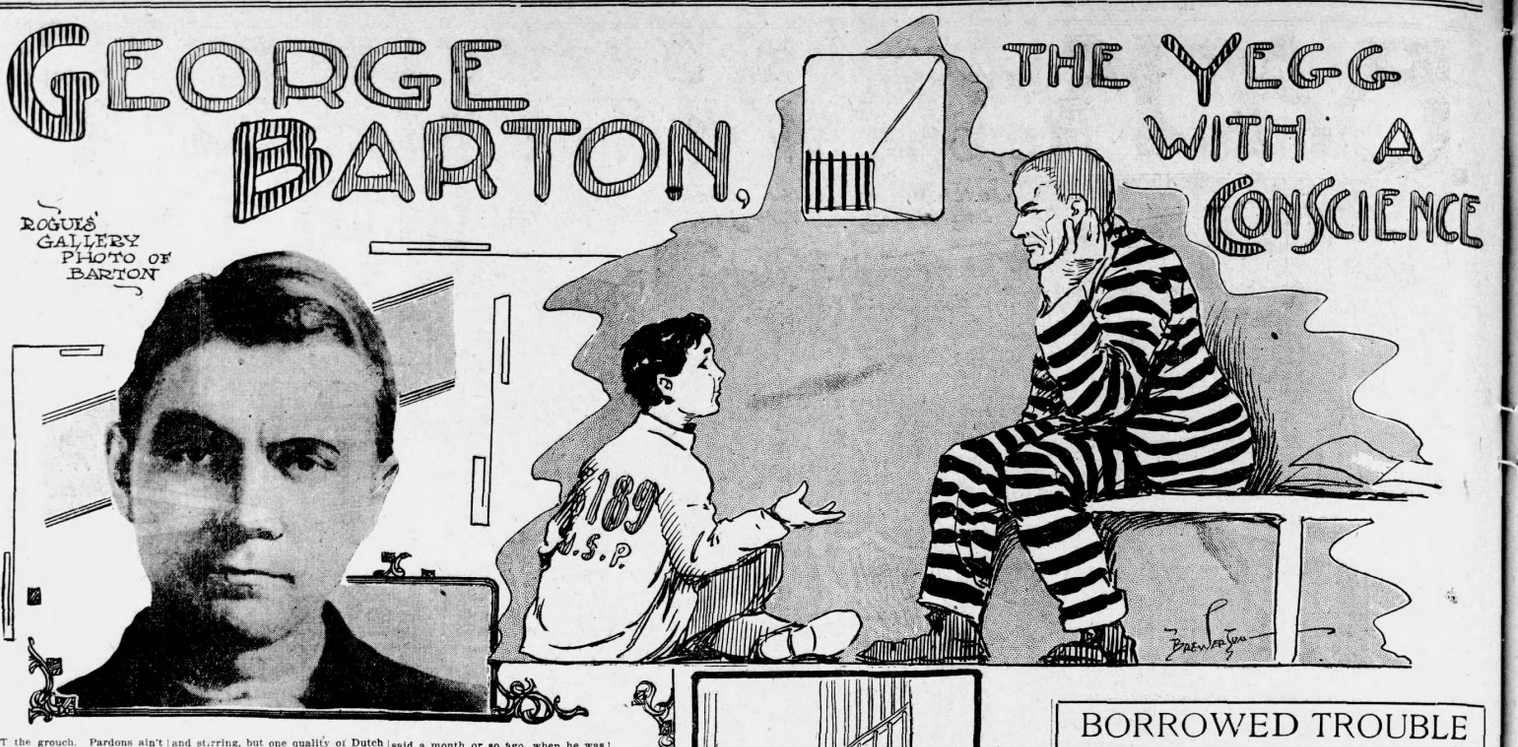
The plan of the future city must not overlook the relation of town and country and there should be facilities for marketing the produce and developing the truck garden industries.

An enlargement of this idea takes the form of a great annual fair which will bring town and country together in the harvest season. The city should plant itself firmly in its agricultural environment, and it should be an attractive and convenient place for the country people to visit.

Close connection with rural life will be developed by the growth of an interurban trolley system and no permanent plan will be complete without a central station for all such lines, and a highly developed system of rural express and trunk lines of road over which the farmer can comfortably and quickly travel by automobile with his family to the city, and his urban friends can return the call. Nothing is more significant than the tendency toward social intercourse between town and country and the city should be made accessible by the most convenient and attractive routes.

Suburban development should harmonize with city development and a standard should be established for subdivisions and additions before they can be brought into the city. Thus the city will extend into the country for miles until urban and rural life are finally blended.

GEORGE BARTON, THE YEGG WITH A CONSCIENCE



CUT the grouch. Pardons ain't as sure as taxes, but you might get one."

George Barton in a lower bunk at the Atlanta federal penitentiary was counseling the "kid" in an upper, who was doing a five-year sentence for robbery.

"If you can't smile," he said, "keep your face straight."

Neither advice nor conscience are a usual part of the yegg's outfit. But George Barton has found room for both in his safe-blowing.

How he got the "kid" out of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary is the chief instance in point.

At least ten years ago Barton toook up the profession of a yegg, but during the intervening time he has been a conscientious thief.

Since the day he met Tennessee Dutch in a South Georgia town, which had a bank, a poolroom, and a temperature of 90 deegrees he has not overlooked a safe that was vulnerable or a pal that was in distress.

Upon his meeting with Dutch, he was broke and playing pool to forget it. Barton was one-armed and played a game of his own by resting the cue on the edge of the table and guiding it with one hand.

A MISSIONARY FOR CRIME.

Dutch, who was a missionary for crime from the moment he cracked his first safe until a 17-year-old clerk killed him in Florida, put the "10" ball into a corner pocket, and looked across at Barton.

The occasion was something like the moment when Raffles converted Bunny to the ways of thievery. The only difference was an inversion of characters.

Then and from then on, Dutch was the yegg who followed, and George Barton, was the man of conscience who led. But in this instance Tennessee offered the suggestion which turned George Barton into a thief.

"Married, ain't you?" asked Dutch in his usually considerate way.

"Yep."

"Broke?"

"Yep."

"Wife and kids up against it?"

"What's it to you?" asked Barton, shifting his cue until it balanced better as a club.

"Just this," said Dutch. "We are going to try a job here tonight, and you can come in on it."

In addition, Tennessee had always preferred missionary efforts to successful safe-blowing, and until the time of his death he kept a record of his converts.

When he chanced upon a harmless tramps who enjoyed sloth but was disinclined to crime, Dutch used as great eloquence and earnestness as though he was working among the heathen.

A NEW CONVERT.

Apparently he made a convert that day in the pool-room where George Barton had come to forget that he was broke. But had he? From that time on, Barton made thievery a profession, and as much of his time has been spent in jail as out. But at this moment he is waiting trial in Mobile, Ala., for a very uncriminal sacrifice. That night he started upon his "professional" career with a conscientious indiscretion that put him in jail.

It was a "job" that failed to go through. Dutch was never careful or over-shrewd in his plans, and he failed to see beforehand what a tough safe he had chosen. The town was *small, but the safe was big. The dy*namite needed to crack it would have blown up the town site.

They made two efforts. The first explosion was like the discharge of cannon. The bank building trembled, and lights began to show in the town. Barton crawled through a window to bring news that people were awake and stirring, but one quality of Dutch was a bulldog tenacity.

"I'll stay here all night or bust it," he said.

"I'll stay with you," agreed Barton. "But get a hurry on."

Dutch touched off a fuse, and drew Barton with him into one corner. The explosion shook the plastering from the ceiling, and rattled the safe. The steel box creaked as though it were rent by the second concussion.

Dutch, with his fingers itching to get at the bank's money, was making a jump for the safe, when a head poked in through the window. The head darted back, and the next moment the fellow on the outside began to yell at the top of his voice.

Tennessee was first through the window, Barton followed; and New York Harry, a third yegg, who had done little but efface himself in one corner, came last.

AN ACT OF CONSCIENCE.

The fellow on the outside had failed to mix prudence with lung power, and, instead of shouting and running away, he stood ten feet from the window, yelling murder and thieves. Inside a big crack showed in one side of the safe, through which an easy way was offered to the bank's money.

Dutch, with a vision in his mind of the money that his fingers had almost touched, caught the fellow by the collar and jammed a pistol into the man's ribs.

"Croak him," he advised succinctly.

Tennessee's finger was crooking over the trigger, when George Barton, with his one hand, slapped Dutch in the face, and jerked away the pistol.

"You don't go that far when I'm around," he observed. "Beat it."

He swung a southbound train, and Dutch and Harry the silent, went north.

Meantime, the fellow whom Barton's conscience had saved, was telling the police that one of the crooks had only one arm, and was a tall, clean-shaven fellow.

HIS FIRST SENTENCE.

An hour or so later, as Barton stepped from the train, he found police, informed by this description, waiting to give him his first experience in jail.

He served a few months of a long-term sentence, and broke jail, just as he did later at Fulton county Tower.

Tennessee Dutch had come south, and was waiting. Until that untoward experience with the 17-year-old clerk, Dutch was always waiting for Barton. He himself seldom saw the inside of a jail. He slipped through the hands of the police as an eel does through the fingers of a fisherman, but Barton's one arm was a misfortune that marked him plainly to the eyes of searchers.

For each safe he has cracked he has done time for all but a very few. Yet Dutch seldom saw the hand of retribution till the time of his taking off.

He had his plans for a campaign in Georgia and in the Carolinas, a systematic pursuit of crime that was to make them as rich as the pirates of old. But Dutch was urged by no spirit of romance and adopted no swaggering air in his search for money. Safe blowing was a business not a venture with him, and he adopted a business-like attitude.

HIS OPPORTUNITY.

But all that this research among bank and postoffice safes brought George Barton, were many jail sentences, a name among the police as one of the greatest all crooks, and the opportunity of which he finally took advantage in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

This chance, which brought freedom to the "kid" doing five years for burglary, and another experience with the courts for Barton, seems to be the climax of his mixed career. As he said a month or so ago, when he was being transferred from the Atlanta federal penitentiary to Mobile:

"I guess it's the biggest job I've ever done."

The instant when he grabbed the pistol from Dutch upon the night of his first robbery, was the beginning of a series of incidents that led up to the climax in the federal penitentiary.

He saved another man later on, whom Dutch wanted to "croak;" he was conscientious in all his thievery; and he was the crook to whom other crooks came for help.

THE JOB IN ALABAMA.

But three years ago he prepared the way for what took place only recently at the federal penitentiary—for that incident that is a memorable part of One-armed George's record.

Early in the evening Barton dropped into a little sun-baked town in Alabama, where mosquitoes were thicker than flies and there was but one real building—the postoffice. Early the next morning, Barton left with the government's money in a satchel in his one hand.

That was three years ago in Alabama.

This incident which follows—the story of how the "kid" was freed from the Atlanta "pen"—was an occurrence of only a few months passed.

"Take it from me," he said, "a smile's the next best thing to a pardon. It gets you time off, and helps things generally."

"Smile!" groaned the "kid," who was twisting about in the upper bunk. "Me! Say, if I *was in here for some*thing I'd done, I wouldn't complain. I never cracked any safe anywhere. I'm innocent. I haven't done a thing. They've got me in here for some other man's job."

"Really, commented Barton.

"I guess you think," continued the young fellow in the upper berth, "that, because we've been bunkin' together only a little bit that I ain't ready to tell you straight. But I'm not puttin' up a bluff. I'm one man in this jail who's innocent."

"What's the charge?" asked Barton.

"Blowing a safe over in Alabama."

"Alabama," repeated Barton. "What's the place?"

The "kid" named a little sun-baked town where mosquitoes swarm.

"And it was an old job," he explained. "Three years ago. I wasn't around there then."

"I guess not," said Barton, "But I was."

When postoffice inspectors, acting upon Barton's request, reached the federal prison next morning they found him ready with the true account of how the Alabama postoffice was robbed.

The young fellow doing five years for the "job" was released, and Barton served out his own sentence which was then nearly over. He was released last January, and was re-arrested for the robbery to which he had confessed to save another man.

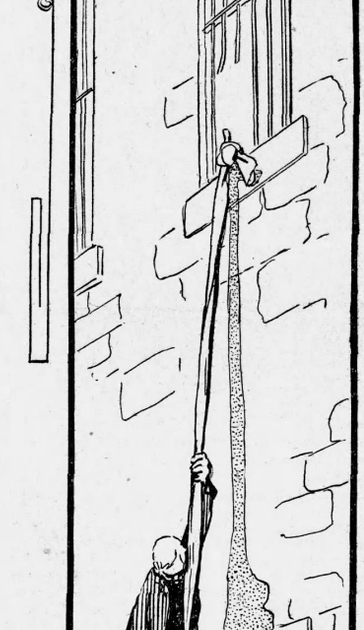
He was transferred to Mobile, and is there awaiting trial. When he has served his time with the government, the state is waiting to jail him for a term of eighteen years.

As he was being taken to Mobile by a United States deputy marshal from the Atlanta office, he said:

"I'll never steal again. Robbing's a poor business. It doesn't pay. If I had the chance I'd live straight. I guess I've got to do time till the end if my days. But anyhow, I'll live straight in jail.

"Look at all the old gang. Dutch is dead. New York Harry is in jail in Birmingham for killing two policemen. I've got another federal sentence, and then eighteen years in the state pen. Does it pay? Well, I guess not.

"But I reckon a man can do his best in jail as well as outside. I'll give it a try, anyway."



FOOTFALLS

The Author Who Is a Prisoner at the Atlanta Federal Prison

By Julian Hawthorne

In the cell over mine, at night,
A step goes to and fro
From barred door to iron wall.
From wall to door I hear it go,
Four paces, heavy and slow,
In the heart of the sleeping jail,
And the goad that drives, I know!

I never saw his face, or heard him speak;
He may be Dutchman, Dago, Yankee, Greek;
But the language of that prison'd step
Too well I know!

Unknown brother of the remorseless bars,
Pent in your cage from earth and sky and stars,
The hunger for lost life that goads you so,
I also know.

Hour by hour, in the cell overhead,
Four footfalls, to and fro,
'Twixt iron wall and barred door,
Back and forth I hear them go,
Four footfalls come and go,
I wake, and listen in the night;
Brother, I know!

BORROWED TROUBLE

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

KATHLEEN was borrowing trouble, which was contrary to Kathleen's philosophy of life. And the situation presented all the puzzling features of a paradox; because, while she was borrowing from an untraversable distance she was yet borrowing from close at hand. For the cause of her solicitude was the total strangers who lived next door.

Kathleen had a trouble of her own, one so deep seated that it never cast a shadow on the sunny surface she presented to the world. For Kathleen was Kathleen O'Dunne instead of Kathleen O'Hara by reason of the havoc wrought by two inflammable Irish tempers and a quarrel that might never be mended because Larry O'Hara was dead. So to Kathleen, widowed in spirit, if not in the letter of the law, a quarrel was the most dreadful menace presented by a world strangely prolific of menaces. And the people next door were quarreling—quarreling by day and night; and because of thin walls and open windows Kathleen knew of it almost in detail.

The baby had done it—at least, that was the way that it seemed. But Kathleen, wiser as the result of much meditation, knew that not the baby but the struggle to live and great weariness of the flesh were at the bottom of the trouble. Kathleen knew, but she could not tell them. She was powerless to avert the tragedy that was impending.

The baby was a four-months-old baby, and there was no denying that he was a bad baby, an accomplished little tyrant. Kathleen, who loved babies would have liked to deny it, but she couldn't. If he had only been a puny baby, or a teething baby or a colicky baby! But he was none of these things. He was a pink and sturdy baby and an outrageously spoiled one, of which facts Kathleen was fully aware, thanks to good eyesight and much anxiety and the aforesaid windows and walls.

Moreover, he was the first-born of his mother, who was past her first youth and "set in her ways." (If, as Kathleen told herself, a mouth was a true indicator.) And from the hour of his advent the rest of the world had faded away beside this wonder of wonders. Meals and cleaning and mending were of minor importance not to be considered at all in comparison with some need or desire of baby's. And being a normal infant, he was quick to learn. His original plaintive whimperings for the attention that he needed developed into imperative yells for the petting and rocking and singing which, for the most part, he needed not at all. And his favorite time for these vocal disturbances was the period between 1 and 4 a. m.

His father's occupation brought him in at 2 a. m., took him out again at 6 and brought him back at 11 for a meal and his longest period of sleep. This schedule was by no means conducive to placidity of temper, even under favorable circumstances. And in the household of Kathleen's new neighbors circumstances were by no means favorable. The irregular meals were obtainable after a fashion, but, thanks to the baby's demands for amusement and attention, sleep had been an unknown luxury for two months.

And the baby was not the first-born of his father. There had been another wife and another baby, the latter now a girl of seven years. Consequently what was to the mother the most marvelous of creatures was to the father just a baby. And the one parent had assured the other that her idol had Satan's own temper, and that he intended to work a reformation even if he had to whip the said idol.

"He's spoilt, spoilt, spoilt! And you did it! And when you spoil a child you make a criminal!" he shouted on one painful occasion at 2 a. m.

For days now the baby's mother had gone about with tightly compressed lips and brooding eyes. That very morning she had swept the diminutive and immaculate yard with three times, glancing back at the house where the father tried to sleep while the baby expressed loudly his complaint against the world. Both Kathleen and she were waiting for that threatened whipping, and both knew that when it happened a Rubicon of one sort or another would be crossed.

Kathleen awoke somewhere in "the silent watches." The baby was, as usual, vociferating his objections to the vacancy and monotony of his life, but, contrary to his habit, he was doing this with a marked diminuendo. Each wail, followed by a sound weird and emphatic, ended in a gasp of amazement. Evidently the promised correction was being administered, and in no perfunctory manner, either.

A woman's agonized voice screamed: "Stop that, you brute!"

A heavy foot was stamped and a man's voice replied, with no hint of contrition: "Leave me! Go back to your people! Take that imp and leave the brute in peace! If I don't get some sleep—"

"I'll go," was the reply, distinctly audible. "In the morning."

And Kathleen, who was a judge of character and knew people and never made mistakes, knew that she would go, and that, having gone, what she called her pride would prevent her return. And Kathleen returned and sobbed into her pillow her grief over the trouble she was borrowing, and which was yet so keenly her own!

If she could only do what nobody had done for her and Larry! If she could only break that awful tension, soften and destroy that atmosphere of resentment that conditions and mistakes had created! Show the man's side to the man! Tears would do it, she knew.

If she could only make them cry it all away! If she could but tell him how yard would look if no tiny, funny garments were ever again to swing from the line therein! If she could but let the woman know of the emptiness of the life that awaited her! And presently Kathleen smiled into the darkness. She knew a way!

Kathleen had one great gift, the gift of song, but of technic she had nothing. The struggle for bread and butter had never abated long enough for her to cultivate her gift, a misfortune which was perhaps not altogether a misfortune after all. But she was supplied with heart and soul and tenderness and understanding so generously that when these spoke through her rich contralto voice every creature within hearing stopped to get that message of good will and hope.

And so, on her side of the wall, she waited, mandolin in hand, playing occasionally, so that what she was about to do would seem, when it happened, accident and not intent. All the morning she had heard from the other side preparations that threatened departure. The father had gone out at 6, as usual, after more blithe words. If he followed his usual program he would be back at 11. But would he come back this time?

Finally Kathleen heard the front door slam behind him, heard him walk heavily through the hall and into the kitchen, heard the baby salute him with the usual wail for attention. Then, standing so close to the wall that her lips almost touched it, she played a few soft chords and began to sing to the man on the other side. What she sang would doubtless not stand among the songs of today, for it was a favorite not of her own girlhood, but of her mother's:

Empty is the cradle, now the baby's gone.

Empty is the cradle ever more.

She finished the last verse and stopped to listen. The ugly sounds that had commenced with the man's entrance had ceased. There was absolute silence for what seemed several minutes. Then the man cleared his throat strenuously several times and made an unsuccessful effort to speak. And Kathleen, very softly so as not to break the spell, struck again a few tender chords and sang to the woman the old Scotch ballad, "Bonnie, Sweet Bessie, the Maid o' Dundee." And when she reached the last verse, which, as every one knows, tells of the death of Bessie's "laddy" and of her loneliness and despair, the singer threw heart and soul and a prayer into the words.

After the soft final chords she listened again breathlessly. Had she shown to the man that empty cradle, to the woman the pathos of the man's empty place? Trembling, she waited through a long, long silence. Then—

"Why, Mary, Mary," she heard the father say, "I wouldn't hurt the kid for the world! I—why—I'm just so tired, Mary, that I'm not myself. You won't take him away—you won't leave me, will you, honey?"

Kathleen heard Mary cross the room in a rush, and she knew, though she could not see, that the tired head had been pillowed on the wife's breast.

"I know, I know," Mary soothed, with a note in her voice that even the baby had never heard. "It's my fault, John; all mine. I know it now. The trouble is I was so glad about the baby that I've never seen you—my own, own lad—since he came. If he cries when you're tryin' to sleep again, I'll—I'll whip him myself. As for leavin' you, why, John—

BACK TO NATURE WITHIN SIX MILES OF 5 POINTS

The "Skipper" and "Uncle Tom" have found the way back to nature within six miles of Five Points. The log cabin, which was used for a gun club, until the gunners took to mistaking golfers for clay pigeons, has been converted into a rerteat where comfort reigns supreme. Only bachelors are admitted, and an iron-clad rule is that everyone keeps his hat o nin hte house. You can even smoke in the best parlor. The dwellers at the log cabin in the pines are really a community in behalf of men's rights. They insist upon comfort as supreme to housekeepign, and upon the appropriateness of a calabash pipe for all occasions.

AS the Skipper says, nobody takes off his hat indoors, and all the chickens hatch out roosters.

The log cabin has electric lights. Primeval pines are in the front yard, and a shower bath in the back. And only bachelors are allowed on the premises.

This retreat is within 100 yards of the club house at East Lake, and only half an hour's ride from the center of the city.

One can leave the artificiality of Five Points, and within thirty minutes be in the midst of nature at the log cabin among the pines.

If this one be a married man, however, he can be admitted only by a violation of the rules in behalf of bachelors.

The motto of this Home of Nature is: comfort instead of housekeeping, and freedom forever.

The Home was established oy the Skipper and by "Uncle Tom," and during the intervening years it has maintained its individuality, even down to the chickens.

The Skipper, when he hails a car and takes his way back from nature to the city, becomes Howard Geldert; and "Uncle Tom" changes to T. S. Brantley. But in the home among the pines they have natural and picturesque names.

THE DISTRESSED GOLFERS.

The log house itself is situated on the north side of Fair street, one block west of East Lake drive. Originally it was built by the Athletic club for a gun club, but owing to the propensity of gunners to mistake golfers for clay pigeons, the sport of shooting was abandoned.

The log house was bought by the Skipper and "Uncle Tom" and was moved to its present location. From being the pest of golfers it became the Home of Nature.

But even yet, the men who golf have little comfort from the home. It is peculiar that golf, like a honeymoon, usually follows Mendelsshon. The game, perhaps, is a sedative to memory.

But it provides such comfort to the dwellers among the pines as they could find nowhere else. The log house is just nature-like enough to provide the freedom and the freshness of the country without going to unnecessary extremes.

The interior has been finished in dark mission and natural pine with red panels above the wainscoting. In this respect it might be a bungalow with a doormat at the front door, another at the back, a hatrack just inside, and tacit sign over the parlor that no smoking was allowed there.

COMFORT WITHOUT PRECISION.

The home throughout has all the comforts, but none of the "precisions" of a residence.

Reaching around all eight sides—it's an eight-sided log house—is a porch upon which the bachelors smoke in the evening and sleep at night. When any one grows sleepy, he knocks the ashes out of his pipe, pulls his cot over to the side of the porch that suits him, and piles in.

That is life.

In the morning each goes out into the back yard for a bracing spray of cold water from the shower bath. A twining vine has been planted round the shower and will grow up within a year. Meantime, the bathers rise early.

Each scrambles his eggs in his own particular way, and catches the 7:30 car for the office. In this manner the bachelors live undisturbed and in communion with nature.

The dwellers at the log house are the Skipper, "Uncle Tom," "Elfie" Fay, Eugene Harrington, Frank Spratlin, Julian Thomas, Walter Dubard, and Walter Mitchell.

Each one of this community is an openair convert, and all are discoverers in the subject of health. They have found that five hours' sleep in the open air is equivalent to eight or nine hours indoors. So, of course, it saves time to live next to nature.

A HEALTH DISCOVERY.

Five hours' sleep, a few minutes with the shower and eggs scrambled after one's own taste, makes life unceasingly healthful and happy.

"Elfie" Fay, who is the most earnest of all the open-air converts, never wears an overcoat, never wears high-up shoes, and sleeps best when the thermometer is below freezing.

He says that no one can enjoy the full pleasures of sleep until he wakes in the morning and brushes the snow off his nose.

Altogether the community has forsaken the artificial ways of the cities, and has returned to the log cabin and the calabash pipe of nature.

Each one smokes a gourd pipe, in the parlor as fearlessly as out-of-doors; uses the best chair for a foot rest if he chooses; and keeps his hat on indoors.

It is an entirely independent community, njoying uninterrupted comfort, and in a way, voicing the protest of mankind against precise housekeeping.

"Uncle Tom" raises roosters, and the Skipper is tending a patch of onions. One hen is now sitting on twenty-eight eggs. The last time she hatched fifteen roosters. This time she expects to do bettter.

The Skipper has great hopes for his onion patch. In the front yard are dainty flowers. But as the Skipper says, they are neither as aromatic nor as utilitarian as his garden patch.

Soon the roosters will be crowing, the onions will be sprouting, and all will be joy.

Four Years' Servitude

YOKOHAMA, Japan, May 17.—Mr. W. A. Wheeler, of the firm of Messrs. Genz, Wheeler & Co., of Leicester, who was arrested some time ago on suspicion of obtaining money under false pretenses, has been sentenced to four years' penal servitude.

The accused was found guilty of being in Japan with the intention to defraud by selling knitting machines of an obsolete pattern in excess of their value, with the ultimate intention of leaving the country, and of having obtained thereby the sum of $50,000. He has appealed against the sentence on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence and also on technical points.

Ate 16 Eggs in 18 Minutes

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON, May 17.—A northeastern railway man named Arthur Messingham, of Hull, ate sixteen eggs at one sitting. He thus won a challenge thrown out by his mates as to how many eggs he could eat. Messingham replied he could eat at least sixteen eggs one after the other without any trouble.

He commenced the meal at 8 o'clock. In eighteen minutes he had eaten the lot and did not feel uncomfortable; in fact, two hours later he quite enjoyed his breakfast. Messingham is a man of about thirty-five years of age, and as his occupation as railway man keeps him continuously in the open air he always has a good appetite.

Treat by a Prince

BERLIN, May 17.—From the profits of his book, "My Indian Hunting Diary," the German crown prince has decided to send 100 Berlin board school children for a seaside holiday.

The children will be lodged for three weeks at the crown prince's expense at the barracks of his Hussar regiment at Langfuhr, Danzig.

Alfonso's Cousin on Stage

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

MADRID, May 17.—King Alfonso is said to be very much annoyed at the intention of his cousin, the Infante Don Louis of Spain to go on the stage. The infante recently made his debut at a charity matinee.

Robber Betrayed

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

ROME, May 17.—Paparoni, the famous Italian brigand chief, has been captured by a squad of carabineers under Lieutenant Ricci. The notorious robber was only released last August after serving seventeen years' penal servitude for brigandage, but a fortnight later he was busy organizing a new marauding band, who over about 100 square miles of territory levied tribute from landlords and farmers. Those who refused had their crops destroyed, their cattle killed and their farm produce plundered.

Paparoni's capture is due to betrayal. Before taking his customary afternoon walk he, for prudence sake, sent out three companions to scout. Lieutenant Ricci, being aware of Paparoni's dodge, let the three musketeers pass. When Paparoni appeared the carabineers pounced on him, bound him in chains from head to foot, and hurried him away between an escort of horsemen to the nearest barracks.

On being searched $1,000 was found on him also a dagger, and ocuments recounting his latest exploits. The greater part of the booty is, he says, safely hidden. Asked what he had to say for himself, Paparoni boldly replied, "the gospel of work is foolish and slavish. heaven forbid I should prove unworthy of my early vocation."

Natives Worship Snakes in a Range of Volcanic Mountains in Darkest Africa

BY W. B. THOMPSON.

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON, May 17.—A range of volcanic mountains in Africa, in a land where the natives worship snakes, was suggested as the possible origin of the old legend of the sources of the Nile, by Captain E. M. Jack, R. E., at a meeting of the Royal Geographical society. Captain Jack was a member of the Anglo-German-Belgian boundary commission, and the mountains he referred to are the Mufumbiro mountains, which are situated in a part of Africa where three empires meet—the British, the German and the Belgian—the frontiers of these three powers joining each other on the rocky and inaccessible summit of Mount Sabinio.

The great volcanic range of Mufumbiro was one of the most striking physical features in Africa, he said, and had a historical romantic interest, in that it might possibly be the origin of the old legends of the sources of the Nile. They all knew the story of the Nile; how its fountains were said to rise in the mountains of the moon, and to flow into some great lakes, and then to form one river. Since the discovery of Ruwenzori that tendency had been to look on it as the origin of the legend; but he thought that these volcanoes had at least an equal claim to be considered. They were famed for miles around, as their name implied, as "the place where there is fire," the mountains that belched forth flame and smoke. These mountains had a profound effect on the native mind, and gave rise to many legends. One of these was that Gongo, a demon who inhabited the range, cut off the head of his wife, represented by the mountain Nina Gongo ("the wife of Gongo"), and threw it into Lake Kivu.

The region was covered almost entirely by a sheet of lava which stretched like a sea as far as the mountains of Rukiga. It had decomposed to a large extent into a soil of great fertility, which was closely cultivated by the natives. This lava was honeycombed with hole sand coverns, which rang hollow under one's feet, and into which probably a great deal of the surface water percolated, accounting for the absence of streams. These caves were put to various uses. One of them was found to be a burying place, bodies being brought on biers and left there. Another formed a water reservoir, to which cattle were brought from many miles around in times of drouth. Many were used as places of hiding and refuge for men and beasts when alarmed or during raids.

Three Atlanta Women Discuss Problem of Debt; Good Housekeeping as Important as Tariff Duties

HOW ma debt be acoided.
W. Woods White, president of the Atlanta Loan and Savings company, last week gave a list of the chief mistakes that lead to debt.

One that he stressed was the failure of women to market as their mothers did.

Three Atlanta women here give their suggestions of the means b which debt may be avoided.

Mrs. Victor H. Kreigshaber urges that wives do their own marketing, and that husbands give them a fixed allowance for household expenses.

Mrs. A. P. Coles advises an allowance for women and a budget system, which will show how all money is spent.

Mrs. John D. Pickett stresses the need of domestic science in the public schools.

BY MRS. VICTOR H. KREIGSHABER.

After I had consented to say something on the subject of home economics I was embarrassed, for I found some difficulty in deciding just what phase of the all-embracing subject to choose.

Those who have given "household economics" any study realizes that domestic science does not mean the making of fancy salads or desserts. It is balanced living. It is an effort to enable a human being to reach a complete development; an effort to lift the home to the same scientific plane that pervades every other business.

The knowing how can reduce the high cost of living more than the tariff.

It can utilize everything and prevent waste.

Home economics does not teach us how to keep house, but how to use or expend the factors of which life itself is made so that the result will be finer, richer, more beautiful living.

The home is the center of all life, woman the conservator of it, and because of this truth, she should study the best method of how to invest her funds of time, energy and money, so as to realize the greatest profits.

In this is the art of right living.

The study is one of values. The home is the center of evertain activities, just as a flower shop is of others. Flowers must be nourished and cared for in certain atmospheres and conditions if they are to blossom into perfect life. For their housing and care money must be expended, and the kind of flower, its place in the social world, its needs, determines how much and what shall be spent.

We find the most progressive women's clubs, also many womgn's colleges are emphasizing the home economics department, and this certainly must make the woman a better homemaker, mother, wife and friend.

SAFEGUARD OF THE HOME.

To the womanly woman there can be nothing more satisfactory than the knowledge that she can conduct the home as it should be conducted. It is becoming more and more patent and important every day that the proper economics of household management are an integral part of the happiness and stability of the home.

Every woman, no matter what her station in life, should have that knowledge born from experience, and the willingness and ability to put it into effect should it become necessary for her to do so. In every successful business one will find the duty of purchasing supplies placed in the hands of one or more responsible heads; never is that privilege accorded to the employes. Why should we not adopt the same method in our home?

Why should we permit ignorant, careless and disinterested servants to purchase our household supplies?

We know in advance that they are not only incompetent to do so, but that we are taken advantage of at every turn. The important detail of the purchase of household supplies is the function of the woman of the house, and not of the servant. Progressive and up-to-date merchants advertise their wares and frequently tempt the housekeeper to special sales. Good housekeepers should watch and take advantage of this when coming from responsible merchants.

I would plead for a greater independence for the housekeeper of today from the pall of exacting and inefficient household help, and this can never be reached unless the woman of the house can show her capacity, willingness and ability against all odds.

Wastefulness is the handmaiden of inefficiency, and to both of these can be attributed a vast majority of the failures in home conservation.

Again, we should apply to our household economics the principles of successful business management. With the weekly income fixed, the frugal and careful housekeeper should always prepare a budget of weekly expense, saving out of that income some amount, no matter how small, to provide for any extra expense, such as entertainment, sickness or other unforeseen contingencies which always mean extra expenditures. Operate the home on a cash basis.

If the man of the home does not appreciate what it means, impress it upon him by actual demonstration that his hard-earned dollar will produce from 10 to 30 per cent more in cash purchases that are needful than supplies purchased on a charge basis, which is always more or less conducive to the purchase of more than is actually needed, simply because it is charged.

The foundation of wealth lies in the conservation of small things. The whole fabric of household economics is built along this line. There are many splendid books on the subject available, and nothing can be of greater consequence for the homemaker than to study and acquaint herself with that information upon which so much of the happiness of home and family depend.

BY MRS. A. P. COLES.

WHAT can a woman do to share the burden and lighten the responsibility of the man who furnishes the family income? This is a vital question and something every woman should like to know. It is not enough that she tries to manage and save here and yonder. There must be a system in the proper administration of a household just as in the larger affairs of a city or state. I believe the budget system would solve many of the financial tangles, and the burden of responsibility be materially lightened if it were tried in our own private affairs.

In the first place the housewife must be given a stated amount each month that she can absolutely depend upon. Let her have her own bank account and manage it herself, then she can go intelligently to work to make up the household budgot. Of course every man, in this enlightened age, gives his wife a personal income, add to this whatever may be spared for the household and let her provide, so much for servants, so much for food, fuel, etc.

There is nothing which so quickly teaches the true value of money as to live within a certain income. Many women feel that a man can manage to get almost anything if he really wants to; and if he does not provide liberally for his family he is penurious and mean spirited. That is because so many men try to shield the wife by concealing from her the true state of the family income. That is not true kindness to her. Let her know just what the resources are and see how quickly she will learn to regulate the spending, cut out something not really necessary here to spend more judiciously yonder.

I know of nothing which gives a woman keener insight into a man's difficult problem of how to meet the "high cost of living" than to take her portion of the money and try to make it go just a little further than he did. And it will certainly create within her a much higher appreciation of his ability and self sacrifice than she ever dreamed of before she learned the real purchasing power of a dollar and how varied and numerous are the calls upon his resources.

BY MRS. JOHN D. PICKETT.
Chairman Woman's Board of Visitors to the Atlanta Public Schools.

THE need of domestic science in our school system is imperative. The knowledge of home-making and home-keeping ranks with that of literature, language and science, and should take its proper place in the daily progress of the school girl.

The course is always given under a skilled scientific instructor, the best of facilities and materials are provided, and cleanliness, accuracy, food values, all become familiar through practice, and the daily "line upon line, precept upon precept."

This has been fully worked out and proved a success in schools all over the country, and in no way does it interfere with the literary and scies- have installed the course and actific curriculum. Several Georgia cities knowledge the great benefits resulting, and the Atlanta schools must not be longer lacking in this most necessary department.

PLAN IS ENDORSED.

The superintendent of our schools has suggested and endorsed its adoption and has also endorsed it before the finance committee of the city council, the Women's Board of Visitors to the Public Schools has recommended the plan, and hopes for its adoption.

The first equipment cost is not great, and the yearly expense of teacher's salary and materials is small indeed in comparison with the necessity of such instruction.

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S NEED.

In this day of the servant problem, every housekeeper needs the feeling of security which coms from actually knowing how to do things, so that she may be able to meet all conditions which arise with assurance and poise, whether it be guiding a force of skilled servants, teaching incompetent ones, or doing the service herself, which last is a burden much lightened, and even made pleasant, by knowing the best method of making home a comfortable, livable place all the time.

The opportunity to become scientific housekeppers (and we all are trying to -each the mark through experience—sometimes a hard teacher), should be afforded girls during their high school years, so that their commencement days will find them really fitted to practically apply all the knowledge gained at school and enable them to fit easily and smoothly into whatever lines their lives may run.

ROME, May 17.—The king of Italy has adoped a time-saving method of bestowing honors, in the form of decorations, on his subjects. He signs a document, which states that the recipient may "consider yourself decorated." This, of colrse, dispenses with a great deal of ceremony, but it would hardly do for all occasions, as, for instance, in the case of lovers. Consider yourself kissed is all very well for those who do not like it. Then we must not forget that some fair damsels allow themselves to be kissed for a consideration—and here one loses all idea of proportion.

THE COST OF LIVING

BY WALT MASON

"I read an article in the Weekly Mail today," announced the landlady, "and it opened my eyes. It showed how the necessities of life cost twice, or even three times as much as they cost twenty-five years ago. Then you could buy a pound of butter for 15 cents, a chicken for a quarter, and a dozen eggs for 12 cents. There must have been some money in running a boarding house in those days."

"Yet the landladies of that period spent as much time at the wailing place as do the landladies of the present day," said the star boarder. "They accumulated wealth no faster, my dear Mrs. Jiggers. They went broke just as frequently. So there must be something wrong with the logic of the situation. Wherever I go I hear people discussing the eternal question—the high cost of living. Ever and anon I butt into such discussions myself, insisting that the administration should be tarred and feathered, or that there should be a general lynching in Wall street, but when I sit down in my own magnificent apartment and commune with Psyche, my soul, I am forced to admit that the high cost of living is doing nobody an injury.

"When you reflect without prejudice upon your surroundings you realize how wonderfully things adjust themselves to each other. It is true that things cost more today than they cost twenty-five years ago. And the answer is that we have more money to buy things at their increase cost, so there is no reason why we shouldn't dance and sing. Twenty-five years ago, Mrs. Jiggers, I was a young man, beautiful as the morning, virtuous and accomplished. I was then uncontaminated by the sordid atmosphere of boarding houses, where landladies demand cash in advance. I had rosseate dreams in those days, dreams of a useful and honored career as a sturdy yeoman. I bought eight acres of land on time and built a little house on it, and took my aunt along as housekeeper and settled down to break the stubborn glebe.

"I shudder even now when I recall how I worked on that farm. I was up with the birds in the morning and toiled straight ahead until late in the evening. I had hens of all kinds and real cows, and on a Saturday my aunt and I would drive to town, which was seven miles away, and trade eggs and butter and other products for tobacco and sugar and other necessaries. We got such prices as you have quoted, Mrs. Jiggers, and a man had to turn in about a wagonload of eggs to get a pair of blue overalls. Most of the farmers were as sad as I was, and when our marketing was over we used to hold indignation meetings in the alleys and pass ringing resolutions touching cars of juggernaut and hyraheaded monsters.

"I recall distinctly that there was as much bitterness then as there is now. The toiling husbandmen seldom saw the color of real money. They had to take everything in trade, and when they went to church on Sunday they dropped eggs in the contribution box. I can't remember that anybody was particularly happy because of these low prices. The grocers who took our produce were a despondent set of men. Their stores were shabby and ill favored, far different from the palaces of trade in which we now do our Christmas shopping early. The town people, who bought the butter and eggs and things from the grocers, had as much trouble on their minds as the town people of this generation. They found it just as hard to pay their bills.

"The only cash the farmer in those days got hold of was for his corn or hogs, and then he got so little that he cried all the way home. Nowadays the farmer comes to town in an automobile and gets cash for anything he has to sell, and then he takes the cash and goes to the clothier, the hardware man, the undertaker and buys things as he needs and pays for them. So his money goes into the channels of trade, of which channels you have heard, Mrs. Jiggers.

"I saw so much of the low cost of living in those days that I am entirely reconciled to the high cost of the present. I'd rather pay 10 cents for a good cigar than smoke mullein leaves in a corncob pipe, as I used to do in the halcyon days, when everything was cheap. I'd rather pay the extortionate price you demand for table board, Mrs. Jiggers, than fill myself with raw turnips, as in the golden days. So let us sample the blanc mange and be as happy as we can."

OUR DAILY DRINKS.

"I've just received a shipment of the finest tea ever seen in this part of the country," said the grocer. "If I thought you'd ever pay for it I'd urge you to buy a pound, for it's really grand. I took some home yesterday and sampled it and it made me feel so good that I told my wife to go and buy herself a new dress."

"I don't want any of your doggone tea at any price," growled the colonel. "It's made of mullein leaves and leather findings and would corrode the insides of any consumer. I've been told by competent authorities that it's impossible to buy first-class tea in this country. The Chinese don't ship their good tea to the United States. They keep it for themselves, and then ship any old weeds to America, and the wholesalers dope these weeds with prussic acid and copperas. I have heard doctors say that the worst drink people can take is this doped tea. It gives them the everlasting jumps and all sorts of nervous diseases, and sends them to untimely graves.

"It seems a queer thing to me that people will swallow all these deadly drinks, knowing them to be deadly, and pay for the privilege. To my notion, coffee is the finest of all manufactured beverages. A cup of good coffee makes a man imagine he is a 3-year-old and impels him to elope with his wife's cousin. But coffee is a mankiller. The chemists say it contains tannin and nicotine and 40 other deadly poisons. Every man who reads the health hints in the newspapers and magazines knows that coffee is as dangerous as gasoline; yet people go ahead drinking it two or three times a day until they are mental and physical wrecks, and then along comes Woods Hutchinson or some other great and good syndicate doctor and points the finger of scorn.

"If there is one fact well known in this country it is that alcohol is about the worst stuff you can saturate your system with. We don't need to consult the chemists or scientists for information on this head. Any man who has poured down a few pints knows what it did to him. Yet people go ahead paying out their hard-earned money for the 57 varieties of nose paint. When I was young I lived in the back settlements—"

"They were the only settlements you ever had anything to do with," complained the grocer. "A settlement of your back account is the kind I'd be interested in."

"Go and soak your head! You're getting more alecky every day. No wonder your moldy old store is deserted most of the time, since you make a practice of insulting your best customers. When a distinguished veteran condescends to come in here and talk sense for awhile you should feel honored.

"As I was saying, in my younger days water was the standard drink. The old oaken bucket that hung in the well was a condition and not a theory then. Nowadays even the temperance people have to have machine made drinks. They line up at the soda fountain and fill themselves with fizz, or they buy bottled germ killers of one sort or another. When they go out lecturing they talk about the virtues of Adam's ale, and whoop it up for the babbling brook, and when they get hoarse they take four fingers of something they bought at the drug store. Plain water, the good, old unadulterated water that grew whiskers on our fathers, is out of date.

"There isn't a drink in the world as wholesome as water, but it's so doggone cheap that nobody wants it. People will use water when they can buy it in bottles, but not otherwise. They buy distilled water, and granulated water, and shredded water, and water that was bottled at somebody's springs, but they have no use for the plain, uncooked water that grows in the well. We're always talking about the high cost of living, and when talking on that theme makes us dry we go to somebody's joint and call for a flagon of something with gas in it, instead of taking a fall out of the village pump. Man is an awful chump, taking him by and large. Knowing that water is the only drink that will prolong his life, he persists in filling himself with poisons, and while still young he goes to his long account—"

"Speaking of long accounts, colonel," interrupted the grocer, "yours is much longer than there is any excuse for. If you can't pay it all at once, why not pay what you can?"

The colonel rose and left the store with great dignity.

HOW TO USE THE FIGURED REMNANT

WHEN a remnant of figured fabric looms on your shopping horizon, don't steer away from it for if ever there were opportunities for using figured materials in all lengths, this summer is the time. Paris has adopted the remnant as a useful and beautiful idea in dress construction. It has shown in its newest ideas that no figured fabric is too short, too narrow or too irregular to be used. The array before you shows how successfully a piece of material can be made to play a decorative role on summer dresses.

The little girl standing with her grown-up sister wears a dress of heavy white pique. There are dropped armholes, and a side fastening under a double row of buttons held together by loops of washable cord. The scalloped collar, cuffs and underhem are of flowered linen, cut in curved lines on the edge and bound with linen tape. Any color in linen or pique would look well with a colored flowered trimming. This idea can be followed out with any striped or checked material in combination with plain.

A sash of figured silk in shades of mauve, tan and black is made of remnant of goods and successfully decorates the simple frock of natural-colored pongee. This has a side fastening and a surplice line bound by a bias stitched band. A wired lace ruff hints of a Medici collar. Long sleeves have narrow cuffs of lace. The figured girdle is of the gipsy type, winding around the waist and tying low down on one hip, with ends hanging to the edge of the pointed overskirt.

In the next model a very unusual combination of pink pongee and figured blue foulard is shown. The bodice and skirt are plain, with comfortable fullness. The sleeves are long fitted and have bell-shaped cuffs. A line of buttons extends up to the elbow. Around the waist is a deep sash, tied at the side. The upper line of the bodice is edged with a frill of lace.

In a modified Russian tunic of figured mousseline de soie the remnant idea receives beautiful exploitation. It is sleeveless and has a round top. The peplum is pointed down at each side and fullness in bodice and peplum insures good wearing qualities. Black satin forms the underdress. The underskirt is pleated, a new idea which it would be well to keep in mind.

Figured lawn is combined with plain blue lawn. The blue-and-white design is used for the upper bodice and sleeves and forms the underskirt. Plain material forms points on the blouse and a full, slashed tunic. Sleeves of fine white mull show decided fullness. Through buttonholed slots black velvet ribbon is run and tied in a bow.

In the little girl's frock there is decided simplicity of line. Figured dimity and plain pink dimity are combined. Pointed cuffs form points on the short sleeves. The underskirt is of pleated figured goods. Over this falls the plain smock, gathered at the top into beading, run with a dark blue velvet ribbon. This beading edges the sleeves also.

The hat uses a strip of figured dimity that encircles the crown of a dark blue milan straw. Wired loops stand up in front.

The collar is shallow in front and a sailor collar at the back. Dropped armholes are again used, and straight bands of figured goods extend from the pointed flap of material, which is button trimmed. The little tunic is edged with a broad band of flowered linen. A pleated underskirt brings the frock down to the knees. It is edged with a narrow band of plain pink.

The exquisite designs purchasable these days give great decorative power to the home dressmaker. With figured material very little ornamentation is required. The remnant is one of the greatest friends in the dressmaking world. Remember that contrast produces beautiful effects and the scope is unlimited. The possibility is as wide as you wish, and from the tiniest tot to her largest aunt the figured fabric will be used in alliance with plain material. Paris is using it in this way. Why not you?

Footwear for All Hours

IF A smart tailored suit be not completed by good-looking and appropriate shoes, the flaw is unpardonable and the result apparent to the most casual observer. If attention be not given to the afternoon gown down to the ground—and that means the boots—the tout ensemble will lose in its beauty and style. The appropriate footwear is just as important as the correct hat. When we consider how often and how prominently the feet come into view, is there any surprise at the emphasis that well-dressed women lay on boots, shoes and slippers for all hours?

Gunmetal calf with an oxidized silver buckle is presented in a smart pump that is particularly suitable just now for a house and street shoe, and should appeal to those in mourning. Pumps by the way, are cut high at the back and no longer slip at the heel in the distressing manner of a few seasons ago. If they should do this, a piece of suede, chamois or velvet pasted at the inside of the back will remedy the fault. The square colonial tongue is used on all new pumps, above the vamp, enamel or leather buckle.

If you must go out on the shopping tour or to business, the tan calf storm shoe or oxford offers stylish comfort. It is waterproof, very soft in quality, and its extended cork soles offer immunity from colds.

White buckskin oxfords and rubber-soled tennis shoes are being worn for afternoon frocks, being essentially for rough wear. They are worn with tailor suits or long sporting coats.

For dress wear the suede-topped patent leather shoes and white buckskin are shown. The former can be gray, or any color to match the afternoon costume. Buttons can be pearl or colored, and you must remember that the line of buttoning must not be destroyed. If alterations be required, get a wider size and keep the line that the manufacturer has given to the stylish top.

The contrasting top is again exploited in an oxford gray cloth upper on the dull calf vamp. This pair of shoes offers a smart and practical combination in the buttoned style which will complete a tailored costume of linen or cloth to the satisfaction of the wearer. Other tops are of cheviots, checked and striped cloths, and if you have shoes made to your order the material of your tailored suit can be used to give a charming completeness to the costume.

In tan leather and brown cloth is another favorite model for traveling that is suitable for afternoon wear with brown, tan or mixed suits.

Paris has adopted the fancy buckle of cut steel for its favorite trimming on the satin or patent leather slipper. Of course, in the up-draped skirts for evening this ornamentation fills in the space to a modistic satisfaction.

Rhinestones on black satin are particularly favored for evening. The top of the slipper is outlined, and the buckle makes the brilliant assurance doubly sure. Jewels of any other color can be used to carry out the idea of the evening gown.

The demands of every hour have been met with a gratifying answer in the models for footwear. Variety insures a successful change and a fitness of attire that always have pleasing results. Here are the favorites. Which one will you choose?

FRENCH FASHION NOTES

PARIS, May 8.

THIS is a delightful season in Paris; those who hastened to the Riviera during the winter months are equally anxious to return for the races and the many social events planned by the leaders of society.

At a tea given recently in one of the lovely homes on the Faubourg St. Honore many handsome costumes were worn, and among them was an especially smart Paquin model of blue crepe charmeuse, heavy cream lace and Persian embroidery. The bodice was softly gathered in vertical lines down the front, and an oddly shaped vest of the Persian embroidery formed a peplum below the waist line. The V-shaped opening at the neck was finished with a flat collar of lace, and the long, close-fitting sleeves had puffed insets of lace at the elbows. Over the draped underskirt was arranged a pannier overskirt, laced up the side front with black velvet ribbon.

A small flat hat of blue hamp, with a puffed crown of chiffon in a Persian design and adorned with a blue feather at the back, completed this costume.

Another chic toilette was developed of soft satin in an old-ivory tone. The sleeves and upper portion of the bodice were formed of chiffon gathered into a bib-shaped corsage ornament of embroidered satin. The two-tiered skirt had wide bands of the embroidery finishing each section. A girdle of dull blue satin with sash ends defined the normal waist line. With this gown was worn a tricorne hat of blue milan straw, with a fantasie of blue paradise plumage ornamenting the side.

Street costumes of silk are accepted by the smart Parisienne, and were much in evidence at Longchamps Sunday. Many of these had the short bolero jackets and the new style skirt. This latter has a deep set-on hem finished with stitching or a narrow piping and is softly gathered about the waist or finely tucked in vertical lines.

Putty-colored ottoman silk is effectively used to fashion a suit of this variety, and the bolero jacket has as its only trimming ivory ball buttons.

Another smart model of white cloth, made with an oddly shaped jacket, has the collar and cuffs of lemon-yellow moire.

With a plain skirt of black-and-white checked material is worn a coat of emerald-green cloth fastened with silver buttons.

The well-selected summer wardrobe must contain one of the fascinating separate wraps of brocaded silk, wool or cotton material. These appear in many designs, but the majority are three-quarter in length. The fullness is drawn in about the knees, and the one-button clasp is favored.

Mikado-blue brocaded eponge is used for a lovely wrap, and the only trimming consists of covered buttons. Moire and silk crepe are also extensively used for these wraps.

The milliners daily launch new and artistic pieces of headgear to tempt milady to loosen her pursestrings.

Georgette has a new model of saffron-yellow straw, with a low bowl-shaped crown and flat brim. The crown is wreathed with a garland formed of tiny yellow flowers tied with bows of green moire ribbon.

Frills of pleated tulle appear on many dainty garden-party hats of leghorn.

Another pretty model of leghorn had the bowl-shaped crown entirely covered with narrow pleated frills of pink mateline. Two large pink roses are caught on either side of the wide brim.

Another model of leghorn has a double ruching of pale blue maline caught about the crown with a band of pink ribbon with a picot edge. One pink rose adorns the side.

The summer evening gown is very colorful, and Drecoll shows a charming model of pale green brocade. A tunic of verdigris lace, shaped like a fish's tail at the back and draped in front, contributes a most unusual touch to this gown. The shoulders are veiled with pale green chiffon bordered with a single strand of brilliants.

An exquisite creation of mauve and rose-colored chiffon has a broad girdle of metallic lace lined with mauve and deep rose-colored satin. The shoulders and decolletage are veiled with malins in the same tones.

Crepon is much used for the little summer frocks, and these are trimmed with lace or hand embroidered in colors.

Tussore is frequently allied with crepon to form bolero jackets with long square-cut tails at the back.

Flowered crepe de chine and taffeta are used to fashion the long tunic basques which hang a little full. Most of the silk has a cream background with bunches of vivid flowers scattered over it.

A lovely bridesmaid's gown is developed of ecru mousseline de soie, made with a draped skirt and trimmed with lace of the same color. The bodice is of brocaded crepe de chine, and has the collar, cuffs and buttons of coral-colored satin.

Blouses of white and ecru pongee are trimmed with etamine embroidered with bright-colored wools in flower designs.

A lingerie blouse of sheerest linen has a vest effect of pleated tulle fastened with small pearl buttons.

Bright pink linen is used for a tailored blouse, and the flat collar is finished with a jabot of cream lace.

Little girls' bonnets are made of flowered crepon or mousseline de soie. The latter material, white with a pink flower design, is shirred over a foundation of rose-colored silk to fashion one pretty model.

The newest girdle is fashioned of two strips of folded satin or velvet, and is crossed in front, the ends terminating on the corsage in two flat bows or buckles.

Silk slips and petticoats to wear beneath lingerie gowns have deep flounces of lace, stitched with very little fullness, adorning the hem.

The Parisian jewelers are displaying hatpins with extremely small heads. They are usually formed of a pearl surrounded with brilliants, and never exceed the size of a pea.

Sashes for the summer frock of sheer material are fashioned of satin taffeta or ribbon. The long ends are finished with fringe, beads, ribbon flowers or embroidery.

A very pretty parasol is covered with five one-inch ruffles of taffeta with the edges pinked.

The smart headdress for evening wear consists of a narrow band of jewels worn low on the forehead and decorated at the side with a cluster of paradise, ostrich or osprey plumage.

In the evening coiffure of any description is worn platinum-topped hairpins studded with jewels.

Ribbon bands embroidered with brilliant colors are used on many small hats designed for street wear. Heavy white crepon is used for many frocks for children. These are trimmed with embroidered bands done in scarlet, blue, pink or a combination of colors.

Lingerie frocks are of eyelet embroidery, made over a foundation of colored linen of a sheer quality.

Wraps of moire, satin, faille or poplin are trimmed with metallic laces.

A manteau of coral-colored satin has the collar and cuffs of gold lace. Another wrap, of three-quarter length, developed of black satin has deep fringe at the bottom. Violet moire silk forms the collar and cuffs.

The latest gloves of white glace kid have diamond-shaped insets of pale blue, pink or tan kid at the top. For afternoon wear the white gloves are heavily embroidered with black. Colored gloves have returned to favor and with the costume of white will be worn brilliant red gloves stitched with white or black. White gloves stitched with red will also be worn.

The garden hat of the smart Parisienne is a large, floppy leghorn with its broad brim covered with colored net or chiffon. Large roses and natter-blue ribbon form the artistic trimming.

Many of the large picture hats have broad streamers of ribbon or narrow bands of velvet, satin flowers or tulle passing beneath the chin. The velvet or tulle is tied in a smart little bow at the side.

A pleated frill of lace borders the veils of plain or dotted net. Needless to add, these are not drawn tightly about the face, but fall in straight lines from the brim of the hat.

A new feature on skirts is the pointed front panel, which terminates in a long tassel of silk or chenille.

The scarf of white tulle with tasseled ends is numbered among fashion's latest conceptions. It forms a billowy lightness about the face which is extremely becoming.

The ruff of pleated tulle is another fashionable accessory and appears in many combinations of color. Mauve and blue, red and blue and violet and cerise are more generally accepted.

The very newest handbags are long and narrow, and are a larger edition of the envelope bag. Leather of a soft, flexible variety is utilized to fashion the purses, and they are lined with colored moire.

ELOISE.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

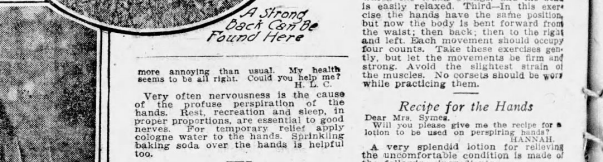
By Mrs. HENRY SYMES

FOUND IN A GARDEN

Rest and Breathe Deeply

The Hoe Gives Good Digestion

Wield the Rake for Plump Arms



A Strong Back Can Be Found Here

This Strengthens the Legs

"WHERE can I find health and strength?" sighed a young woman who was slowly recovering from a severe illness. "How can I find strength without going away to some expensive resort of sanatorium?"

This little woman lived in the suburbs of a large city. Her home had with it a small garden, where a brother raised vegetables and her mother tended the flowers, so I told her to put a big apron over her pretty frock and go out and dig in the garden.

"But I am troubled so with indigestion. I'm afraid it will make me feel worse if I exercise in that way."

"You are wrong there, my dear," I made reply. "If you will take the hoe and loosen the earth around the potato plants for ten minutes, you will find the oppression caused by indigestion quite relieved."

And so she would.

Regular exercise gained by hoeing gives work to the muscles surrounding the stomach and helps to throw off the gas that collects in that organ from undigested food, and thus relieves pain, besides stimulating the circulation, which, in turn, aids proper digestion.

If, as well, however, after using a hoe vigorously for ten minutes to rest a while, fatigue caused in this way can be relieved by standing straight and placing the long handle of the hoe across the back of the shoulders and turning the arms about it to hold the body and back in a perfectly erect position. Stretch the arms, still holding the handle, far up above the head.

Learn the value of resting and deep breathing while at work in the garden. It is a lesson which will add much to the benefits found there.

Wielding a rake will give the arms just the proper exercise to make them plump and strong. The muscles will receive exercise that you cannot give them otherwise, and will profit by it. Don't be afraid to get out and rake up the grass or leaves in your garden; it will give you strength, poise and a good deal of real pleasure if you do not work too hard.

But perhaps the garden is choked with weeds. Pull them up. By all means get them out, root and branch.

Bending over and straightening up will tire you at first, of course, but soon you will begin to feel the benefits of your work, for the muscles of your back and hips will be strengthened, while the hips will be reduced in size if they are too large, and the back made strong and straight.

Rest frequently, at first working gradually, so that you will be able in a short time to work for a half hour or more without stopping to rest.

Did I say "dig in the garden"? Very well, dig. Do it with a spade, and be sure to push the spade into the earth by pressing upon its top with the foot, thrusting the blade of the spade into the soft earth in that way.

This strengthens the leg muscles, hips, ankles and the muscles of the feet. You will laugh at your weakness at first. But strength will come. In fact, digging with a spade brings into play almost all the larger muscles of the body, developing and strengthening them in a remarkable degree.

All the while you are in the pure out-of-door air, filling your lungs with health-giving oxygen and finding good health and strength while employed in enjoyable work.

The little woman I spoke of first did it, and what has been done, can be done again.

Get out in your gardens, all you women, who are weak and ailing, and see the roses come to your cheeks and the brightness of health to your eyes.

Find health and strength in your gardens.

ADVICE ON SOCIAL CUSTOMS

Mrs. Chesta Adams
most cordially invites her friends to bring to her Miss Social Problems and Perplexities by letter at any time

THE WEDDING EXPENSES

WITH very few exceptions, the expenses of a wedding are met by the parents of the bride, or by the bride herself if she be an orphan.

The parents pay for the bride's trousseau. They also meet the expenses of engraving the invitations, announcements and cards, with the mailing of them. The cost of music at a church during the wedding, the decorations at both church and home, the awning at the door and the servant at the church door are met by the parents. They pay for the carriages that take the bridesmaids and bride to the church and for any reception or breakfast afterward.

If you have not a great amount of money, it is foolish to make an expensive display in the form of a large formal wedding. Indeed, the tendency is apparent among many sensible people to make the ceremony simple and unpretentious. Unpaid bills and useless expenses are not a good beginning for a married couple. A wedding that entails sacrifice and hard work on the part of the parents should never be.

It is now no longer incumbent on the parents of the bride to provide her with her household linens.

This is an old custom and is observed as much as it is ignored. Marking on the contents of the linen chest, if this be provided, is in the form of initial or monogram of the unmarried name of the bride.

If a bride lives in the country, far from a railroad station, the parents pay for a bus or for station wagons which meet guests and convey them to the home. These should also be engaged to take the guests back to the station.

Guests in the vicinity are expected to provide their own carriages. A very thoughtful provision is the arrangement to carry the groom, if he be not a country resident, to the church; also the bride and groom to the train after the reception.

The groom has a few expenses to meet. He should fee the clergyman for officiating. The best man usually attends to this and the fee should not be less than $5.00. In fashionable society, $25.00 is considered the minimum fee.

The groom should also fee the sexton of the church. He pays for the bride's bouquet, the bouquets of the bridesmaids and the boutonnières of the ushers. He sends carriages for the ushers and provides a carriage for himself and the best man. He also pays for a carriage to take himself and wife after the ceremony. If the best man and groom have come from another city, the groom is entitled to play the host and to pay for the expenses of both. This is not obligatory and is generally not permitted by the best man.

Of course, the little souvenirs given at the farewell dinners of both bride and groom are paid for by each respectively. These are sent the day before the wedding by messengers if no special entertainment is given.

SOLUTIONS TO SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Chairs in the Dancing Hall

DEAR Mrs. Adams.

A few friends are giving a dance and should like to know if it is necessary to have chairs in the dancing hall which we have hired.

H. D.

Chairs of the light folding variety may be provided. They should be placed close against the walls.

Gloves in the Theater

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Should a woman remove her long gloves when in the theater?

ANXIOUS.

The Time to Remain

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Will you kindly tell me how long a guest should remain when attending a formal reception?

A guest can usually discharge all social obligations in twenty minutes, of course, every guest has the privilege of deciding how long she shall remain.

Acknowledging Gifts

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Will you kindly publish a form which a bride may use in acknowledging the receipt of wedding gifts? Some of the senders are friends of her husband's whom she has never met. In writing to married couples is it necessary to address the letter to both husband and wife, or should it be written to the husband alone? Is it proper for the bride to sign her husband's name as well as her own?

PERPLEXED.

Of course, it will be impossible for the bride to send the same letter form to each person—her relations with each sender must be taken into consideration. However, here is an example which may help her:

16 Tree Street,
June 10, 1913.

Dear Miss White,

Your charming gift has arrived and I cannot tell you how pleased I am at the kind remembrance. I am the fortunate recipient of many beautiful gifts, but of none more highly prized than yours.

With sincerest thanks, believe me,
Sincerely, etc.

When a husband and wife have sent a gift the acknowledgment of same should be addressed to the wife. In turn, the recipient should ask that her thanks be extended to the husband. It is not proper for the husband to sign his name to the notes sent by his wife. The latter may express her husband's appreciation in her note.

In Mourning

Dear Mrs. Adams.

I have been in mourning for three weeks for my mother. Please tell me if I may call informally on my friends.

A READER.

Yes.

Shaking Hands

Dear Mrs. Adams.

A friend of mine and her husband are going to allow me to hold our wedding reception at their home. Should they receive the guests as they arrive, and should the guests shake hands with them, or how should they do so with us?

DOUBT.

Your friend, assisted by her husband, should receive the guests, who should shake hands with them and then with the bride and groom.

A Widow's Invitations

Dear Mrs. Adams.

I am a widow and expect to be married soon. I have no near relatives to issue my invitations, so I write if I may do so myself. If so, what form should be used?

GRATEFUL.

Your invitations may be issued in this form:

The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of Mrs. Mary Bennett White
to
Mr. John Gray Pemberton on Wednesday afternoon, July the fifth at four o'clock
Church of the Redeemer.

The Soup Spoon

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Please tell me if, when serving soup the spoon should be placed on the plate beneath the soup dish.

M. W. T.

The spoon should not be placed on the plate. Let it rest on the table along with the other utensils.

Permission Not Given

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Three friends have asked permission of a young woman to call on her and each has been refused. Should I take this as a final refusal or try again?

TRY.

Refrain from asking permission again, and if the woman was sincerely unable to grant you the privilege on the date mentioned and is willing to have you call on her, she will, no doubt, write you a note, asking you to call on her. You may have unfortunately suggested times when she had other engagements.

Acknowledging Gifts

Dear Mrs. Adams.

Will you kindly publish a form which a bride may use in acknowledging the receipt of wedding gifts? Some of the senders are friends of her husband's whom she has never met. In writing to married couples is it necessary to address the letter to both husband and wife, or should it be written to the husband alone? Is it proper for the bride to sign her husband's name as well as her own?

PERPLEXED.

Of course, every guest has the privilege of deciding how long she shall remain.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUERIES

REPLIES to letters sent to the writer of this department will be printed in regular order; but no replies in print may be expected in less than three or four weeks.

Correspondents desiring immediate replies to queries may get them by inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Personal inquiries will receive prompt attention if accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Decayed Teeth

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you kindly tell me how I can reduce the bust?

ANNA R.

Dieting and vigorous exercising will reduce the bust, but they will also have the same effect on the rest of the body. However, they are the safest measures to take. Do not overeat and never take any food between meals. Avoid all starchy and sweetened food, all cereals, vegetables containing sugar or starch, such as peas, beans, corn, potatoes, etc. Have your bread toasted; sprinkle it with salt instead of using butter. Milk, I regret to say, if it be pure and good, is fattening. Skimmed milk may be drunk. Hot water is an excellent substitute for other liquids. Add a little of the juice of limes or lemons to it, if you choose. Limit your sleeping hours to seven at the outside. No naps. You must take exercise.

If you cannot walk at least five miles a day, go to one of the institutions where mechanical massage is given. Several of my correspondents report excellent results from this method of getting the vigorous exercise they require. The system is thoroughly wholesome and not expensive. In reducing flesh, one fact to recollect is that fat is carbon. You must consume the carbon by the oxygen you take through your lungs. The more exercise, the more oxygen and consequent destruction of fat by the one healthful method of curing obesity.

The more starch and sugar you eat, the more carbon to burn away.

For the Nose

Dear Mrs. Symes.

I am a constant reader of your columns and wish you would kindly give me the recipe for curing a red nose.

HOMELY.

The reply given to S. A. P., whose letter appears on this page, will apply to your case.

A Red Nose

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please tell me what to do for a red nose? I do not drink alcoholic liquors.

S. A. P.

A very common cause of a red nose is indigestion. Of course, the cause must be removed before there is any improvement in the nose. For local treatment I advise you to apply a lotion made of:

Powdered calamine	1 dram
Zinc oxide	30 grains
Glycerin	½ dram
Cherry laurel water	4 ounces

This lotion should be well shaken before it is mopped on the nose. It may be used both morning and evening.

To Whiten the Teeth

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you kindly advise me what will whiten the teeth? What is best for cleaning the teeth?

A READER.

Equal parts of peroxide and water used occasionally on the teeth will whiten them. Following is the recipe for a very good powder which you may use to cleanse them:

Tooth Powder

Precipitated chalk	4 ounces
Powdered orris root	4 ounces
Powdered camphor	1 ounce

Triturate the camphor in a mortar, moistening it with a very little alcohol. Add other ingredients. Mix thoroughly and sift through a fine bolting cloth.

Perspiring Hands

Dear Mrs. Symes.

My hands perspire too freely. It is a constant source of embarrassment to me. In fact, I never want to shake hands with any one for that reason. At dances it is more annoying than usual. My health seems to be all right. Could you help me?

H. L. C.

Very often nervousness is the cause of the profuse perspiration of the hands. Rest, recreation and sleep, in proper proportions, are essential to good nerves. For temporary relief apply cologne water to the hands. Sprinkling baking soda over the hands is helpful too.

Thin, Dry Hair

Dear Mrs. Symes.

1. I should like you to give me some advice about my hair. It is very dry and thin. I have used castor oil and vaseline on the scalp, but these have made my hair duller. How can I get curly hair?

2. What can I do to remove blackheads?

3. Please tell me what will increase my weight.

4. What can I do for my nose? It discharges water all the time, and rubbers me very much.

ABERDEEN.

1. The constant application of oil is apt to make the hair darker, so instead of using either of the tonics you mention I advise you to apply the one for which I am giving the recipe. Be sure to massage the scalp and brush the hair thoroughly every day. This is quite as necessary as the tonic.

Hair Tonic

Resorcin	3 drams
Tincture of cantharides	1 ounce
Oil thiol	1 dram
Oil rosemary	10 drops
Bay rum, add sufficient to make	8 ounces

2. To rid the pores of blackheads you must use soap, water and cream liberally every day. It is also necessary to exercise for at least an hour daily in the fresh air.

Until your skin is cleared of the blemishes you should not eat rich foods. Avoid fried meats and vegetables, candy, ice cream, cake and highly spiced foods. Green vegetables, fresh fruit should form the greater part of your menu every meal.

3. To increase your weight take a tablespoonful of olive oil after every meal. Do not attempt to get eight or nine hours' rest out of every twenty-four. Do not worry and fret about matters. This uneasiness of mind is a sure way to prevent you from increasing in weight.

4. You should consult a physician about the unnatural condition of your nose.

To Remove the Hairs

Dear Mrs. Symes.

I have dark eyebrows which are well shaped, but there are a number of hairs over the nose which spoil my appearance. What can I do to get rid of them?

FLORENCE.

With a pair of tweezers which can be bought at any drug store you can remove the superfluous hairs. After removing them apply peroxide of hydrogen to the spot, but be careful not to get any of it on the eyebrow, so that the hair will not be bleached.

The Selection of Soap

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you kindly tell me what kind of soap to use to keep my skin in good condition?

Mrs. L.

I cannot mention any one brand of soap for you to use. It is necessary for each one to experiment and learn which soap agrees best with one's skin. The brand that is satisfactory in one case often proves otherwise in another.

Prickly Heat

Dear Mrs. Symes.

My little boy suffers a great deal with prickly heat after he has been out romping for a while. Please tell me what I can do to ease the uncomfortable feeling the breaking out causes.

UNSIGNED.

Give the little fellow a bath in which has been dissolved a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda; dry gently and bathe the affected parts in diluted witch hazel.

To Reduce the Abdomen

Dear Mrs. Symes.

What can I do to reduce the abdomen?

JENNIE.

By exercising regularly you can reduce the abdomen. In standing position, clasp the hands over the abdomen. Contract the muscles of the abdomen and bend at the hips six times, keeping the muscles well contracted throughout the bending. Rest by taking three deep breaths between each exercise.

To Reduce the Hips

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Kindly tell me what I can do to reduce my hips.

B. L.

Exercise will reduce the hips. Following are directions for beneficial movements:

First—Raise the outstretched arms above the head, the body retaining its erect position; then bend slowly forward from the waist so that the fingers come as near touching the floor as possible, without straining in any way. This is done without bending the knees. In recovering position, let the arms relax and sink down as the body straightens up. Second—With hands placed lightly on the hips, the fingers pointing forward, let the body drop forward easily, so that it is bent at the waist. This must be done gently, as by jerking more harm than good is done. From this bent position roll the body round to the right, counting four for it to reach the position of being bent over the side; then to the back—being careful to do it very easily at first, till the muscles have gained strength, for an exaggeration of the movement may cause real pain—then on to the left and back to the front. Practice again, only start toward the left. The waist acts as a pivot, on which the trunk swings, and the head is easily relaxed. Third—In this exercise the hands have the same position, but now the body is bent forward from the waist; then back; then to the right and left. Each movement should occupy four counts. Take these exercises gently, but let the movements be firm and strong. Avoid the slightest strain of the muscles. No corsets should be worn while practicing them.

Recipe for the Hands

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please give me the recipe for a lotion to be used on perspiring hands?

HANNAH.

A very splendid lotion for relieving the uncomfortable condition is made of the following ingredients:

Borax	120 grains
Salicylic acid	10 grains
Glycerin	2 ounces

Rub on the hands four or five times a day. Wash the hands in warm water before applying and dry carefully. Shake well. If the glycerin is heated it will increase the solubility of the preparation.

For the Teeth

Dear Mrs. Symes.

1. Will you please suggest a dentifrice having whitening properties?

2. What can I do to prevent small blackheads from appearing on the nose?

3. What will whiten the forehead?

4. What is a remedy for a sore throat gathering in the throat?

KATRINE.

1. Here is a recipe for a very good tooth powder, which will cleanse and whiten your teeth:

Precipitated chalk	8 ounces
Powdered orris root	8 ounces
Powdered camphor	1 ounce

Triturate the camphor in a mortar, moistening it with a very little alcohol. Add other ingredients. Mix thoroughly and sift through a fine bolting cloth.

2. To prevent small blackheads from appearing you must keep the skin clean with soap, hot water and a good cream. It is also essential to have good digestion, for indigestion is often the cause of the clogged condition of the pores. Lemon juice or peroxide of hydrogen applied to your forehead will whiten the skin.

4. You should consult a physician on this matter, to prevent any catarrhal troubles.

Burn Leaves a Scar

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please give me the recipe to remove a scar left from a burn?

MAGONEL.

If the scar was on the outer skin it has no doubt disappeared by this time. When the true skin is scarred it is seldom possible to remove same.

Wrinkles

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you kindly tell me how to get rid of sinking between my eyes and on my forehead? Is there a cream to wash the face in warm or cold water?

Mrs. J. McC.

There is no concealing wrinkle cure you will find in my reply to "B. K.," whose letter appears on this page. Most people find it more satisfactory to cleanse the face with warm water and rinse it thoroughly with cold water. In a case of this kind one must do what is most agreeable to the skin.

A Wrinkle Cure

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Will you please tell me what is good for wrinkles?

Is tar water good for the hair? How often should it be used?

B. K.

Wrinkles are caused by drawing the face up into all sorts of ugly lines and by lack of tissue nourishment. To overcome the first cause you must break the habit if you have willfully or unconsciously formed one. A good cold cream must be used daily. Apply liberally the cream for which the recipe is here given and then rub the lines away.

Kentucky Cold Cream

Rosewater	4 ounces
Almond oil	4 ounces
Spermaceti	1 ounce
White wax	1 ounce

Add the rosewater slowly, so that it will mix well.

The massage will do much to bring the blood to the surface and when the tissues are nourished with good blood the lines will disappear. Worrying and fretting are great breeders of wrinkles. Remember this if you wish to avoid having any more lines.

Persons who are troubled with oily hair find tar soap very good, because it makes the hair dry. Using tar water will have the same effect. If you will write and tell me the trouble with your hair I will be glad to give you directions for improving its condition.

The Walnut Stain

Dear Mrs. Symes.

Please tell me what is to go with black walnuts to make a stain for the hair.

UNSIGNED.

Following is the recipe for the walnut stain:

Walnut Stain for Hair

Four ounces of walnut shins, beaten to a pulp, to which is added pure alcohol, 16 ounces.

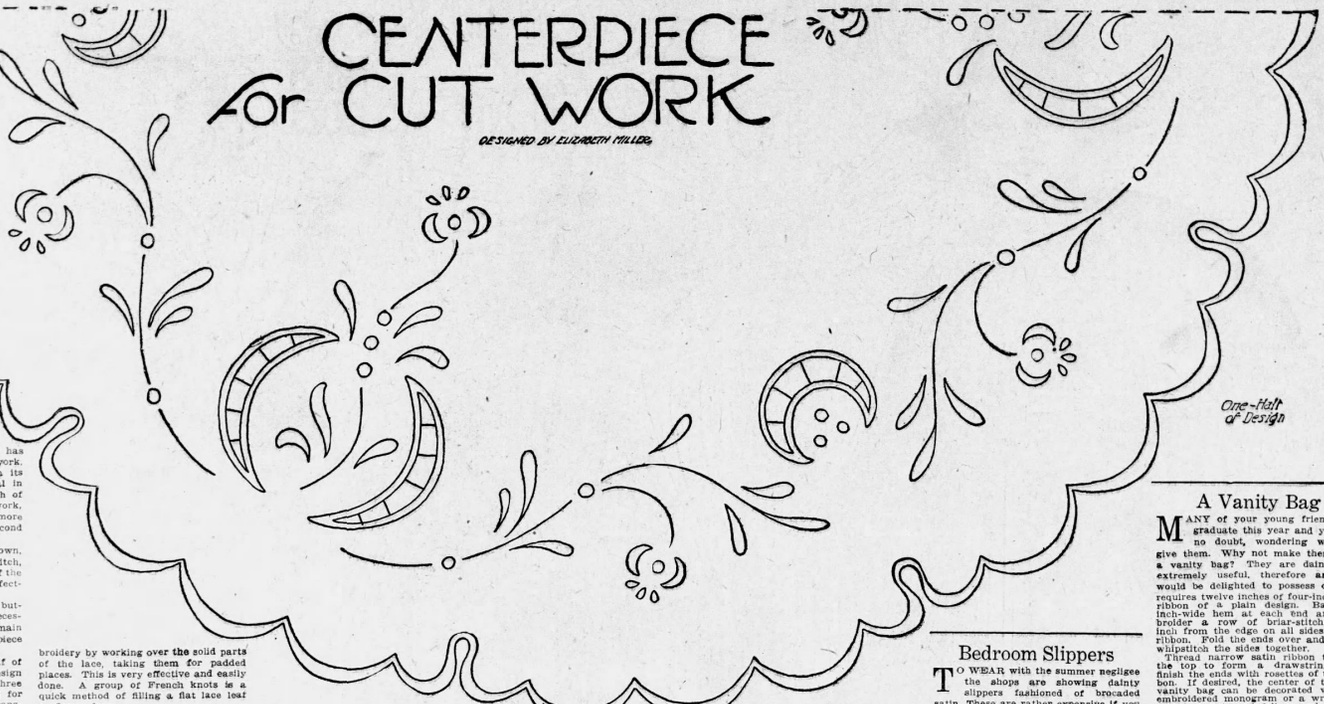
Let stand eight days and strain. Then apply to the hair with a small brush.

For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

CENTERPIECE for CUT WORK

DESIGNED BY ELIZABETH MILLER.



One-Half of Design

THE effectiveness of open work has been proved by punched work, which has been universal in its appeal and about as general in popularity as any embroidery stitch of recent years. Now we have cut work, which is the same open effect, only more so, and it bids fair to be a close second in the race.

A very easy design is here shown, combining cut work with solid stitch, and by looking at the photograph of the finished section you can see how effective it is.

Every woman knows how to do buttonhole work. That is one of the necessities of sewing, and as that is the main idea in the cut work, your centerpiece is a very easy matter.

You will notice that only one-half of the centerpiece is shown. The design is a swing design, but there are three large motifs and three small ones for cut work. In tracing, I advise a transferring of an entire motif of the double crescent which is cut in half by the dotted line. You will see that the spray that runs between the crescents is not balanced, and therefore could not be traced by turning the pattern over. Place your design and finish all except this part. Then take the entire motif and trace as a whole.

When buttonholing the crescents, be sure to have the purling on the inner line of the double form, for the material is cut out between the curved sides. When buttonholing on the second side, make the cross stitches by attaching the thread to the opposite purling and twisting back on itself; secure to the place from which you started and continue the buttonholing until the next line is reached, at which point you can repeat the work. This will be familiar to workers of renaissance stitches.

When the buttonholing is finished, cut away the material. The charming open effect will result.

The stems in the design should be done in outline stitch and whipped again so as to give a cordlike effect. This is done by overcasting the lapped threads without putting the needle through the material.

Work the dots in either eyelet or solid work and the rest of the design in solid stitch after padding slightly with darning cotton. There is very little work in this design, yet the effect is a well-covered centerpiece.

While is always good, but the contrast of color on white seems to be gaining in favor with embroiderers. Delft blue or grass green gives excellent effect; yellow and brown are good separately and combined, while all shades of one color can be used in silk or cotton if you prefer variegated work.

Buttonhole the edges after padding with darning cotton. Make the edges secure from any fraying by double-buttonholing. Cut out, and if you like a lace edging, add one of torchon or cluny. If you use color in the design, a good touch is to continue the colored embroidery by working over the solid parts of the lace, taking them for padded places. This is very effective and easily done. A group of French knots is a quick method of filling a flat lace leaf or flower form.

This design, although it appears on a centerpiece, can be used on linen frocks. You can decorate a panel of a bodice and skirt by using the motifs in a straight band. Mark out your panel or yoke first and place your motifs in a running design, then trace on the material. White embroidery is preferred for costumes. This cut work will wear for years. It is being used for towels, pillows over contrasting slips, scarfs, pincushions and workbags. It is a new worker in the field of embroidery and it promises much to all who adopt it.

For the Cottage

HAVE you noticed the embroidered napkin holders for the summer home? They are dainty and cool looking and much more attractive than the ring of silver.

These are made of a strip of white linen from five to six inches in length and two inches wide. A small design or monogram is stamped in the center of the top and this is embroidered with white mercerized cotton. The edges are finished with small scallops buttonhole-stitched with a heavier twisted embroidery cotton. The ends are neatly stitched together or fastened with a tiny pearl button and buttonhole.

A few designs are wider at the center and gradually taper toward the back.

These are easily laundered and are far nicer for the cottage or bungalow than napkin holders of silver. Each summer guest should be provided with one.

Bead Trimmings

GIVEN a half yard of white buckram, a 10-cent box of assorted beads, a pot of paste, a brush, and you can make a smart trimming for your new hat.

How? Oh, very easily. Simply cut two strips of buckram 12 inches long and 2½ inches wide; curve one end of each and wire the edges. Then cut a circle of buckram 4 inches in diameter. Out of this cut a circle 2 inches in diameter, leaving a ring. Wire the outer edge of this, as you do the long strips, by sewing a bit of fine hat wire about the edge.

Now slip the two long ends into the ring, lapping them over at the end, and sew them fast at the lower edge. This done, lay the buckram frame on the table, placing an old newspaper under it, and cover the surface with a thin coating of glue.

Now take your beads and sprinkle them just as thickly as you possibly can over the sticky surface and let them dry fast.

Select the smallest beads in the box for this, saving the larger ones for other ornaments and accessories for hats and gowns.

A pretty trimming suitable for the side of a soft felt hat is made on a frame of buckram cut with scalloped edges that have the centers filled in solid with blue floss worked in the long outline stitch and edged with dull gold beads. The oval center is covered with multicolored beads, sewn fast, and is surrounded by a border of dark-blue chenille sewn on and over the buckram frame and bordered with gold beads.

An odd but attractive ornament, is it not?

You can make a quill by covering a stiff frame with zephyr in tones of red. Work the center with a long stitch and the two narrow borders with a short stitch, separating them with rows of Indian-red beads. Sew white beads at intervals over the center.

All the trimming needed on a soft felt walking hat is here ready for you. From the suggestions you can gain an idea of what can be done with beads and the necessary thing to sew them with.

So get out your workbasket, select the beads and set to work.

Detail of Stitches

Bedroom Slippers

TO WEAR with the summer negligee the shops are showing dainty slippers fashioned of brocaded satin. These are rather expensive if you desire to purchase them, but if you are clever at needlework they can be duplicated at home for very much less.

First purchase a pair of soles the required size and bind them with a fancy silk braid of the predominating color used in the brocade. When choosing the brocade select a design which will look well on the top of the foot.

From heavy muslin cut a piece of material to form the toe portion of the slipper. This must fit smoothly to the sole and be wide enough to comfortably accommodate the foot.

Using this as a guide, cut two similar pieces from the brocaded satin and baste the two together. Outline the design with twisted silk of the same tone and improve the slipper top by embroidering tiny flowers here and there. To the back of the muslin whipstitch a lining of white silk and bind the top with braid to match the soles. Join the toe portion to the soles with strong silk thread, whipstitching the two together.

A pair of these slippers makes a charming gift to the graduate or the bride-to-be.

They are quickly made and the result speaks for itself.

A case can be fashioned to contain these slippers from brocaded satin of the same design. Make it to resemble a large envelope and place the slippers between the folds, fastening the flap with a pearl button and a buttonhole.

Now that you have the suggestion why not begin to make a pair of slippers? You may have some odd scraps of lovely brocaded satin to form the nucleus. Why not utilize them?

A Vanity Bag

MANY of your young friends will graduate this year and you are, no doubt, wondering what to give them. Why not make them each a vanity bag? They are dainty and extremely useful, therefore any girl would be delighted to possess one. It requires twelve inches of four-inch wide ribbon of a plain design. Baste an inch-wide hem at each end and embroider a row of briar-stitching an inch from the edge on all sides of the ribbon. Fold the ends over and neatly whipstitch the sides together.

Thread narrow satin ribbon through the top to form a drawstring, and finish the ends with rosettes of the ribbon. If desired, the center of the tiny vanity bag can be decorated with an embroidered monogram or a wreath of forget-me-nots and foliage embroidered with pale pink, blue or white silk to match the ribbon used. This latter makes an especially dainty decoration, and is easily done, as the flowers are not padded. A wreath formed of miniature rosebuds, daisies or violets would be equally effective. Within the bag place a handkerchief, tiny mirror, powder puff, cake of powder and a piece of pinked flannel containing black and white pins. This little vanity bag can be placed in the pocket of the evening coat or in the muff, and is always ready to aid milady when the occasion demands.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the fabric and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last if worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Like Grandmother's Purse

TO THE question of "what shall I make for my friend?" comes this group of exquisite fancy bags, answering beyond doubt and answering in a form easy for you to make and pleasing to the recipient.

There will be no special sizes suggested in this article. The odd piece of silk which you may pick up at the remnant counter or find in your scrap box will do for any one of these ideas.

The little purse, for instance, can be just for coins, three or four inches long, or can be made fifteen inches long, and large enough to carry evening slippers to a party.

This grandmother's purse is made of silk, one end straight and the other pointed and gathered in under a button.

On the straight end a piece of beaded net is sewn. This same fabric covers the button, and a beaded tassel hangs from the disk. The opening is at one side of the middle of the long oblong. Two bone rings are wrapped with bias folds of the silk and the silk covering is secured by stitches. A silk cord, matching the color of the bag, is tied through the rings and acts as a handle.

Changeable taffeta, in silver and blue, forms the bag which has the square end cut off in slanting lines. On the upper face a simple little design in narrow embroidery ribbon is worked. The little forget-me-nots are in pale blue and the leaves are in green, while there are French knots on the rest of the design. There is a twisted fringe of silver beads made by twisting loops of strung beads and attaching them one-half inch apart.

At the hem ivory rings are attached, and a silver cord run through for the string.

A square piece of beaded net is placed on the lower half of the kite-shaped bag of pink velvet. On the slanting sides gold lace forms the binding. Two disks with loops of beads hold in the pleats of velvet at the side about opposite the upper line of the beaded net. Cord is run through a casing at the small opening at the top. To make this larger there are side openings finished with narrow hems.

Have you a piece of Japanese embroidery in the lovely shades of blue or in gilt? Use it, by all means, in combination with black or blue satin or velvet. A postbag is here shown. The flap and back are of the embroidery set on over the plain fabric. The flap comes within one inch of the lower black velvet edge, which is finished with black silk fringe. A patent clasp fastens the flap down over the pocket. Black cord and tassels form the handle.

The balloon bag is fashioned of melon-shaped sections of bengaline. The top of each section is cut off straight and faced down for two inches. Each seam is covered with a row of beads. A cross row around the bag and bead tassels complete the simple decoration. Through ivory rings the ribbon is run, and as dainty a bag as you would wish is the result.

A young girl or her grandmother can always use a bag. Choose the color accordingly and please the feminine heart and hand.

PARIS DRESSMAKERS COMING TO AMERICA

By MARY BUEL

WITH DRAWINGS FROM EXCLUSIVE PARIS PHOTOGRAPHS BY Les F. Wilson

Gown of pale gray silk broche. The skirt has a loose plait down the center of the front and at the sides and back it is draped under to form a panier. The bodice fits loosely and is cut out in front to show a little chemisette and high neck band of tulle. The lace that goes about the neck and down the front is old and yellow in tint. It is laid flat over a fold of deep cerise satin, and there is a little delicate embroidery of the same color on the bodice and sleeves. The ruffles on the sleeves are of deep cream colored chiffon. Model from Ganet. Hat of deep cerise colored straw trimmed with a velvet band and a fancy aigrette of the same shade. Model from Bertin.

Gown of teilleul colored crepe de chine. The accordion plaited skirt is extremely narrow, and is mounted onto a close fitting yoke of silk. The Russian blouse bodice is a very late model, and as will be seen, it scarcely fits the figure at all. The collar and undersleeves are of Irish lace, and the blouse opens over a muslin gulmpe, finished with a full ruffle at the throat. The fastening on the front of the blouse and the trimming on the sleeves are of white passementerie. The broad belt is of black velvet embroidered in a variety of colors. Model from Redfern.

Coat and skirt of dark blue light weight serge. The skirt is cut nearly straight, the upper part being laid in plaits, which are not stitched down, but allowed to hang loose. The coat fits somewhat closely and it is made with a separate skirt put on plainly under the upper coat. The waistcoat is of printed foulard, and in very gay colors. It fits loosely, as does everything in the nature of a bodice now. The revers and collar of the waistcoat fall over the coat. The sleeves are quite large at their lower edge and flare a good deal. These are piped in ruby colored satin and are trimmed with large buttons. Model from Paquin. Hat of black straw trimmed with moire and a cock feather aigrette. Model from Georgette.

PARIS, (Special Correspondence.)—About half the large dressmakers in Paris are preferring to follow Jacques Worth's example and line themselves to America, ostensibly to look after their interests in the matter of the dressmaking combine, but if the truth were told, in reality to see what can be done in the way of individual business on the other side of the water.

To protect their models from being copied, which is the reason for the combine, will take more than the efforts of M. Worth or M. or Mme. anything else, for as long as time lasts and women have keen eyes and a quick touch with a pencil, Parisian models will be copied and sent broadcast all over the world.

Equally as long as time lasts women will have French gowns and this one and all of the heads of the Paris establishments know, and of all the nationalities of women who flock to Paris to shop, Americans are the most sought after. As a whole they are easy to please, they wear their clothes well, they do but little bargaining and best of all, they pay good prices and buy fully up to the extent of their incomes.

Therefore it is not to be wondered at that all along the line an effort is being made not only to retain those customers of our countrywomen they already have but to acquire others, and in as great numbers as is possible. And so it is with this end in view that establishments like Poire, Callot, Bechof-David, Beer and probably others are thinking of sending representatives over or even possibly establishing themselves in some one of the great cities.

Despite the lateness of the season many of the dressmakers are having openings, sort of supplementary affairs following their regular season. Some are quite elaborate, the display of gowns being greater than at the beginning. This has been the case at Zimmerman's and at Lucile's, both of whom have had two days of openings, the latter with music, tea, and all the details of a fashionable reception. At Zimmerman's I saw some enchanting frocks for afternoon and evening, both being specialties of this establishment. The materials used were in many of the models most unusual.

There was one gown for afternoon in sulphur colored charmeuse and eponge, the latter being of a different quality from that seen last season. The eponge formed the latter part of the skirt, which strangely enough was not draped. The charmeuse began at the knees and extended up into a high waist band. Over this fell a bloused bodice of chiffon of the same color as the skirt, showing a white lining through it, and the sleeves, which were long and close from elbow to wrist, were simply loose puffs at their upper half. There was a great deal of embroidery on the bodice, this being done in shades of purple and bright red. The sleeves also showed embroidery and lace was also introduced into them in the form of puffs that fell out over the back of the arm. Instead of a belt or girdle there was a fold of black tulle that was laid about the top of the waist band, was caught in the center of the back, and then drawn up to the round neck, where it was tied in a darling little butterfly bow.

There was a coat to accompany the gown, this being made entirely of eponge, the model being knee length and half fitting. The lining was chiffon, but the small turnover collar and wide cuffs were of charmeuse, beautifully embroidered in the same gay colors as the gown. By the way, Zimmerman and Paquin are the only dressmakers who are making long coats, but in cut and style these are quite unlike. Those of the former are invariably loose, vague affairs, that simply hang to the figure, while those of Paquin are more in the shape of the Russian blouse, with a broad belt to hold them in, or else they are fitted somewhat sharply to the figure and are finished with smart waistcoats.

I am told that scarfs in America are not highly thought of, but here they are more worn than ever, or at least they are worn with evening dress. Some of them are lovely, most cloud-like, for they are fashioned of the filmiest tulle, and are edged with tiny flowers, with rows of narrow plaited ribbons or with swansdown. There are others that are beautifully embroidered in pearls, all done by hand and in intricate patterns. There are also scarfs of thin novelty lace, over which are sprinkled little bouquets of flowers, these being made of ribbon or silk, the loveliest and daintiest things to be imagined. When not being worn all these scarfs are carried over the arm; in fact, this is the favorite mode, and there is no question but what they add much to the grace of the wearer.

The sailor hat is rapidly becoming one of the most popular shapes of the season, and they are now being shown in every sort of material, including lace and tulle. At Georgette's a day or two ago I saw several sailor hats, all severely plain, but all having a cachet that hats that come from this establishment are noted for.

There was one of dark blue satin, which was intended to match a costume, and the satin had the mat finish that was so fashionable this year. The brim was slightly wider than usual, and the crown instead of being round was melon shaped. The satin was put on smoothly over this, as well as the brim, and there was a folded band of the material that was put plainly about the crown and caught at the left side of the front with a small mother of pearl buckle. In the center of the back were two dark blue wings, one of which stood upright and the other went off at an angle. It was severe, but in good style, and the price for this simple morning head covering was $15. Those misguided ones who think that hats are cheap in Paris should make the rounds of the fashionable milliners and be undeceived.

At the same place I saw a lace sailor, which was trimmed with a blue velvet band and two large pink roses, and it was sweet and old fashioned looking, and I hope it is going to be worn by some young and blooming girl, for on such a one it would be enchanting.

At another smart establishment, Leotine's, who is the successor of the once world famous Virot, I saw some other tulle hats, a complete contrast in shape and equally fascinating. One was a little bonnet shape, made of purple tulle, finely plaited, one standing and making the crown, the other falling over the hair. The plaitings were separated by a narrow band of purple velvet, and there were strings of the same, which passed under the chin and fastened to either side of the hat. At one side there was a standing aigrette, one of the spreading and feathery sort, and this dainty affair, that looked like nothing in the way of material cost $100, no more, no less.

AT THE THEATRES

"Battle of Bay Rum" and Other Features In Week's Vaudeville at the Forsyth. Tabloid Musical Comedy Starts at the Bijou With "A Trip to Joyville" as the First Week's Offering

There has never been such enthusiastic interest in vaudeville as is being evidenced these days at the Forsyth. There always have been thousands of theater-goers who have exhibited a decided preference for this sort of entertainment, and ever since the Forsyth was introduced three years ago there has been hardly a time when the popular house has not been filled to its capacity at all performances. This applies to the balcony and gallery as well as the lower floor, and is evidence that vaudeville appeals to all classes of theater-goers.

Since the return of the Forsyth to Keith vaudeville policy there has been a wonderful renewal of interest. The army of regulars has been recruited to such a tremendous multitude that the management is confronted again with the problem of taking care of all who are demanding seats. And even at that the real good things of the circuit are yet to come.

The bill that comes to the Forsyth on Monday for the regular run of performances—daily matinee and evening performances—promises to be just what local theater-goers want. There is comedy and novelty, music and dancing, songs and gymnastic stunts, and just about all that any genuine first-class vaudeville offering should contain.

Ed Gillette will present his famous troupe of monkey actors. This is an act that has attracted the most sensational interest in all of the larger cities this season. The monkeys are led by Adam and Eve, conceded to be the most human-like beasts that have been seen in public. Gillette has taught these monkeys to do the most wonderful stunts. This act has not yet failed to provide just the sort of entertainment that theater-goers who take to vaudeville like best. They are trained above the average, and their bowling game is a laugh winner that eclipses anything of the sort that has been done by man or beast.

Gallagher and Fields and their company will offer an absurd farce called the "Battle of Bay Rum." These two clever comedians, who lead the world in old-fashioned "horse play," have constructed a farce in one act, crowded with the sort of comedy that wins laughs. Fields is a comedian of the old school, possessing a peculiar funny voice and a physical get-up that is exceedingly funny to begin with, and his quality added to his ability to deliver the lines of the farce, will result probably in the act scoring one of the big hits of the season.

The Dunedin Troupe, with pretty girls, will offer a novelty act that has always been a favorite in the Keith houses. It is a fast and original idea in cycle work, and the charm and beauty of the young ladies in the combination have made the troupe one of the best drawing cards in vaudeville.

Josephine Dunfee, who until recently has been with the musical comedy successes in the larger cities, and who was one of the famous cast in the revival of "Pinafore," along with Hopper and other stars, is billed for songs that will assist in the drawing power of the bill, and John Geiger, an Italian of musical worth, will introduce a violin specialty that is going to create unusual interest. The Bradshaw Brothers' European comedy gymnasts, will have something out of the ordinary to offer, and Nevins and Erwood, who are old favorites, will make their first appearance in nearly two years, presenting their comedy act, in which Nevins may be depended upon to score a big hit with eccentric dancing.

Bijou to Begin Season Of Tabloid Music Comedy.

Commencing with matinees Monday afternoon and continuing all the week with the regular schedule of performances at the same prices—except a limited number of reserved seats down front, close to the stage, for which 10 cents additional will be charged—the Bijou will inaugurate a season of tabloid musical comedy, promising to set a pace that will be followed with interest and pleasure all through the summer.

"A Trip to Joyville" will be the first of this class of combinations to be seen in the popular theater that has been devoted to family vaudeville for four years. It is the demand for advanced ideas that has brought about the change, and the adoption of a policy that has crowded theaters in all the principal cities. It does not mean getting away from vaudeville in the presentation of tabloid musical comedy for every attraction carries vaudeville artists who present their specialties during the action of one of the delightful entertainments.

It is said that "A Trip to Joyville" with its twenty people, including a dozen pretty girls, who sing and dance, wear attractive wardrobes, contains everything that a well arranged tabloid should have. The musical numbers are the most tuneful of the current "hits," especially as to ragtime. Joy and mirth is scattered all along the route of the trip and some of the best reviewers in the south have recorded themselves as surprised that such an attraction could be offered for a dime.

Among the specialties that are to be seen with the trip will be the grotesque dancing of Warner and Whyte, and the ragtime violin specialty of Fidello.

The trip will be in two scenes, and the special scenery fits the story to perfection. There is a funny story in the plot and the cast including Sam Colbert, Jim Barrett, Bobby Murdock, Babe Still and others, surely will become popular with the patrons of the Bijou, who are always ready to give a helping hand to the entertainers who deserve such encouragement.

Will Harris wrote the story of "A Trip to Joyville." It is witty, side-splitting, and original. There is a laugh in every line and the unusually magnetic bouquet of pretty girls surely will find themselves quite welcome in the famous Marietta street playhouse. There will be daily matinees at 2 p. m.; two matinees on Monday and Saturday, and there will be two night performances, the first at 7:30 and the next at 9. The admission for any performance has been fixed at 10 cents, and as announced there will be a limited number of front row reserved seats at an additional dime.

Miss Billy Long and Her Company Will Present "The Deep Purple" at Atlanta All Week, With Miss Tinsley Harrison, the Atlanta Novice, in a Leading Role—The Play Is a Strong Drama

"The Deep Purple," which ran for an entire season in New York and was pronounced one of the strongest dramas of recent years, will be presented the coming week at the Atlanta theater by Miss Billy Long and company. This is the first time this play has been seen here, and thus additional interest centers in the production. The company is exceptionally well adapted to the piece, Miss Long, Mr. Vail, Mr. Robinson and several others having played in it before.

Although a drama, it contains some excellent comedy. The situations are exciting, and the action is rapid throughout. "The Deep Purple" is one of the highest royalty plays available in stock, and it is the purpose of the company to give a number of such pieces during the summer season.

There are really two leading women roles in the play and Miss Long will play one of these and Miss Tinsley Harrison, an Atlanta girl, the other. Miss Harrison has been in the company only two weeks, and this will be her first big part. The role is that of Doris Moore, daughter of a minister, who is enticed from home, and it is well fitted to her.

"The Deep Purple" is in five acts and is by Paul Armstrong. The story opens with the abduction of Doris Moore by Harry Leland, who is a crook of gentlemanly appearance, but had at heart. Leland with his city ways, his good clothes and his ready tongue makes a strong impression on the girl and she promises to marry him. Leland takes the girl to the home of Kate Fallon, where it is the custom for the crooks to hang out. "Frisco Kate," as the owner of the house is called, was at one time a thief but has reformed. She takes pity on the girl and when she realizes that Leland intends using the girl in a badger game and has no intention of marrying her she decides to disrupt his plans.

The badger game is to be worked on William Lake, a mining engineer, just back from the west. Meanwhile Gordon Laylock comes to Kate's house. He is a man with a price on his head and Leland and Pop Clark, another crook, finding it out, tip off the police. Laylock is arrested and this starts Kate on a rampage. She declares she will land every crook on Blackwell's island before she has finished with them. She lets Lake know of the badger game, and he is thus enabled to save Doris from the clutches of Leland and Pop Clark. Then Kate starts in to buy Laylock's release. She makes Laylock promise he will not touch Leland, but Laylock finds the promise more than he can keep and Leland pays the penalty of having turned informant for blood-money. How Lake falls in love with the girl gives a bit of genuine romance to the piece.

Miss Long will be seen in the strong character of Frisco Kate; Edwin Vail will play Laylock; Ralph Marthy will be cast as Lake; Allan Robinson will be Leland; William Triplett will be Pop Clark; Miss Harrison will play Doris, and the remaining roles will be in good hands. There will be matinees on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

Prince Olaf's Present

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON, May 10.—The smallest practical motor car in the world is Queen Alexandra's gift to Prince Olaf of Norway. The car is shortly to be sent to Norway.

It weighs three and a half cwt., has a wheel base of five feet, and at its highest point stands only two feet from the ground. It is just about a third of the size of the smallest ordinary motor car made.

The car is specially geared down to seven miles an hour, as Queen Alexandra was anxious that it should not go fast enough to cause any hurt to the little Prince in case of accident. The vehicle, which is a Cadillac, is driven by the self-starting fitted to Cadillac motor cars. It is seated for two small children, and there is a dicky at the back on which a very small child can sit. It also has little electric head and back lights.

Motor Car Mystery

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

PARIS, May 10.—An abandoned motor car, covered with bloodstains, has been found in a ditch in the Bois de Boulogne. A handful of female hair was inside the car. All inquiry into the matter has, so far, been fruitless.

Tsar and the Drama

ST. PETERSBURG, May 17.—The tsar is keenly interested in all matters theatrical, and he has just issued an imperial ukase appointing M. Francis de Croisset, the well known French dramatist, delegate of the imperial theaters. This is an entirely new office created by the tsar, who dispatched his chamberlain, M. de Kroukewsky, to Paris to communicate his decision to the fortunate playwright. One of M. de Crosset's chief duties will be to organize and develop the French drama at St. Petersburg, particularly at the Michael theater, where a number of plays by leading French dramatists will be produced. The idea really originated with the Grand Duchess Vladimir, who is president of the Academy of Fine Arts here, but she had no difficulty in persuading the tsar to put it into execution.

Murder of a Prince

WARSAW, May 17.—A well-known Polish aristocrat, the president of the Motor Car club of Warsaw, Prince Ladislas Lubecki, left his estate at Loresin, near Warsaw, with a guest, Baron Bisping, whom he wished to accompany to the railway station.

When he had not returned the servants organized a search party and found the prince dead in the park with two bullet wounds. The carriage was standing near the body.

The murderer is unknown.

WHITFIELD COUNTY MINISTER SETS A RECORD FOR WEDDINGS, BAPTISMS AND FUNERALS IN 14 YEARS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., May 17.—Making 1,750 hearts beat as 875, baptizing 1,912 people, and officiating at 1,681 funerals, comprise a part of the wonderful records established here by Rev. C. C. Maples, a prominent and popular Baptist minister of Whitfield county. All of this was accomplished during the past fourteen years. Devoted to his work and a man under forty years of age, there is little telling what record he will establish before his life of usefulness is ended.

Rev. Mr. Maples was born in Cleveland, Bradley county, Tenn., where he spent his boyhood, later going to Chattanooga and moving from there to Dalton about fifteen years ago.

Reared in a Christian home, he decided to abandon his trade as a molder to enter the ministry, being ordained in this city. As a molder he was highly successful, but, feeling he should devote his life's work to the ministry, he gave up this and accepted the pastorate of several small churches, the combined salaries from which would not begin to approach the amount he had been receiving at his trade.

It is in the matrimonial branch of his work that Rev. Mr. Maples most delights. When questioned about this, he doesn't hesitate to state that when he is uniting a young couple in the holy bonds of wedlock his soul experiences "joy unconfined." As an officiating minister, he has performed hundreds of unique ceremonies.

Several years ago he was made manager of a prominent retail hardware store here, but in spite of this he found time to fill his various appointments at the churches of which he was pastor. While waiting on a customer one day, a young couple entered the hardware store and asked to see him in private. He called a clerk, turned the customer over to him and accompanied the couple to his office where he joined them in marriage, extended his congratulations and returned to his work.

On another occasion he was met in the center of the Gordon street viaduct while going home one evening. There, with a large arc lamp as a symbol of the wedding bell and in God's open-air church, he made them man and wife. At other times he has met couples in buggies, who were too impatient to proceed to his home, and there he has officiated at the unique weddings.

The big church wedding, with the lavish decorations, the quiet ceremony, and at the bride's home or at his own home, the open-air wedding service—all suit him, just so the object desired is accomplished.

The best feature of the weddings at which I have been the officiating clergyman," says Rev. Mr. Maples, "is the fact that the contracting parties practically unanimously have appeared thoroughly happy and contented. Of the vast number of couples I have married I know of only one instance where the divorce court was resorted to. That one instance is to be regretted, but the knowledge that it is only one case out of about 1,000 gives me a vast degree of satisfaction in looking back over my work along this line."

As he has officiated at various uniquely arranged weddings, so has he experienced the unusual in the time selected by couples. He has frequently been aroused from his slumbers by insistent young people who couldn't put off their wedding an instant longer.

The romantic runaway match has frequently come under his observation, but, while he is "for" the lovers, he prefers the weddings arranged beforehand, with all, both contracting parties and parents, satisfied, for it is a time in which there should be no heartaches, according to his belief.

"That I am a firm believer in marriage is amply evidenced by my own case," said he, when discussing the question, "for I am married myself."

Rev. Mr. Maples was married to a member of his congregation at Pine Grove church, Miss Clara Bell Hill, in the spring of 1901.

Having served the churches of practically every section of this county, Rev. Mr. Maples is known by nearly every resident. Like all go to him in their hours of happiness, those seeking comfort in dark hours of bereavement send for him. The saddest of his duties is the burial service, but he has been called upon to respond more than 1,000 times during the past fourteen years. He has preached as many as three funeral services in a day, frequently having as many as two.

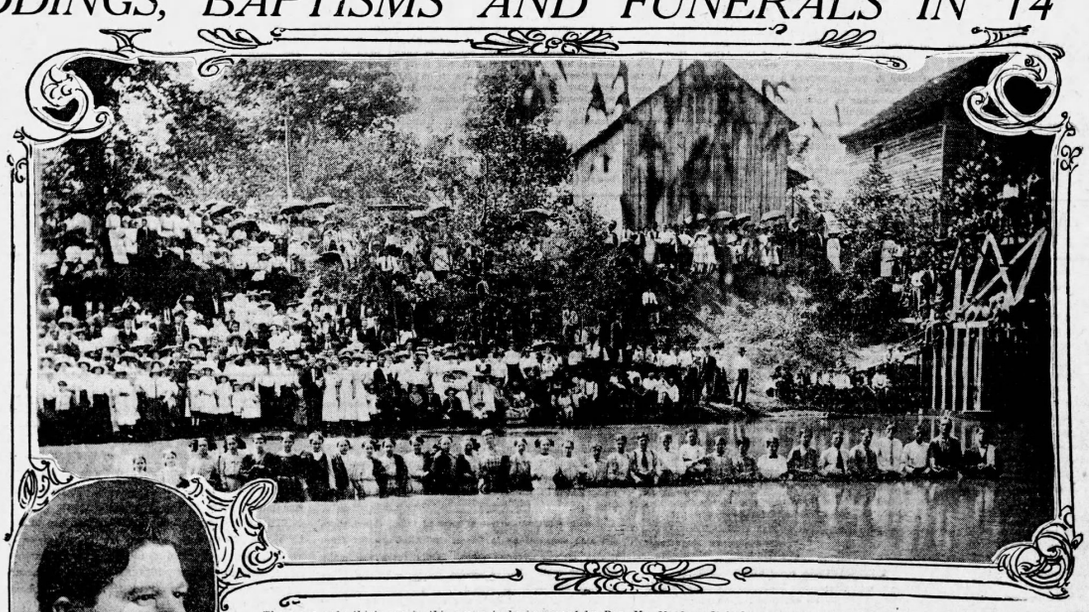
At all hours of the day and night has he been summoned to the bedside of one upon whom the icy hand of death rested, and he has, at such times, taken into the home a marked degree of comfort possible to but few men. Among the country people, with whom he has been most closely affiliated during his residence here, he is fairly idolized, for he is recognized as a man strong in his goodness and gentleness. He is probably called upon to conduct as many funerals as all other ministers in the county combined.

Since coming here Rev. Mr. Maples has filled the following pastorates: Second church, Dalton; Dug Gap, Harmony, Grove Level, Poplar Springs, Hill City; at present he is pastor of Spring Place, Murray county, Baptist church, Pine Grove, Antioch and Deep Springs churches, in this county. At Pine Grove he has accomplished his greatest work, having served that church for twelve years.

He has also organized a church near Maddox Mill, known as Maddox chapel, and dedicated the Cohutta Baptist church.

He has, during his fourteen years' ministry, baptized nearly 2,000 people, having conducted numerous revival meetings in various sections of this and adjoining counties.

C. C. Maples, minister, and C. C. Maples, farmer, are one and the same, and in spite of the antics of a fractious farm animal, he manages to keep fairly cool.



There are only thirty-one in this group to be immersed by Rev. Mr. Maples. It is by no means unusual for him to baptize nearly twice this number or more in one afternoon in streams near any of his churches. His converts scorn the use of man-made pools.

Maples Has Baptized 1,912 Persons; Married 875 Couples Under Many Unique Conditions and Officiated at Nearly 2,000 Funerals – He Is Combination Molder, Farmer-Carpenter, Besides Being Minister to Four Congregations, Only One Couple of Hundreds He Has Married Has Sought Divorce – Young People Have Called Him at All Hours of Night to Perform Ceremonies, He Discourages Runaway Marriages, However, Saying Parents Should Always Give Consent – Some of the Strange Experiences of a Versatile Preacher

ROME, Ga., May 17.—Sturdy, picturesque and serviceable houses of rough-hewn logs, giant oaks where the squirrels play, rolling, well-tilled fields of green form the setting for a group of eighty earnest girls, who have come down from the blue mountains in the background of the picture, to work out a big problem of social service on the campus of the Martha Berry School for Girls near Rome.

This unique institution is the modest "little sister" of another institution no less remarkable and far more widely known, the Berry School for Boys.

The work being done in these two schools has attracted the attention and challenged the admiration of men great in politics, statecraft and finance. Roosevelt while president after a visit to the schools termed them "marvels of industrial efficiency." The last letter written by President Taft in March, just before he laid down the reins of government, was one of greeting and encouragement to the boys and girls of the school.

School Eleven Years Old

The Berry school was founded eleven years ago by Miss Martha Berry as a Christian industrial school for poor boys from the mountains and rural districts. It was the outgrowth of a Sunday school held in a little log cabin on her home place, where she learned that so many bright, promising boys in the country had in them the stuff from which good citizens are made. The growth of the school has been little short of miraculous, until now the students number more than 200 and the value of the school property exceeds $200,000, practically all of it coming as individual contributions through the personal efforts of one Georgia woman.

Since the very beginning of the work it has been Miss Berry's ambition to establish a school for girls where they might be taught to be home makers. At last, in response to the urgent and frequent appeals from girls eager for an education, she resolved to undertake a work for them, and in the fall of 1909 the first building was erected, the students of the boys' school doing the work. On Thanksgiving day, 1909, the school opened with five girls enrolled, and now, in a little more than three years the student body has grown to eighty, while attempts are being made to provide for 100 next year. The single building has been multiplied by six, and four others are to be built during the coming summer if the public aid justifies.

Help of Georgia Women

It is peculiarly appropriate and particularly gratifying that the women of the state and of the south should have been so largely responsible for the growth of this great movement. Georgia has learned to look to Atlanta for leadership—in philanthropy, as well as in industry—and it was in Atlanta that the first "Berry circle" of the United States was formed. Now there are numbers of these groups of splendid women, laboring for the interests of the school. Mrs. Frank Inman is president of the Atlanta circle, and the other officers are Mrs. John W. Grant, vice president; Mrs. Roby Robinson, treasurer; Mrs. Hollins Randolph, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, recording secretary. In honor of Mrs. Inman the first building erected on the campus bears the name "Louise Hall."

Through the efforts of the Atlanta Berry circle "Atlanta Hall" was erected. This is a substantial two-story building of logs, framed and ceiled within, unique in design, comfortable and homelike—exactly suited to the character and purpose of the school. Atlanta Hall contains the dining room and kitchen and seven rooms for girls. The accompanying views show the interior of the hall. The furniture was made by the boys, while the window curtains, stencil work, etc., is the work of the girls.

Girls Do Their Own Cooking

In order to accommodate 100 girls for next year the dining room and kitchen must be enlarged this summer. This means an addition to Atlanta Hall at a cost of $500.

The dining room and kitchen, by the way, serve a double purpose, as the girls do all their own cooking and serving. There is not a servant on the campus. The two rooms take the place of the "laboratories" in other schools.

Inspired by the example of the Atlanta Berry circle, the women of Rome, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles R. Porter, formed a Rome Berry circle, and in two years of active work, have built, furnished and paid for what is known as the Rome Model cottage. In this building the members of the senior class and three of the teachers live together as a family, each student receiving daily training in home duties, under actual home conditions. Women all over the country are joining in the Berry circle movement. There is a circle of young women at Marietta, Ga., which conducts what is known as the "Martha Berry Tavern," a tea room, the entire profits of which go to the Martha Berry school.

Some of School's Benefactors

The men of Atlanta have not failed to recognize the opportunities for good in the work. John J. Eagan is president of the board of trustees, and Robert F. Maddox is treasurer of that body. Henry S. Johnson and J. K. Orr are also members of the board. Associated with them are such men as V. Everit Macy, the great New York merchant; Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, and George W. Perkins, of New York, capitalist and philanthropist. Messrs. Eagan, Orr, Maddox and Johnson are all annual contributors of substantial prizes for the best work in various departments. Miss Sallie Eugenia Brown gave lessons in basketry at her home last summer for the benefit of the school.

The closing exercises of the school were held this week, and the chapel was crowded to the doors by people who saw and heard something very different from the usual "commencement" with its lingerie frocks, piano recitals, and youthful expositions upon themes such as "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy." There are no graduates of the school, it hasn't been in existence long enough for that, but there was a program participated in by the girls from different classes. One girl told what the Berry school idea is, to give a thorough, liberal and practical education at small cost, to combine sound, intellectual and moral instruction with the best domestic training.

Beams From "Sunshine Shanty"

Another girl showed samples of the work that had been done in the crowded quarters of "Sunshine Shanty," the one-story cabin where the sewing, weaving and basketry classes work. She showed sewing from the simplest darning up to the complete uniforms of white and blue, made and worn by the students. She showed baskets of pine needles toppped with pine cones, and shuck hats, and split baskets, and rugs, and carpets woven from rags on the old hand looms. Instead of quoting poetry, she took a rough dried apron, sprinkled and ironed it, repeating the process with napkins and other linen, and completing the demonstration by showing how they should be hung out to dry on the line. The men of the audience learned that this last was not a mere act, but in reality a whole science.

The last "essay" dealt with no abstruse problem in psychology, but told what the speaker had learned in home nursing. She prepared a dainty tray for the sick room, adjusted a bandage on the arm of a companion, and told of some simple home remedies and rules for home hygiene.

The buildings all confirm the impression of efficiency and practicability made by these exercises. The kitchens are spotless, the dining rooms immaculate, the vegetable garden far advanced, the flower plots beautiful, the walls tastefully decorated.

Alert and Bright-Eyed Pupils

Much has been written of the Berry school in newspapers and magazines, and the writers, in their desire to bring out the "human interest" features, have not always been truthful or kind. They have sometimes pictured the mountain cabins as one-room, windowless affairs, the children as shy little things no tamer than the squirrels, the parents as unable to read or write.

As a matter of fact, some of the purest Anglo-Saxon blood in America flows in the veins of these mountaineers, and shows in the alert, bright faces of the girls at the Martha Berry school. They are bright, intelligent, adaptable and quick to learn. What they need is just what they are getting at the school, an opportunity.

Discussing the work an authority on education says: "Selfishness is a masculine failing. Give a boy an education and while it may bless and brighten his own life all of his days he may exercise its training for his own advancement and keep its benefits for himself. Educate a girl and she will share with others whatever of benefit she may have gained. She won't attempt to keep its blessings for herself, but will find her greatest joy in sharing them with others. That is why the Martha Berry school is doing such a great work of social service, and is developing the best there is in, not individuals alone, but in whole families and whole communities, throughout the mountains and the valleys of this section."

Georgia Help Wanted

Much of the help and most of the contributions for the boys' school came from outside the state, very little from Georgia. The officers of the girls' school are particularly anxious to interest Georgians in its work. The school believes that if faith can move mountains, faith can erect buildings, and as an evidence of their faith have put the lads of the boys' school at work on four buildings, though funds are not on hand for their completion. The foundations have been laid, the logs have been hewn—for they must be cut before the spring sap begins to rise—and the work awaits only the contributions of loyal Georgians that the school feels will arise to meet the need.

In discussing this feature of the work one of the teachers said: "It would be a proud day for us if we could make one of our new buildings a Georgia Home Science hall, by Georgia money and materials. We use home materials in the school, when we make pine needle baskets, split baskets, shuck hats, and the like. Home-grown logs go into the buildings, and home-made furnishings into their rooms. The work will be done by Georgia boys, from the boys' school, for Georgia girls. The dollars will do double duty, not only buying materials for the buildings, but providing work for the boy students to enable them to pay the expenses of the schoolings. Cannot our Georgia people come to our aid, and send their contributions to Robert F. Maddox, vice president American National Bank, Atlanta, Ga., or the Berry School, Mount Berry, Ga."

"To Minister Unto Others"

The motto of the school is, "Not to be ministered unto, but to minister unto others." That spirit marks the work of the school. The girls are taught gardening instead of Greek, laundering instead of Latin, sewing in place of sketching, cooking replaces the classics, but there is plenty of instruction in arithmetic, geography, history, Bible, English, mathematics and physiology, that go to make a well-rounded education.

The influence of the Martha Berry school is already being felt in seventy homes of this section, and as it grows—as it is destined to do—that influence will doubtless extend to seventy times seventy homes where students of the school are devoted daughters, good wives and splendid mothers.

MOTHERS' DAY

BY MRS. W. H. FELTON

I went to church this morning and witnessed a beautiful religious ceremony commemorating the Mothers' day of the year 1913.

I have no knowledge of the starter or organizer of Mothers' day, but I believe it has come to stay, as it seems to meet cordial welcome from both old and young.

We had recitations from some children and some excellent singing by the choir and congregation and all the people I noticed carefully had a carnation fastened to their waists and coats. My flowers closely resembled what we called sweet pinks in my childhood, but they smell as sweet under their new and fashionable name of carnations. I also read a little poem since I returned from church which fits it rather nicely and gives the repentant girls' side of the mother question.

THE KISS.

Last night I had to go to bed
All by myself, my mother said,
'Cause I'd been naughty all day through.
She wouldn't kiss me good-night, too.
I didn't want to let her know
How much I cared 'bout that, and so
I dropped my clothes right on the floor—
A thing I never did before—
And put each stocking in a shoe—
She just hates that—and didn't do
My hair, or wash my face, or brush
My teeth, and left things in a squash
All 'round the room; and then I took
Her picture and my fairy-book
She gave me on my last birthday
In June, and hid 'em both away.

I put my father's picture right
Up in the middle of the light,
To show 'em just the way I feel,
'Cause he said, "Kiss the child, Lucille,
Don't let her go to bed like this Without your usual good-night kiss."
But she just shook her head and turned
Her back, and then my eyes they burned
Like fire. . . . It's been a horrid day. . . .
And then, of course, I didn't say
My prayers at all, but went to bed
And wished and wished that I was dead.

Well, I don't know just how it was,
For I'd been half-way sleeping, 'cause
I was so 'pletely tired out—
When I heard something move about
So quiet, and the next I knew
The door moved back and she came through
And put her arm around me so,
And said, a-whispering very low,
"My poor, dear child," and was so sad,
And kissed me twice—My! I was glad.

TEMPTATIONS AND SUGGESTIONS.

It is a well understood fact that the Spanish matador uses a red flag or red shawl to make the bull in the ring rush to attack. Why red should be the color to inflame the mind of the beast I must leave to the scientist for explanation.

I use the word "mind" for need of a better one, but the red flag or red scarf has been in use to infuriate the mad bulls of Spain for some centuries. What these red things suggest to the beast is beyond my ken, but the fact remains that he wants to fight, and he goes after the man who exploits the red, and will fight to the death.

Suggestive evils are also common to humankind, when conditions are normal a man or woman may contain themselves and preserve self respect, but when there are morbid conditions, fevered brains, a domestic storm, strained nerves, dissipated habits, reverses in business, violent passion, morbid jealousy or sudden shock, it is only necessary to run up on a suggestive picture or to be told something inflammatory by an evil-minded person, to fire up the brain and the deed is done! The red scarf is there. I am convinced that there are tens of thousands of prisoners who have waked up under the very shadow of the gallows tree, who could not explain how they came to do it.

The old proverb says: "Evil communications corrupt good manners," but there is no need to make a proverb on the established fact that familiarity with criminal thoughts will engender criminal suggestions and criminal temptations. Therein lies the danger of such elaborated stories, because they are the fuse in many cases to set off repeated explosions of continued violence.

Leaving off the criminal part of this subject, there are also suggestions in "nude art" that are far from health to the average mind. While there are many sane and well-balanced people whose aesthetic sense is only appealed to, and they are able to separate in their minds the beautiful from the sensual. There are others whose inflamed imaginations may provoke what an able writer has called a "sensual debauch." The "humn form divine" in nude Africa should always wear drapery in civilized America for reasons too obvious to need explanation, and the half-naked dancer and singer, who is hired by rich debauchees in New York and other cities to fling herself about for their sensual amusement, should be put out of business by legal provisions. The licensed, gaudy, Godless drinking resorts in large cities are responsible largely for the vice and criminality of such cities with the "scarlet woman" at hand. And may I venture to remark that the nude exposure of a woman's body anywhere, in theaters, in modern ball rooms or in the maze of a "dreamy waltz," is a suggestive evil that should be abated by both law and gospel. I hasten to say also that I believe there are great numbers of decent women who wear very "decollete" apparel, and who live clean lives at home and abroad, but we do know that such "undressing" is more than oftentimes a menace to the chastity of men and youths, especially when the wine cup is near at hand, and the "dreamy waltz" becomes thrillingly attractive and where dance hugging is not reprobated by the customs of polite society.

These are plain words from a very plain-spoken old lady, who is known to be chivalric in her devotion to her own sex and woh would do them always good and never any harm.

use the steps. The swimming pool has been beautified at considerable expense and those who run up and down the banks are destroying the sod, which was placed there by the park department.

"Please remember, also, whenever you are in any park, that flowers and shrubs are placed there to beautify the park. Help us to keep the parks attractive by refraining from pulling the flowers and breaking the shrubs, and use your influence to prevent others from doing so."

Swimming is an accomplishment as simple as it is valuable. But directions on paper help little in teaching one to keep afloat. Perhaps the best advice to be given is that the breast stroke should be the beginner's first attempt. It is the simplest method of swimming.

In making this stroke the swimmer lies flat upon his chest, and before the stroke is begun, his arms and legs lie outstretched. The stroke merely consists in parting the hands and describing a semi-circle. The hands are brought under the chin, and at the same time the knees are drawn up and the legs are kicked out.

The hands are spread out again, another semi-circle is described. The hands are brought back under the chin, and the legs are first drawn up, then straightened out.

This is the simplest stroke in swimming. But no stroke seems simple in telling. The pupil in swimming, as the pupil in all other sports, needs an instructor rather than a set of rules.

RUDE CABIN AND TOMBSTONE HOLD ROMANCE OF CONNECTICUT GIRL WHO MARRIED INDIAN CHIEF AND LIVED AMONG CHEROKEES IN NORTH GEORGIA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CALHOUN, Ga., May 17.—Four miles north of Calhoun and just at the point where the Conasauga and Coosawatee rivers unite to form the swift waters of the Oostanaula, is situated the quiet little community of Newtown, the real name of which is New Echota, for it is the ancient capital of the Cherokee Indian nation. It was a flourishing Indian town up to the removal of the tribe west in 1838, and in it some of the most historic events of the Indian history of that tribe transpired.

Some claim that DeSoto passed here and camped during his great march inland from Savannah through the northern part of Georgia to Columbus. At this place are found some of the last traces of the red men, although Father Time, aided by the plow of the farmer and the indifference of the public towards historical relics, is slowly effacing these memorials of other years.

AN INDIAN ROMANCE THAT LIES UNMOLESTED.

It is the lonely and almost forgotten grave of the beautiful and accomplished Connecticut maiden who became the wife of a chief of the Cherokee nation. Harriet Ruggles Gold was her name, while that of her husband was Elias Boudinot, known to his tribe by the Indian name of "Galagina," which means "The Buck."

He was the last full-blooded chief of his tribe and held sway at New Echota for many years previous to the removal of the Cherokee to the west. She was the daughter of a colonel in the United States army, and was living with her parents at Cornwall, Conn. We was a chief in his tribe, and through the influence of one of the Moravian missionaries at New Echota, he went to the Indian school which had only a short time before been established at Cornwall. While there he came under the notice of the distinguished congressman, Elias Boudinot, whose picture now hangs in the Hall of Independence at Philadelphia. Congressman Boudinot was so taken with the Indian youth that he adopted him and gave him his name. It was through this relation that the young chief became acquainted with the lovely girl who was later to become his wife, for the Boudinots and the Golds were intimate friends.

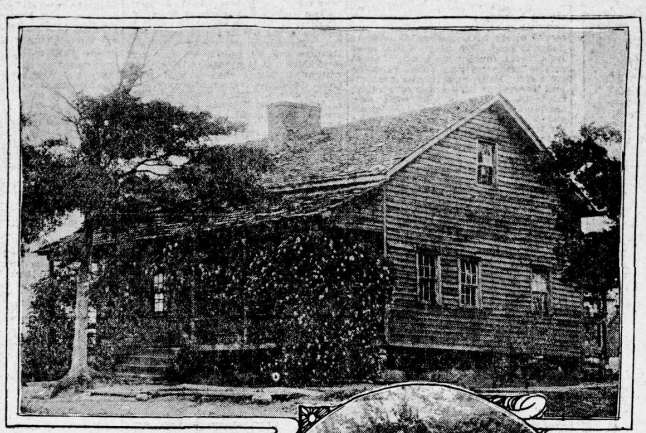
THE YOUNG CHIEF'S COURTSHIP.

The affection which sprung up between the two young people of such widely different racial instincts was altogether mutual; and tradition tells us of the trysts which finally culminated in the young chief asking Colonel Gold for the hand of his daughter. Harriet was the youngest daughter in the family and the general favorite, and her father was very bitterly opposed to the proposed match. But not wishing to be unjust to what seemed a case of true love, he told young Boudinot that if he would go to his tribal home in the south, and have no communication with his daughter for two years, and if at the end of that time there was no change, he would give his consent.

It is said that he came back in two years to a day, and the young couple set out for New Echota to live among the Cherokees.

THE HOMEWARD TRIP.

The trip was no doubt made by boat to Savannah, and thence by rail to Augusta, and then over the intervening 200 miles by wagon, but the dangers from shipwreck at sea and from hostile tribes by land were safely passed, and the young couple at last made their home at New Echota, probably in the house that still stands and the picture of which appears herewith.



Cabin in Which Chief Galagina and His Bride Lived at New Echota, the Capital of the Cherokee Tribe. Near Calhoun, Ga., and the Burial Place of the Young Woman

The best information obtained from the oldest settlers affirms that the house was built by Boudinot, but later was given by him as a gift to the Rev. Samued A. Worcester, the Moravian missionary, through whose agency the young chief went north to school.

The house is situated close to a lovely spring from which water was obtained. The building itself has been slightly altered since its construction. The weatherboarding covers some of the original timbers, but the old stairway is there and the old-fashioned mantels with the massive chimney, the brick for which must have been hauled all the way from Augusta.

STRANGE STORIES ABOUT HOUSE.

Strange stories are told among the present residents of the community about the history of the house, especially after it was deserted by both Boudinot and the missionary, and during the stormy days preceding the removal of the tribe. It is sometimes whispered that it is haunted, for in it some maintain that an Indian was killed in a fight with another member of the tribe. Dark spots on the stairway are pointed out as blood stains which have never been effaced. There are a few ancient cedars around the house which may have been planted by Boudinot.

THE LAST INDIAN DWELLING.

This house is the last Indian dwelling in or near New Echota, which has survived the ravages of time, and which still reminds one of the time when the hills and valleys of north Georgia furnished hunting grounds for the more than 15,000 tribesmen of the Cherokee nation.

The fair young wife of Chief Boudinot became the idol of the tribe, and for the twelve years which she spent at New Echota she labored faithfully for the uplift of her adopted people. She was deeply religious and with her husband she lent her influence to the spread of the gospel. She organized a Sunday school and held its sessions at her own home. She aided in teaching the young to read and write in their native tongue by means of the syllabary which Sequoya had just invented. Her husband was a leader in all the affairs of the tribe, and was editor of the Cherokee Phoenix. This publication was printed in Cherokee at New Echota and was published from 1828 until 1834, when it was suppressed by the Georgia authorities.

Besides the publishing of this paper, portions of the New Testament were translated, printed and distributed among the tribe under the direction of Boudinot and Rev. S. A. Worcester. With these splendid influences at work, the Cherokees were rapidly moving towards a thorough Christian civilization, but already the dark days of internal dissension were dawning and the well-ordered society which was growing up around New Echota was soon to be despoiled, for the treaty of New Echota which was signed in 1835 was already being negotiated. Under the terms of this treaty, though obnoxious to 90 per cent of the Cherokees, the entire nation was forced to move west and leave forever the land of their fathers.

But Boudinot's wife was not to live through all the heart-rending scenes of the removal which took place in 1838. The care of the six children which were born to the union, together with the privations of a residence so far removed from the domestic conveniences and diet she had been accustomed to, began to tell upon her, and after a short illness she passed away on August 15, 1836.

HER GRAVE STILL MARKED.

Her grave is the only one distinctly marked among the many hundreds which must be located at New Echota. It is situated in a clump of oaks interspersed with a few pines, close to the public road which is the old trail, and not far from the spring and house previously mentioned. The tombstone was erected by Boudinot before the removal of the tribe and is made of marble brought from Connecticut, her native state. The simple inscription reads as follows:

the memory of Harriet Ruggles, wife of
Mr. Elias Boudinot.
She was the daughter of
Col. Benj. & Elsanor Gold,
of Cornwall, Conn.,

A NOTABLE SHORT STORY BY A FAMOUS WRITER

THE MISTAKE OF MRS. SEYMOUR-LOFTIS

By Lorraine C. Brower

IT WAS after her dog died that Mrs. Seymour-Loftis took her work of children's charities. From the time he was presented to her, a fuzzy, waddling, little puppy, his mistress made him the pivot around which she revolved the Loftis household from morning until night. Ko-ko must have his bath and breakfast; Ko-ko must have his walk; he must go in the carriage when she went to drive; he must appear when she had guests.

The dog in his grave, his mistress naturally faced a sudden need of occupation, and it happened that just at this period some wise friend took her to visit the children's ward in a charity hospital. Mrs. Seymour-Loftis immediately became interested. She threw herself unreservedly into the problem of raising money to enlarge the work. She planned a big bazar and held it in her own home, which was one of the handsome houses of the city. She realized a large amount of money for her purpose and also a widespread reputation for public and charitable spirit for herself. Then Mrs. Seymour-Loftis became quite thoughtful. She suddenly felt that this was the first time she had put her prestige to some real use, and it was in this self-accusing mood that she opened one morning a letter addressed to her from a small town not far away.

"Dear friend (it ran) I red about you and your work in the papers. You must be real good to do so much. It is because I know you are good that I ask this favor. I want to get a little orfun to adopt. We wont a girl not over 2 yrs and not under 1 and pritty. We are well off we own our home my man runs the road and minister will tell you we are allrite. I am so lonesome for a litti girl around the house. will you pick one out for me then I will get a pass and come and get her.

"Yours truly

"MRS. BILL MCINTYRE.

"Janesville-Ind."

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis stared; then suddenly she smiled, that gracious smile of charity she had learned to wear of late.

That afternoon she sat at her telephone and patiently called up every orphan asylum in the directory, only to receive the same answer from all. They had boys in plenty for adoption but no girls of the desired age.

Her husband found her at night, wonderfully interested in her new mission.

"I have shopped for out-of-town friends often," she said to him, "and have chosen everything for them from wig put to securing children for them." He put to securing children for them."

"Keep at it," he replied encouragingly. "There are plenty of children for the place if you only knew how to find them. It will be a good home for some youngster."

Wearily for several days thereafter the wife haunted homes and hospitals, but always with the same result. She learned that little girls of a year and under were at a premium. The lady was disgusted and discouraged. When one undertakes to be a benefactress it is irritating not to find a candidate for action.

Finally Mrs. Bill McIntyre, of Janesville, had a letter in which Mrs. Seymour-Loftis, of Chicago, graciously accepted the mission laid upon her, but deplored the fact that its accomplishment might not be as immediate as both would wish. Mrs. Seymour-Loftis it suggested, considering the dearth of boys to two year girls, Mrs. McIntyre might take an infant and raise it for herself or else a boy. She received a reply by the next post:

"Boys is too hard to home, and infants are all gambles. I knew some people once who took one young, and they was Catholics, it turned out Jew. I don't want Jews, my man is Irish."

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis sighed, but she pluckily redoubled her efforts, and one month later met with her reward. A little girl reserved for some one else and left unclaimed at the last moment was offered for her approval. By letter to Janesville she signified that the time had arrived for the minister and the officials of Mr. McIntyre's railroad to do their part, and the letters of recommendation which came in reply were highly satisfactory.

Then an animated and frequent exchange of letters ensued between the two women. The delay and inconvenience which Mrs. McIntyre suffered by reason of her inability to read what she termed "a stylish handwrite," was equalled by the difficulties her correspondent encountered in certain appalling eccentricities of orthography, but it finally developed that the lady from Janesville, whose daily duty it was to prepare family meals, could not absent herself conveniently for more than one day from the cares of her household. However, she could take advantage of Mr. McIntyre being "on a run for overnite," and would come in person for the child in the late afternoon.

Then she asked another favor. Would her friend have the little girl ready to return on the morning train with its new mother, who guessed its clothes were none too good? So she sent $5 in her letter that Mrs. Seymour-Loftis might "fix the little one up at once reel sootible for travel." She set the date for her arrival and was "obliged very truly" until then.

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis graciously responded and invited Mrs. McIntyre to stay with her. She herself would meet the train from Janesville, and her guest would find the child all ready and waiting at her house. Then she telephoned the bureau to send the little girl to her home at once.

The baby appeared in a gingham apron, stout shoes, and a plain straw hat. Her hair, which was scarcely long enough to braid, was caught in two tiny little plaits on either side of a well-shaped head, with some red tape for ribbons to tie it at the ends. Her cheeks were rosy and her hands were dimpled, and Mrs. Seymour-Loftis eyed her with pleasant interest and undertook the mission of making her "reel sootible" at once. Since Ko-Ko died his mistress had never been so pleasantly employed. She shopped indefatigably and added many dollars to Mrs. McIntyre's five.

The eventful day arrived and with it Mrs. McIntyre, carrying a bunch of dahlias in her hand for identification; she had intended them, also, as an offering of appreciation for her hostess, but when Mrs. Seymour-Loftis bore down upon her at the station the lady from Janesville could only stammer a timid greeting. She was further embarrassed when, on alighting beneath the sheltering porte-cochere of the Michigan avenue mansion, a pompous butler grabbed her shabby little grip and carried it upstairs for her.

Mrs. McIntyre almost gasped.

While she stood gingerly wiping the dust and grit of travel from her face with a monogrammed towel, there was a tap at the door and the hostess delightedly led in the little child.

Mrs. McIntyre almost gasped!

She certainly beheld that for which she had written so specifically—a girl two years old and pretty, but the dainty little fairy who danced in on two pink legs threw a frozen terror on her soul.

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis awaited uncertainly for some expression of delight. She had expected quite a different scene from this and had worked untiringly for many days in order to present this baby beautifully beruffled and befrilled to its new parent. What wonder that she stood half angry and half hurt at the lack of cordiality and appreciation in her guest?

Mrs. McIntyre, on the other hand, felt as though speech had altogether left her. She could as easily have embraced her formidable hostess as this elegant little child. She dropped the towel upon the door and stooped and picked it up to cover her confusion.

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis broke the embarrassing silence.

"This is your mama, dearie," she said primly. "Run and give her a kiss."

But the child, catching perhaps the lack of invitation in her prospective parent's eyes, clung tightly with her tiny, manicured hands to the skirts of her companion and wailed lustily, whereat a maid came in hurriedly with some pretty toys and added her mistress in hushing the child.

Mrs. McIntyre, now thoroughly wretched and ill at ease, would gladly have mingled her tears with the baby's.

Soon the little girl, urged by the other women, brought her a handsome doll to kiss, and affairs were beginning to assume a more friendly attitude when the ponderous butler announced dinner.

The meal proved one long agony for Mrs. McIntyre. Her first cursory glance at the table assured her that at least she was to be spared the company of her host.

The lady from Janesville sat dazed and helpless in a maze of flowers, silver and cut-glass. The butler set before her and removed a bewildering array of plates whose contents she left for the most part quite untasted. In her confusion she dropped two forks and they fell upon the mosaic floor with a resounding ring. The man stooped to pick them up; there was surprise and reproof in his bearing as he carried them away and then tendered her two others in their places.

Mrs. McIntyre recognized with an increased respect that all this magnificence was only every day detail with her hostess. How she longed for the sheltering comfort of her own little home, where she and Bill ate together over a bright red cloth untrammelled by the presence of a servant and needing only a single fork apiece.

But at last it all ended.

Later on it developed that Mr. Seymour-Loftis, though lacking Mr. McIntyre's excuse of running on the road, was also a gentleman given to being out over night and he did not appear through the long hours which followed.

When at last Mrs. McIntyre went to her room she lay awake restlessly and longed for the morning; only to dread it more fearfully when she remembered the ordeal of breakfast to come—the butler again with his terrifying administration of different plates, the baby in fresh finery and the hostess in another bewildering display of perfumed silks and laces—no! She could not!

The dawn found her firm in a mighty resolve. She dressed hurriedly, wrote a note and pinned it to the cushion on the dressing table.

"Dear friend: I am leaving on the first train for home. I coodent take this child nohow. Bill and me are just plane people which I was ashame to say and the baby is a princess we coodent do nothin for her we live most to our kitchin, and aint got no fine things we cant ask so grand a baby to eat and sleep with folks like us it aint fitten. I am sorry so forgive me all."

With guilty caution, the woman carrying her little grip, then slipped through the halls. No one was stirring. She wondered wildly how she might manage to unbar a strange door in that heavy silence without alarming the sleeping household; but her unwilling host had unconsciously conferred a favor upon his guest. His own night run had put him in a state of most careless indifference to locks and bolts, and entering his home in the early morning hours he had left the entrance door ajar!

Mrs. McIntyre breathed a fervent thanks to heavel as the blessed rush of cold outdoor air enveloped her feverish body and stimulated her in the long walk to the station, which she finally reached, exhausted but relieved, through the kind direction of the early milkmen whom she met upon their routes.

In the meantime the maid in making her round of morning calls at the bed rooms, received no answer from the guest's room to her persistent knock, and entering she found the room empty and the note of explanation on the cushion.

She read the nervous scrawl and sniffed, then she took it to her friend, the parlormaid, and they both sniffed in unison. They decided that their mistress now in all probability would keep the child herself and they both agreed to give prompt notice if she did. Having thus settled this weighty consideration the girl then carried the note to her mistress.

Mrs. Selmour-Loftis read the contents twice, then looked up suddenly and caught the sneer on her servant's face.

"Leave the room!" she said sharply, and the maid obeyed, wonderingly conscious that the voice of her self-contained mistress was choked with some emotion other than a sudden wrath.

The butler very shortly brought her an order to give the child its breakfast and dress it without delay in the same clothes which it had worn from the asylum. The mistress wished these details exactly carried out, even to the underclothes and the braiding of the hair. Also he vouchsafed some added information. He said their mistress was now at hasty breakfast and the carriage had been ordered. It seemed to him she might take things more peaceable and not be in such a foolish hurry to pack the child back where it came from at once.

When the maid appeared before Mrs. Seymour-Loftis with the forlornly dressed baby she carried the child's new, handsome coat and bonnet upon one arm.

"Beg pardon, ma'am, but the morning is cold," she said apologetically. "The child came without a wrap and her old straw hat's been thrown away and can't be found. Would these things do for her to wear out?"

Her mistress smiled curiously.

"Put them on her; we are going at once. I shall not need you with me," was all she said.

A time-table had revealed the fact that she had a full hour before that first train left for Janesville. Arriving at the station she led the child into the large and almost empty waiting-room and easily sighted Mrs. McIntyre. That unsuspecting lady, her back turned to the door, was seated on a high stool beside the refreshment counter.

Mrs. Seymour-Loftis drew near and stood waiting.

Mrs. McIntyre finished her repast. She paid her check and turned to go, then she saw the two directly in her path—the fashionable woman she had learned to dread and the child brave in its finery of silken coat and nodding plumes.

For one wild moment she considered a second flight, but a guilty consciousness that she had, after all, but poorly repaid and acknowledged the disinterested kindness of the lady who stood before her prompted her to wait and stammer an apology:

"I coodent do no different. Look at me, ma'am, and look at her. Why, of course, it could never be!"

For answer Mrs. Seymour-Loftis reached down and untied the child's gay bonnet strings; she loosened the fastenings of the pretty wrap and the child stood stripped of her finery.

Mrs. McIntyre started at the forlorn little creature and then a sudden light of understanding shone in her eyes.

"Mrs. McIntyre," she said, "I am a very foolish woman and I see I have made a great mistake. When I bought the child those silly things I only thought to please you and make her more attractive in your eyes. I know now I spoiled your pleasure and your plans. But I've brought her to you again this morning—the baby as she really is. Here's the money that you sent me and you two can start quite fresh; so all she has in this world she will owe only to you. I am sorry I have been so clumsy, but believe me, I did not know."

Then Mrs. Bill McIntyre of Janesville reached over and patted Mrs. Seymour-Loftis soothingly upon the shoulder as that lady wiped her eyes. There was no familiarity in the action only a sweet and full understanding.

"There now, neighbor, don't you cry," she said simply. "we, both of us have made mistakes."

THE "ROCK-THE-CRADLE" WOMAN IS CHOICE OF WORLD'S GREAT MATINEE IDOL

By Idah McGlone Gibson.

What kind of a woman does the greatest matinee idol of the world think is the IDEAL woman?

This is the question which I have just put to Lewis Waller, the great English actor and the man with whom, it is said, more women are in love—across the footlights—than any other stage lover.

Lewis Waller is not handsome—in the accepted school girl way. His features are too rugged; his eyes are too cold. His mouth is mobile, but his lips express decision rather than compliment. But beneath is the cleft chin which is said to betray the lover—by-old earth. But it has been man who position.

"What do you think of the modern woman—the suffragette?" I asked this boudoir-hero as he took a chair opposite me.

"I loathe her," he answered quickly. "Every nice man does. What does a man want of a woman who shrieks and fights and tells him that she must have certain things or she will certainly make it hot for him?

"When English suffragettes sent for a motto for their sisterhood a while ago I wired them back this one:

"'Rock the Cradle!'

"Women have a distinct place in the world, just as man has his place to fill and the sexes can not change nor alternate places," went on Idol Waller.

"It is woman's portion to ask and man's pprivilege to give.

"Women can get whatever they want if they go after it in the right way. Their influence since the world began has been that which has moved this has done the heavy work for them.

"'The woman persuaded me' has always been man's glory, as well as his excuse. No artist has ever created anything great unless some woman stood somewhere near him with her love and her sympathy.

COMMERCIALISM MAKING SOCIALISM

BY BISHOP W. A. CANDLER

THERE are two forces in this country, commercialism and socialism, which seem to be antagonistic, but which really have much in common. Commercialism proceeds on the idea that money is the supreme good, and the want of it the worst evil. Socialism accepts this view, and offers a program for a more equal distribution of money and all material goods, so that there shall be no poverty and no excessive affluence. Both systems of thought rest on the idea that the possession of property is the most important thing in earthly life.

It is not strange, therefore, that our highly commercialized civilization in America is giving rise to socialism. And the remedy for both socialism and commercialism is the positive denial and refutation of the unscriptural notion that wealth is the highest good and poverty the worst evil. This false idea is contradicted by every recorded utterance of Jesus Christ touching these things, and it is also in the teeth of the teaching of the wisest philosophers of all ages. It is so obviously false that to state it in all its nakedness is sufficient to refute it. But while it is so manifestly false, it is very subtle, and produces in its approaches to the human mind. Men often unconsciously assume that it is true, and proceed to act on that assumption in the prosecution of the most serious work. It appeals to that which is carnal and selfish in the human heart, and thereby it secures a too ready acceptance. Even preachers, whom it is fair to assume study habitually the words of Jesus, fall into this snare of overestimating material good.

BISHOP WARREN A. CANDLER.

There are many evidences around us today which show how many preachers and entire churches have succumbed to the delusive spell of the doctrine of mammonism. The program of some pulpits seems to be one which omits almost entirely efforts to accomplish spiritual good, and is apparently concerned solely with schemes to promote material good. We hear much more from time to time about the "social service" than we hear about salvation from sin. Many cant phrases are current which indicate a spirit of earthly-mindedness. Men talk of what they are pleased to call "practical religion," and when they are pressed to define the term, their answer shows that they mean only the relief of physical want, as if the only thing to be practiced in this world were the effort to escape discomfort and to secure bodily satisfaction.

Now the Christian religion enjoins the relief of the needy. It has inspired all the worthy philanthropy which is found among men. It requires of its followers all the offices of brotherly kindness toward one's fellow men, such as, feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and visiting the sick with healing ministrations; but its emphasis falls on the spiritual; it puts all the offices of kindness not as the essence of religion, but as the fruit of religion. This order is reversed in the false view under consideration. By it the spiritual is ignored and the physical occupies the whole field of vision. In the final outcome, such a doctrine defeats its own proposals; for when the spiritual is dried up, there will be no reliable source from which streams of benevolence will flow. Both commercialism and socialism spring from selfishness, and in the end both result in making a blighted and arid social system. There is no process by which selfishness can be transmuted into any good thing. It is a noxious thing to be extirpated, rather than a wild thing from the domestication of which good can be drawn. This evil seed of social selfishness—the doctrine that material good is the highest good—must be destroyed.

By both precept and example a nobler doctrine must be propagated; we must maintain and constantly set forward the truth that the true end of human life is spiritual, not material, and that material good is real good only when it is used to serve this end.

Preachers must proclaim this truth in all its full-orbed beauty and cease enjoining the gospel of benevolence in such a lop-sided way as to create more covetousness than they correct.

...ien and women, whom the Lord has prospered, must by the Christian use of their possessions, commend this truth to the world. When one grasps all he can, and keeps for his own use all that he grasps, whether he be a disciple of socialism or of commercialism, he proves by his belief in the creed of mammon which affirms that material good is the supreme good. Many people, even with love, desire to procure spiritual good for himself and others, he denies this doctrine of devils," and proclaims his belief that heavenly, not earthly, good is the supreme need of human life.

There is a selfish waste of money on vain display and luxurious indulgences which inflames socialism and excites social unrest. Banquets and balls, plays and pastimes, pursued as the main business of life, breed vast evil. Such living not only defies material need, but it sets a rather low standard of material good for deification. When lavish expenditures are made for social baubles, the socialist can stand up and rightly demand to know, "Why this waste of resources which might better be used to relieve pressing human needs?"

Our people of wealth must cease using their wealth as a mere toy, or they will bring on a political revolution which they may not know or want which they use (or misuse) so unwisely.

Here is a recent utterance of Victor L. Berger, Socialist ex-Congressman from Wisconsin, which with all its implications will bear very careful consideration. He is reported as saying just before the close of his term in Congress, the following:

"After I go out of office in March I propose to go on advocating the ideas to acquire the trusts just as the trusts acquired the corporations—by purchase. In twelve years they would pay for themselves with love and a fat profit for them. Some Socialists don't want to pay up, but I do. It is the cheapest way in the end. Henry Clay saw that we must end slavery and he advocated purchase. The South proved by the Bible that slavery was right. The North proved by the Bible that slavery was wrong. And the North yelled "graft" at the proposal to buy, while the South yelled "confiscation." And a million men marched down to do the work that $5,000,000 would have done. I love my country. I would gladly die to-night if by dying I could add to the realization on the part of brave, thoughtful men, that the end of the present way is close at hand."

There is a political trend in this country which is moving in the same direction as that in which Mr. Berger is going. The people of America, if we fail to learn the lesson which, as yet, it is not too late to acquire.

The evotees of commercialism may denounce the principles of socialism as much as they will, but both parties are planted upon the same evil principle of the over-estimation of material good. Let the commercialists renounce this principle and begin to live on a higher plane, and socialism will wither away. But let them continue in their riotous living, and they will fan the socialistic flame which will consume them.

FINE ART COOKING CALLING AT THE CATACOMBS

SNAIL ON TOAST

By Smith Clayton

SOME aesthetic duck wrote a book about "Where and How to Dine in Paris." He was an Englishwoman, and actually confessed that Englishmen didn't know where and how to dine in Paris. Good.

Now, I would be the last man to deny that there is at least one good thing in London—the foggiest, crookedest and most uninteresting city to me in the world. Gloomy-looking, smoke-stained, somber, but great in its very murkiness. Well, somebody wrote a story, "In Darkest London," and darkness, said Dr. Blair in his rhetoric, is an element of the sublime. So be it.

JUST ONE.

I said one good thing; the very best thing there, according to my taste, is that south down mutton. Yes, sir; it is plain food, well cooked, savoury and juicy, and not too highly peppered and salted—a dish, as they carve it, fit for the gods.

THAT'S ALL.

Whence and how to dine in Paris, indeed! It matters not where or how you dine, you get something good done up in the high art of the kitchens, for all the old masters in Paris are not in the art galleries. God bless you, there are the chefs.

SAME MAN.

But this same author, after telling of visits which he made to such sumptuous establishments as the Maison Doree, Marguery's, the Cafe Auglais, where from $7 to $12 was given up for dinners, winds up by saying that his favorite restaurant in Paris is no restaurant at all, but simply a bouillon, a modest little hole-in-the-wall within a stone's throw of the San Lazare railway station. And yet everything, even in this obscure eating joint, was of the very best.

WHAT HE HAD.

The fish was fresher, the meat tenderer than at any restaurant except the choicest and most expensive in town, and its specialty, the roasting of poultry and game, so exquisite as to whet the appetite of the long-departed, the last possibility of good roasting. And the best bread sauce imaginable, and the singularly choice accompaniments of pheasants, the partridges and the quails which the proprietor, who is also cook, serves—and the perfection of cooking in the thick piece of toast—fine art upon which the partridges repose, and all that. And the wine cellars in keeping with the rest of the menu.

THE POINT.

Now, here's the point: the prices at this place are incredibly low! It is a cheap, obscure, out-of-the-way eating place, and yet the favorite resort of a connoisseur of Parisian dinners who prefers it to the swellness of Lafayette, the sumptuousness of Sylvains—this pebble on the restaurant beach run by a man named Fleig as a rotisserie on the Rue Pepiniere. Everywhere in Paris you get something good to eat, and often for 30 cents spent in a price-fixed restaurant you will get better stuff than at the so-called classic joints for eight dollars.

WAIT A WEEK.

Before writing of the snails I wish to say that my all-round opinion will be written about next week and a glimpse given of the gay, fast life of a city that never sleeps. Meanwhile, as these odd stories are always welcome, the newcomers who have never heard them, the Parisians do not feed like Englishmen and Americans. A few thousand years' training has made them masters of the art of eating and drinking. My first impression of the town was that it is a city of general dissipation. The people all seemed sitting in front of the cafes on the broad boulevard sidewalks under the grand trees, eating and drinking and having the gayest sort of a time.

EVERYBODY DRINKING.

I soon discovered my mistake. Everybody was drinking, but nobody was drunk. Everybody was eating, but nobody was gormandizing. I heard of no dyspeptic in Paris, or nobody dropping dead from indigestion, or heart failure. I saw nobody taking the heaviest meal in the middle of the day and then rushing off to business before the dinner had a chance to settle, much less to digest. I saw nobody rushing in saloons and gulping down alcoholic stimulants and then speeding in the hot sun. No, sir, that is not the Paris method. Frenchmen do make make senseless early food for the grave worm by working on undigested meals and swigging drinks strongly alcoholic. I mean, of course, the great conservative body of the people—not writing now of absinthe and benedictine fiends which are the vicious exception.

THREE HOURS.

The Parisioner's first breakfast is simply a cup of coffee and a light roll or two at an early hour, say between 7 and 9. The dejeuner a-la Fourchette, or second breakfast, is a substantial meal served between 10:30 and 1:30. The majority of Parisians dine between 6 and 8 o'clock. This, of course, is the main meal, consisting of several courses. They eat lightly in the morning and again at noon—and after the day's work is done enjoy the dinner and have plenty of time to sit quietly and digest their food before going to some place of amusement. If that is not a wise way of eating, why show me. I know it is, because the French, as I ever got to the undertaker was an attack of nervous dyspepsia caused by hurrying the meal or rushing around at all hours on a stomach of unassimilated food.

THEY "SIP."

Parisians do not gulp.

They sip.

They drink their wine just as the Germans drink their beer—slowly. The Parisian sits in front of his cafe in fine weather with his cute little glass of Bordeaux, or Burgundy, as the case may be, and sips it as he surveys the passing throng, the ever-changing picture of the boulevards. And that, too, is the way the German takes his beer in the magnificent gardens of Munich and Frankfort, as he sits with his family and enjoys the sports around him. And, mark you, there's not enough alcohol in all the beer to make the muscles and the nutritious beer of Germany to kill a child, much less a man.

BY SMITH CLAYTON.

THE CHILDREN DRINK.

I have seen children of both nations drinking wine and beer over there, and you'll find as many old people in France and Germany in proportion to population as anywhere in the world.

We Americans are beginning to learn how to build railroad trains and mechanical inventions and sail yachts, and several other things, but when it comes to eating and drinking and cooking, and enforcing the law, and safety in railroad travel, and several other things, they can give us points and to spare.

A man named Pruner, in a narrow, soiled street, near the Boulevard Madeleine, does, or did, a big business in snails. He sells stacks of oysters, too.

PRETTY TOUGH.

The entrance to the place is rough, with banks of oysters on every side. But inside is all electric glare and gilding and luxurious carpets and so on. This man serves red Burgundy with snails and white Burgundy with oysters—but not to me. The line is drawn at snails, but strictly from prejudice and taste, for when it comes to uncouth sliminess, the snail has nothing on the oyster. Gormands say the snail is a most tender, dainty dish of delicate flavor. They're welcome to nothing so bad as a bad snail. There are the wood snail and the graveyard snail, which is very fat and toothsome, say the snail eaters. Ugh! but the "gorge rises at it!" The champagne salt is said to be a clean-feeding beast, and has less body than the Burgundian snail, the largest and most highly flavored. The cooking of the snail is a very elaborate process, and the cook in nice made a fortune by solving the problem of producing a tender snail. "Passed."

I "pased" on oysters and snails, too. The oysters are as bad in Paris as the Americans. The cook like ours, and are very small. I suspect that these French oysters, like the frogs' legs, are harpooned in the famous city of the Seine. They certainly suggest our luscious bivalves from Mobile and Norfolk by contrast only.

There are some restaurants n Paris which serve horsesteaks which are said to be very juicy and appetizing. But the same prejudice referred to above restrained me from partaking. Still, the horse is always better groomed, has better manners, is immeasurably cleaner than the hog. But then, you see, we have never eaten a gelding roast or a mule stew. That makes all the difference in the world.

One will do.

It is said that the catacombs of Paris have about sixty entrances. We didn't need but one, and found it not far from the south end of the cemetery of Mont Parnasse, on the left bank of the Seine. This is in the heart of old Paris. You have to get permission from the prefect of the Seine at the Luxembourg to visit the catacombs. Visitors are admitted into their gloomy depths twice weekly. Once was enough for me.

THE GREAT MAJORITY.

There are more people dead than living—did you ever think of that? Of the untold millions of dead Paris has her share. It is possible, you know, for graveyards to get too crowded. As far back as 1784 the city of Paris ordered cents, and other graveyards, became overcrowded. They were closed and the thousands of bodies removed into these underground quarries. In 1786, these catacombs were turned into a colossal charnel house. The Red Mouth of the Revolution and The Reign of Terror belched whole necatombs of bodies and bones, into these darksome caverns of the dead. They were simply piled in confused masses. But with 1810 a system was adopted for the regular assortment of the bones of the myriad departed, and the proper and cleanly preservation of this vast sepulchre.

A GHASTLY SPECTACLE.

And this is the ghastly sight that greeted my vision in a five-mile walk under the south end of Paris. Stacks, nay, solid squares, of white bones, arranged to the right and left of a broad graveled walk, wide rows of grinning skulls planted at intervals in the squares many feet square. The high roof of masonry is supported by strong pillars, air is admitted through excavations in the roof, and there are chandells in this underworld for carrying of the water.

A feature here plainly shown in the light of the candles with which we were piloted down the rambling stairway into this rather horrible ground where nothing is buried, a feature is several chapels actually and entirely constructed of white bones relieved by grewsome skulls bearing various inscriptions.

MASTER OF DEATH.

If there was a whole body together in proper shape in this place, or a single skull adjusted to its proper neck, I did not observe it.

But as we walked by fitful candle light through this well-ventilated huge receptacle of white and moveless forms, individual bones and sightless eye and speechless lips, I could but think that once in loving life and rosy health and symmetric strength these whitened bones did walk the earth, both loving and beloved.

And this vast sepulchre carried me back some yet more solemn years which embraced Him lovingly only to release His grand ascension to the skies. I could but think of that olden story of Him and His glory, and what He said:

"I am the resurrection and the life. He who believeth in me, though he be dead yet shall he live!"

Master of death. He makes the white bones speak.

THE LAWN BEAUTIFUL

BY DR. ANDREW M. SOULE

WHAT is more attractive than a beautiful lawn? It adds 25 per cent to the appearance of the home. It not only enhances the value of the property, but it lends a type of beauty and attractiveness which can be obtained in no other way. Why is it that there are so few really nice lawns? Is it because this question is not considered of importance or is it owing to the difficulty so many experience in developing and maintaining a beautiful stand of grass during the summer season? Some years of experience in a position where a large amount of correspondence has been received from all classes of citizens would indicate that there is a much greater interest in the question of attractive lawns than some might suppose, and that this interest is not by any means confined to the city home owner, but frequently finds an echo in the heart of the farmer as well.

To have a beautiful lawn it is essential that the land be put in good condition. This means that frequently a year will be necessary to put the ground in proper shape. Of course, where money is not considered, the land should first be carefully graded and leveled, and then if a choice type of Bermuda or blue grass sod be available it should be transferred to the freshly graded surface and properly compacted and sprinkled to insure a quick start. Before the grass is laid there should be scattered over the graded area a number of loads of rich earth from the woods, but it will also be good practice to put down at the rate of 1,000 to 2,000 pounds per acre a formula consisting of from 5 to 10 per cent of phosphorus, 6 per cent of nitrogen and 6 per cent of potash. The nitrogen may be derived from cotton seed meal and other organic materials. The phosphoric acid and potash may be obtained from acid phosphate and muriate of potash, respectively. Putting the fertilizer down under the sod prevents its being washed away and yet brings an abundant supply of quickly available plant food within the reach of the roots immediately they start to grow. The organic nitrogen will be better for the purpose indicated because it becomes more slowly available and the growing plants will be able to utilize it, therefore, to greater advantage than if it were all in a condition where they could take it up at once. Securing a good sod is often a difficult problem and, of course, this is the most expensive way in which to establish a lawn, but experience would indicate that it is also one of the most satisfactory.

Where the land intended for grass is in very bad physical condition, it should be plowed, scraped and leveled, and then may be seeded the first year to cowpeas or velvet beans. This can often be done to advantage on an open lawn, but if there are many shade trees with only fair success. As a vigorous growth is desired, it will be advisable to use fertilizer in a more liberal manner than would ordinarily be necessary with legumes, and a higher per cent of nitrogen will be found profitable than could be used under these crops under field conditions. A 10-3-3 would be a good formula to use. The nitrogen in this instance may again be derived from cotton seed meal or such other organic sources as the owner may consider as cheap or as easy to obtain. In the fall the cowpeas or beans should be plowed under, and if the land is extremely poor, a winter cover crop may be sown to be again turned under early in the spring. Bermuda grass could not, of course, be sown to advantage in the fall. Italian rye or some of the other rye grasses may be used to advantage. At best they only serve to produce a temporary lawn, beautifully green in the winter, but dying down and frequently leaving the bare ground exposed in the summer. The other grasses available for lawn purposes are Texas Blue, Kentucky Blue and Bermuda. The latter is by all odds the most satisfactory for the varied conditions prevailing in the southeastern states, as it will make a more dense sod and maintain itself to better advantage under adverse conditions. By reason of the disadvantage of dying down when the frosts appear in the fall and presenting an unattractive appearance during the winter. This may be overcome to a considerable extent by sowing some of the rye grasses on the sod in the fall, encouraging the growth of the grass by frequent top dressings of pulverized limestone at the rate of one ton per acre, or through the seeding of Texas blue grass roots. This is a tedious and somewhat expensive undertaking, but in the course of time the blue grass will spread and a fine lawn will be had both summer and winter. Kentucky blue grass can only be grown under shaded or semi-shaded conditions and it will only thrive in those localities where it is frequently watered in the summer time, or where the soil has been abundantly supplied with lime. Not less than two tons per acre of the pulverized stone should be used where one attempts to establish a blue grass lawn and frequent applications should be made thereafter.

There are some who object to Bermuda grass on the ground that it will only grow on fairly open lawns. As a matter of fact, these are as a rule the most beautiful from an aesthetic point of view, and where the trees are properly placed and trimmed rather high, a Bermuda grass sod can be kept in excellent condition, and for several months of the year will present a more attractive appearance than any other grass which can be used for lawn purposes in the southeastern states. Bermuda grass will get along with less water and less care than any of the other grasses, but like all of them, will be benefited by liberal fertilization. As the grass is expected to grow for several months slow acting forms of nitrogen will be found satisfactory. In the early spring a little nitrate of soda may be used as a top dressing, say at the rate of 100 pounds per acre to start the grass off promptly. Then an application of a formula made up of cotton seed meal, acid phosphate and potash may be used to good advantage. As it may be difficult to obtain the per cent of nitrogen desired in a lawn dresser from cotton seed meal alone, blood or sul*phate of ammonia may often be* used in the mixture to advantage. A lawn should receive annually an application of 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre of a formula containing about 9 per cent of phosphoric acid, 5 to 6 per cent of nitrogen and 6 to 7 per cent of potash. Where this is done and the grass is regularly trimmed and properly watered, a beautiful lawn may be had for the greater part of the year, and even though it may be brown at certain seasons, a fine dense sod will be maintained at all times and thus effectualy prevent washing or erosion.

There are few things which add so much to the appearance of the home as a good lawn. After all, one can be had and maintained without serious effort on the part of the home owner. Those who are having trouble with this matter are not using the right grass or grasses or are not fertilizing and caring for the land properly. It is strange that most people imagine that a grass sod will renew itself from year to year without the use of fertilizer. It is for this reason that so many experience difficulty in maintaining a satisfactory sod on the lawn. Remember that the growth of a lawn is dependent largely on an abundant supply of nitrogen and that this element must be used in a form which will render some of it available to the growing plants for the greater part of the year. Lime will do much to improve the quality of the grass and to hold in check weeds which thrive best under an acid soil condition. Top dressing with well rotted manure once a year is very desirable, and though the lawn may not be quite so attractive, it is best to leave the clippings on the surface rather than to remove them as is so often practiced. If the grass is cut often enough sufficient clippings will be returned to look unsightly or to injure the lawn in any way.

PLANTING CORN IN THE WATER FURROW.

L. R. S., Winder, Ga., writes: I have a piece of ground I want to make a large yield of corn on. It will make about one-half bale of cotton per acre. I have the ground broken flat. I intend to plant in furrowed. My plan is to plant in the water furrow and then put 200 pounds of acid, guano and about 150 pounds cotton per acre. How far apart shall I have my rows and how close to plant the seed. My land is gravelly. Do you think the fertilizer I am using is all right?

Gravelly land is likely to dry out rather quickly and to lose a good deal of moisture by subdrainage. On this account vegetable matter is a very important amendment to use on soil such as you describe. It may not be possible for you to get either litter or yard manure for you to use, but if you can apply several tons per acre, mixing it well with the subsoil underneath the drill row and combining it with the fertilizer. We are disposed to think that the application of 200 pounds per acre is under corn, but doubt the advisability of not using a little more potash, say at least 4 per cent. The 3 per cent of nitrogen which you use under the crop in combination with the soda as a top dressing will furnish a fair amount of nitrogen. If this could be supplemented with vegetable matter as suggested and seasonal conditions are at all favorable, you should be able to make a good crop on the land in question. We think it is good practice to plant in the water furrow under the circumstances. We would select a prolific type of corn, as we think nothing better will be found for growth on upland soils, and plant in drill 4 1-2 feet apart and leave the plants about 12 to 15 inches apart in the drill rows.

LEGUMES AS NITROGEN GATHERERS.

J. C. M., Decatur, Ga.,: writes: I would like some information in regard to the manner in which the cowpea gathers nitrogen from the air. Can I determine if the soil is inoculated by examining the roots of last year's pea stubble? If I find my land is not inoculated how shall I go about inoculating it? Will I store nitrogen in the soil when I cut my cowpeas for hay or must the whole crop be turned under?

If you will examine the roots of the pea crop in the early stages of its development, you will find little white knots or exrescences thereon. If a considerable number of these have developed on the plants scattered throughout your field, your land is quite well inoculated, and the use of artificial cultures is unnecessary. When the bacteria are not present in the soil the pea crop does not do well, as a rule, and the plants are sickly and yellow in appearance. A bright green color and vigorous growth is a pretty good surface evidence that the land is inoculated. Peas, as you no doubt know, require considerable quantities of phosphorus and potash, and though some of our north Georgia red clay lands contain a large amount of potash, much of it is not in an available form to plants, and therefore lime must be used to set it free, or artificial sources of potash added to the soil. We think the use of a 10-4 formula at the rate of 300 to 400 pounds per acre will be found a profitable thing to do. If you use lime put on a ton of the pulverized rock two weeks or so before planting the peas and then no potash need be used in your application.

If you find your pease are not inoculated you may use the artificial cultures, which understand are sold at most exclusively through seed houses. If your peas developed nodules last year, it is not necessary for you to inoculate the soil this year. When they accumulate in the land in any considerable numbers they live over from year to year in sufficient numbers to meet the needs of the average crop. The bacteria living in the nodules on the roots of leguminous crops give them their sole power of assimilating atmospheric nitrogen, and in the absence of these bacteria the crops do not gather nitrogen from the air, and though they make a vigorous growth they are in reality robbing the soil of its supply of nitrogen. Most of the nitrogen gathered from the air is stored in the grain and leaves. Therefore when you cut off a crop you leave in the roots, stubble and fallen leaves from 20 to 35 pounds of nitrogen per acre. A crop of cowpeas may gather as much as 100 to 125 pounds of nitrogen. You will see, therefore, in cutting off this crop and making it into hay, you are removing from the soil the greater part of the nitrogen which the crop has elaborated.

INFLUENCE OF COTTON SEED ON LAND.

S. S. C., Vidalia, Ga., writes: Does green cotton seed improve land very much? Is it not a good idea to broadcast them on the land, say in January or before, and plow them under?

A ton of cotton seed contains from $10 to $11 worth of plant food, depending on the price of commercial fertilizer. The green seed have no effect in the soil save the benefit which may arise to growing crops from their rapid decay and the setting free of the plant food which they contain. Some have suggested that cotton seed add humus to the soil, but the amount ordinarily used would not affect the per cent of humus to any appreciable extent. As the seed contain a considerable quantity of oil we would not be by any means be strongly recommended save when their sale price is much below that of their fertilizing value. The oil tends to clog up the pores of the soil and in this respect is detrimental rather than beneficial. Where seed are used we think it good practice to broadcast them and turn them into the ground at the season of the year you have suggested. This allows them to decay and renders the food available to growing crops.

CONTROLLING RED WEED.

N. R. M., Forsyth, Ga., writes: I have 25 acres of red weed land that has been lying out for the past three years. I would like advice in regard to sowing it down to oats next fall, how to prepare the land, etc. How much guano and acid will be used and what kind? What variety of oats should I sow?

Presumably by red weed you mean a form of dock which grows more or less commonly in this state and is supposed to thrive best on land which is acid in character. We would suggest that you plow deeply during the winter, harrow and drag store and test your land for acidity by scraping away the surface soil to a depth of two or three inches. Take a handful of the dirt obtained, put in a clean tin cup and moisten thoroughly with rain water and insert a piece of litmus paper. If it turns red in a short time it is an indication that the soil is quite acid. If this be true we believe it well pay you to break this land with two-horse plow and prepare a fine seed bed. Then apply a ton of the pulverized raw lime rock per acre. Secure a type of this material running high in carbonate of lime. Scatter it broadcast over the surface of the ground and harrow it in. In a few days apply 200 to 400 pounds of a 10-4 formula and sow to cowpeas. Then graze the peas down in the late summer and plow the refuse under. Prepare a good seed bed and sow to oats in the open furrow using a carefully selected strain of the rust proof variety. Under the oats we would suggest that you use 200 to 500 pounds per acre of a formula containing about 8 per cent of phosphorus, 2 per cent of nitrogen and 3 per cent of potash.

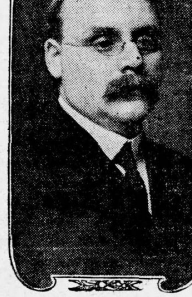
FEEDING THE CORN CROP.

C. C., Gainesville, Ga., writes: I am thinking of using the following on my corn: 200 pounds of 16 per cent acid, 150 pounds of 12 per cent acid, 150 pounds of cotton seed meal. Will that be a sufficient amount of nitrogen? How much corn should I make with good cultivation? I will make two side applications.

The formula you propose using under your corn would contain approximately 20.5 pounds of available phosphoric acid, 6.18 pounds of available nitrogen, and 20 pounds of available potash. Its percentage composition would therefore be 6.6 per cent of phosphoric acid, 1.5 per cent of nitrogen and 5 per cent of potash. We would not consider this a well balanced formula for corn, but would advise you to increase the nitrogen by the use of at least 100 pounds of cotton seed meal. This would raise the nitrogen to 3 per cent which we think is a desirable thing for you to do. A couple of side applications on your corn, provided they are put on relatively early in the season will be an advantage. We would advise two to three weeks between these side applications depending on seasonal conditions. We would put the second application on after the last cultivation or application of the corn. Mix the fertilizer well and then top soil where you use a relatively slow acting form of nitrogen as cotton seed meal. We would advise you to cultivate the corn very thoroughly and persistently, using shallow surface working implements to that end. Keep it free from weeds and the crust broken. There is no telling how much corn you should make with the amount of fertilizer suggested, but under favorable seasonal conditions you should count on fifty bushels and upwards per acre.



DR. A. M. SOULE.

TREATMENT OF A SICK MULE.

A subscriber, Sumner, Ga., writes: I have a mule that is not well, and at times has something like colic. I feed her ear corn, oats and fodder, but her food does not seem to digest. I have given her linseed oil, salts and castor oil, and she will get better for a few days, but it does not last. Would like to know what to do for her.

Undoubtedly your mule is suffering from a case of more or less chronic indigestion, a trouble which can best be remedies by proper feed, care and management. We would suggest that you change the feed entirely for a few days and give bran mashes. Then use green feed as much as possible. Feed oats alone for a week or two, and then mix ear corn and oats together, using two-thirds of the former and one-third of the latter. Be sure that the fodder is cleaned before feeding, and also that your mule has a comfortable stable. Some good clean hay will be a very desirable amendment to the ration. If you have some vetch and oats growing together or even oats alone, use them as roughness for a few days. We would suggest that you can give a dose of Epsom salts and ginger, one tablespoonful each. This is an important matter. After that use the following condition powder as directed:

Sulphate of iron, 2 ounces,
Nitrate of potash, 2 ounces.
Gential root, 2 ounces.
Nux vomica seed, 1 ounce,
Ginger root, 1 ounce.

These materials should be thoroughly mixed together and pulverized, and a heaping teaspoonful given in the food three times daily.

To Be an Ambassador

(Saturday Evening Post.)

Our ambassador at the court of St. James should be a man to hand a teacup with grace and precision. He should know the difference between a macaroon and a soda cracker at the first rapid glance. He should be so habituated to dress suits and clothes that he can wear them without surreptitiously feeling himself to see whether he is hanging together. It is highly desirable, though not absolutely necessary, that he be in such a financial position that he can give an expensive dinner each day without looking at the luncheon clock until the next paycheck comes in. That he should be readily teachable on the points of etiquette and ceremony, and that he should look forward to associating with the very best people goes without saying.

With these qualifications almost any ambassador will get on very well. Experienced attaches of English court etiquette and, with Washington on minutes and, with Washington on hand, will be a political portion of his duties will be easy.

The title describes his office with an accuracy not often found in official nomenclature. His mission is to the court of St. James, which is the plainest way of saying what more elaborately but modern England wears for the time being. As for representing the United States in Great Britain, millions of words, proceeding from thousands of men, are doing that.

The "Helplessness" of Londonrs

(London Chronicle.)

It was not the brightly polished boots of the Londoners that most impressed an old Canadian whom I took to see the sights of the median whom I took to see the sights of the metropolis some time ago. It was his first sight of us, and he was frank. He confided to me that he was most struck by our "general helplessness," and illustrated his meaning by telling me that in the town he came from the lawyer thought it no shame to carry a sack of flour through the street, the doctor might be seen spending his leisure by painting his house, or the parson engaged with spade and pick, like any navvy. And now my Canadian friend has had arrived in a country where a man would not be ashamed to mend his own boots or his own carpets on occasion. Of course I defended our British point of view, and discoursed of less convention, but I could not avoid feeling that Canadian sentiment is healthier than our own in these things.

Historic Old Building at Milledgeville Now Being Used by Georgia Military College---Many Famous Georgians Have Spoken Within Its Walls---Fell Into Hands of Raiders During Civil War, But Now Stands as Silent Sentinel of Campus

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 17.—Where the voices of Toombs, Stephens, Hill and other famous Georgians of former days once rolled in oratorical thunder the silence of the study hall now prevails. Georgia's old capitol building, completed more than 100 years ago, is used as the main building of the Georgia Military college, and though the storms of a century have waged around it the building is as solid and firm as the day when it was finished by the builders.

It has witnessed more changes than any other notable public building in the state, and the indications are that its field of usefulness is becoming larger with each passing year.

When the Civil war was nearing its end Sherman and his raiders swarmed around and through the building, rifled it of its contents and scattered the precious state records to the four winds of earth, but the structure itself was left intact, together with the massive gates that formed the first barrier to the passageway to the interior of the large capitol grounds.

STILL PLACE OF BEAUTY.

The same old trees that beautified the surroundings in the days when the tate was young still stand sentinel-like, making the place one of beauty. Thirty years ago the Middle Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical college was started in the fine old building, being operated under the state university system, and the start was a splendid one, but later on the scope of the institution was changed and the name was changed to that of the Georgia Military college.

The history back of the institution is enviable, and some of the most notable men of the country have studied there. William G. McAdoo, as a boy, lived within a stone's throw of the structure; Captain James M. Little, of the Twenty-eighth United States infantry, is a graduate of the institution; so is Captain Alfred C. Newell, chief tactical officer of West Point; Colonel Frank Del. Carrington, Dr. Richard V. Lamar, of the Rockefeller institute, and many other distinguished men.

A new regime has been inaugurated at the college and the new thought in education, the methods that tend to make men fitted for modern fields of endeavor, have been introduced, and enthusiasm prevails in every class. President O. R. Horton has been in charge for just a year, and this term there will be only seventeen in the graduating class, but the junior class to graduate next term numbers forty, and the prospects are for fifty graduates at least, for numerous additions are expected to be made before the next term opens.

SCHOOL WON LOVING CUP.

There are three companies of cadets and these number 145 in all. The trustees and the management expects to increase this number to easily 200 for the next term, and possibly 250. The record of the school the past season has been remarkable, and at the recent meeting in Augusta of all the institutions in the Tenth district the Georgia Military college won the silver loving cup for scoring the highest number of points of any school. The students made first in spelling, first in music, first in athletic events, second in declamation, third in essays and second in 100-yard dash, second in 220-yard dash, first in half-mile relay race, and scored many other victories.

The attention given athletics is an attractive one, and in this work President Horton is enthusiastic himself, and is assisted by Coach Arthur K. Maddox, Captain W. E. Wilson, of the United States army, and Captain M. M. Cole, director of the band, is also a retired United States army officer. The athletic field is a splendid one, and in addition to this the cadets have the benefits of the national guard range within two miles of the college, situated in a splendid place and easily accessible. Besides this, Hollingshead's camp, seven miles below the city, is open to the cadets once a year for a ten days' camping trip, and they enjoyed the outing three weeks ago. The last day of the camping trip a great picnic was given to which over 500 people of the city went, giving new spirit to the students.

The excellent band is a feature of the college, and it is under the direction of Captain M. M. Cole, U. S. A., retired. The literary societies are especially interesting, and there are two of these among the cadets, the "Jeffersonians" and the "Senate," each with a large membership.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS.

The graduating exercises will be held the last week in May and on May 25 Dr. C. C. Jarrell, of Athens, will deliver the commencement sermon, and the following Monday Hon. Thomas W. Shackelford, of Athens, will deliver the baccalaureate address. The following well known citizens of Milledgeville compose the board of trustees: Adolph Joseph, president; Mayor Miller S. Bell, Dr. J. E. Kidd, Dr. George D. Case, Judge John T. Allen, E. E. Bell, R. B. Moore, L. C. Hall, Julius A. Horne, John Conn.

The graduating class this year is composed of Cadets T. J. Autrey, Tifton, Ga.; H. G. Benton, Monticello, Ga.; C. C. Benton, Monticello, Ga.; Luther Clement, Eatonton, Ga.; George Cox, Monroe, Ga.; W. T. Garrard, Jr., Milledgeville, Ga.; Howard Lanier, Harlem, Ga.; E. E. Hardin, Monticello, Ga.; J. E. Nunnally, Monroe, Ga.; Smith Wilson, Monticello, Ga., and Misses Lora Bateman, Gordon, Ga.; Leone Barber, Lucille Gumm, Marie Moran, Laura Belle Stembridge, Mildred Stembridge and Lura Skinner, of Milledgeville.

A campaign for extension is now under way by the college authorities, and President O. R. Horton will do much personal work this summer in perfecting plans and securing students among the most approved lines of modern education and the progress to be made insures for the institution a place of high standing among the educational establishments of Georgia. The city of Milledgeville levies 40 per cent of its taxes to maintain the college, in addition to state aid.

STATE DIVISION GROWS IN FAVOR IN FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—It is not the general opinion that the state division proposition has any considerable favor, nor is it apparent that the agitation was started for any more serious purpose than to advertise that section of the state, yet, like some other movements that have begun half in jest, it is acquiring more than a mere modicum of consideration. It has become such a considerable thing, in fact, that some of the most thoughtful senators have begun searching the authorities on the creation of states, and they have so far failed to discover anything that proves conclusively to them that the state of west Florida cannot be created.

Judge Charles O. Andrews, assistant to the attorney general, announced when the bill was introduced along with the necessary constitutional amendement, that the entire proceeding would be in violation of the federal constitution, and he cited his authority, but there are those who claim that he has placed a misconstruction on the language, and this, of course, would bring on a legal controversy in the event the measure should pass—and that is not likely.

There are several matters depending, interdependent in some manner, [illegible] in this state division question. There is the redistricting bill, which passed the house Tuesday, and already having gone through the senate was in readiness to be sent to the governor, after its gauntlet. This changes the state from three congressional districts and a congressman-at-large to a four-district state. When this bill was proposed there seemed little idea that it would go through, but it did with a few amendments. It was Senator J. B. Johnston's bill, and it was his idea to create an agricultural district in the middle, or north central portion of the state, and to have a seaport in each of the other three—thus it is that Jacksonville is the big seaport in the fourth, which also embraces Miami and Key Wes; Tampa is in the other and Pensacola in the other. Congressman Frank Clark is placed in the agricultural district, which is eminently proper, since Mr. Clark is so strong in those particular counties.

Some of the newspaper correspondents talked of the new district as having geremandered Mr. Clark out of his job; if they will take a look at the majorities the gentleman received in Alachua, Suwannee and Bradford in the last election they will see that he has a pretty strong hold on his job yet; that is, if he wants it. There is a rumor that Frank Clark will not run for representative again—that he will be a candidate for governor in the next race—but there are so many rumors that one can't hear his ears; they are even talking about Stokes and Farris and Mapoles for governor.

Nobody has yet mentioned Harry Floyd; he is more able than any of them and on real ability ought to go to the United States senate, and incidentally, keep an eye on Floyd. He is a fun-maker, but he has power; he is a clown, but he is also a king—with satire, sarcasm, strategy, and he seldom fails to kill a bill when he is full of vigor, as he expresses it.

Floyd rests in his bed half the time. He receives his guests in simple garments. It would be better construction to say, perhaps, that he in simple garments receives his guests—that's better; he is a genius whose unique place there is none to contest. In the house Tuesday he made a stand against the redistricting bill because it would legislate Congressman Claude L'Engle out of his job as representative at large.

"Woodman, spare that tree," said Floyd. "We've got a real progressive congressman in Washington now; let him have his job for a year or two longer, for a term or two, and then send him to the United States senate, and we'll have a real progressive senator there, and the people of the state of Florida will be represented there as they have never been before."

But Floyd's plea was futile this time. He and Darnell were the only ones who voted against the bill.

Tomlin's reappointment bill, which has been referred to a special committee, as have other bills of that character, provides for giving each county a senator, and basing the representation in the house on a population of ten thousand or major fraction thereof, giving no county less than one nor any more than three. There is no telling what will become of this measure, but it is not likely that it will pass. In fact, it seems that there is going to be a lack of action on some of the most urgent matters.

The legislature has been out of constitutional whack for several years—ever since the creation of the first new county, which, I believe, was St. Lucie. Since then Palm Beach, and Seminole and Bay have been created, and there is a warm fight now for the creation of Broward out of the upper part of Dade. The original plan was to take in a part of Palm Beach, but the Palm Beach people fought it, and the divisionists came to their terms; since then the Miami and Dania people, as well as the Hallandale contingent, have been fighting it. It doesn't look hopeful now, although it was passed in the house and is lying in the senate awaiting action.

One of the latest county division proposals to come up was the making of a new county from portions of Walton and Santa Rosa. I had a telegram from DeFuniak today asking if Bill Mapoles was going to introduce the measure and what chance it had. The Honorable Bill said he had not introduced the bill and he probably would not for the simple reason that he didn't think he could get it passed. Mapoles has proven himself one of the shrewdest of the members, and he came mighty near to passing his famous "pure shoe bill."

The debate on that measure was one of the wittiest of the session. Mapoles defended the attacks on his bill in such a ready manner that they soon let him alone, and got down to the merits of the measure. Mapoles was again in the saddle Tuesday afternoon when they were attacking his substitute to make deputy sheriffs give a bond of a thousand dollars.

Gronto landed on the bill hard, declaring that the law on the statute books was unconstitutional and this would be even more so. Floyd agreed with Gronto, saying that he was pleased to know that he and the gentleman from LaFayette were at last agreed on something. He ventured that Gronto had heard him give his opinion on the subject, whereupon Gronto replied that Floyd was merely getting to be more sensible than he had been. Mapoles wanted to know if the opinion of the gentleman was to be taken without an adjudication. Floyd replied that the law had been declared unconstitutional by Judge Maxwell of the circuit in which Mapoles lived. But this did not deter Mapoles—he asked if the supreme court had ever passed upon it, and Floyd replied that the supreme court had always dodged the question, because it was expedient to keep "Cuffy" from carrying pistols around. That killed the bill.

Wonderful things happen in the legislature. It doesn't seem reasonable that a lot of legislators would vote against a proposition to raise the efficiency of their schools; yet that is what they did when thy voted against requiring an educational qualification for the county superintendent of public instruction. The bill passed to third reading by a small margin, but it looked as if it would be killed. The qualification was that no person who had not graduated from a high school or was not qualified to teach himself should hold the office of county superintendent.

The governor's convict-lease abolition bill has been carefully discussed in the senate, but it seems likely that the committee substitute is going to be passed in that body. The governor's bill has already passed the house. A question hurled across the floor when opposition to the governor's bill comes up is, "Are you in favor of the convict lease system?" The interrogated member invariably replies that he is not. It is claimed by advocates of the administration measure that the other

Striking His Trail

"Good afternoon Johnny!" said the nice young lady visiting his mother's house in the sweet cause of charity. "Why don't you come to our Sunday-school? A lot of your little friends have joined, and we are going to have a lovely party."

Johnny shook his head. Then he suddenly exclaimed:

"Has a boy named Johnson, with red hair, joined yet?" suddenly exclaimed:

"Yes, dear," said the nice young lady, "and he seems to like it. He's such a good little boy!"

"Huh! Is he?" muttered Johnny. "Well, if he's there, I'll come, too. I've been looking for him for three months, and never knew where to find him before."—Chicago Journal.

PICTURES

THIS is the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Hewlett, of 815 Piedmont avenue, and her pony, which is the point of this picture story. Little Miss Hewlett can't abide dolls. She says its stupid to play with armfuls of wax and horsehair, but that it's fine to go for a brisk ride upon her mettlesome litle pony. She thinks that dogs are awful nice playmates, too, but when Santa Claus happens to bring her a doll she wonders why he couldn't be more sensible.

IN the top photograph are shown players in the league at the Atlanta federal penitentiary. One of the greatest reform measures that the United States government has adopted in behalf of federal convicts is baseball. Prisoners of the Atlanta federal penitentiary play each Saturday, and get untold good from their pastime.

IN the name of sweet charity, the maids and matrons of Atlanta last week tagged the city and collected a large sum for the benefit of the Sheltering Arms. On the left is Miss Tommie Perdue, on the right is Miss Marian Perdue, and in the middle is Miss Hart. Each worker in the cause of charity held a little tin pail in one hand, and a bunch of tags in the other. Before the day was done, the tags had been transferred to the lapels of the men folk and the tin buckets rattled with pieces of silver. A spirit of charity seemed to spread throughout the city on this day. Those who sold tags disregarded fatigue and inconvenience; those who bought them, gave with a good will to the little ones of the Sheltering Arms. Tag day has become an institution, but it was never more appropriately observed than this year. If every individual had had the opportunity of paying a visit to the Home and of seeing for himself the great work upon which it is engaged, the city could not have given more willingly. Tag day was proof of Atlanta's charity.

THIS is the season for camping, and Lakewood has become a popular place for campers. Students of the Georgia Military Academy are shown engaged upon a water drill. They had all presented arms to the photographer, and were snapped as they were in this attitude of salute. The surface of a lake as a drill ground was new and novel to the cadets, and gave the manual of arms an unusual interest. They enjoyed a pleasant outing at the lake, and broke camp only a short while ago.

STUDENTS at the commercial branch of the Girls' high school have originated a football game of their own. It is something of a combination of basketball and Rugby football. But after all it is largely original, and they play it with the zest with which one's own particular pastime is pursued. The ball has just been tossed into the air and a scrimmage is in progress. Just at this instant the game doesn't seem to be so very different from that sturdy winter sport of American colleges.

HOME PHOTOGRAPH OF PRETTY YOUNG ACTRESS

—Photograph by Lenney.

MISS AGNES TINSLEY HARRISON.

Miss Harrison is the youngest daughter of Colonel and Mrs. E. R. Harrison, and the above picture was taken at "Fernbank," their country place near Atlanta. Miss Harrison's first appearance on the stage at the Atlanta theater was greeted with enthusiastic pleasure by the friends, who predict for her a brilliant career in her chosen profession. The lovely young aspirant for theatrical honors has to aid her charm, beauty and undeniable talent with the ambition and determination which count for success.

A SALE OF HAIR GOODS AT THE RANDOLPH CO.

The Most Popular Hair Dressing Parlor in Atlanta

Beginning tomorrow (Monday) morning the Randolph Co. Hairdressing Parlors, 58 1-2 Whitehall street, will inaugurate the greatest sale of fine switches and other hair goods Atlanta has ever known. Every piece is reduced 1-3 and 1-2. If you want the best hair goods that will give long and satisfactory service in the exact colors to match your hair, be sure to attend this sale, and go early, as lots of wide-awake women are awaiting this very opportunity.

A Sure Hair Grower—The hot oil treatments which are a specialty of the Randolph Co. and the hair tonic manufactured exclusively by their expert, will certainly grow and restore your hair. Many of Atlanta's first citizens, men and women, will testify to the wonderful success of the Randolph Co.'s scalp treatments. This week 75 treatments, usual price 50c each, will be sold for $5. Ladies with faded and graying hair should use the Randolph Co. Hair Restorer. Combings made to order in any style.—(Advt.)

Annual Banquet

The Wesley House Woman's club gave its annual banquet at Wesley House Friday evening.

The long table, set in the auditorium, was tastefully decorated with red roses and sweet peas.

A delightful course luncheon was served by the girls of the domestic science class, after which appropriate toasts were given. Mr. Blanchard, physical director, acted as toastmaster.

Responses were made by Mrs. Wallace, club president, Rev. Mr. Gaines, Mr. Wallace and Miss Daniel, head resident at Wesley House.

Mrs. Anderson gave a beautiful piano solo, and Miss Lyman, a group of piano selections.

A number of the ladies composing the board of city missions were present as honor guests. Miss Wells and Mrs. Dobson responded graciously to a call for speeches.

"The County Fair"

The St. Elizabeth's guild of St. Luke's church are planning a most delightful entertainment for Friday, May 23, on the adjoining lawns of Mrs. Don Pardee and Mrs. George Traylor, 19 and 21 Ponce de Leon avenues. It is to be a county fair and the ladies are endeavoring to have everything that goes with a fair of that kind. In the afternoon games, a grab bag and rides on a pony will attract the little people and in the evening the feature will be the "Old Homestead Quartet," under the charge of Mr. James Wardwell.

An appetizing lunch of chicken salad in Vienna rolls, sandwiches, iced tea, ice cream and cake can be procured.

Flower booths and vegetable booths with many others will be found and a delightful time is assured. An admission of 10 cents will be charged and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Silver Tea

Circle No. 1 of the Young Woman's Missionary society of the First Methodist church will have a silver tea at the residence of Miss Hazel Kirk, 119 E. Pine street on Tuesday, May 21, from 4 to 6 and 8 to 10.

The public is cordially invited.

Signs of the Times

ATLANTIANS are turning countryward, and summer homes are being opened for the warm season.

Mr. and Mrs. Arkwright have gone out to their place at East Lake, the comfortable white house covered in vines and shaded by big oaks being one of the most attractive spots near Atlanta and its owners among the most hospitable of hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Howell, Jr., will go out to their place on Thursday. Quite hidden from the road and reached by a drive cut through a grove of tall pines, the cottage comes as a delightful surprise to the visitor who motors out from the city. From the front of the house the wooded hill drops down to a depth which suggests mountains, an effect which is further intensified by the view showing in the distance the rolling hills which lie between it and Atlanta.

Ferns and wild flowers have been transplanted along the rock-edged drive and to the left of the entrance a little flower garden lies like a vividly-colored carpet in the shadow of the big trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howell, Jr., have been at their country place for the past two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton have closed their town house and opened their home on Peachtree road and by the first of June most of the summer homes will have seen the coming of their occupants.

WEDDING plans are being made by June brides and the coming month will be gay with parties for the brides-elect.

The marriage of Miss Charles Owens and Mr. Edward Hall, of Morristown, will be solemnized on the anniversary of Miss Owen's parents' marriage, Monday, June 16.

It will be a church affair, taking place at half past 8 o'clock at St. Mark's Methodist church and followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owens.

Mr. Joseph Winterbotham, of Chicago, will be best man, the other attendants to be Miss Marion Goldsmith, Miss Isaetta Phinizy of Augusta, and Miss Rose Briscoe of Knoxville, with a group of lovely children, including the small brothers of the pretty bride-elect and her young cousins, Theodore Owens, Anna Harriet Shewmake, John Owens, Jr., and Donovan Owens.

Mr. Hall and his bride will go to New London for the college boat races and later will take a cruise along the Maine coast on Mr. Hall's yacht, the Latona. On their return they will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Hall's parents and begin housekeeping in the fall.

AN interesting announcement of the week was the engagement of Miss Martha Francis *and Mr. Claud Douthit, the wed*ding to be a June event.

Miss Francis is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Francis and member of the unmarried set. Personally she is very attractive, her blond coloring contrasting dark with her brown eyes. She is a graduate of St. Mary's college, her school days followed by a year in New York, where she studied music, her voice being unusually beautiful.

Mr. Douthit is a South Carolinian and a graduate of Clemson college. As the Atlanta manager of his firm he has made his home here for a number of years and is a popular member of the social clubs.

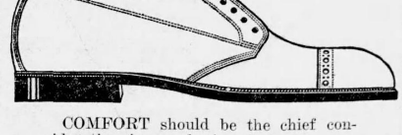
Mr. Douthit is an enthusiastic golfer and he and his pretty fiancee have spent much of their time on the links at Brookhaven and East Lake.

An event of this week which is being looked forward to with pleasure is the presentation of Oscar Wilde's clever play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by the Players' club.

Miss Hildreth Burton Smith, Mrs. Marshall Slaton, Mrs. William Owens and Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott will have the feminine roles, the masculine parts to be played taken by Mr. Lamar Hill, Mr. Marsh Adair, Mr. Hamilton Douglas, Jr., Mr. Taylor and others.

The play will be given at the Grand on the evening of the 22d and will be a social as well as a theatrical event.

BOSTONIANS
Famous Shoes for Men.



COMFORT should be the chief consideration in purchasing footwear.

You can neither work nor play at your best if your feet are uncomfortably shod.

BOSTONIANS, "Famous Shoes for Men," are designed and built out of an intimate and scientific knowledge of the requirements of the human foot.

And the best of it is, all other desirable features that go to make satisfactory footwear are built into them also.

When next in need of shoes, let us demonstrate our BOSTONIAN service.

30th Semi-Annual Sale of Linens & White Goods

Throughout the Stock Prices Drop from a Fifth to a Half

For 15 years, twice yearly—summer and winter—Rich's Linen Sale has been growing with every repetition.

Twenty-nine previous sales have taught prudent housewives to look for this sale. They have learned to appreciate its superior qualities; its vast assortments; its unapproachable economies.

What we have learned in the previous 29 sales we have put into this 30th—to make it bigger, broader, better. Therefore, it takes a 32-page catalog to tell of the many bargains in this sale—space here to quote only a few.

$8 Corsets at $3.98

For the Bargain, bless the vagaries of Fashion. These are the approved hip length; the bust is a wee bit higher than the approved Fashions. No objection, we're sure, to many sensible women.

Corsets are made of fine imported broche in pink, blue or white. Full line of sizes but not in every color. Sold them freely at $8, now the factory discontinues the model, so pay only $3.98.

(Second Floor.)

"Rich's Summer Hats are So Delightfully Different"

—said a lady as she watched her friend try on the new models.

"The other hats we've seen elsewhere, sweet as they are, look as if they were wholesalers' models—good in line, but easy to copy.

"Rich's hats have something more than line, something even more than their beautiful colorings.

"They seem to be more elegant, more refined. They make a woman different, give her more charm, more individuality."

The summer hats that have merited all these pretty compliments are priced at $7.50 to $35.

Sale of 10 Pattern Hats

These charming summer hats were brought on to give tone to the Mid-Summer Opening and to give our artists new ideas. Having served their purpose, they must now go.

Four hats formerly $25 to $29.75 now $14.50.
Four hats formerly $34.50 to $46 now $17.50.
Two hats formerly $97.50 now at $32.50.

New Panama Hats

Hand plaited genuine South American Panamas reblocked in this country in the prevailing shapes. Not wide "hayfield" ats, but neat trim shapes. Specially priced:

$2.98; value $4. $4.95; value $7.

(Millinery, Second Floor.)

$2.50 to $3.50 Silk Voiles & Chiffons $1.29

Only because the importer was anxious to get back to Europe on Fall business are we able to offer these fashionable silks at such absurdly low prices.

Imagine a sheer chiffon bestrewn with dainty flowers, and set off with a deep border of charmeuse or Calot satin. Or a colored silk voile with a black border, or glorious pansies blossoming from a bed of softest chiffon, or—but one can't describe fabric-poems—please see them.

Quite a complete line of colors. 44 inches. Choice $1.29.

$1 Silk Taffetas — 49c

Soft chiffon taffetas, full plump weight, lively, plain weaves, that drape with classic grace. Solid colors and changeables in about every wanted shade save black or white. 26 in. wide. Fine for petticoats, dresses, waists, etc.

$1.25 Fancy Silks — 59c

About half-price and less for some of the prettiest silks of some. Soft, free flowing taffetas and messalines in pretty floral prints, Dresden patterns, Pekin stripes, and various fancies. Leading colors, 24 and 27 inches wide. Worth $1 and $1.25.

$1 to $2 Silk at — 69c

The higher price silks are yard wide taffetas chiefly in light colors. Then there is a $1 yard wide black taffeta, and loads of new $1 foulards in wanted designs and colors. Choice 69c.

59c All Silk Foulards 29c

We emphasize the "all silk" lest you think from the little price that the foulards are cotton. Will not spot with rain. Not bad patterns nor freak shades but staple navy blues, blacks and Copenhagens. Oh! the possibilities for inexpensive summer dresses.

Wanted $1.50 Silks at Only 79c

This is great. The very silks you want are here. Smart suiting silks of softest messalines and silk serges. Neat two tone effects or solid colors with hair line stripes. Stunning.

Choose also from Tussah crepe de chines—everyone knows how scarce crepes are even at full price. These combine the smart roughness of the Tussah weave with the soft, crinkly draping qualities of the crepe. Yard wide; leading colors; no black.

Choose From More Than 100 Rugs. Save $5 to $10 on Each

There, in brief, is the tale of the May Sale of Rugs. All fine domestic qualities—big, roomy fellows, in sizes from 7x9 feet to 11x15 feet. Most of them in the regulation 9x12 size. Rugs of all kinds included—the best-known weaves in the market. Wilton; French, Seamless and Pyramid Wilton; Axminster, Seamless and Wilton Axminster, Seamless and Body Brussels, Seminole, Fiber Scotch, Saxony, etc. Savings run like this:

Were $11.00, $17.50, $25.00, $30.00, up to $60.
Now $ 8.50, $14.50, $20.00, $22.50, up to $45.

P. S.—We also include smaller rugs in sizes about 4x7 feet to 6x9 feet at proportionate reductions.

(Rugs, Third Floor.)

Fibre Grass Suit Cases Value $1.50 at 98c

The lightest weight suit case made—splendid for an overnight or week-end trip.

Has steel frame, covered with woven fibre grass—tough and tenaciously. Leather and iron protected corners; strong trimmings, neatly lined on the inside.

$2.50 to $3.50 Suit Cases at $1.85

A grouping of some 50 cases that for one reason and another haven't moved as quickly as they should. The lowered price will hurry them out.

Variously made of hard vulcanized fibre, fibre grass and matting. Protected corners. Linen lined; some finished with straps.

Shorter College Notes

The commencement, which begins on Friday, May 23 and last through May 27, promises to be even more than usually interesting. The first feature of the commencement program will be the presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" by the students in the department of expression. This play will be staged outdoors on a hillside near the college, and will be elaborately costumed.

On Sunday, May 25, Dr. W. A. Hogan, of Agnes, Ga., will preach twice, delivering the commencement sermon in the morning and addressing the Martha Shorter Missionary society in the evening.

The graduating exercises will be held on Tuesday, May 27.

Dr. E. A. Poteat, the president of Furman university, a speaker of wide reputation, will deliver the baccalaureate address.

On last Monday evening the freshman class entertained the juniors and the faculty with a delightful lawn party at Maplehurst, the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Van Hoose. The spacious grounds were beautifully illuminated with scores of Japanese lanterns suspended from trees and shrubbery. From a Japanese pavilion in the garden, freshmen in Japanese costumes served most delicious punch. Nixon's orchestra furnished appropriate music. Japanese rice cakes were served with the cream in red and white, the junior colors. The piazzas and parlors were decorated profusely in red roses, the junior flower.

On Saturday evening, May 10, the students in the department of expression presented a most dainty and amusing little play, "Obstinacy," a translation from the German. Those who took part were Miss Eloise Siddon, Miss Elizabeth Richardson, Miss Margaret Hamilton, Miss Martha Kendrick, Miss Annice Spears and Miss Eugenia Flournoy.

The junior piano recital of Misses Hettie Barton and Rosa Hunt Lewis, pupils of Miss Grace Cronkite, took place on Tuesday afternoon. Both Miss Bartos and Miss Lewis played with exquisite feeling and with clearness and brilliancy of technique. Their program, which follows, was most enjoyable:

"Andante Favorita," Beethoven; "Novellette in E," Schumann"—Hettie Barton.

Concert Waltz in A. Moszkowski—Miss Barton.

(a) Sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor," by Donizetti; (b) "The Two Skylarks," Leschetizski—Miss Lewis.

A Correct Nemo Corset Insures a Successful Gown

Just how much the success of the Gown depends upon the grace of the Corset is sometimes difficult to determine, so closely are the two related; but certain it is that the least expensive Dress has an appearance far beyond its actual value if fitted over the correct Nemo Corset. A properly fitted model smartens and beautifies the figure, bringing dignity and poise to the carriage.

Nemo Corsets are made of coutil, batiste and fancy broche, in models for slender, average and full figures, at prices ranging from $2 to $10.

INTERESTING PERSONAL MENTION

—Miss Mary Gaut, of Nashville, who is visiting Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, was the pretty honor guest in the party entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun last evening at the dinner dance at the Driving club, the other members of the party including Miss Margaret McPheeters, of North Carolina, Miss Charles Owens, Miss Ellen Meeks, of Nashville, Mr. Walter Colquitt, Mr. Edward Barnett, Mr. James Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan Nixon.

—Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, Miss Ada Alexander and Miss Eula Jackson will sail on the Imperator, the new Hamburg-American liner, June 28, for a stay of several months abroad. Landing at Hamburg they will make an interesting tour of Germany before going to northern Italy and Switzerland. Later they will spend a number of weeks in Paris and London before sailing home the middle of September.

—Among the hosts at the dinner dance at the Piedmont Driving club Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Small, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gentry and Mr. Lynn Werner.

—Mrs. Frank Adair and Miss Leone Ladson, who sailed on the tenth for Italy, will land the last of this week and will be joined in Naples by Mrs. Lucy Pace Owsley, who has spent the winter in Paris. They will make an interesting tour of the continent before going to London, where they will be joined by Mr. Adair.

—Miss Aurelia Speer is a charming acquisition to the group of young women who will be chaperoned by Mrs. Frank Logan this summer on a trip abroad, the other members of the party including Miss Sarah Lee Evans, Miss Nell Waldo and two attractive North Carolina girls, Misses Nancy and Rena Clark, of Tarboro.

—Miss Caroline Scott, of Arkansas, who has been the guest of Mrs. Bates Block, will leave Wednesday to attend the commencement exercises at Ogontz. Miss Lorna Carr, who is also Mrs. Block's guest, will remain for some time longer before returning to her home in St. Louis.

—General A. J. West is in Gettysburg, where he is representing the state of Georgia at a meeting of the Gettysburg commission. General West will meet the old guard from Atlanta on Monday in Washington and with them will call on President Woodrow Wilson.

—Dr. and Mrs. J. L. McDaniel and little daughter, Jessie Frances, of Gardena, Cal., are visiting friends and relatives in the city. Dr. McDaniel is a delegate to the Presbyterian convention. Mrs. McDaniel is the sister of Mrs. W. H. McAfee, of this city.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Atkinson and Miss May Atkinson left Friday evening for New York, where they will be for several weeks before opening their summer place at North Hatley, Canada. Mr. Atkinson will return to Atlanta next week.

—Miss Gladys Hanson Snook arrived yesterday to spend a part of the summer with her father, Mr. P. H. Snook, at his home on Cleburne avenue. Mr. Harry Snook, who has been in North Carolina for several months, has also returned.

—Miss Frances Seabrook, of Maryland, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Baehler Seabrook for several weeks, will leave Monday for a short visit in Jefferson, and from there she will go to Savannah for a visit to friends.

—Mr. Hal Hentz, who has been at the Grady hospital since the injuries he received recently, has sufficiently recovered to return to his home. Mr. Hentz has a host of friends who will learn with pleasure of his steady improvement.

—A pleasant event of Wednesday afternoon will be the tea at which Mrs. Frank P. Rice will entertain from 4 to 6 at her home on West Peachtree street, in compliment to the members of the Pioneer society.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Young Swift, Mr. Edward T. Brown, Jr., and Mr. James Gilbert, Jr., who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Brown for the week-end, will leave Monday in their car for Rosehill.

Ratine Frocks Are Very Popular

All through the summer the ratine frocks will be very much in evidence. The one pictured is a model from Ferrand, of Paris. The skirt is perfectly plain and for that reason particularly pleasing, as one is growing rather tired of the loopings and draperies so universal. This dress is of old rose ratine with simulated buttonholes of black satin and a wide black satin belt, over which is a short coat of the old rose ratine. The hat worn with this costume, which is particularly girlish, is of black straw with a band of dull blue satin ribbon and a single flower of old rose in the front of it.

This would make a charming costume for traveling.

—Miss Wilhelmina Drummond is the guest of Miss Margaret Lewis for a week's visit after which she will leave for Maine, where her mother, Mrs. George Drummond, will open their summer place for the season.

—Mrs. Lucien Philips entertained Thursday at a matinee party in honor of Mrs. E. D. Philips, a recent bride, of Florida, and Miss Beulah Philips, who has recently moved here from Fernandina, Fla.

Harms Students

More Than Most Anyone Else.

His comments on

are most interesting (see letter in southeast corner.)

If the subject appeals to you, try leaving off coffee and tea entirely, use Instant Postum and carefully note, day by day, the return to health and strength.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more, and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate, and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled.)

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in cup of hot water.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

SPEAKS OUT

Dr. C. Irving Fisher, for a quarter century at the head of New York's great Presbyterian hospital, says in the New York Times of March 23, 1913:

"Coffee poisoning is becoming constantly more common in this country, especially among students, whom it harms more than it would harm almost anybody else.

"Coffee intoxication does not lead to wife beating, but its physiological effects upon some of its victims are almost as bad as those of alcoholic poisoning.

"We continually find at the various clinics signs of the harm done by the excessive use of tea and coffee among children.

"Surely this is quite preventable.

"Children not infrequently appear whose nervous and digestive systems have been wrecked by these two beverages."

THE WEDDING GIFT CHOICE OF ALL THE GREAT MAKERS

You can't go to all the great Silver manufacturers and pick out what you would like to give the June brides, but we have done it for you.

PLATTERS AND DISHES

They mean everything to the elegance of entertainment, the completeness of the household service, and we feature them in the best styles and materials. Good taste permits a variety of borders and finishes, very ornate or very conservative and simple and this makes the line a broad one.

THE CHEST OF SILVER

The most approved patterns and styles of finish compose our showing of flat Silver, and it is constructed with wise consideration both for service and beauty. Handsomely cased, it makes a wedding gift no less acceptable than a house and lot.

THE TEA SET

It is a charming thought for the bride-to-be, because her first entertaining is likely to be informal, and there is no better material aid behind which to intrench her youthful dignity.

Harmony of the practical and the beautiful speaks in every line of our showing, grace and durability its conspicuous characteristics.

Miss Northen's Bridge Party

Miss Margaret Northen was hostess at a bridge luncheon Saturday at her home on Fifth street, in compliment to Miss Lorna Carr, of St. Louis, and Miss Caroline Scott, of Arkansas, who are the guests of Mrs. Bates Block, and to Miss Margaret McPheeters, of Raleigh, N. C., who is visiting Mrs. Samuel A. Inman.

The house was decorated for the occasion with quantities of garden roses, and tall crystal vases holding clusters of Dorothy Perkins roses were placed on the mantels of the living room where the card tables were placed.

Luncheon was served in the dining room from a table having for its center a plateau of LaFrance roses, fringed with maidenhair fern, and the bon bons and ices continued the rose suggestion.

Miss Katherine Ellis made top score and Miss Esther Smith cut the consolation prize, which were attractive souvenirs of the occasion.

Miss Northen received her guests wearing a gown of old rose charmeuse effectively trimmed with black velvet, and was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Charles Northen.

Sixteen friends were invited for the bridge game, and a number of friends came in for luncheon.

To Mr. and Mrs. Hearst

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton entertained at a lovely dinner Saturday evening at their country home, the honor guests of the occasion being Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hearst, of New York, who are at the Georgian Terrace for a short visit. The party included twelve, those invited being Mr. and Mrs. Hearst, Governor and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. John Grant, Mrs. W. D. Grant, Miss Dooly, Mr. John S. Cohen and Mr. Barhan, of Los Angeles, Cal.

The decorations for the table were in pink and white. Three silver loving cups were placed along the oblong table, masses of pink carnations being arranged in them. Smaller baskets of crystal held white sweet peas, and the candlesticks were crystal.

Monogram place cards were used.

Mrs. Slaton wore a beautiful gown of delicate black lace draped over shell-pink satin, to which a girdle of lettuce green gave an attractive note of varying color.

Mrs. Hearst's gown was cloth of gold embroidered in silver, and trimmed with marabou and a touch of dark blue.

Julia Jackson Chapter

A beautiful reception was given by the Julia Jackson auxiliary at Miss Hanna's school Friday afternoon from 4 to 7.

A large number of enthusiastic young people were present.

The parlors were beautifully decorated with palms and red roses and delightful refreshments were served.

Music by an orchestra added to the pleasure of the guests.

The chapter is making an active campaign for new members and many present signified their intention of joining the Julia Jackson auxiliary.

Sandiford-Cagle

Mr. and Mrs. William James Harris announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Estelle Sandiford, to Mr. William Joseph Cagle, of Newnan, Ga. The ceremony was performed Friday evening at the residence of Rev. J. B. Robins, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Cagle left Saturday for Wilmington, N. C., for a stay of several weeks. Both the groom and his bride are well known, and the announcement of their wedding will be of interest to a wide circle of friends throughout the south.

Roberts-Mabry

One of the beautiful occasions of the week was the wedding ceremony of Dr. Robert Hugh Mabry and Miss Eula Lenora Roberts, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. J. Roberts, 281 Houston street, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The drawing room and dining room were scenes of beauty, with a profusion of sweet peas, carnations and ferns

At 8:30 o'clock the song, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," was rendered by Miss Ruby Freeman, followed by the wedding march, played by Mrs. Henry Carnes.

The attendants were Miss Nora Roberts and Mr. Wayman Hopkins.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a soft, clinging gown of white marquisette, and carried a huge bouquet of roses.

The maid of honor also wore white and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Those assisting in receiving were Mrs. E. L. Fowler, Mrs. Boyce Roberts, Miss Nina Hadley, Miss Edith Little and Miss Mattie Chestnut.

The groom is a graduate of the Atlanta Dental college and is a former resident of Louisiana.

Great St. Louis Purchase Sale of More Than 5,000 Hats

More Than a Carload of the Latest and Choicest Modes to Be Offered at Irresistible Prices.

No matter how much you may expect of this Sale, you will positively not be disapointed, for we are showing the most wonderful assortment of Hats ever offered in the South. Our Millinery business is, unquestionably, the largest of any concern in the entire Southern States; yet this great Semi-Annual Sale will far surpass anything that we have ever before attempted. This is an occasion anxiously looked forward to by the ladies of Atlanta and vicinity, and we always arrange to give them the best possible values.

Don't confuse this with the average Millinery Sale at this season of the year where mussed, shop-worn goods are shown, and where patrons are offered "left-overs" that are out of style. Our goods have been out of the boxes but a few days, and are positively being shown for the first time. They are not odds and ends, but brand new styles in every conceivable shape, and in every desirable color and material. There are plenty of the new Hairs, Chips, Milans, Hemps, Leghorns, Javas, Panamas and Ratines to choose from.

The following Specials will give you an idea of the scope of this Sale:

Tomcrrow the Initial Display of Midsummer Millinery

When the New and Authentic Fashions Will Be Shown for the First Time in Atlanta

A transformation in the Millinery store tomorrow and a beautiful one. The big crystal cases have bloomed overnight into a lovely flower garden of Midsummer Millinery.

We term it the first display of the authentic fashions.

The big boxes with their precious contents came from New York Saturday, came from

Estelle Mershon
20 East 46th Street New York

And the exclamations of delight that greeted them when they were taken from their wrappings of tissue---after all the women of the millinery store are only women.

You will exclaim over them, too.

The novelty of them, the charm of the colorings, the exquisite daintiness of veiled crowns---for many hats are wrapped and covered over with billowy masses of maline and French crepe.

Then the new sailors---new because they are touched with a mark of years and years ago---the ribbon band falls in narrow streamers down the back! Beside these are the quaint poke bonnets, which in shape recall the fashions of other days, but which in trimmings are decidedly of the moment.

Another fashion sure to come in for great favor is the white felt outing hat. New York has already expressed its appreciation. It may be all white or white with a vivid colored brim and under-facing.

But tomorrow is the day to see all these fine and distinguishing marks of the hats from Estelle Mershon, and you are invited!

LET US TELL YOU A SECRET ABOUT

Lowney's Cook Book

When the Lowney Company decided to publish a new Cook Book they looked for the woman who stood highest in the profession of Cooking in this Country. They found her in Maria Willet Howard, former Principal of the Boston Cooking School at present connected with the foremost School of Domestic Science in this country.

They told Miss Howard that they wanted a Cook Book which WOULD BE DIFFERENT FROM ALL OTHERS, which would be PRACTICAL, ECONOMICAL and which would be USEFUL alike TO THE YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER as well as the experienced cook; in a word, a book book WHICH EVERY WOMAN WOULD WANT, NO MATTER HOW MANY OTHER COOK BOOKS SHE HAD.

NO EXPENSE WAS SPARED and as a result was published this splendid book of 1,450 NEW RECIPES, PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED and DURABLY BOUND. It is the equal of any $2.50 Cook Book on the market. Up to the present time it has been sold everywhere a $1.25.

The Lowney Co. do not publish this book for profit, but rather to gain the friendship of American housekeepers, by giving them a $2.50 Cook Book at about what it costs to make it.

The Journal was able, therefore, to make an arrangement with the publishers whereby it can supply this Cook Book to its readers at just what it costs to make it, plus the small expense of delivering it into your hands.

If there ever was a bargain, this is it. A $1.25 COOK BOOK FOR ONLY 48 CENTS and 6 consecutive coupons from The Journal.

HAPPENINGS IN LONDONTOWN

LONDON, May 17.—King George went down to Newmarket with a white carnation in his buttonhole, determined to look spruce in spite of the frosts. Lord Villiers received his sad ety on behalf of the Jockey club, with Mr. Lambton and Master Eustace Loder. Whether the white carnation is destined to figure as the favorite flower of the monarch, we do not know, but it may have been merely a half-mourning selection. King Edward preferred the modest violet, like the Bonapartes, but in wearing a buttonhole, King George is showing a desire to maintain the customs which appertained to the personality of the most popular monarch who ever lived. The duchess of Newcastle was in evidence in a gray friez skirt and a black felt hat with an upstanding amethyst-colored velvet bow.

The king has caused it to be known that he will be unable to undertake any public obligations out of Europe during the present year. There is good ground for anticipating that a similar announcement will be made with regard to 1914. It is very likely that the Prince of Wales will be seeing something of overseas Britain within the next eighteen months. There is a certain inconvenience—partly practical and partly sentimental—in the idea of their majesties' second son being more familiar to British subjects afar than the heir apparent himself. Now that Prince Albert has got a good notion of the West Indies, it is desirable that his elder brother should see something of life in the greater dominions of the crown.

Any tour of this kind cannot be rushed through in a month or two. Four months is the smallest allowance that could be made for a grand tour of this kind, and it would have to include one at least of the great dominions. The first choice is likely to be given to Canada, and the duke of Connaught is said to have been interesting himself already in the idea. His own agreeable experiences are of great value when added to the pleasant Canadian memories of the king and queen themselves. Let it be remembered that when the Prince of Wales sets up house for himself it will be rather less easy to plan long cruises. This is way these plans are not likely to be delayed unduly.

All this means that the king and queen will probably stay in Europe until the summer of 1915. There will be the northern courts of Europe to visit together, and her majesty will undoubtedly give Princess Mary an insight into the vie in time of the continental courts within the next twelvemonth. One may anticipate that the presence of Prince Albert at one of the German universities during the spring of next year will be a convenient excuse for paying him a visit, and incidentally for paying some other family visits at the same time. All these possibilities are well understood in the court environment, and are the topic of many discussions in the privacy of the palace. Things are not what they used to be, and one of the most admirable traits in the temperament of our present king and queen is that they are thoroughly en rapport with the spirit of the age.

His majesty has presented to Liverpool cathedral the trowel and mallet which were used by his august father when laying the ceremonial foundations of that remarkable piece of architecture. There is more in this than meets the eye. The king has never been a keen collector like the late czar of postage stamps. A month seldom passes without some memento or other from the royal collections being placed at the disposal of the public at large. His majesty has a wholesome distaste for filling the royal palaces with what may be called museum exhibits. Souvenirs of genuine personal interest are loyally preserved, and there are a thousand and one objects at Windsor and Buckingham palace which are retained in his custody as heirlooms. They cannot be alienated without the consent of the Prince of Wales, and in many instances not even then.

With the buds of spring come the royal relations. Cousins and uncles from the northern half of Europe, and royal princes and princesses from the other half, are down for visits to their majesties at Buckingham palace between now and Cowes, including rajahs from "the Shiny," and a sultan from the gulf. Some of these will have to be housed and dined and wined and "take nout;" others will only be received in audience, and others will have to be taken to Windsor and made a fuss of. The list opened with the Landgrave of Hesse, who is such a favorite of Queen Alexandra, and who received the sympathy of her majesty at Marlborough house on its growing blindness. The Landgrave was succeeded by Prince Henry of Prussia, who alone among the royalties of Europe knows how to set the king's beque a-wagging. The sailor cult, it may be, that does it, or the blood kinship, or the facial resemblance, or their wives—frankly, no one knows which, but probably it is a combination of all these things that makes the kaiser's brother the only royal personage from Europe who enters Buckingham palace not as a uniformed automaton, but as a brother and a friend. Prince Henry, of course, came over to fix things up for the visit of their majesties to Berlin for the great wedding before they went.

Princess Mary has recently been the victim of a joke played by her brother, Prince Henry, who is, by the way, the imp of the family. While he was staying at Newquay, Princess Mary wrote to ask him to send her all the flowers he could get, reminding him of her passion for flowers of every description. Prince Henry subsequently dispatched a large box to Buckingham palace, which Princess Mary gleefully opened. Her discovery was unlooked for. Her royal brother had enclosed half a dozen cauliflowers.

Any amount of amusing stories are going the rounds about Princess Patricia's visit to Canada and New York. The princess herself has a keen sense of humor, and relates incidents which keep her friends in roars of laughter. She has always been very fond of Americans, who have reciprocated most heartily whatever good feeling exists. Princess "Pat" was inundated with expressions of admiration for her beauty, and received many verses about her good looks, and sonnets on her eyes. Imitation being the sincerest form of flattery, the women tried to imitate the Princess Patricia smile. Her rooms were filled with flowers sent by the warm-hearted Canadians, and she received cassines by the ton from the believers in sweetmeats Yankees. The Princess declines she cherishes the idea of returning to the people who showed their appreciation of her very charming personality.

The Prince of Wales has developed a great liking for the violin, and, has become a clever player. Those who have been privileged of late to hear him sing say also that he has a nice voice.

An Anglo-American engagement may be looked for shortly which is certain to create a great surprise by reason of the circumstances which have rendered the event possible.

A number of rich supporters having, for various reasons, severed their connection with politics, the Tory party organization are finding some difficulty in replacing them. Even offers of what are considered safe seats have not had the effect of bringing in the rich landlords and plutocrats. The quandary of the Tory party is intensified by the number of members who have intimated their intention of not standing again at the next election.

When wealthy society dames and damsels decide to take the rest cure, they do not, as formerly, go away to their own country homes, but hie themselves to the residence of a lady, the holder of an honored title, who specializes in looking after invalids.

The maid of a prominent society leader makes $2,500 a year from the sale of her ladyship's cast-off clothing. It may be mentioned that dresses which cost as much as $500 each are seldom worn more than a half dozen times by the lady in question.

The authorities at the Royal observatory, Greenwich, are experiencing a somewhat anxious time for the safety of the historic institution for fear of "militant" depredations. The place is being guarded day and night by the police.

So anxious are the Yale varsity oarsmen to copy the English style of rowing that they have asked Messrs. Harcourt Gold and G. M. Kirby, the famous "Blues," to go to America and give them some coaching. It is also probable that the latter will be accompanied by a former Oxford cox.

A special indemnity bill will shortly be introduced by the government to relieve Sir Stuart Samuel from the penalties, amounting to $200,000, incurred through his inadvertently voting in the house of commons after vacating his seat through the technical breach of an old statute. The case of Mr. Forsyth, Q. C., in 1866, and also that of Lord Flunket, the archbishop of Dublin, in 1880, are the precedents for the government action.

Another financial scandal of considerable magnitude in connection with a prominent town in Canada has been discovered. It has to do, so it is said, with the duplication of stock.

There is absolutely no truth in the rumor emanating from the service clubs that Sir John French threatened to resign if the statement made by the minister of war that the general staff was satisfied that an invasion of 70,000 men could be safely repelled by our existing defense was not modified.

Wright-Selman Wedding Plans

The wedding of Miss Marie Wright and Mr. James Thomas Selman will take place on the evening of June 12, at 6:30, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Wright on Park avenue.

Miss Nannie Love Selman, of Douglasville, will be maid of honor, and Mrs. William R. Anglin, of Chicago, will be matron of honor.

Mr. Joseph Mack Selman, of Douglasville, will be best man.

The ceremony will be followed by a large reception.

Story Tellers' League

The Atlanta Story Tellers League presented an interesting program Saturday afternoon at Carnegie library, fairy stories and Uncle Remus tales being the order of the afternoon.

The program was as follows:

A Selection from Uncle Remus—Mrs. R. L. Turman.

"Old Mother Morey," (an original story told by the Author)—Mrs. C. W. Hubner.

A Giant Story—Miss Grace Grayhill.

"Lady Bug" (an original story told by the Author)—Mrs. R. B. Blackburn.

Miss Lorna Carr, of St. Louis, and Miss Caroline Scott, of Arkansas, who are being delightfully entertained as the guests of Mrs. Bates Block. Miss Scott, who is a graduate of Ogontz, will leave Wednesday to attend the commencement exercises of her alma mater, Miss Carr to remain with Mrs. Block some time longer.

Mrs. Parker's Luncheon To Miss King

Mrs. William A. Parker was hostess at a buffet luncheon Saturday at her home on North Boulevard, in compliment to Miss Mary King, who will leave the latter part of the month to spend the summer in Europe.

The home was decorated throughout with quantities of garden roses and pink poppies.

In the dinning room a plateau of peonies rested on a cluny lace cover, at intervals were French baskets holding the same lovely flowers, and slender white tapers burning under rose and crystal shades continued a color suggestion of pink and white.

Mrs. Parker's guests included Miss King, Miss Helen Rhorer, Miss Myra Clark Scott, Miss Marie Dinkins, Miss Virginia Bowman, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Estelle Fort, Miss Margaret Traynham, Miss Reble Wilkinson, Miss Jane Cowles, Miss Elizabeth Black, Miss Sophie Haas, Miss Lydia McBride, Miss Lawson Hines, Miss Amelia Smith, Miss Grace Sims, Miss May Walker, Miss Jennie Walker, Miss Elizabeth Tuller, Miss Wycliffe Wurm, Miss Louise King, Miss Mamie Kirkpatrick, Miss Helen Dykes, Miss Bertha Moore, Miss Elizabeth Shippen, Miss Grace Davis, Miss Ruth Paden and Miss Jean Robinson.

Miss Black's Bridge

An event of Friday evening was the bridge party at which Miss Louise Black entertained in honor of two popular visitors, Miss Carr and Miss Scott, who are the guests of Mrs. Bates Block.

Three tables of bridge were played, a prize given for top score for the men and woman at each table.

Miss Carr's pretty frock was of blue chiffon made with a Russian blouse of shadow lace and Miss Scott wore a becoming gown of white chiffon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Young Swift, who motored from Roskhill for the week-end, shared honors with the pretty visiting girls, Mr. Swift winning the silk socks which were the men's prizes, fans being presented the young women.

THE WEEK IN RETROSPECT

THE demands made by the sessions of the Presbyterian assembly have eliminated to a large degree the social happenings of the week, as so many prominent women have taken an active part in the church meetings.

Even those who are not affiliated with the Presbyterian church have opened their homes to some of the commissioners, and many are devoting themselves to the work of the assembly.

The meeting has been of much interest not only to Presbyterian women, but to those of other churches as well.

MRS. John B. Gordon, widow of the beloved general, will be a prominent figure at the coming reunion of the veterans and the sons and daughters of the Confederacy in Chattanooga. In a page story about the reunion, published together with a photograph of Mrs. Gordon and others, the Savannah Press says:

"It is a beautiful sentiment to worship occasionally at the shrine of delightful old age.

"There are four typical southern women included in this group that followed the fortunes of the Confederacy with sorrowful but firm devotion. They are Mrs. John B. Gordon, of Atlanta, widow of the gifted Confederate chieftain, the late and beloved General John B. Gordon; Mrs. J. E. B. Stuart, widow of General J. E. B. Stuart, who gave up his life at Yellow Tavern, Va., almost within sight of the Confederate capital; Mrs. Virginia Clay-Clopton, of Huntsville, Ala., relict of General Clay, and a woman of rare charm of heart and mind; Mrs. Pickett, of Virginia, widow of the brilliant and dashing Pickett, who charged into the mouths of blazing cannon at Gettysburg, making for himself an imperishable name.

"These are four of the women who stood out boldly during the Civil war as representatives of the old, heroic south of blessed memory. They belong to the great army of noble southern women who "broke the ashen crust and moistened it with their tears." The south is, indeed, a land of story and of song, and hallowed memories. The pictures of these mothers of the Confederacy carry the new south back to the days when the ploughshare of ruin was driven deeply into the heart of the southern states, and the last measure of devotion was paid to an ideal and a cause by thousands of their best men.

"Representatives of the past and the present are to meet in Chattanooga during the approaching Confederate reunion for the purpose of keeping alive the memories of the sixties. Social features are made prominent at these reunions of the gray. Chattanooga has planned the social features of the coming reunion on a broad scale. The younger generations will lead, the sons and daughters of the Confederacy in these social functions, but the veterans will not be forgotten. That point has been carefully arranged by the reunion management."

Is Modern Dancing Indecent?

The issue of Harper's Weekly for May 17 contains an interesting article by William Inglis, in which he discusses this question. The "tango," the "turkey trot," and similar dances are daily gaining new devotees. In all parts of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, they are being danced by all manner of persons. This author gives a vivid description of the scenes he witnessed in the "oriental room" of a popular southern hotel situated in one of our best known winter playground and health resorts. Though this author does not, in so many words, put himself on record as either approving or disapproving of the new dances, those who read his article will have no great difficulty in surmising his opinion.

Homely, Yet Admired and Envied; Her Secret

The convention crowd in the lobby made a path for her, cast admiring side glances, then with longing eyes followed her to the elevator. It was at the Ponchartrain in Detroit. The incident was recalled when I chanced to sit across table from the woman. What was it about her that caused all that commotion? She wasn't handsome; she was lacking in form and feature. Yet she did seem marvelously fascinating. Her complexion must be the secret. Really, I've never beheld its equal. Venturing to pick up acquaintanceship, I learned the reason.

"I know I'm not built for beauty," she confided, "but I've tried to make the most of my one charm. I've learned that men abhor make-ups and artificiality. I bar cosmetics; there are just two things I ever use and they promote natural loveliness and youthful appearance.

"When my complexion begins to age, I get an ounce of mercolized wax at the drug store, apply at night like cold cream and wash it off in the morning. This gradually flakes off the outer skin; then I have a brand new complexion, magnetically beautiful, as you see.

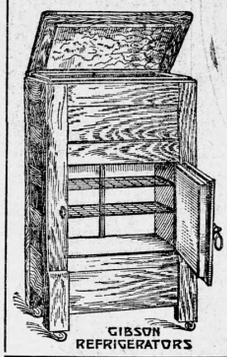
"Wrinkles never bother me. At their inception I bathe my face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. It works like magic."—Mona Morrow in Town Tattler.—(Advt.)

Buying Summer Furniture

Furnishing the home with furniture that insures comfort for the summer months is made easy and a pleasure at our store. This is evidenced by the fact that last week was one of the best in the history of our business.

Our complete stocks. The high quality of the goods. Our policy of "many sales at small profits rather than a few sales at big profits." The business connection whereby we manufacture many of our own goods, and the fact that we do not have to pay the middle man's profit! All of these contribute largely to our success in the retail trade. That's why we do business while other stores complain of dull trade. Come investigate and the chances are you'll buy here. It means the best of furniture at the lowest possible cost.

Refrigerator Facts



You ought to know more about the Gibson Refrigerators before you buy.

The ice chamber lifts out; the waste pipe and shelves are removable; and the ice chamber supports are all galvanized iron.

On account of this, our Refrigerators are very easily kept clean, and at the end of the season all the parts can be aired and put away for the winter. All housekeepers will appreciate a refrigerator of this kind.

In the open ice front refrigerator the ice chamber does not lift out, but the ends of the ice chamber can all be removed, so they can be cleaned behind. All other parts are removable.

ATHENS

ATHENS—The following announcements are of much interest to people in Athens and throughout the state: Mr. and Mrs. John R. White announce the engagement of their daughter, Sarah Frances, to Mr. Morris Yow, of Toccoa, the wedding to take place June 18, at Whitehall, the home of the bride's parents. Miss White and Mr. Yow are both prominently known in the social world, and their marriage will be a brilliant event of next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Nickerson announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Nash, to Mr. Gordon Lee Hight, of Rome, Ga. Miss Nickerson is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Nickerson, and since her graduation from Lucy Cobb several years ago, has been quite a belle, not only here, but wherever she has visited. She possesses a charm of manner and all the beautiful traits that characterize southern womanhood. Mr. Hight is one of the most popular members of the business and social world of Rome. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and a young man of marked ability. The marriage will be of social prominence, and the date will be announced later.

Among the visitors to Athens last week-end were Messrs. Fred Crandall, Glascock Mayes, Hugh Scott, Welborn Blalock, Charlie Cox, of Atlanta; Sid Nix, A. C. Brown, W. E. Williamson, of Jefferson; Mr. Sidney Smith, of Gainesville; Coach Frank Anderson, of Riverside; Mr. Paul Harber, of Commerce; Mr. Clifton Arnold, of Elberton; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spivey, of Eatonton; Miss Martin, of Cox college; Miss Williamson, of Brenau; Misses Martie and Virginia Smith, of Lexington; Mr. Bob Pharr, of Washington; Mr. Arthur Reid, of Atlanta; Mr. James Roan, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collier, Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, of Atlanta.

Miss Hilda Auslund, after an absence of a year spent in Florida, is here on a visit to Mrs. Ben Barrow. She has scores of friends who are cordially welcoming her back to her old home.

The many friends of Miss Willie Ritter are delighted to learn that she is recovering from a successful operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. M. W. Welch was the gracious hostess Tuesday evening in honor of the University club, at her elegant home on Milledge avenue. The lower floor was thrown together, with exquisite decorations of sweet peas. In the spacious drawing room pink and lavender blossoms were used, while red and white white formed the color scheme for the library and hall. Prof. R. P. Brooks read a very interesting and instructive paper on "The History of the Black Belt in Georgia." At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shafer and Miss Carter Shafer are visiting Mrs. Asbury Hodgson and Miss Lil Hodgson.

Invitations have been received to the reception to be given by Misses Gerdine and Brumby, in honor of the graduating class of Lucy Cobb, Monday evening, May 26. These receptions are always brilliant social events, and make a fitting close to the year's work.

Dean Alexander Rhodes entertained on Wednesday evening at an elegant dinner at the Georgian hotel in honor of the faculty of the State Normal school.

Mrs. Pate Stetson has returned to Macon after a short visit.

Miss Janie Mae Webb was the guest of Miss Reble Wilkins for the Georgia-Tech games Friday and Saturday.

Miss Eugenia Ivey spent the week-end with, Miss Hattie Broyles.

Mrs. George D. Thomas attended the Presbyterian assembly which met in Atlanta last week.

Miss Carrie Worden arrives next week to be the guest of Mrs. Audley Morton.

Mrs. James R. Gray, Jr., has returned to her home in Atlanta, after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dorsey.

The Almathean society of Lucy Cobb entertained delightfully at an informal reception on Thursday afternoon, from 5 to 7. The hostesses were Miss Collins, Miss Selby, Miss Baxter, Miss Newton, Miss Brown, Miss Parker and Miss Hooper.

Judge Hamilton McWhorter was host last week in honor of The Twelve club. For the occasion the handsome rooms of his home were adorned with quantities of roses and sweet peas. Dark red flowers were used in the drawing room, the hall and library being decorated in pink. In the dining room also, a color motif of pink was carried out. The long table had for its centerpiece a mound of sweet peas, and small vases of the fragrant flowers alternated with the silver candlesticks holding the pink tapers. Covers were laid for twelve, and an elaborate seven-course dinner was served. The usual interesting paper was read, and every one enjoyed the cordial hospitality extended.

Captain J. H. Beusse has accepted an invitation to accompany the "Old Guards" of the Gate City Guards on a tour of the eastern cities. They will go north, leaving Atlanta May 19, and will be gone till June 4. They will visit Washington, where they will be received by the president and Mrs. Wilson, at the White House, and will visit Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston before returning home.

Mr. Frank Hardeman, Mr. W. F. Dorsey, Mr. W. A. Capps, Mr. James Barrow, Mr. H. R. Palmer, Rev. Troy Beatty and Mr. W. C. Jordan spent last week in Columbus, attending the annual conclave of the grand commandery of Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Spalding have returned to Atlanta after a visit to Prof. and Mrs. J. S. Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Atkinson have returned to Atlanta after spending several days with Judge and Mrs. E. K. Lumpkin.

She is a descendant of the McCall, Harris and Stanley families of Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia and the Bass family of Alabama.

Locust Grove Social News

LOCUST GROVE.—A pretty event of last Saturday evening and a delightful compliment to the L. G. I. baseball team was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. E. Stewart Combs. Assisting in receiving and entertaining were Mrs Willie Ham, of McDonough, and Misses Carrie Lee and Lorena Combs. The attractive home, so well arranged for entertaining, was prettily decorated with ferns with here and there vases of roses and other fragrant flowers. A choice salad course was served, followed by ices and cakes, in which were effectively introduced the L. G. I. colors, purple and gold. Miniature pictures of the ball team, each bearing the inscription "L. G. I. 1913," done in purple and gold, were given as souvenirs of a most happy evening.

A pretty bit of sentiment connected with the event was the fact that the reception was given upon the first anniversary of the birthday of A. G., Jr., the attractive young son of Mr. and Mrs. Combs. A handsome set of baby pins was given him by the ball team of which his father is a very popular member.

Miss Emmie Pitts, who has been in Hawkinsville for the past few months, has returned home to the delight of her many friends here.

There Are Imitations Now

But Newbro's Herpicide Was the "First Dandruff Germ Destroyer"

A discovery can be made but once. After that all similar acts become emulation, imitation or an attempt at substitution.

Newbro's Herpicide is a discovery. It was the first remedy ever given to science to kill the dandruff germ. Other preparations have since been offered to the public, some similar in appearance, some in odor, but all bringing the daring promise of doing the same things that Herpicide has been doing for years.

Every article of this kind is merely one more instance of vicious emulation, vile imitation or a base attempt at substitution.

The "something just as good" story is old, why give it a thought? Herpicide is the Original Remedy. It destroys the dandruff and prevents the hair from falling. Itching of the scalp stops almost with the first application.

Don't be deceived by "Something just as good." If your own druggist does not keep the genuine dandruff germ destroyer, Newbro's Herpicide, go to one who does.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops.

MACON

MACON—The week has been filled with rather informal social affairs, at which some pretty or charming visitor has been the honor guest.

The visit of Miss Nancy Brune, of St. Louis, who is Miss Viola Johnston's house guest, has been made very delightful by her hostess' many friends, who have given charming parties in her honor. Tuesday evening she was the honoree at the box party at the Grand given by Mr. and Mrs. McEwen Johnston. After the vaudeville performance the guests had supper and a dance at the Johnston home on Georgia avenue.

Quite the largest and pleasantest affair of the week was the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Felton, Sr., on Wednesday evening, with Miss Brune as the central figure. All the unmarried contingent were invited, and the dance was followed by a delicious 1 o'clock supper.

Miss Martina Burke entertained at dinner for Miss Brune on Thursday evening. Spring flowers were used in decorating the dining room and covers were laid for eight.

An event of interest was Mrs. Charles Harrold's bridge on Tuesday afternoon given for Mrs. Richard Johnston, who is visiting Mrs. Marshall Johnston at Hill Crest. The rooms where the card tables were placed were prettily decorated with sweet peas and lovely yellow blossoms.

On Thursday Mrs. T. C. Burke entertained at a bridge luncheon in compliment to Mrs. W. W. Thomas and Mrs. Richard Johnston, and on Thursday Mrs. F. W. Martin gave an outdoor picnic at her home near Dry Branch for these charming visitors.

Mrs. Joseph Lee Fearing, of Chicago, is another attractive matron who has been the central figure at several of the pleasantest gatherings of the week.

On Tuesday Mrs. William Lee Ellis gave a bridge tea at the Dempsey in her honor, and again on Wednesday evening she was the honoree at Mrs. L. P. Hillyer's pretty bridge luncheon.

Mrs. Mallory Taylor was the hostess at a large bridge party on Wednesday afternoon. There were six tables of players, and the card game was followed by an elaborate tea.

Mrs. John Harris and Miss Willie Erminger were were joint hostesses at a lovely afternoon reception given at their home on College street on Monday in compliment to Mrs. John Selbies, of Columbia, S. C., who is Mrs. H. B. Erminger, Jr.'s, guest.

Quantities of pink sweet peas added their fragrance and dainty beauty to the rooms open for the callers, and the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Erminger and Mrs. L. O. Stevens.

A bright affair of Saturday was the reception given by Mrs. Richard Holmes Macon and Miss Frances Stevens, complimentary to their visitors, Mrs. Lucius Lamar McClesky and Mrs. Fuller, of Americus. The Stevens' beautiful home was transformed into a garden, filled with growing pot plants; quantities of sweet peas and garden roses.

Mrs. Marie Adams is in Thomasville with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Neel.

Mrs. Clem P. Steed has as her guests Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Napier, of Yankow, China.

Mrs. Richard Harris, who has been visiting in Mississippi, has returned home.

What the College Girls Are Doing

MISS WOODBERRY'S COMMENCEMENT.

Miss Woodberry's commencement opened Friday evening with a piano recital by Miss Mary McAden Myers and Miss Etta Lula Walton two certificate graduates this year under Adolph Jahm-Petersen. Miss Mary Myers played with pleading grace and style showing musical temperament and unusual technical mastery. Miss Ettta Lula Walton's numbers were those demanding artistic interpretation and ability in execution and were most brilliantly rendered. These young ladies were assisted by Miss Edith McCool who sang Robandi's "Bright Star of Love." The violin obligato of Miss Elliott Johnson was a beautiful contribution to the harmony of the number with Miss Walton at the piano.

The lawn fete of Saturday afternoon was attended by a large number of alumnae and other friends. Miss Rosa Woodberry received, assisted by the faculty and seniors. A delightful musical program was given complimentary to the alumnae. The first part was tendered by the music pupils. The second part by the gifted young violinist Mlle Margaret de Purucker of Geneva who is a member of the faculty.

The closing features of the Woodberry school commencement will be the beautiful evening service at the school chapel this Trinity Sunday at 6, led by the Rev. C. T. A. Pise, D.D., who will preach the baccalaureate sermon. The hymns and chants will be sung by the school.

On Monday evening will take place the graduating program, when the Rev. W. W. Memminger will make the literary address.

The program is as follows:

Graduating exercises at 8 in the evening.

Address to graduating class—Rev. W. W. Memminger.

Valedictory address—Miss Amelia Carney Malone.

Twentieth Century Heroism—First honor graduate.

Delivery of diplomas—Miss Rosa Woodberry, principal.

Reception to the graduating class, tendered by Miss Rosa Woodberry.

Among those who are in the city for the Woodberry school commencement are Mrs. John D. Taylor, of Summerville; Mrs. R. B. Coleman, of Bainbridge; Mrs. W. T. Gibson, of Appalachicola, Fla.; Mrs. R. A. Myers, of Norcross, whose daughters graduate Monday evening. Mr. H. C. Branan came over from Whitesburg to the graduating recital of his niece, Miss Etta Lula Walton.

AT BRENAU COLLEGE.

Mr. Elmer Zoller, director of the Choral club, presented Franz Apts' spectacular operatta, "Silver Cloud," in the auditorium on Monday evening, many of the best voices in the conservatory being heard in leading parts and choruses. The principal roles were the Fairy Queen, Miss Jack Ward, of Beaumont, Tex.; "Zephyr," Miss Lucie Ferguson, of Beaumont, Tex.; "Forget-Me-Not," Miss Nellie Laing, of Dawson, Ga.; "Lilly Bell," Miss Sallie Evans, of Montgomery, Ala., and the "Bat," Miss Helen Gahring.

Miss Eula Leon Denton, of Jennings, Fla., was heard on Monday afternoon in her senior song recital, in which she was assisted by Mrs. H. J. Pearce, a violinist, whose exquisite work made her appearance on the program of artistic excellence. Miss Denton is a pupil of Mr. Elmer Zoller, and her handling of many difficult songs in Italian, German and English was indicative of her ability and talent. The cycle Ronaldi's four songs were particularly beautiful among the English selection.

"The Music Master" was the reading in which Miss Frances Gay, of Turin, Ga., appeared in her senior recital. It was a selection which enabled her to use to the fullest her interpretative power. Miss Gay's reading of the beautiful story was replete with the emotionalism which it demands, and those who heard it received real interpretation of this masterpiece.

Mr. Elmer Zoller presented Miss Opal Overpack, of Canada, in her senior song recital on Friday afternoon. She was assisted by Miss Mamie Cohen, of Madison, Ga., one of Brenau's most talented readers. Miss Overpack is a general favorite at Brenau, and was greeted by a large number of friends on this occasion of her recital. Miss Cohen read "Princess of the Morning," by Helen Ware. The piano accompaniment to the reading was played by Mr. Elmer Zoller.

A piano recital was given Thursday afternoon by Miss Montine Alford, Miss Myrtle Bennett and Miss Laura Meriwether, in which the girls acquitted themselves most creditably.

The many friends of Miss Leta Coleman are delighted to know that she will be a visitor at Brenau commencement. Miss Coleman is a graduate from the school of oratory, and is formerly president of the Student's Union, where she was recognized as a forceful factor in the development and direction of this important college organization.

AT BESSIE TIFT.

On Saturday evening the senior class was delightfully entertained by Miss Campbell and the junior class. Tift parlors were made attractive by ferns, palms and an abundance of sweet peas, the junior class flower. Progressive bunco dice was played, and Miss Ruth Ponder drew the successful score. Instead of the customary prize she received unique and original toasts from those girls who tied with her for the prize, the toasts rhyming with the name of the girl giving it. The score cards were hand-painted violets, the flower of the senior class. Ice cream and wafers were served by Misses Lizek Jacks, Julia Gill, Mary Hunt and Clara Williams.

A delightful event of the week was the tea at which Miss Mary Fletcher entertained her teachers on Friday evening. The following were present: Misses Campbell, Gardner, Nolen, Knapheide and Noles.

Mrs. J. P. Harris, of Dawson, a graduate of the class of 1908, visited Miss Denmark for a few days this week.

Miss Grace Veal, a 1912 graduate, was a visitor in the college recently.

A large number of the alumnae as well as former students will attend the "home-coming" of the Bessie Tift alumnae during this commencement.

Miss Perry spent Monday in Macon.

Rev. Mr. Morris, of Atlanta, was a visitor in the college this week. He led the chapel service on Tuesday morning.

MRS. BROWNE'S RECITAL.

Pupils of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music and Oratory from the piano class of Miss Lottie Gray Browne, assisted by pupils from the classes of Miss Sarah Adelle Eastlack, oratory, and Mr. Georg Fr. Lindner, violin, will give a recital in Cable hall on Friday evening, May 23, at 8:15 p. m. The public is cordially invited.

WASHINGTON SEMINARY.

The following visitors are in the city for the commencement exercises of the Washington seminary: Mrs. Dyson, of Washington, Ga.; Mrs. McCreary, Huntsville, Ala.; Mrs. Brantley, Blackshear; Mrs. Davis, Jasper; Mrs. Shippen, Ellijay.

Mrs. Scott and Miss Scott entertained the pupils of the intermediate, primary and kindergarten departments of the Washington seminary at a morning party, Friday, on the lawn.

Still a Student at 104

Chicago Inter Ocean.

Despite the claims of Colonel Roosevelt, Governor Johnson, former Senator Beveridge and our own Illinois "Progressive" statesmen, we unhesitatingly put forward William Hoggins of Grand Forks, N. D., as the grandest "Progressive" of them all.

Mr. Huggins is 104 years old and has enrolled himself as a student at the North Dakota corn and clover convention.

"A young man," he says, "should keep abreast of the times."

He realizes that he is not too old to learn.

Box Party

Miss Katheryn Wilson's box party at the Atlanta Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. B. Bannon, a recent bride of Winona, Minn., the guest of Miss Pearl Plitt, was an event of the past week.

Miss Wilson's guests were Mrs. J. B. Bannon, Mrs. W. L. Campbell, Mrs. C. P. Powell, Mrs. Mack Evans, Mrs. A. Cranford, Miss Pearl Plitt, Miss Katheryn Wilson, Miss Bonnie Wilson, Miss Florence Miles, Miss Berta Smith and Miss Grady McGee.

Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Busha, of Buford, S. C., celebrated their silver wedding Saturday evening at their lovely home on Magnolia Heights. They received their friends in the spacious living room, which was decorated in green and white. A large silver vase of bride's roses adorned the mantel and the large bay window was adorned with trailing smilax and a profusion of white roses.

The bride's cake, beautifully embossed, had in the center a miniature bride and groom, standing 'neath a silver wedding bell.

Punch was served on the illuminated lawn, and from a Japanese alcove on the porch.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Yancey Harris, of Athens.

Many out-of-town guests were present.

AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA.—The marriage of Miss Pauline Smith and Mr. D. B. Pritchard, of Titusville Fla. was celebrated Wednesday at high noon at the Church of the Atonement Rev. Mr. Holbrook officiating. The bride and groom entered together preceded by the bride's sister Miss Sophie Smith. The bride wore a beautiful coat suit of cream cloth, and with this was worn a broad Panama hat. Her flowers were bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a lingerie gown with girdle of pink satin, and wore a picture hat trimmed in pink roses and carried an armful of pink and white sweet peas. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride, Mrs. Sophie Smith, after which the bride changed her gown for a going-away suit of dark blue cloth, and the young couple left for their future home in Florida.

The marriage of Miss Rosa Lee Martin and Mr. E. F. Roberts occurred on Thursday, Rev. Thomas Walker officiating.

Formal announcement has been made by Mrs. Charles Howard Douglas, of Washington City, of the engagement of her daughter, Julia Hayes, to Ensign Conrad Ridgely, U. S. N., of Augusta, the marriage to occur in June at the family residence in Washington.

Reversed Himself

"What's the trouble now?" demanded his employer, when the office boy came in half an hour late.

"The ice on the pavements," said the lad. "Every step I took, I slipt back two."

"You did, eh? Then how did you ever git here?"

"I started back home."—Judge.

TO CONDUCT ORCHESTRA

MRS. ALFRED B. ROB...ON.

Mrs. Robinson was formerly Miss Birdie Taylor, one of the most gifted pianists of Atlanta. When the Kirmess was given here under the direction of Mr. Agostini, Mrs. Robinson's work was a feature in its success. The Kirmess will be presented in Savannah and Mrs. Robinson will play the piano parts and conduct one of the largest orchestras in the south. The Kirmess is being put on by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, of which Mrs. Robinson is also a member, a fact which makes her choice particularly appropriate.

Miss Mabel Lankford has returned after a tour of the state in behalf of the Christian Endeavor work of Georgia. Miss Lankford being state organizer.

Miss Estelle Colclough, of Penfield, who is doing Nelson work in Morgan county, visited her sister, Mrs. Robert Smith, a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Holmes, of Madison, spent Sunday with Mrs. Himes' mother, Mrs. Virginia Veale.

Mrs. W. Tom Brightwell, of Maxeys, is visiting her uncle, Judge Morton's family.

Misses Alice Crosby and Katie Morton visited Miss Maysie Fambrough, of Rose Hill.

Mrs. Love House is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. J. Haygood, of Atlanta.

Mrs. James Mayne and Mrs. Marvin McCree attended the grand lodge of the Order of Eastern Star, in Macon. Mrs. Mayne, who is worthy matron of the George W. Wells chapter here, was honored with the appointment of Grand Ruth.

On last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Meadors entertained very delightfully at their beautiful country home, "Fairview Farm," in honor of their eldest daughter's fifteenth birthday. Music and games were the forms of entertainment. A delicious salad and ices were served. The guests were Misses Nancy Lowe Morton, Letitia Duggan, Minnie McWhorter, Gladys Hodges, Gladys Fullilove, Isabelle Hutcheson, Ruth Hutchens, Rachel Sykes, Messrs. Leonard McCree, Fred McCree, James Hutcheson, Henry Robison, Evans Johnson, Alva Downs, Hugh Akins, Leroy Hodges and Irwin Bishop.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Phoenix club was held on last Monday afternoon at Oconee high school auditorium, when the pictures were presented to the school as a reward to the children for responding so heartily in planting trees on the school campus on last "Arbor Day." A great many of the trees that the children planted are living. Copies of the world's masterpieces were presented, such as "The Dance of the Nymphs," "Age of Innocence," "Madonna," etc.

RUTLEDGE

RUTLEDGE.—The Civic league gave an ice cream festival at the school building on Friday evening. A large crowd was out and quite a nice sum realized. The Rutledge cornet band furnished lovely music during the evening and the occasion was one of music, mirth and merriment. Mrs. Will Ballard donated a large and beautifully decorated cake, each one being allowed a guess at the number of dots on the cake for 10 cents each. Harold Wallace, guessing nearest the number, got the cake. The league will present a play by local talent real soon, entitled "Dot, the Miner's Daughter." Some splendid work is being done by the ladies of this town and they never tire in putting forth every effort for the town's improvement.

Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Brock have been re-elected as principal and assistant principal of Rutledge High school for another term. The patrons and community in general are congratulating themselves on the re-election of these splendid people.

Miss Ruby Avret, of Social Circle, spent the week-end with Miss Fay Hollis.

Mrs. P. R. Stovall and Miss Bessie Murrow spent several days of the past week very pleasantly in Atlanta.

Mr. Marcus Hollis spent Wednesday in Augusta.

Mrs. J. L. Porter is spending some time with relatives at Newborn.

Mr. John Knight continues very ill with typhoid fever, the services of a registered nurse being required.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Robertson, of Atlanta, spent the week-end with relatives here.

Mrs. Homer Vining and handsome little son, Robert, is spending this week in Augusta with Mrs. John Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Nobut Nunn, of Lithonia, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Jim Nunn.

Mr. Walter Mershon, of Macon, spent Sunday here as the guest of Miss Bessie Murrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Callaway and daughter, Miss Valera, spent several days in Augusta this week.

Mrs. Will Robertson continues to improve, after a most serious operation, performed by Drs. Dunne and Porter.

Dr. Willis Jones, of Atlanta, was here Saturday morning to see Mrs. Robertson and complimented these young physicians very highly on their work in this case.

EATONTON SOCIAL NEWS

EATONTON.—An appreciated and very beautiful tribute to a popular pastor and his wife was the surprise party given Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Sansburn Thursday evening at the First Methodist parsonage on Jefferson street. Taken thoroughly unawares by the arrival of from seventy-five to a hundred guests, who began to drop in "simply for a social hour" shortly after ten, the occasion was in every detail a most enjoyable one.

Mrs. W. B. Wingfield is visiting Mrs. J. R. Webster in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dennis were recent guests of relatives in Atlanta.

Mrs. T. G. Greene visited Miss Mildred Greene at Wesleyan this week.

Mrs. W. L. Turner left Monday for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Montgomery, at Fernandina, Fla.

Tuesday evening at the handsome old colonial home of Colonel and Mrs. Terrell Wingfield, on Madison street, the members of the Madison troupe presenting the play, "Valley Farm," were very delightfully entertained with a reception after the play by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, under whose auspices the play was presented. Mrs. Wingfield was assisted in receiving and entertaining by Mrs. Peter W. Walton, Jr., Mrs. Pierce Jackson, Mrs. C. M. Davis, Mrs. W. B. Wingfield, Mrs. V. H. Taliaferro and Mrs. Percy Ezell. The Madisonians scored a great success with their play and also expressive of their delight with Eatonton's hospitality. Those from Madison were Mrs. J. W. Snellings, Miss Hallie McHenry, Miss Mabel Smith, Miss Vera Parker, Miss Devine, Mr. Butler Atkinson, Mr. George Bearden, Mr. Carter Shepherd, Mr. Robert Perry and Mr. Peter. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening by Frank Spivey, Misses Nina, Julia and Frances Terell Wingfield. The Madison party remained as guests in Eatonton until Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Northcutt, of Marietta, were recent Eatonton visitors.

Mrs. Sallie Lon Nisbet Cooper, of Macon, is visiting relatives here.

Miss Mildred Walker was a recent guest of Eatonton friends.

Miss Louise Wallace has returned to her home in Forsyth.

Miss Nora Cone, of Milledgeville, is with Mrs. J. B. Floyd during Mrs. Floyd's critical illness at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Nisbet.

Mrs. Eliza Morton was a week-end guest of friends and relatives in the county.

Rev. J. H. Barber, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was called here this week by the illness of his little son, John Henry, Jr.

Miss Marjorie Thomas is at home after a very delightful visit in Atlanta.

Miss Hallie McHenry was a guest this week of Miss Julia Wingfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Rossee have moved into their new home on Jefferson street.

Miss Ethlyn Dusenbury, of Barnesville, was the honoree of a very pretty afternoon party, given by Miss Marjorie Thomas Friday, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Thomas, in the Avenue. Tables were placed on the lawn and "42" was enjoyed al fresco, the young guests making a pretty picture of a summer evening party.

Friday evening Miss Rebecca Hearn entertained in honor of Miss Ethlyn Dusenbury, of Barnesville, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Hearn on North Jefferson street. Progressive old maid was the game of the evening and the affair was altogether one of the most enjoyable of the week's calendar for the young people.

Miss Eloise Guyton, of Atlanta, is the guest of Miss May deJarnett.

Mrs. Robert White was a recent guest of Mrs. Peter W. Walton, Jr.

Mrs. Charlie Johns spent the past week-end with Miss Ruth Johns at Wesleyan.

Miss Cora Mizell, of Atlanta, is a guest of Miss May deJarnett.

Mrs. G. A. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spivey, Miss Mary Rainey, Miss Frances Terrell Wingfield, Miss Mildred Walker, Colonel Robert Jenkins and Mr. Lewis Cowles Spivey attended the Georgia-Tech games in Athens.

Education Is Progressive

Nowadays the claim to culture lies not in the knowledge of past history and dead languages only.

TO BE truly educated one must be familiar not only with the history and art of past centuries, but with the happenings and progress of today as well.

FORTUNATE indeed is he who perceives the relation of history to humanity, and the presence of art in everyday life. Such knowledge becomes an animate force in the life and development of the individual and in the progress of a community.

TO TEACH old things in a new way, and to give new things their due place in the march of events, is the object of Brenau College-Conservatory in its regular courses and in those offered at the Brenau Summer School.

HIGH standards, thorough knowledge and a deep interest in educational progress and in the student create at Brenau an atmosphere that is different from that of the usual college; and which becomes an inspiration to all who come within its reach.

THE teacher who wishes to renew and increase her knowledge, will find the Brenau Summer School an ideal place in which to study during the summer months.

THE student who desires to make up a deficiency in studies or who wishes to prepare more quickly for collegiate work, will find at the Brenau Summer School just the course she needs.

THE person of leisure, who takes pleasure in intellectual activity and mental stimulation, will find the Brenau Summer School a recreation and a benefit.

Pitts Master Of Georgians; Jackets Won

Championship of S. I. A. A. Is Now in Awful Muddle–Many Teams Put in Claims–Final Score Was 4 to 2

Tech played better ball than Georgia in Saturday's all important game at Grant field, and won decisively 4 to 2, and with the win the Heisman team put the S. I. A. A. college championship in the biggest muddle in years. On Friday Georgia showed a flash of championship form, and, by hitting opportunely, managed to win the game, and on Saturday the conditions were just the reverse, Tech doing all the hitting.

This idea of placing the credit of winning on the shoulders of any one player is all rot, yet you have to place a crown upon the brow of Pitcher Pitts, the Tech southpaw, who did the hurling in Saturday's mix-up. This boy showed as cool as a cucumber all the way, and it was his nerve which kept the Georgia batters buffaloed, the heavy hitting of his backers serving to take the life from the seekers of the championship honors.

When past records are considered, Georgia shows to have a better ball club than the Tech Jackets, yet you have to hand it to the youngsters who learned the game under Coach Heisman. All season they have played an uphill game in an effort to get in shape for the big series with Georgia, and this they managed to do by always working, and careful attention to their coach.

The usual gala day crowd which annually witnesses Tech and Georgia meet on both the gridiron and diamond was on hand and the rivalry while keen was of the most sportsmanlike fashion. The rooters and hands worked overtime but always in the best of spirits. It is this kind of work that has served to put athletics on the highest possible plane and this alone will keep them at the point they have attained.

The work of just one player—Covington, the Georgia third baseman—marred the sportsmanlike work of the entire series. Not once but three times this player attempted the kind of rough work which would characterize some game played between backwoodsmen who knew no better. In this day and time, however, such tactics are barred and the work of Covington on some three occasions did not meet with the approval of the lovers of true sport.

First Covington got in bad when he interfered with the catcher after he had been fanned by Pitts. The next time it was in blocking a Tech runner as he rounded third and the third occasion was a repetition of his blocking. While Covington came in for his share of disfavor from the crowd this was not near severe enough.

WON BY HITTING.

Tech won the game by hitting the ball timely and often and in this the big surprise of the series was caused. Few followers if any, of the two teams had dreamed that the Jackets would get away with so many hits any one day, believing that if they won it would be through a strategic line of play. But in this the Jackets slipped over one. When runners were on the bags the hits were forthcoming and then the runners always scampered homeward.

Pitts was in one or two ugly looking holes but after the first round he settled right down and mowed them down in good fashion. In his hurling Pitts was ably assisted by his infield, Moore, Montague and Donaldson all cutting down hard hits while Amason did his share at first. Attridge, too, was right on the job and not once did he become rattled.

AD CLUB AT BALL YARD

The great game for the benefit of the Ad Men's club will be between Atlanta and Memphis next Wednesday, May 21—the third game of the series.

All of the members of the Ad Men's club have tickets for sale at 50 cents, admitting the holder to a seat in the grandstand. A large percentage of the receipts will be given the Ad Men to help defray their expenses to the Ad Men's convention in Baltimore on June 8-13, when they will advertise Atlanta like they have never done before. The members will go out on the big day next Wednesday, in auto trucks, which feature is in charge of Wylie West, of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

Wesley Again!

Baraca Wesley Memorial wins again. In a closely contested game the Wesley Memorial team defeated the Gordon Street Baptist team in the Baraca league by a score of 4 to 3. Both teams played good ball and the issue was in doubt until the last inning.

TOMMY LONG DUE ANOTHER TRIAL IN THE MAJORS

TECH ROOTING FEATURED; RIVALRY WAS VERY CLEAN

Tech won that baseball game and deserved to. If ever a college team played with spirit in the men and spirit behind them, as most college teams do, the Tech baseball team did Saturday afternoon. It is the spirit that wins games, and it was spirit that won Saturday's game. The Jacket players never worked so hard as they did when Georgia men got on the pillows and things looked gloomy, the Tech rooters never yelled so hard as they did after Georgia's half of the first inning, when there were two tallies chalked on the score board. The rooting was a finer, better rooting than Tech fans have ever done before, and the playing was a finer, better playing than any Tech team has ever showed. Tech deserved to win.

Without casting any reflections on the Georgia players and the Georgia rooters, they didn't go after results like Tech. If a man to whom Tech was as mysterious as Kalamazoo and Georgia a myth, had wandered into the ball park, he would have said without question that the boys in the yellow sweaters were winning the game. They looked like they were winning, they yelled like it, and they played like it.

Umpiring a Tech-Georgia game is our idea of something to worry about, yet Harls Cope had as few kicks on his decisions as any umpire ever was lucky enough to get. To some it appeared that Cope was a little off a times—what umpire has ever been perfect?—yet his judgment was never partial or weak or prejudiced.

Timon Bowden made a beautiful catch in the sixth inning. Montague was on first with one down when Amason drove a long fly to right. It was away over by the foul line and looked good for at least two bags, but Bowden got under it, grabbed it with his gloved hand, and plunged intothe crowd. Montague had reached third, thinking the ball had been dropped, so it was an easy matter to double him off first.

The Jackets made two hits off Charley when he was taken out in the first. Morris replaced him and Tech won. Georgia made two hits and two runs off Pitts in the first. He stuck it out and Georgia lost.

Tech players displayed bad judgment at two points in the game. They were rotten bone-headed plays, yet in each case Georgia did not profit by them. In the fourth inning Henderson smashed a hot one into shortstop's territory. It was Donaldson's ball, yet Moore ran over from third and tried for it. The Tech shortstop got it in spite of the interference and threw Henderson out at first, no thanks to Moore. In the fourth Harrison popped up between first and second. Montague and Amason both went after the ball and collided, but by good luck one managed to can it.

Georgia had six men left on bases, Tech four.

In the eighth Donaldson was caught at the plate on F. Montague's single. Somebody howled that Covington had held Donaldson at third. The umpire didn't see it and apparently but one or two others saw it, if it really happened. Yet a storm of hisses went up, a rotten exhibition of sportsmanship. The sneaking syblants, we are glad to say, did not seem to come from the students, but from those who were far removed from the muscular Mr. Covington. We don't know who did it, so we can't print their names. Anyway, the sporting editor is particular of our choice of words in this column.

As for the Tech and Georgia students, their rivalry appeared to be of the most goodnatured and sportsmanly sort, keen though it was.

Scrappy Moore made one of the most spectacular stops ever pulled at the Flats in the eighth, when Clements smashed a screaming grounder down the base line. It was a one-handed stab with the gloved hand that robbed the Georgia boy of a hit.

Bone-headed playing on the part of Georgia men saved Tech in the ninth. Henderson walked and Covington was safe on Moore's fumble. Harrison then fanned. Of course he was out, with a man on first, but as the catcher dropped the ball he started on a tearing run for the bag. The two Georgia runners tried to advance, and Henderson was caught off third. Harrison got to first all right but he was already out.

After all, it must be tough to go through the baseball season with a record of only two games lost in the S. I. A. A., and then drop three out of four to your most hated rival.

To Pitcher Pitts is due the bouquets and the ribbons. He started bad, but after the first inning Georgia couldn't get but two hits off him. Twice bum support put him in holes out of which he pulled himself neatly. He hurled the kind of ball which wins many pennants for major clubs.

CAN NOT PICK CHAMPION COLLEGE NINE FOR 1913

Georgia, Alabama and Tech Have the Best Claims But as to Which is Better it Can't Be Judged

BY JULIAN MURPHEY.

What S. I. A. A. college nine is baseball champion for the season of 1913?

Every fan has his own ideas concerning the way the clubs should be ranked, but, as for me, there will be no awarding of championships or runner up. It is a problem that cannot be solved by following any one line. In other words, it is muddled for fair and impossible to make any awards.

No less than four teams are putting in a claim for first place, and, as none have met the same opponents, you cannot pretend to get the proper ranking on the percentage basis. The University of Alabama, University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, Clemson and Mercer are all making a bid for the first honors, and if there is any coach or dopester who believes himself smart enough to figure out just how one team has a clear title to first place, then he can take the job.

It has been suggested that the percentage idea be followed in arriving at the conclusion. This, however, cannot be done, as no two of the teams played the same opponents, and it is very unfair to attempt to get one club's percentage and compare it with that made by another when one met second rate clubs and the other played the best in the association. If they all played the same number of games with the same clubs, it would be just like a league race, and the percentage idea would be the only proper procedure.

GEORGIA LOOKED GOOD.

Until the series between Tech and Georgia was made a matter of history it looked like a sure championship for the university. This team had mopped for every S. I. A. A. team it had played except Clemson, and with Dobson's bunch had gotten an even break. Two weeks ago no one entertained any idea but that Cunningham's bunch would win the championship, and the muddle became confused all in a bunch when Tech, a team that had gone very badly the first of the season, came around and took three of four games.

With the downfall of Georgia at the hands of Tech the University of Alabama jumped to the fore, and Coach Graves' charges have a mighty good claim. This team has played a mighty strong schedule and has won practically everything except the games with Georgia, and here they lost two in a row. However, Alabama won two from Tech, and Tech in turn won over the Georgia nine.

Clemson came to the fore with a claim by rights of its victory over Auburn and an even split with Georgia. Outside of these two series, however, Clemson played few first-class college teams that have any ranking in the S. I. A. A., and cannot be regarded seriously.

Mercer's claim is very weak, consisting mainly of two out of three wins over Tech.

THREE ARE BUNCHED.

To reach any kind of conclusion you have to figure on the teams as they stood with the finish of the season. Figuring in this way, Georgia, Alabama and Tech look best, but which deserves the championship will not be said in these columns. Georgia has one of the hardest hitting teams that ever graced a college diamond, and with it all have won about as many games as any southern team ever copped.

For Alabama this college has not played the very best colleges in the S. I. A. A. but at that have gone like a house afire. Tech was defeated, but two straight battles were dropped to Georgia. This right here is enough to put a crimp in any kind of dope. However, Alabama has won a mighty big bunch of games, and certainly should have consideration in the awarding of first honor by those who are game enough to attempt anything so apparently impossible.

As for Tech, this bunch of youngsters started out like a bunch of boobs, and finished like champions. The three wins over Georgia, regarded as a sure champion, put the Heismanites right in the running, but where they have any claim to first place cannot be seen. The team is surely a game bunch that has played grand ball the past two series, but the early season defeats by Alabama, Mercer and Auburn put the outfit out of the running for any undisputed first place.

Elsewhere will be found a few opinions of coaches regarding the way the teams should be classified. Read them and then form your opinion.

LONG GOING RATHER FAST

Manager Billy Smith pulled one of his very best trades when he took Tommy Long, the ex-Mobile outfielder, off the hands of the Washington club. Mobile did not care for Tommy to return, not believing him sufficiently strong with the willow for the Mobile Gulls. Billy Smith, however, thought differently of Tommy's batting prowess and now this move is proving it was right.

Right now Tommy Long is second among the Southern league hitters. He is hitting around the .390 mark and improving with each day's work. He is just naturally a hitter, has gained a bunch of confidence by being mixed up with good hitters that grace the Cracker squad and with it all is sensible.

Already Long has passed the century mark in hits and bids fair to give the outfit a hard run for the century mark. It is rather remarkable for any batter to get as many as fifty hits this early in the year, but this is just what Tommy has pulled off and he is not yet ready to quit using that old wagon tongue.

One of Long's greatest assets is his speed. He is fast getting away to the first sack and can gain a great deal of power in steaming around the base lines. He is one of those boys who has a good pair of legs and knows how to use them. Not only is he fast on the bags but in the field he also shines and incidentally he has a grand throwing arm.

Tommy is a Southern boy and a great believer in the Southern league. He also thinks Billy Smith has a good outfit of ball players and if any member of the Cracker squad wishes to win any more than the left fielder he has yet to show his face. Tommy is in there to win and works for the team rather than Tommy Long.

Off the field Long is a gentleman. He is well educated, a good conversationalist and respects the rights of others. This makes him an all around jolly, good fellow, but not to the extent of dissipating.

Monday's Game Starts at 4

On Sunday the Atlanta and New Orleans teams meet in a double-header, this being the first double affair the Crackers have participated in this year. After the game the Crackers hit the rails for home to open against the Memphis club.

Owing to the late hour at which the Cracker clan gets back from New Orleans Monday's game with Memphis will not be started until 4 o'clock. This is half an hour later than usual and if it works out well may be tried for the remainder of the season.

Elliott Dent, the Cracker hurler recently purchased from the Washington club, is expected to report some time Sunday and will probably be used in one of the games with Memphis.

Riverside to Meet Fast G. M. C. Bunch

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 17.—The last ball games of the college season will be played here Monday and Tuesday, when the Georgia Military college will contest with Riverside Military academy for honors of the diamond. The local team is in splendid condition and in meeting Riverside they will go up against an aggregation that has had remarkable success this season.

A large crowd will witness each game and it is quite probable that the series will be divided, though the locals will try to win both games at all hazards.

Athlete Is Hurt

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 17.—Miss Georgia Clark, of Rolla, Mo., a student in the University of Missouri, suffered a fracture of the jaw while playing baseball here today. The Missouri "co-eds" organized baseball teams this spring. Miss Clark was captain and catcher of the sophomore team. She was playing in a practice game today when a foul tip struck her.

Errors Helped Atlanta Down Pelican Club

Williams, Ex-Cracker Shortstop, Made Many Bobbles, Atlanta Hurlers Were Hit Hard–Bases on Balls Helped

By C. W. FERGUSON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—By winning Saturday's game and Memphis and Nashville losing, Atlanta goes into second place.

The game was one of the slow kind, with quite a mixture of baseball, good playing and poor playing. New Orleans held Atlanta safe for three innings. They scored two in the second. Hendrix, first man up, walked, Spencer followed him with a home run over right field fence. In the third Atz hit to left for two bags, Manush hit to Fuchner and forced Atz at third. Manush stole second, Hendrix hit over second, Manush scored and Hendrix went out stealing.

In the fifth Long and Bailey walked and Evans relieved. Wilson got an infield hit. Welchonce filed to right and Long scored. Smith walked, Bisland safe on Manush's error, Bailey scoring. Agler got a hit through second, scoring Alpermann and Smith. In the fifth New Orleans got one more and in the seventh three more. In the sixth Atlanta got four more. Long walked, Bailey safe on Williams' error, Alperman hit to third forcing Long, Welchonce beat out a hit to Evans. With bases full Smith doubled clearing the bags. Bisland safe on Williams' error, Smith went to third, Agler out, Williams to first, Smith scored. Evans slammed one against the left field fence in the seventh and Bailey made a beautiful catch. New Orleans pitchers walked several men and made six errors, while Atlanta hit, two, walked one and made one error.

Paul Wins Honors In Golf Tourney

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 17.—Paul, of the Mecklenburg Country club of Charlotte, today won the championship of the Carolina Golf association, defeating Munsell, of Ridgewood club, Columbia, 7 up and 6to play. In the second flight, McFaddin, of Ridgewood, beat Bond, of Charleston Country club, 3 up in 19 holes. In the third flight French, of of Cape Fear club, Wilmington, beat Carmichael, of the same club, by default. In the fourth flight Jennings, of the Spartanburg club, beat Green, of Ridgewood, 5 up and 4 to play.

Balk Wins Game

WORCESTER, Mass., May 17.—A balk by Murray, of Holy Cross with a Yale man on third in the thirteenth inning, gave Yale its second extra inning game of the week and its fifteenth straight win of the season by the score of 4 to 3 today.

Cobb at Top In American; Going Great

Georgia Boy Has Hit His Stride and Has an Average of .488, Eddie Collins Has Fallen Off a Bit

Ty Cobb is now hitting in form and is at the top of the American league batters. The Georgian is batting at a .488 clip with Eddie Collins, of Philadelphia, in second place with an average of .432, the Mack star having dropped slightly during the past week.

Strange as it may seem every one of Cobb's nineteen hits have been singles with the exception of one two bagger. Ty is also working well on the paths, having five stolen bags in twelve games, which is a good average. Jackson, Lajoie and Speaker, the three other star hitters of the league are also going well, all having averages well over the .300 mark.

Here are all who are hitting better than .300:

Wagner's Sub Now in Lead With Willow

Many in Older Circuit Are Hitting the Ball Better Than the Three Hundred Mark, Though None Are Very High

While there are more .300 hitters in the National than American, the high batters of the older circuit have no averages such as those possessed by the best in Ban Johnson's circuit. Vlox, Hans Wagner's sub, is hitting .370 and leading the National.

Charley Stengel, last year with Montgomery, tops the bunch when it comes to extra base hitting, his twenty-nine hits having gone for fifty-two bags. Tinker with thirty-five safeties, leads the bunch in the number of hits.

Here are the averages of all over the .300 mark:

GIANTS TIED

NEW YORK, May 17.—New York and Pittsburg played a 1 to 1, twelve-inning, tie game today. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Tesreau and Crandall, for New York, and Hendrix and Adams, for Pittsburg.

The visitors scored their run in the fourth inning, when Miller walked, stole second and scored on Fletcher's fumble of Wilson's grounder. The locals tied up in the ninth, when Fletcher opened with a safe bunt and Doyle walked. Murray sacrificed, and Merkle's sacrifice fly scored Fletcher. Score:

BOSTON GOOD

BOSTON, Mass., May 17.—James, the Boston pitcher, held Cincinnati safe in all but one inning today, while the locals batted out a victory 6 to 2. The visitors threatened in the ninth when, with two out, Kling as a pinch hitter, doubled and James pegged the next two men. But Moranville handled Becker's grounder cleanly and a force-out ended the game. The score:

ENTRY LIST VERY STRONG

NEW YORK, May 17.—Entries have been announced for the Metropolitan, Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps, which will be run at the spring meeting at Belmont park, beginning May 30.

The first event is at a mile, and thirty-nine entries were received. There are thirty-four in the Brooklyn and thirty-one in the Suburban. Notwithstanding that the entries closed within one month of the date of the meeting, the list of entries is large, considering the reduced number of horses in training and the fact that other sections of the country will be racing at the same time at Belmont park.

Lanett Keeps Winning

LANGDALE, Ala., May 17.—After hitting James, the local pitcher, and putting him out of the game, the Lanett team, composed of recruits from the LaGrange team of the Georgia-Alabama league, easily defeated the local team here Saturday by the score of 11 to 0. Batteries: Langdale, James, Webb and Frazer. Lanett, Holliday and Snell.

Giant Relay Race Is Now Planned

CHICAGO, May 16.—A Marathon relay race extending from Washington to Chicago will be the opening feature of the international athletic contests in Grant park from June 28 to July 6, it was announced today. School boy runners will carry a message from President Wilson to Mayor Harrison.

The delivery of the document will entail the assistance of about 700 school boys.

The automobile route from Washington to Chicago is about 800 miles. The amateur running record for one mile is 4:15 2-5, but at least six minutes will be allowed the runners in this race.

Two Crackers Are Near Top In the Hit List

Tommy Long and Wallace Smith Have Been Going Like a House Afire for Past Few Days—Robertson Is Leader

Tommy Long and Wallace Smith, of Atlanta are now pushing D. Robertson, Mobile's star slugger, for the batting honors of the Southern league. Robertson continues to hold the top round of the ladder with an average of .398 with Tommy Long next in line with a .372 percentage. During the past week Long had climbed rapidly while Robertson has fallen off.

There are ten hitters who are over the .300 mark and of this number Atlanta has three while Alperman is just one point under that mark.

Not only is Robertson leading the league at hitting but he has hit for the greatest number of bags and has stolen more bass, fifteen being his stolen base record.

CHAMPS LOSE

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—St. Louis won a fast game from Boston today, 4 to 2. Hamilton pitched an excellent game for St. Louis. With better support he would have shut out Boston.

Boston tied the score in the sixth when Hooper singled, went to third on Yerkes' double, and scored when Speaker's pop fly fell safe. St. Louis scored after two were out in the sixth.

CHANCE LOSES

CHICAGO, May 17.—Chicago made it three straight from New York today, 6 to 3. Russell was in fine form and, aside from the first and last innings, was almost invincible. Manager Chance selected his star pitcher, Keating, but he went to pieces in the sixth inning.

Frank Chance, manager of the New York Americans, played first base for one inning, but retired in favor of Schalk. President Comiskey said that the attendance for "Frank Chance day" was about 36,000, a record crowd for any game outside of a city or world championship. The weather was threatening before the game.

The umpires were attired in white uniforms, the first time that an arbiter has ever appeared on the field in this regalia. Governor Dunne and Mayor Harrison assisted in the ceremonies in the presentation of a floral harp to Manager Callahan and a horseshoe of flowers to Chance. Several minor accidents were caused by the collapsing of improvised grandstands, but none was hurt. Score:

TECH ATHLETES WHO HAVE MADE HISTORY PROVE GOOD IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

"Red" Hill, John Davis, W. A. Alexander, Corliss Buchanan, Chip Roberts and Scores of Others Have Starred on the Athletic Field and Are Now Prominently Connected With Big Business Enterprises—Stars Have Not Been so Prominent of Late, but Tech Is Now on the Verge of a Most Startling Rise

LOB BROWN.

JAT PATTERSON.

These pictures tell a story to most of Atlanta fans that have followed college athletics in the south for the past few years. These men will go down in the annals of the Georgia Tech as the makers of the traditions that the college is founded on. They are the men that have withstood the onslaught of the mighty and overwhelming odds. These men have fought Tech's battles both in the class room and on the athletic field. They are what is known as old heads. They are the fellows that have been there. These men could tell a story that would sound like a fairy tale, of how the Tech teams used to heave to scrap and scrap to get a chance to practice. How the odds were seemingly always against them and how different battles were won. The most famous battle in the history of the school is that famous ringer game with the University of Georgia in the fall of 1907.

But they were individual players and not pulling for the good of the colors that they wore. The Tech babies, for they did look like babies beside the Georgia bunch, had the spirit and though the game looked good for the red and black, Hill of the Tech team, punted for his first time forty-five yards from behind the goal line where the Georgia team had driven Tech's backfield. This punt was the turning point of the game and the Yellow Jackets took new spirit and won the game. Buchanan carried the ball across the line for the winning touchdown on one foot, he having broken his ankle in the play before and yet he would not leave the game. He was playing the quarter. His ankle snapped, but he called the signal, grabbed the pigskin and hopped across the line. He fainted just as the down was called. This was the greatest victory that the Yellow Jackets have ever won. The baseball series played recently were almost as good, but the eGorgia team were not ringers, but just naturally ball players of the big league variety.

It is interesting to know just what becomes of the men that are most prominent in college affairs when they get out of school. Several wise and illustrious heads have said that college athletes are as a whole a set of bums when they get out of the college ball. Cartoonists have drawn enough pictures to start an art gallery depicting the hero of the athletic field doing time in a milk wagon or throwing up dirt or in some cases where the man has been more fortunate, slinging hash in some chop suep joint. This article is not a defense of college athletics but merely a review of some of the men that have at times been in the hearts of all Atlanta sportsmen and in fact in the mouths of the whole town. These are the men that have carried the ball across the line in the truly ramming style. Thees are the men that the author of Dick Merriwell had in mind when he wrote the tals of how the hero went down the field with a whole load of men upon his brawny shoulders.

ALL DOING WELL.

But the men here shown were not roughers or are they now delivering milk, throwing the soil or calling "two straight up." They are all doing well and glad that they ever went to the school that has for its motto, "To Know, To Do, To Be." These men may not have known so much, and they may not be so much in the ways that the world generally looks at things, but they do things, and whether is is chopping wood, rocking the baby or mixing a highball, you will find them all rambling wrecks from Georgia Tech and all good fellows.

The battles that some of these men have been in would sound like a story of the man that followed the flag through the charge of San Juan hill or the day dream of the old soldier that saw the first shot fired at Gettysburg, and then sank around to see them put out the campfires and move on to the next stop. Tech's big and red days did not begin until the advent of Coach Heisman, who came from Clemson college, and took charge of the Yellow Jacket recruits, and from then on until seven years had passed never a team that wears the Red and Black had left the field with the blood of a Yellow Jacket on his hands or the scalp of a Heisman team on his belt. They were not good days away back there. It was the man that get away with stuff that got over. Tech had about as much love and consideration for Georgia as a suffragette has for a Pennsylvania policeman and the Georgia bunch would not so much as speak the name of Tech within the presence of ladies. Those were the days when the players said a prayer before they went on the field. They knew that it was a battle to the death and as Macbeth said in those days far beyond recall, lead on Georgia and damned be he who first cries hold! enough! They were the foundation days, but things have changed now, and the two colleges are on the best of terms. There is absolutely not any of the old spirit of always fighting between them. Only last Saturday the bands of the two teams marched down the streets of Athens together. Picture if your imagination is very vivid a Tech and Georgia man getting that close together six years ago. But that is getting off the subject. Tech started her athletic career with Heisman as a "Nucleus," and slowly but surely the men here came to see that he was the goat of the south. They realized that it was in him that lay the athletic prowess of the south.

LOB BROWN'S ADVENT.

Lob Brown was one of the first heavyweights that rallied to the call of the Gold and White and he was some man. He weighed over the 190 mark in training, and was one of the best kickers and defensive men that the school ever had. He was great at intercepting punts and generally got by with them. In a game against Davidson college about eight years ago he kicked them from the 56-yard line. Both teams had been seesawing up and down the field with very little gain on either side. Brown was doing the kicking for Tech and Bob Denny was the punter for the Davidson crew, and he, by the way, was some kicker of the Rip Mayer variety.

Then there is 20 per cent Davis, the biggest man that ever played the game in the south. He was a giant and played the full four years at the school. He was one of the best men that the school ever had, not only a good athlete, but a man of sterling qualities and a perfect gentleman. He was first in everything that was for the good of the school and Coach Hiesman says that Davis was one of the finest men that he had ever coached. He was captain and all-southern. He is now in the contracting business and doing especially well. He married the day after Thanksgiving of the last year he played for the Jackets.

Then there is Red Hill, the man that got the long distance record at the school. He stayed at the school nearly eight years and was considered one of the cleverest men that came south to the school. He hailed from Hopersville, N. Y., and was a Yankee from the word go, but he was the man that put the Spirit in Tech and though he stayed at the school for a short lifetime, it was because he was always promoting something for the good of the school. It was Hill that promoted the Tech hospital plan and several other things that are a monument to the school's early drifts. He was captain and was selected by several writers for all-southern. He is now in the silk business and superintendent of one of the biggest silk mills in the world.

Then there was Patterson, he was the big man that his name implies. He was a football star, a track man and was an all around good man. He was a tower in the line when he played the tackles places and was always on the spot for anything that was for the Georgia Tech. He was all-southern man for two years and was captain of the football team.

Harry Holland is another one of the big men that Tech has turned out. He was the best third baseman that ever put on a glove in a southern college. He was to college ball what Cobb is to professional ball. He was a clever player and like all the rest of the men that have left their memory at Tech was out for the good of the school. He made all-southern for three years and was captain of the team for two years. He has the distinction of never pulling but one bone while he played colleeg ball and no one ever speaks of that because there is a sort of feeling that comes around the heart of every true athlete when he thinks that he was the one that pulled the bone. It was not much and ten thousand times did he make the hearts of the Tech fans glad when he would pole one to the outer gardens for a triple or a double with the bases loaded and the score tied.

Then there is Alexander, Buchanan, Knight, Snider, Hill, Sinclair, Automobile Clark, Mayer, Collier, and a good many others who have helped up the traditions for the college that is in the midst of the best city in the south. There was a day when the citizens of the town did not back the school, but that was also away back in the days gone by, everybody that is a true Atlantian is a true Tech fan when there is nod earer connection such as the Alma Mater ties.

For the past few years the big men at Tech have been on the decline, that is they have not been many big me nat Tech but there is coming a revival and the REennaissance of the school starts this spring when the college ceelbartes the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution.

Next fall Tech will again take up her place in the ranks of the leaders of athletics in the south and no more will the gold and white be forced to be out of the reckoning when the championship honors are dealt out. Tech has been in the shadows for a short while, but behind every cloud there is a silver lining and within the next few years there will be another deluge of such men as Coleman, Davis, Alexander and others who once helped put Tech as the leader of things in the south.

Donahue Can't Make Decision

Auburn Coach Rather Thinks Georgia Or Alabama Are Superior.

BY MIKE DONOHUE.
(Auburn Coach.)

AUBURN, Ala., May 17.—It is a rather hard matter to decide just as to what team or teams should be awarded the S. I. A. A. championship. No two teams play exactly the same opponents. Some play most of their games at home, while others play most of their games on the road.

Going on the basis of games played to date, however, it seems to me that the championship should be divided between Alabama and Georgia, provided that Alabama wins her remaining games. It is true that Alabama has not played as many games as Georgia and that Georgia has beaten Alabama, but Alabama won from Tech, while the Yellow Jackets took three from Georgia. Georgia has played most of her games at home and has lost four, while Alabama, though playing fewer games, has lost but two.

The Georgia teams has more natural ability than any team I have seen play, the only weakness being a tendency to unsteadiness. I think that if a season were played any way similar to the professional seasons, Georgia would very likely win out, while a number of others included Auburn, Alabama, Tech, Clemson, Florida would be very closely bunched.

Auburn's opponents included strong teams, four series were played off the campus and three at home, the main difficulty encountered was in making pitching out of outfielders. Davis, the only real pitcher on the squad, was on the crippled list most of the season. Fourteen games were won and seven lost.

TO BUILD HEAVILY OF SIX-CYLINDER CARS

With the awakening of the public to the greater flexibility of the six-cylinder motor, and its increasing favor, due to the smoother riding qualities on American roads, this year sees a remarkable demand for this style of car.

The Midland Motor company, of Moline, Ill., realizing the trend of favor, have made a strenuous effort to meet it.

The Midland model T6-50, seems to have struck the keynote of popular fancy in the liberality of design, with extremely roomy tonneau, both front and rear seats being larger than usual. There is ample space in the rear seat for three stout people, and luggage besides.

In other appointments, such as electric starter, electric lights, left-hand drive, center control, clear running board, three-tons in rear, three-quarter elliptic springs, clear-vision windshield, and longer wheel base, the Midland is an exceptionally well-fitted and designed car.

ZELLARS IN GREAT GAME

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 17.—In a beautiful game this afternoon Valdosta made a clean sweep of the series with Brunswick. Score, 3 to 2. Zellars gave up only four hits and struck out eight batters, pitching their first game on the home grounds this season. Cates also twirled a fine game.

The home club got the extra base hits, three two-baggers and a triple. Mills, formerly with Waycross, was in the game at short for Valdosta, and played a fine game. Brilliant fielding by both teams featured the game.

Sets World's Record In Shooting Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 17.—The world's record for squad shooting was broken today in the professional shooting at interstate association's tournament here when a total score of 492 out of a possible 500 was made. The shooters were P. G. Bills, W. R. Cresby, Fred Gilbert, J. R. Graham and W. H. Hier. Hier, who broke 210 targets straight yesterday, today broke 99 out of 100.

The preliminary handicap, in which excellent shooting was done, became a fight between J. K. Warren, of Birmingham, and Ted Alexander, of Chicago, Warren winning by two birds in an extra twenty targets to decide their clean score on the first 100. The southern handicap will be shot tomorrow with over 100 contestants.

ALABAMA IS GRAVES' SAY

BY D. V. GRAVES,
(Alabama Coach.)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., May 17.—Matter of championship somewhat in doubt between Alabama and Georgia.

Alabama has lost two S. I. A. A. games to Georgia's five up to date. On the percentage basis Alabama should be entitled to the championship, provided we defeat Vanderbilt, and this seems probable.

Since no team has won every series, I think percentage should count, and this would give the championship to Alabama. In addition, Alabama has won five out of seven on the road, while Georgia has played nearly all games at home.

Michigan Team Winner

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 17.—Michigan's track team today triumphed over Syracuse by the decisive score of 80 to 42 in the annual outdoor track and field meet. Captain Haff featured the afternoon's performance by running the half-mile in 1:58, lowing the old mark set by C. H. Gall, of Michigan, by one second.

Seward's mark of 9 4-5 in the 100-yard dash was not allowed to stand because the wind was at the runner's back.

Evers Is Signed

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 17.—The Terre Haute Centtral league club has signed Joe Evers, brother of the manager of the Chicago Nationals, as an infielder.

Georgia Coach Bit Puzzled

BY ALEX CUNNINGHAM, (Georgia Coach.

It looked like Georgia for the championship until right at the last, but now everything is in entirely too big a muddle for me to even attempt to pick a S. I. A. A. champion. It can't be done with any certainty, and to leave it alone is the best thing to do.

Alabama, Clemson and Tech all have good ball clubs, but just where they should be ranked, I am at a loss to know.

A. H. GOODWIN,
Secretary and general manager Johnson Motor Car company.

A. H. Goodwin, who for many years has been associated with C. D. Johnson in the printers' supply business, has been made secretary and general manager of the Johnson Motor Car company, now permanently located at 445 Peachtree street.

The company has recently moved from their temporary quarters at 548 Peachtree into their new home, which has two stories and basement. The new home of the Johnson Motor Car company is one of the prettiest and most conveniently arranged on automobile row.

S. V. D. Mops

S. V. D. mopped for C. C. C. to the tune of 17 to 8. The features of the game was the hard-hitting of the whole S. V. D. team. Robinson led in the hitting line, getting five out of six. Sutton pitched star ball for S. V. D.

Heisman Can't Pick Winner

(By J. W. Heisman)
Tech Coach.

After the Tech victories over Georgia I am decidedly up in the air concerning just what team should get first place in the S. I. A. A. In fact I don't see any proper manner to arrive at the right conclusion.

About the only way to sum up the thing is to compare the strength of the s as they finished the season and this I can't do right now though I am forced to admit that Both Georgia and Alabama look mighty good to me.

The improvement shown by the Tech team I will say, however, is the greatest I have ever seen on a Southern diamond and the youngsters certainly deserve a great deal of credit.

First Baptist Beats Capitol View

The First Baptist trimmed Capitol View by the score of 18 to 7. First Baptist hit the ball hard. Smith knocked two homers. Adams, for First Baptist, pitched good ball, tisrlking out 14 men. Capitol View used four pitchers and all were hit hard. The game was played at Grant park. Umpire, Robertson.

Clemson Thinks Jackets First Through Wins Over Georgia Nine,

By FRANK DOBSON.
(Clemson Coach.)

Carlisle, Ind., May17.—Not knowing the outcome of today's game in Atlanta, but for all around ability Georgia has the best S. I. A. A. team. What they lacked in knowledge of the inside game, they made up in natural ability. Tech is better trained, and mechanical with two good pitchers.

Clemson, Alabama and Auburn should follow in order after Georgia.

If Tech wins the present series they should be given the championship, with Georgia and Clemson tied for second place if Georgia ties Tech, Georgia should get it, with second place belonging to either Clemson, Tech or Auburn.

Chase Is Not Laying Down On Yank Club

Reliability in a Man Is Good Asset, and Hal Is Reliable Enough for Anybody's Baseball Outfit

NEW YORK, May 17.—If all that has been said by various writers about Hal Chase and his indifferent work with the Yankees is true, New York has no place for such a man. Reliability comes first above everything else. In any other line of business a man, no mater how capable he is, must also keep on the job. If he is not reliable he can be of no use to his employer.

If Chase has shown a disposition to sulk he should be dealt with as a recruit would be. The fact that he is the greatest first baseman in the country should not enter into the consideration of his case. Having the reputation of being the best and acting the best are two different matters.

Chase is but human, though, and the taunts and jeers which were hurled his way the last day of the Yankees' stay at home are sure to be felt by the first baseman. The New York fans have been patient with the American league club in this city. On the side the club has been denounced as a very bad one, but every one has shown a disposition to wait and see if time wouldn't develop something. Not until the Chase denouncement has an open cry of dissatisfaction been expressed.

Probably no man, not even the most rabid fan, knows baseball, its players, and the work they are capable of, better than Manager Chance. Chance is the whole works with that club. The Polo grounds grand stand full of fans can not tell him he must get rid of Chase, if he thinks Chase is doing his best for him.

Right here let me say that Hal Chase is working under a severe handicap. The leg he injured in Bermuda has not healed thoroughly. He is practically in the game on one leg. If he doesn't move with the same old dash and spirit that marked his actions before, the leg might just as well be blamed as anything else. Mark Roth declares that Chance and Chase are the best of friends, that Chase is working his head off for the ex-Cub leader, and that right now Chance is lending a hand to making Hal take baseball more seriously than he ever did before with the idea of having him fall into his own shoes as manager when he steps out, which will be after he has handed New York a winner. Those circumstances can do nothing more than lead one to the belief that the fire of fans was aroused and expressed too soon.

ADVERTISE HAYNES CAR

In line with his plan of rehabilitating the organization of the Haynes Automobile company, Kokomo, Ind., George H. Stroud, general sales manager of the company, today announces the appointment of Robert Crawford as advertising and publicity manager, and L. E. McKenzie as assistant in the sales department.

"I am bent upon making the Haynes organization one of the strongest in the industry," says Mr. Stroud, "and I am carefully selecting my men with that object in view."

"McKenzie," continues Mr. Stroud, "hails from Washington, D. C., and I have had my eye on him for some time. He will be a useful man to us. A year and a half ago he joined the sales force of the Studebaker Corporation, Detroit, Mich., and has since represented them at Atlanta, Ga., Chicago, Ill., Oklahoma City, Okla., and quite recently at Washington, D. C. In conjunction with Don L. Watson, who, though still a young man, is nevertheless one of the Haynes veterans, our sales department at the

Ford Sells More Than Two Cars Minute

A statistical fiend of the Ford Motor company has been performing feats with figures again and comes forth with a declaration that during the months of April, May and June, Ford salesmen will sell twenty more than two cars per minute, every working minute of those three months.

The estimated sales for the three months, which were really exceeded in April, are 75,000 cars. In the three months there are just 37,440 minutes, that is working minutes, figuring eight working hours to each day. This gives the average of more than two cars per minute.

Calculating from the angle of hours in a year, the Ford company will sell twenty-two cars per hour this year, counting in Sundays, holidays and nights. There are 8,760 hours in a year of 365 days and twenty-two cars per hour must be sold to dispose of the 200,000 cars which will be manufactured in the company's fiscal year which ends in October.

Willard Best Of the Hopes

Big Boy Has Been Going Good of Late and May Turn Out Fine Boxer

NEW YORK, May 17.—Evidently the germ of pugilistic genius does not lurk in Luther McCarty's system, for he still gives no indication of being the long sought white hope. He has had plenty of time to learn something of the art of fisticuffs, but what improvement he has shown is no more than could be expected in any strong, healthy athlete who has the time to devote to fistic pursuits. The "something different" that makes champions is not in him.

Now that McCarty's status has been fixed for some time to come, attention will be directed to Jess Willard, the six-foot six-inch giant, who is matched to meet Gunboat Smith at San Francisco this month. Willard looks to be the last resource in the campaign to develop a real white hope. If he, too, fails, the situation will be practically the same as when the hunt first began.

Fortunately, Willard is the most promising of the lot. He has yet to show a vital weakness. He can hit with something of Gunboat Smith's effectiveness; box better than McCarty or any of the others, and has a tremendous advantage in physical construction. He has shown the best form of all the white hopes that have appeared in this city, and now that he has joined forces with a real live manager he can be expected to jump to the front.

The one doubtful point about Willard is his mental attitude. He is known to be eccentric, and whether he has the real fighting instinct remains to be shown. If this question is answered satisfactorily he looks like the nearest approach to the long sought white champion yet discovered.

No doubt Gunboat will put Willard's gameness to a fitting test. If Willard can keep his nerve and retain his form while under fire from the Gunboat's batteries he can be counted game enough for all practical purposes.

The bout between this pair should come near settling who is to lead the band in the white hope brigade. McCarty may raise some purely verbal objections, but as he has seen fit to dodge both men his protests will not count for much.

"I can knock McCarty out in four or five rounds," opines Smith, with his fighting blood at boiling point. "I am willing to bet something that I could put either one of them to sleep in less than five rounds. I watched the fight through a microscope, and all I got was encouragement," was Gunboat's conclusion.

Perhaps McCarty will be moved to take up the gage of battle thus thrown down, but the chances are he means to lose himself in the wilds of the far northwest for some time to come.

However, he will have to meet the winner of the Willard-Smith bout or hoist the white flag once more. If he chooses the latter course, McCarty's pretensions to titular honors will collapse of their own weight.

WATER TEAMS PROVE STRONG

NEW YORK, May 17.—Coaches of swimming at the five universities holding membership in the Intercollegiate Aquatic League of the East have already started to lay plans for next season, and their canvass of their available material leaves no doubt that the teams of 1913-14 will be the strongest and best matched in history. Not one of the present champions and record holders will miss the roll call in the fall, and several valuable recruits will be added to every squad.

Princeton should have an almost invincible swimming combination, for the freshmen who were eligible last winter can now be used, and among them are O'Sullivan, a sprinter who has beaten the collegiate standards at fifty and 100 yards; Pope, plunger of championship calibre, and such promising stars as Smith, Selby, De Lacy, Priscelle, Davis, Lester and Field. As the Orange and Black retains also Cross, the century and furlong little bearer; Brazelton, one of the best divers in the league; Robinson, the plunge runner-up, and arnes, Meyers, Painter, Mott, Heyl and other veterans, the aggregation will be formidable. From the water polo contingent will be lost Captain Wight and Bartlett, two of the all-collegiate selections, but with Hessenbruck, Robinson, Tom O'Sullivan, Scudder, Shipman, Cleveland, Butler Kahn Reynolds and Davis, all experienced men, to pick from Captain Sullivan should have no difficulty in turning out a cracking good six.

While Yale will be without the services of both Captains Wilson of the swimmers, and Harper of the polosers, the vacancies will be filled in a manner wholly satisfactory, and at the rate the New Haven watermen have been improving, there is every prospect of their being a hard nut to crack, even by Tiger jaws.

MOTOR SPEEDWAY SEATS 11,500; BIG CONCERT BEFORE OPENING

Five Good Riders Already on Hand—Seats Arranged in Center and Around Track

Every possible convenience for spectator and rider and all the latest appliances will go to make the motordome which Jack Prince is building on the old circus grounds, corner Jackson and Old Wheat streets, one of the most up-to-date racing tracks in the world.

Already the skeleton of the track is rising above the ground where the ponies once cantered around the saw-dust, and soon it will be entirely completed. Mr. Prince has not yet announced the openig day, but it will come soon. The Sunday before the opening a big sacred concert will be held at the track, in order that the public may get the benefit of the music and inspect the track as well. It will be free.

Already there are four of the riders in Atlanta. These men are Fred Luther of Fort Worth, Henry Lewis, of Fort Worth, Welmer Rehd, of Dallas, George Lackner of Syracuse, and Billy Shields of Brooklyn. These, together with many other riders, who will race in Atlanta, form the fastest and most daring bunch of motorcyclists who have ever skimmed around the circuit with death hovering at the handle bars. They have been racing in Mr. Prince's circuit of tracks all over the country and will o doubt make some records for speed and endurance at the local dome.

The motordome will seat 12,000 people. Part of these, 6,000, to more accurate, will occupy the tiers of seats which will be ranged around the top of the tarck. There will be four rows here, with a the walk 6 feet wide between the first row and the rim, on which one may walk around the whole track. A tight wire will be stretched around the edge of the rim to prevent the riders from plunging over the pinnacle. These seats are reached by a stairway leading from the outside.

Within the circle downstairs will be seats for 5,500 people. The seats nearest the track are at least thirty feet away, with a wire stretched in front of them, so that there is no possible chance of the riders plunging into the audience. A band stand is placed in the mid. dle of the arena where music will be given at all shows.

The seats both upstairs and downstairs are so arranged that everyone can see the rows being banked one high above the other.

The box office will be situated at the southwest corner of the grounds, the same spot where circus tickets have been sold in the past. In the northwest corner will be a storage house, where all machines and riders' paraphernalia may be kept.

COULDN'T PLAY IN GAME; DIED OF BROKEN HEART

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 17.—"Had I pitched, my school would have won the pennant; but it's too late now; we've lost."

Willie Lieser, fourteen, champion pitcher of St. Paul grade schools, sobbed these words, then died of a broken heart.

Willie attended class at Baker school Wednesday. That afternoon he won his third consecutive victory, pitching a two-hit, no-run game. Thursday's battle was to decide his school's pennant chances. He worried, causing a headache, and was detained at home. The new pitcher lost the game.

When the principal and comrades called on Willie yesterday he still was confined to his bed with a headache.

"What's the score?" he cried. They told him, and a moment later he was dead. Physicians say death was due to a broken heart.

MULLIN IS SOLD TO WASHINGTON CLUB

DETROIT, May 17.—Pitcher George Mullin, in point of service the oldest member of the Detroit baseball club, was sold last night to the Washington Americans for $2,500.

Mullin joined Detroit in 1902 and three times helped to pitch Detroit into the American league championship. His showing this spring has not been satisfactory. Mullin said he still could pitch as good ball as he ever did.

Tennis Game Will Enjoy Best Season

Fine Weather and Many Star Players Serving to Give the Popular Game Great Start This Year

BY W. A. COLLINS.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Under the spell of fine weather, tennis enthusiasts throughout the country are preparing for the opening of a season which promises to be one of the most interesting in the history of the court game. It will be particularly interesting to New Yorkers, for this spring the most important matches to be played in this country will not be at Newport, but right here in little old New York.

The Davis Cup matches, to participate in which the Australian team will come to the United States, will certainly overshadow the national championships, and on June 6, 7 and 9 this city will be the focal point on which the attention of *American court devotees will be cen*tered. The matches will be staged at the West Side Tennis club and the committee in charge is planning to provide double the number of seats that were available in 1911 when the last Davis Cup preliminaries were decided in this city.

Bob Wrenn, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis associa*tion, thinks that the general tendency* apparent among the critics of predicting an easy victory over the Australians is not founded upon a true appraisal of their high caliber.

"Rice, Jones and Doust make a good combination," said Wrenn. "I think that the men representing this country will have to play a gilt-edged game to entitle them to compete in England."

Ritchie Wants To Hold Title And Not Fight

Lightweight Champion Getting in Bad by His Continued Refusals to Meet Good Boys Who Are After Him

NEW YORK, May 17.—When Willie Ritchie has finished his theatrical work in June he will have spent seven months on the stage. After that he wants a long rest, and after that he will fight some one—maybe. Possibly when Ritchie does make up his mind to re-enter the ring he will choose New York as the battle ground. Every effort is being made in California to secure the actor-champion for the big date on July 4, but so far Ritchie has given little courage ment to this scheme. It is said that Nolan has privately expressed a fear to start Ritchie in a long bout in California, being of the opinion that when he fails to score a clean knockout over his opponent he will be ridiculed.

On the far coast a champion is expected to be able to win his bouts inside of twenty rounds instead of leaving the matter to the decision of the referee. On past performances Ritchie is not likely to do this. He has only beaten one opponent before the limit and his victim on that occasion was by no means prominent in the fistic world.

Freddie Welsh, despite his worl championship pretentions, is being overlooked in the hunt for a suitable opponent for Ritchie. Although Welsh seems to have the best of credentials in his victory over Ritchie, the fans on the far coast have expressed no desire to see him in action again, and he probably will be overlooked.

Pittsburg Romps

Giving up only three scratch hits and striking six, Wasser easily won his game this afternoon.

Some of the Southern Railway boys reached third base. The Pittsburg players ran wild on base, making several double steals, and played an all round beautiful game.

Central Baptist Wins

The majority of Trinity team failed to appear and thereby forfeited the game to Central, but Central would not be outdone. The second team of the Trinity team found enough scrubs to have a game. The Central Baptist team won and defeated score 15 to 0. The features of the Central boys was the hard hitting of Durham, Thomas, Jackson, Monk and Graves, and their fielding was almost perfect.

Graves pitched a no-hit game with Thomas, the new catcher, receiving his fast ones in big league style.

FLORIDA AND GORDON MEET

On Monday afternoon Gordon goes against the University of Florida in the first of a two-game series. The Floridians have a strong team, as is well shown by their showing against Mercer, Tech and Sewanee. Although Gordon can hardly expect to win from the collegians, it is a safe bet that they will be no easy mark. The team is now going at a nice gait, and, with a good support, Maxey and McCord will be hard to beat.

Are to Improve The Elgin Track

CHICAGO, May 17.—That spectators may get a better chance to view the race, the course over which the Elgin road race will be run this year is being remodelled. This is being done following a meeting of the officials and the receipt of reports as to the conditions.

Although teams and men have been putting in many hours a day for several weeks in improving the course the real work is still to be performed. Hornbeck's turn, which in other meets has caused the pilots no end of trouble, will be widened. Hornbeck curve has been the jinx of many drivers in the past and when a driver took it at just a trifle above the regulation speed the wreckers were usually called into action and a hurry-up call sent for the Red Cross people.

Several small hills on the home stretch will be absent and the bouncing of cars will not welcome late arrivals at the course.

EDGEWOOD TO MEET FORMWALT OUTFIT

The Edgewood and Formwalt school teams meet on the Marist college diamond Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Each team won a game, and this battle will decide the honors.

Before the Edgewood-Formwalt game, Boulevard and Peoples will clash.

Smyrna Cops

SMYRNA, Ga., May 17.—Features of the Smyrna vs. Crane game played here today was the home run by Rowell. It was a hard-fought game until the ninth inning, each team playing their usual good ball. Phillips, on first for the Pressmen, played a brilliant game. Yarbrough also starred for Smyrna. Both teams played clean ball and there wasn't any squabble from either team. Joyner umpired a good game.

Faster Speed On Speedway This Season

When Indianapolis Track Was First Conceived Few Believed Speed of 100 Miles an Hour Would Be Attained

When the first self-propelled vehicle was made to run—and then more remarkable, was actually stopped at will, people laughed. That laugh soon changed into an ever-increasing cheer all over the world.

When four Indianapolis men presumed to suggest a speedway upon which automobiles would be raced at unheard of speeds, the same people smiled knowingly. That smile has changed into a look of surprise and admiration.

Such is the progress in Indiana where the first car was built and where the fastest time with motor cars has been made.

These four men who conceived the new world-famous speedway are Carl Fisher, A. C. Newby, James Allison and Frank Wheeler, all connected with the motor car industry of Indianapolis.

In 1909 the first meet was held on the two and a half-mile speedway. The track was not paved then. At that time one manufacturer watched his cars practice and suggested that the day would come when he could do a mile a minute on the track. Last year cars traveled at the rate of 100 and more miles an hour on the speedway. Such is the rapid growth in the motor car building.

The speedway has done much for the entire motor car industry; it has done much for the particular car builders who entered their product; it has done much for the city of Indianapolis and more surprising, it has declared dividends for the owners.

The next contest to be waged for cylinder-supremacy will be held May 30. At that time American-made and foreign-built cars, driven by intrepid experts, will "go after" the international championship in the 500-mile race, 200 times around the two-and-one-half-mile track. The track has been paved with brick.

Last year the largest paid admission that ever attended a sporting event in the history of the world, paid real money to come inside of the speed arena and watch the National car bang up a new world's record. Last year's race was marked by two or three unusual features; the two cars that gave the National the hardest fight for victory were to European cars, a Mercedes and a Fiat. The National's actual running time was 8.73 miles per hour. The Mercedes, driven by Ralph De Palma, made a marvelous race, going out in a dramatic fashion that brought sighs of regret from every one but as the worthy pilot was nearing the end of the terrific run.

Joe Dawson, an Indianapolis boy, drove the National to victory last year and the year before that in the first 500-mile race, Ray Harroun, another Indianapolis boy, drove the Marmon "Wasp" to victory. Harroun's elapsed time average was 74.61 miles per hour.

Who will win this year is a matter that even the most skilled "railbirds" hesitate to predict. The record as now hung up is fast; some of the foreign entries are puzzles as no one knows just what they are capable of; some of the American made cars may sprine some surprises and the Hoosiers are eager that the record be kept at home.

Perry-Rainey Team Wins Easy Battle

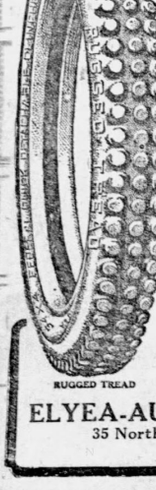
AUBURN, May 15.—The Perry-Rainey Institute team won handily over the Winder nine here by score of 10 to 1. It was the sixth straight win for the Perry-Rainey.

Until the ninth inning, Winder had been blanketed, but in this round managed to slip over a lone tally. Hancock pitched good ball for the winning club.

AUTO OWNERS FIGHT REGISTRATION FEES.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 16.—The executive board of the American Automobile association determined here Thursday to appeal to the United States supreme court for relief from the double taxation imposed in many states upon motor car owners. At present they are required to pay a personal tax and in addition, in some states, a heavy registration fee, the latter running from $10 to $25 a car in Maryland.

The association will make the fight to have the charge reduced to the actual cost of issuing the license.



FEDERAL TIRES

The Federal Rugged Tread has always been a "higher quality" tire. Heavier, stronger and more durable than non-skid tires are usually built, it has cost more to produce, therefore sold at a higher price than most other good tires.

Now, the recent reduction in prices makes these "extra service" tires cost no more than ordinary non-skid tires.

Quality remains unchanged—features of safety, durability and economy unquestioned. Made in all types for standard rims by the Federal Rubber Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee.

New Surface Now Finished

With a few hours' work Saturday the new motordrome track surface was finished. Prince is making every effort to get the track done in order that the dozen riders now here will have the chance to try out their machines on the quarter-mile circle Sunday afternoon, and a large crowd is expected out to watch the boys try out the big racers. These machines are different from those in general use and are twice as fast, being built especially for racing. The track is built to hold a speed of 35 seconds to the mile. To ride a motorcycle at this rate of speed requires the immediate attention of the rider every instant. Black lines are laid on the attack and his eyes are kept on this line.

An idea of what the motordrome is being built of and the immense amount of lumber that has to be used in its construction can be had from figures showing the thousands of feet of lumber that is being put into it. The track surface takes 125,000 feet of strips two by four laid edgewise. The grandstand will take 75,000 feet more. Over fifty kegs of nails will be used in putting together the track and grandstand. The track measures from the pole or 18 inches from the inside edge, one-quarter mile around. The seating will be on the outside of the track, with seats circling the entire quarter mile, four rows of seats with a capacity of 4,500 people.

The bandstand will be in the center of the arena. One hundred flaming arc lamps will be used to light the track and grandstand, which will make the place as light as day.

The exact date of the opening night will be announced next week.

"Fats" Copped Game From Dalton "Leans"

DALTON, Ga., May 17.—The "hefty" and "lightweight" factions of the Dalton Elks club settled their differences by a game of baseball here Wednesday afternoon, the fat boys carrying the heavy end of a 16 to 12 score, thereby verifying Captain Fite's previous interview, in which he stated: "The 'leans' may defeat us, but their chances are 'slim.'" Captain Cannon's interview before the hostilities was equally optimistic: "Fite is just 'beefing,' he said. 'Take it from me, we have them 'skinned.'"

The lard factory lads held the game safe at all points, grabbing the lead in the first inning and holding it throughout. Each team used four sharpshooters, the tribe of the Skin-and-Bones working Pruden, Black, Herault and King; while the heavy work of the beef boys fell to Maddox, Hamilton, Harris and Trammell.

In the third inning the two teams' combined and swooped own upon the indicator individual, who faded away to give place to another man who was willing to take a chance.

Kling Reinstated

CINCINNATI, May 16.—The national baseball commission today pronounced Player John C. Kling in good standing without the imposition of a penalty. This was done upon his representation that his failure to report to the Boston club of the National league for service during the season of 1912 was due to a determination to give all of his time and attention to his business interests at Kansas City.

Llewellyn, a hurler who is said to have been bought from the Philadelphia Nationals, has reported to Manager Garvin for work with the Portsmouth Pirates.

Augusta Has Tennis Meet

The South Atlantic tennis tournament is to be held on the courts of the Augusta Country club beginning June 30. Reports from Augusta are to the effect that many good players have already entered and as it is about the same time as the annual southern tournament at New Orleans, many of the stars who play in New Orleans will be on hand at Augusta.

It is reported that several of the star Atlanta players who have found it impossible to get off long enough to go to New Orleans for the southern tournament will be on hand in Augusta. Carleton Smith, E. Mansfield, J. K. Orr, Jr., and Carl Ramspeck are among those who will doubtless go to Augusta.

Wrightsville Wins Fourth

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., May 17.—Wrightsville whitewashed Dublin 7 to 0. The base-running and fielding of the Wrightsville team was jam-up in every particular. Daley's work at first, J. Red Martin's all-round classy playing, and Johnson's assistance in three beautiful double plays are worthy of special mention.

McWhorter's pitching continues brilliant as well as consistent. He gave up one hit, walked one man and struck out nine, hitting none. Lord's catching and throwing were classy. No stolen bases were registered against him.

This makes four wins and one tenining game lost for Wrightsville.

Evers Breaks Under Strain Of the Fight

In Recent Brooklyn Series Cub Manager Went All to Pieces and It Now Looks as if He Will Break Down

NEW YORK, May 17.—Trojan Johnny Evers is an old man now. The Brooklyn fans became convinced of this after lamping the great little player when the Cubs made their eastern debut at Ebbets field. The lines in his face have apparently deepened, and it is evident that he is finding the job of managing the Cubs a little beyond that which his vitality can stand for any length of time.

The little leader was always known as a high strung player, and with the added responsibilities he is irritable and lacking in practice. He showed this when Zimmerman went below the stands to fix some part of his uniform.

The third baseman held up the game for about a minute and was soundly berated for his act by Evers when he came forth to take up his position at third base. Such little things hardly ever draw forth the least comment from managers, and the players themselves consider their manager a changed man for an indefinite period.

The Chicago management fully realized that Johnny would probably break down when the team was in the midst of a nerve-racking pennant fight, and fortified the team in this respect by securing Roger Bresnahan from the St. Louis Cardinals.

A great deal depends on whether or not Evers is capable or curbing his temper when he encounters stern league umpires. It has looked for a time as if the Chicago leader would have trouble with Hank O'Day on the occasion of the latter's return to the role of umpire.

It is being doubted whether Evers can stand the gaff without a breakdown, but with the advice and encouragement of the ex-Giant star there is little probability of the little leader being forced to lay off for any great length of time.

The game at Ebbets field did not tend to lessen the burden of the new pilot of the Cubs any. In fact, Evers now realizes that he and his teammates have to fight three speedy teams in the east this season instead of the customary two—New York and Philadelphia.

Toccoa Mops Up for Piedmont College

Australians at Work

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The Australian tennis team, which is preparing for the preliminary matches in the Davis cup series with the American team in New York next month, spent several hours in practice on the Huntingdon Valley Country club's courts yesterday afternoon. The Australians showed great speed and have a graceful, easy stroke with much power behind it.

Walsh Is Bug On Motor Cars

Star Hurler Chicago Sox Plans to Tour From City to City in Car

Ed Walsh, the "Giant" twirler, plans to tour from city to city in the car presented to him by the fans in the Windy City. This car is a large six-cylinder equipped with Goodyear oversize tires which he selected especially for heavy touring.

Walsh, after coming from training quarters, seems to be working in fine form and will be able to put them over with his usual speed and accuracy.

"Although the fox hunting down south is a great sport, motoring has it all over it like a tent when it comes to a showdown," says Ed while talking to Teddy Edwards of Hartford, Conn., once of bicycle renown, now manager of the Hartford branch of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio.

"I am going to get as much out of my car as possible this summer, and it is going to go everywhere that I can take it. In fact I have just had it equipped with Goodyear oversize tires to take care of the hard grind I intend giving it this summer."

Lauder Lauds His Hudson Car

"She's a daisy!" laughed Harry Lauder, Scotch comedian and singer, as he stepped from a Hudson car after a tour of the parks and boulevards as the guest of the Detroit Burns club.

"And yon's a vera clever young man who's driving her; though she's aye that simple a bit bairn could handle her wheel."

Mr. Lauder is a good judge of motor cars, and his commendation of the American automobile was frank and outspoken.

"Electric accessories and conveniences are carried much further with American cars than with the cars manufactured in Europe," said Mr. Lauder, who by the way betrays only a slight Scotch "burr" in ordinary conversation. "Your electrical cranking and electric lighting systems are really marvelous. I was amazed at the ease with which the driver of the Hudson car in which I was, operated the electrical starter, or cranker, as I understand you call it. I had him stop the car a couple of times, once in rather difficult traffic, just to observe how it would work.

"The simplicity of your motors also attracted me. On lifting the hood over the engine there seemed to be much less of complication than on some of our European motors.

"Probably the fact that American cars are now largely sold in Europe will aid in stimplating the designers across the water to adding self-starters and electric lighting in as large proportions as they seem to be used with you."

Averages 52 Yards Punting Football

PRINCETON, N. J., May 17.—M. T. Boland won the annual punting contest held for the members of the football squadron on University field yesterday, with H. V. Merritt, second. Boland's punts averaged fifty-two yards and Merritt's fifty-one. Captain Hobey Baker won the drop-kicking contest, with seven out of nine tries, and R. Davis was second with four out of nine.

ENGLISH POLO PONIES LOOK GOOD TO AMERICAN STARS

NEW YORK, May 17.—American polo experts have had an opportunity to look over the imported ponies to be ridden by the English team during the coming international play for the Westchester cup, are vastly impressed with the class and breeding of the mounts. In view of a prevailing impression that the matches will be decided to a great extent by the speed and endurance of the ponies the English equipment is being scanned with great interest.

The forty-four ponies which arrived early in the week are quartered at the Pipping Rock club stables at Lost Valley, Long Island, in charge of a large squad of grooms. Thus they have been only lightly exercised, in order to accustom them to turf after the long ocean voyage. It is planned to give them the first tryout next Monday in a practice game between the English team and a scratch four. The invading players say that while the team is perhaps not quite as strong as the 1911 combination the ponies are superior to those ridden two years ago.

The Duke of Westminster provided twenty of the mounts, including Energy, formerly ridden by Captain Floyd; Tiger, an Argentine pony, favored by Captain Cheape, in the last cup matches; Pretty Boy, Captain Edward's choice in the same contests; Royal Diamond, a heavyweight carrier, to be used by either Edwards or Cheape. The best of the Duke of Westminster's contributions, if not of the entire squad, is a remarkably impressive brown gelding, purchased from an army officer who did not know its pedigree, hence the name, "Unknown," has been given the mount.

Invitation to Athletes of World

NEW YORK, May 17.—An invitation be cablegram has been extended to the athletes of the world to take part in the athletic events to be held in connection with the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in 1915. The invitation was sent by James E. Sullivan, director of athletics at the exposition through Prof. William M. Sloane, who is one of the American representatives on the international Olympic committee and at present attending a special congress at the International Olympic committee at Lausanne, Switzerland.

Motorcycles Aid "Clean-Up"

Prof. E. L. Finney, of St. Paul, Minn., and his assistant, will ride motorcycles this year in their annual "clean-up" tour of the city schools.

Each spring the director of school gardens visits the various schools of the city, talking to the children on the importance of cleaning up the yards. It usually requires several days to visit all of the schools, but with the aid of a motorcycles, Professor Finney expects to complete his task this year in a couple of days.

To the Chauffeur:

Every Ajax tire for the past eight years has been guaranteed in writing, for 5,000 miles. But 5,000 miles should be the minimum mileage, providing you give to your tires the same care and attention you give to the mechanism of your car.

Guard against improper inflation, cuts, bruises, running in car tracks. Use the throttle more and the brakes less, and you'll save both tires and machine.

To the Car Owner:

Three-fourths of all tires come to an untimely end through lack of proper care.

It is to insure you against carelessness and to avoid abuse and neglect that prompts us to make this offer.

Our compensation will come in the satisfaction which every Ajax tire will give, with an added reward in the continued patronage of the satisfied owner.

GEORGIA'S AUTOS LEGION, SAYS THIS AUTHORITY

Comparative Statement Compiled on Southern States by Press Clipping Bureau

That Georgia has nearly twice as many automobiles as any other southern state is stated by the Southern Press Clipping Bureau, of Atlanta, in their second annual automobile statement just issued, which shows the number of automobiles owned in each southern state having state registration. Georgia leads with 20,078 and the next nearest number is 11,225 in Tennessee, then Florida with 9,978.

Nine southern states require state registration, two, South Carolina and Texas, require county registration, and in Louisiana each county or township does its own regulating.

The statement is complete to May 1, and is based on information furnished by the automobile registrar in each state. The total registration to May 1, also for same date last year, follows:

Georgia, 20,078; last year, 14,000.
Tennessee, 11,225; last year, 7,181.
Florida, 9,978; last year, 4,896.
Alabama, 4,350; last year, 3,260.
Arkansas, 4,500; last year, 2,000.
North Carolina, 7,000; last year, 4,000.
Virginia, 6,094; last year, 4,020.
Mississippi, 6,094; last year, 4,020.
Kentucky, 7,500 (estimated); last year, 4,000.

From the above it will be seen that Georgia made the greatest increase within the last year, with Florida second, that state having made the greatest increase compared by population. The increase of Florida is rather remarkable when compared with the increase of the other states.

S. A. Martin, manager of the clipping bureau, who prepared the statement, says:

"The statement issued by us a year ago showed that Georgia had twice as many automobiles as any other southern state and the statement this year shows that she nearly doubles any other state. The last government report showed that Georgia led all southern states in the number of miles of good roads built, and was second in the union, being excelled only by New York state. Georgia's experience of working convicts on the roads has proven conclusively that that is the best solution of handling convicts, and at the same time get the most benefit from them in which all the people share. With these convicts working on the roads every work day in the year and with the cooperation of the citizens' help in each county it keeping up the roads after they are built, Georgia within a few years will be a complete network of splendid highways.

North Carolina is probably leading in issuing bonds with which to build roads in the different counties, with Florida second, a $50,000,000 bond issue for road purposes is being agitated. In Georgia approximately 140 counties are working convicts, yet it is evident that the interest in good roads in this state is not as keen as it has been, say two years ago, or when the national highway idea and round-the-state tours were being run. No better illustration of the power of the press and of the advantage of advertising has ever been shown than the road situation in Georgia today. When the national highway was built from New York to Atlanta, and thence to Jacksonville, and tours were being run over that and around the state, there was more effective interest in roads in Georgia than there has ever been since. It is unfortunate that those newspapers that fostered these highways and tours did not keep up the annual tours, and nothing will inspire good roads work in Georgia and in the south as much as an annual movement that the national highway and the round-the-state tours will be revived and made either annual or biennial."

BONESETTER REESE IS OWNER OF OAKLAND CAR

Self-Starting Feature Interested the Great Specialist

Among the numerous celebrities who have been completely captured by the Reese of Youngstown O. is the latest, ty and many a diamond star has hustled Mr. Reese is unique among famous people as he has won his reputation through his ability to repair broken bones and to straighten ligaments. Among athletes, especially ball players, he is regarded as supreme in his specialty and many a diamond star has hustled to the Bonesetter's home in Youngstown to be put in shape for the great American sport.

The other day a patient rushed into Mr. Reese's office. His arm had been broken in cranking his motor car and the bonesetter had to fix it up. The cause of the accident set Mr. Reese to thinking. He is an ardent motorist, his arms and his hands are the chief tools in his profession and invaluable. Wasn't he taking chances and in danger of suffering the same accident as his patient? Surely he was, he concluded. The thing for him to do, therefore, was to buy a car that needed no hand-cranking, one that had a positive self-cranking device.

Straightway Mr. Reese bought an Oakland, for he found that the famous "car with a conscience" is equipped with a Delco electric self-starting, ignition and lighting device and that all you do is to press a button when you want to start your engine. Mr. Reese found also that the big thing about the Oakland starting device was that it works—all the time. Big league stars may therefore be assured that Bonesetter Reese will be on the job this season as usual.

Lore Starts Tour For Boxing Bouts

Johnny Lore and his manager, Walter Burke, start on their first leg of their proposed trip around the world on Wednesday morning over the P. R. R. to Pittsburg, where Lore boxes Ray Parks in a six-round bout.

On May 19 Lore is due in Youngstown, Ohio, to box Young Shugrue a twelve-round bout, and on June 1 engages in a twenty-round contest at New Orleans with the winner of the Charley White and Joe Thomas bout.

The twenty-round bout that Lore is scheduled to box will go to fit the New Yorker for contests on the cost with Rod Anderson and Tommy Murphy, where the longer route prevails.

Burke and Lore will stay on the coast until July 4, sailing from Frisco for Australia on July 15.

PAIGE AUTOMOBILE AFTER CYCLONE

A Paige owner in Omaha writes of his experience in the recent Omaha cyclone:

"I was driving home at a rapid rate to avoid what appeared to me to be a heavy rain or snow storm that was rapidly gathering. The sky was getting black in nearly all directions, the wind had gradually increased to quite a gale, and people all around seemed to be preparing for a good blow.

"I had about eight more blocks to go when everything seemed to be at a standstill, the trees ceased their swaying and rustling, everything seemed dead. I felt as if I had been placed in a land where life had been taken away. My first sense of feeling came when from a distance I heard a low, rumbling sound, which increased in volume at a terrific rate. It came to me in a flash what it was—a cyclone. My father pictured to me just such a scene as he had passed through while on the Kansas prairies.

"My first inclination was to jump from the machine and run. Why the idea flashed into my mind I did not know, I was driven insane with fear. I was reaching for the emergency brake when the cyclone struck. Everything was black, the car seemed to float through the air, it revolved, twisted and twirled; then I was thrown from the car and lay unconscious.

"When I came to, I found that I had been taken home by some friends that had passed through the cyclone and had been as fortunate as I in not being seriously hurt.

"I was very much interested to know what had become of the auto. Upon inquiring, I was informed by the agent that the car was in very good condition, outside of dented fenders, scratched body and torn upholstering. It could hardly seem possible that the auto would be in such good shape after what it passed through. The next trip through the air I take, I trust it will be in an aeroplane, and not in an automobile."

CRANKING DEVICE IS A MATERIAL FACTOR

Frank Steinhour, Local Cadillac Dealer, Expresses His Views on Subject

"In addition to increasing the efficiency and comfort of an automobile, a dependable cranking device is a material factor in gasoline economy," says Frank Steinhauer, the Cadillac dealer. "In driving around the city much of the fuel is consumed while the engine is running idle. At least such is the case when the car is not equipped with an efficient automatic cranking device. In city work, a driver rolls up to the curb, jumps out, makes a brief call and is off again to the next place. He often makes many such stops in a day. If he have no automatic starter he will let the engine run because he does not want to undergo the annoyance and the labor of cranking. To go through that operation ten, twenty, or more times a day entails a great deal of energy and consumes time. Therefore, he lets the engine run idle so that he can step in and drive away without loss of time and without the outlay of physical effort.

"If on the other hand, his car is equipped with a dependable cranking device, he will stop his engine, no matter how brief his call may be, because he knows that all that is required to start it again is to press the button. Consequently the car so equipped is consuming gasoline during these frequent stops, and has that much advantage in fuel economy over the car that must be cranked by hand."

AUTO OWNERS WANT BEAUTY AND COMFORT

These Are the First Things the Automobile Buyer Demands, Says Oakland Manager

A group of motor car manufacturing executives were discussing the points in a motor car which appeal most to the buyer.

It was finally put up to George E. Daniels of the Oakland Motor company, for an opinion as to what essentials come first in the minds of automobile purchasers.

"Beauty and comfort," promptly declared Mr. Daniels.

Others demurred at this.

"I'm right," said Mr. Daniels. "Of course, power and reliability are absolutely essential, but we all know that all 'good' cars are powerful and reliable. And our reports from our dealers indicate that the success of the Oakland line in strong competition is due to the beauty of our cars and the absolute comfort they give in the city and on the road.

"Why, you would be surprised if you knew the number of people who, convinced that Oakland construction is O. K., have acknowledged that the final straw was the V-shaped radiators, the single step and convenient arrangement of the controls, as well as the riding comfort under all conditions."

NYBERG DRIVER AFTER THE SPEEDWAY RECORD

Harry Indicott, the Famous Racing Driver, Tuning His Car for Big Race

Not being satisfied after obtaining 92 miles per hour in his Nyberg racer, Harry Endicott, the daring race driver, who will pilot the Nyberg car in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis, has taken his car back to the factory at Anderson to make some changes, which, after they are completed, he has hopes that he can even pilot this car at a more sensational speed.

Endicott hopes to have his car back to the speedway the latter part of this week to give it a further test as to speed and many supporers of the Nyberg await with interest to hear the result. The Nyberg car being the only American six-cylinder car entered in the race, will attract much attention and it is from that fact that Endicott wishes to be satisfied in his own mind that no little detail in its construction has been overlooked.

HUPMOBILE BUILDING OVER 100 CARS A DAY

"We will build and ship 100 Hupmobiles a day from May 1 on," so said C. D. Hastings, general manager of the Hupp Motor Car company. "Every one at the factory is personally interested to see that our production reaches this standard and each department has taken it upon its own shoulders to see that 100 Hupmobiles leave the factory every twenty-four hours.

"Our new factory manager, Mr. Humphrey, who, has been connected with the auto business since the days of the 'one hunger,' entered our organization last winter and since then has been making rapid progress in increasing Hupmobile production. Many additions have been made to our factory in the last year and the plant is now nearly double the size it was then.

"When we moved into our new plant a year ago this month the total floor space used for manufacturing Hupmobiles comprised over 150,000 square feet. Since then we have added about 95,000 square feet to our plant, so that the Hupmobile factories comprise at the present writing over 245,000 square feet of floor space.

"But that's not all. The other day people in the vicinity of our shops were surprised by the appearance of a huge tent adjoining the executive building, which sprung up over night. It's to be used for assembling purposes and a test department.

"Even with these increased activities we are behind in our orders. Ever since the opening of the season we have been going at top speed, our unprecedented export orders having kept the factory at full capacity all during the winter months. Last month's business shows an increase of nearly 100 per cent over any other month in the history of our company.

AUTO RENT SERVICE THRIVES IN ATLANTA

Forest M. Knight Demonstrates What Good Service Will Do in Business

"This car for rent" was the way Forest M. Knight launched the Knight Auto Rent Service in Atlanta only a few months ago. With a stand at the Capital City club, Mr. Knight offered the service of his car and driver at reasonable prices. The public soon learned that the service was dependable, prompt and reliable. His car was in great demand. He soon added another car to the service, then another and continued this until today he operates a fleet of cars and the demand continues to grow.

From the Capital City club the stand was moved to the Aragon hotel, corner of Peachtree and Ellis streets.

Mr. Knight announces that he has secured the taxicab rights for the new Winecoff hotel. When the Winecoff opens, Mr. Knight will establish offices on the ground floor at the Peachtree entrances. All cars will be painted exactly alike, following out the new hotel's color scheme.

With the opening of the Winecoff additional cars and taxicabs will be purchased and the Knight's Auto Rent service will be the largest of the kind in the south.

Mr. Knight also announces that with the opening of the new hotel he will use only Packard cars in his rent service.

MATTY HOLDS TO HIS JOB

BOSTON, May 17.—When Mathewson's days of usefulness as a pitcher for the New York Giants have ended, Manager McGraw is to tender him a three-year contract without reduction in salary. McGraw recently announced this plan of retaining his star pitcher to Manager Joe Tinker, of the Cincinnati Nationals, according to a statement by Tinker here today. That Mathewson would earn his salary as a coach of young pitchers was McGraw's reason, as Tinker gives it, for thus continuing the veteran on the pay roll."

New Cities for League

CHICAGO, May 17.—President Powers, of the Federal league, announced today that Kansas City and Milwaukee have made application for membership in the new league after W. H. Lidinger, representing Milwaukee interests, conferred with Powers. The name of the Kansas City applicant was not made public.

Powers said that probably the application would be acted upon favorably, but that the new teams would not be put in the field until 1914, as it is not desired to disturb this year's schedule.

Ahearn Bests McCoy

NEW YORK, May 16.—The first series of elimination contests for the welterweight championship was held here last night. Young Ahearn, of New York, had the better of Al McCoy, of Brooklyn, throughout ten rounds. Young Hickey, of New York, outpointed Young McCartney, of Philadelphia, in a bout of the same length. The second series will be held May 28.

Leibe, a catcher let out by Petersburg, has been signed by the Newport News team in a desperate effort to get something better than those exploded phenoms, which have made a record for not winning for more than two weeks in the first part of the season.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Ask Mr. Brown

Ask any of your many neighbors who now use these new-type Goodyear tires.

Users are everywhere—hundreds of thousands. You are surrounded by evidence of No-Rim-Cut economies.

Please ask for it. Find out why these tires now outsell all the rest.

An Example

Two cars were standing at a curb. One had old-style clincher tires, one No-Rim-Cut tires.

The clincher user was asked why he clung to those tires. "Why," he replied, "because of the mileage. I get so many miles per tire."

"Let's see what the next man gets." And they asked the No-Rim-Cut user. His average mileage was nearly twice as great.

Why It Is So

Rim-cutting ruins 23 per cent of all clincher tires, by actual statistics. It never occurs with No-Rim-Cut tires.

Clincher tires are made just rated size. No-Rim-Cut tires are 10 per cent oversize—have 10 per cent more air.

And each 10 per cent one adds to the size adds, on the average, 25 per cent to the mileage.

No-Rim-Cut tires now cost no more than standard clincher tires.

They do save money—save so much that they lead the world in sales.

Men are coming to these tires so fast that Goodyear sales last year exceeded our previous 12 years put together.

Come see them. The features we claim are apparent. And they are bound to win you to Goodyear tires when you find them out.

There is Strength all through the PAIGE 36

STRENGTH in a motor car—such strength as is in the Paige "36"—is a guarantee of safety and endurance. A warranty of economy.

There is strength all through the Paige "36." Strength in the 4-inch deep pressed steel frame. Strength in the drop-forged front axle and the floating type rear axle—axles that are strong enough for a car of twice the weight. Strength in the drop-forged steering knuckles. Strength in the big 34-inch wheels. Strength in the brake control.

There's strength and safety in every part and every detail of the Paige. And there is sturdiness, too, in the sheet steel body and the heavy, firm fenders.

We want you to come see the Paige "36." Come take it all apart, figuratively speaking, and see how strong it is.

The Paige "36" touring car, completely equipped, including Gray & Davis electric starting and lighting system, at $1275 is the one real sensation of the year. Five body types.

Paige "25," a smaller car, is just as remarkably priced at $950. Two types, roadster and touring.

Diamond Tires give more mileage because they are now made of Vitalized Rubber

Buying tires is buying rubber shod mileage—and in making Diamond Tires of Vitalized Rubber we build the "More Mileage" that you have demanded into the tire itself—taking care of your tire troubles in advance.

Diamond (No Clinch) Tires

And let us tell you right here just what Vitalized Rubber is.

Our chemists have discovered a process which toughens the pure gum, giving the tire a tough, flint-like, resilient tread—a tire made of lusty, young rubber, giving you the utmost mileage at no additional expense.

Other Diamond advantages—Perfect 3-Point Rim Contact, No-Pinch Safety Flap for inner tube protection—and, if you wish, the famous Diamond Safety (Squeegee) Tread.

So this time buy Diamond Vitalized Rubber Tires—you can get them to fit your rims at any of the

FORSYTH

FORSYTH.—One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Vera Evans, the charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Poindexter Evans, and Mr. Fitzhugh Lee Evans, a prominent newspaper writer and editor of Monticello, which occurred at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, roses and southern smilax, the color scheme of white and green being carried out in all rooms open to the guests. In the parlor where the ceremony was performed an improvised altar was formed of palms, ferns and tall white pedestals twined with smilax. Before the entrance of the bridal party a beautiful selection, Schubert's "Serenade," was played on the violin by Prof. Cornwell of Monticello.

To the strains of the wedding march, so sweetly rendered by the bride's aunt, Mrs. James P. Sutton, the party entered. First came Misses Ruth Sutton and Martha Penn, dainty in their frocks of white silk and lace with sashes of white satin ribbon caught in the back and buckles ornamented with pink rosebuds. Each carried an armful of daisies and ferns tied with white tulle.

Immediately preceding the bride came the little ring bearer, Carolyn Sutton, fairylike in her white dress of lace and ribbon. The bride entered with her matron of honor, Mrs. John L. Sutton, of Atlanta, who was charmingly dressed in a lovely creation of imported chiffon in wild rose design over pink satin, carrying pink carnations and ferns. She made a lovely picture in her wedding gown of white charmeuse satin, elaborately trimmed in shadow lace and seed pearls. Her long veil was caught with orange blossoms and her bouquet was a shower of bride roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a cameo set in pearls, a gift of the groom. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Hugh Benton, of Monticello.

The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. R. M. Dixon, of Forsyth. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for an extended trip west, going to the Shriners' convention in Dallas, Tex., and other places of interest.

Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. J. A. Carroll, of Atlanta, the charming guests of Mrs. Virgil Hooks, have been the honor guests of several delightful affairs during the last week. On Friday, Mrs. Virgil Hooks entertained the Halcyon club and a few members at a thoroughly enjoyable rook party. Quantities of vari-colored sweet peas and Paul Neyron roses adorned the reception rooms.

Mrs. Raiford Sneed was hostess at a camp fire supper recently.

Palmetto Social News

PALMETTO.—The reception given Friday evening by Mrs. S. M. Peeh was a pretty compliment to Miss Bessie Davison and the St. Cecilia Music club, of which she is president. The parlor, living room and dining room were thrown together and vases of pink and white roses were placed on the mantels and cabinets. A beautiful silver loving cup held magnificent Paul Neron roses. The musical program rendered by Miss Davidson's music class and the recitations given by the pupils in expression were very much enjoyed. A musical contest added zest and merriment to the evening. Miss Winnie Terrence winning the prize, a beautiful music roll. At the close of the program delightful refreshments were served.

An attractive program will be rendered at the auditorium Thursday evening by the music pupils and the expression class of the Palmetto high school under the supervision of the teacher, Miss Davison. Thursday evening the graduating exercises will take place, bringing to a close a most successful scholastic year under the tutorship of Prof. Page and his able assistants.

Herr Paul Stahmann, an experienced Astrologer, of Ober Niewaadern, Germany, says:—

"The Horoscope which Profe s or Roxroy worked out for me is quite according to the truth. It is a very clever and conscientious piece of work. As an Astrologer myself I carefully examined his Planetary calculations and indications, and proved that his work in every detail is perfect, and that he is up-to-date in his science. Mr. Roxroy is a real philanthropist, and everyone ought to avail himself of the Professor's services as there are many advantages to be gained by doing so."

Baroness Blanquet, one of the most talented ladies of Paris, says:—

"I thank you much for your Complete Life Reading, which is really of extraordinary accuracy. I had already consulted several Astrologers but never before have I met anyone with so much truth, or received such complete satisfaction. With sincere pleasure I will recommend you and make your marvellous science known to my friends and acquaintances."

Claims Cure for Leprosy by Use Of a Liquid Air

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 17.—Assertions of Prof. Paoui Pictet, of this city, inventor of liquified air, that he has discovered a "cold cure" for leprosy, are attracting attention here. He says that American doctors in Hawaii are giving his methods a test and have already found them successful.

Lepers are subjected to local application of liquified carbon dioxide at a very low temperature, 110 degrees below zero. The intense cold has gradually destroyed the microbes of leprosy and the diseased flesh has regained its original health and color.

SAVANNAH BAR FAVORS THIRD DISTRICT JUDGE

Passes Resolution Asking Congress to Pass Bill Creating That Office

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 17.—At the largest meeting held in years, this morning the Savannah bar adopted resolutions unanimously favoring the passage of a bill by congress creating a third United States district judge for Georgia, with headquarters at Savannah, to handle the business of the eastern division of the southern district of Georgia.

Stress was laid on the fact that Savannah now has less admiralty business than when about one-third its present size, and there was a federal judge residing here, and on the long periods now required to have a case tried.

The Georgia delegation favors the bill, and it is understood no opposition will be made, since it does not change the status of the northern district of Georgia.

COMMITTEE REPORTS AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

(By Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Reports of various committees and addresses on its work in foreign fields held the interest of delegates to the international convention of Young Men's Christian associations here today.

Among various reports submitted were the following:

"Commissioner of Training Agencies," by Selden S. Spencer, of St. Louis; "Commission on Standardization of Membership Transfer Among Associations," by George W. Mehaffey, of Boston. Report of a committee proposing a counter proposition to that presented by Mr. Mehaffey made by William J. Parker, of Chicago, and the international committee's report.

Dr. J. W. Hawkins, of Washington, was scheduled to make an address on "The Association and the Colored Man."

NEGRO CONVICT KILLS ANOTHER WITH KNIFE

ATHENS, Ga., May 15.—Eugene Brown, negro convict, was instantly killed in Mann's camp, near the city, last night. Ozie Bush, also a negro convict, was cutting up bread for supper and told Brown to bring him some water, and as Brown did not move as quickly as he thought he ought to, Bush plunged the butcher knife into his side. Bush is held in chains at the camp.

LANIER IS SENTENCED TO LIFE TERM IN PEN

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 17.—W. C. Lanier Friday was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary by Judge Parker, of the Ware superior court. Lanier was convicted of murdering his infant son, one day old. The prisoner's eyes filled with tears as he heard the words condemning him to prison for the remainder of his life, and the judge was not unmoved. Lanier is but twenty-two years old.

PRIMARY BILL TO PASS IN SENATE OF FLORIDA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—Senator Bryan's primary bill will be passed in the senate and will go to the governor without any radical changes. All amendments have been voted down. There was hardly a quorum in the senate and adjournment was taken until Monday afternoon. Local bills were only considered in the house. Among them the most important was the Miami city extension charter bill, which passed.

NO DEFINITE WORD YET FROM MR. M'CONNELL

A. C. Boatman, chairman of the committee of the Tabernacle Baptist church, which extended a call to Rev. Lincoln McConnell, said Saturday that no definite answer had been received from Mr. McConnell.

Mr. Boatman thought that it would be several days yet before Mr. McConnell could make a definite reply.

LIFE OF CHRIST WILL BE SHOWN IN MOVING PICTURES

Moving pictures of the life of Christ will be shown on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Montgomery theater.

Miss Gene Gautier, the actress, who plays the part of Mary, arranged the plot of the pictures; and Sidney Olcott, the actor, directed the staging of the scenes. Each was taken in Egypt and the Holy Land exactly where the events described are believed to have happened.

SCENIC PERFECTION.

The scenic perfection of the picture is notable. Mr. Olcott, assisted by a long and careful study, chose, as far as possible, the very locations in which the more important events of Christ's life took place. The "Flight Into Egypt," when Herod's wrath and jealousy threatened the life of the young Christ, calls for exactness in all details, and here are coupled pictures of Mary, mounted on a donkey, which plodded along the dusty road, while Joseph, staff in hand, walked alongside, his eyes searching far ahead for any signs of danger.

And when the flight had for the moment won safety, the tired and weary couple, with their precious burden, recline in the shadow of the pyramids of Egypt, while the silent Sphynx guards them with its xed stare across the sands.

Faithfully following the old and familiar scriptural story, the family returns to their native land, their holy Son having grown to boyhood and having already shown that wisdom which later marked him as the Saviour of His people. The picture shows Mary teaching the child its first lessons, and Joseph, from his carpenter shop, fondly watches, while wearing a look of wonderment on his face.

Following scenes show the boy at work, and as he helps His father by carrying a long board on His shoulder, the shadow of a cross is thrown on the ground—a startling reminder of the prophetic event to take place in later years. On the face of the "mother" can be seen a look of sadness, telling that she has seen and understood, that He whom she loves must be given up for the salvation of the world.

Quite properly the picture begins with the "Annunciation." Then follow the other events preceding the birth of Christ—the doubting of Joseph and his subsequent understand. As the film is reeled off one sees the mother and father unable to get accommodations at the inn. They are next seen in the stable, which, true to the customs of the country of those days, was but a cave in the hillside. There the mother is seen with her little babe close beside her.

Far off the shepherds are tending their flocks, and suddenly they are attracted by the great light in the sky which tells of the birth of Christ. They fall to the ground and remain face downward until their fears are removed by the heavenly message, "Peace On Earth." They arise and, following the star, wend their way to the spot where the new King is found.

The Big Boss.

Bascom, much worried about business, decides to apply to Morgan, the big boss, for help. Morgan offers to throw the Aqueduct contract his way if he will influence his young daughter, Nell, to marry him. Bascom agrees—but later finds that Nell has engaged herself to Dick, a young reporter, and will have nothing to do with the Boss. Morgan, furious, tells Bascom that now he will be ruined, indeed. By accident, Dick wanders into an East Side saloon where in a private room, the Boss meets his constituents.

Dick overhears Morgan telling Hart, contractor, to meet him in the saloon at 8 sharp as he is going to open all bids submitted so that Hart may make his lower than the others.

Dick rushes back to his editor and they decide to try to secure a great graft story with the dictagraph. Dick plants it in the saloon and that night at 9 is busy in a little upstairs room with the receiver at his ear busily jotting down notes. Nell is with him. The bids are brought to the Boss by the commissioner's clerk.

Bascom's bid is discovered to be the lowest of all and just as Hart is about to reduce his—the dictagraph wires are discovered and the Boss dashes upstairs. Jumping upon Dick, he almost kills him when Bascom enters and saves the young chap's life. He takes the two young folks home and Dick is preparing his article for the press when the Boss who has experienced a change of heart, enters and tells Bascom that his bid will get the contract. Nell thanks him and Dick, for her sake flings his "graft scandal" story into the fire.

This picture will be shown at the Vaudette Monday, May 19.

LIVES HELD VALUELESS BY W. VIRGINIA MINERS?

Senator Kern Receives Letter From West Virginia Telling of Conditions

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senator Kern's resolution for investigation of the charges of peonage, militarism and oppression of workers in the West Virginia mine district, was up again today in the senate, with prospects of a vote. Backed with numerous affidavits and statements alleging despotism and a reign of terror maintained by the mine operators, Mr. Kern announced he would insist on some action before the senate adjourned.

Senator Kern received a letter today from State Senator Samuel B. Montgomery, of Kingwood, W. Va., who declared "human life was the only thing held valueless by the mine operators," and that the head of the state mining department was an operator in whose mines occurred frequent explosions.

Senator Montgomery wrote that 700 *miners had been killed in mine explo*sions in the state, and the only thing received by the widows were "the pine boxes in which their husbands were buried." He declared that the mining department displayed no interest in human lives and that a lobby was maintained against employers' liability laws, of which West Virginia had none.

ROME TAX RATE HAS BEEN REDUCED

ROME, Ga., May 17.—At a special meeting of city council the tax rate for the ensuing fiscal year was reduced to $1.20 on the hundred dollars, and the street tax reduced to $3. Several of the councilmen desired the street tax fixed at $2, but were outvoted. Nevertheless, they declare their intention of seeking to have this action reconsidered at the next meeting of council.

The returns from all sources subject to taxation are $10,500,000. The real estate valuations are $5,856,000; personal valuations, $4,022,000; corporations, $618,000. The budget for the year's city expenses is $174,152.

COLUMBUS PREPARES ROYAL WELCOME FOR U. C. T. CONVENTION

Georgia-Florida Division of United Commercial Travelers Will Meet in Georgia City on May 22 and 23

VISITORS WILL ENJOY VARIED ENTERTAINMENT

Program Includes Dances, Receptions, Ball Games, Parades and Boat Rides. Big Attendance Is Expected

The meeting of the grand councils of the Georgia-Florida division of the United Commercial Travelers, which will be held at Columbus, Ga., May 22 and 23, promises to be one of the largest and most interesting ever held in the Georgia-Florida jurisdiction. The United Commercial Travelers and citizens of Columbus are prepared to give the visitors a rousing welcome and an enjoyable time during their stay. A large delegation is expected to attend from the two Atlanta councils.

The delegates from the Atlanta councils are as follows: From Council No. 15—A. L. Brooke, W. A. Webb, J. B. Davidson, with R. K. Rambo, W. T. McCullough and B. B. Braswell alternates; from Council No. 595—H. P. Byrd and H. J. McDonald, with R. H. Manley and C. E. Byrd alternates. In addition to these, it is expected that a number of other U. C. T.s, with their wives and daughters, will attend.

The entertainment features prepared by the Columbus council and citizens will be most enjoyable. There will be a boat ride down the Chattahoochee river, a dance at the Racine hotel, a ball game between Charleston and Columbus, the Bagmen or Bagdad parade, and sightseeing trips to various points of interest.

The officers of the Columbus council which has prepared the entertainment for the visitors are W. C. Thornton, senior counselor; J. P. Holmes, junior counselor; C. E. Scott, past counselor; M. L. Duskin, secretary-treasurer; D. B. Meadows, conductor; E. E. Lord, page; C. M. Richardson, sentinel.

The convention executive committee consists of the following: J. M. Gliddens, chairman; W. C. Thornton, Ben A. Gerson, J. P. Holmes, D. B. Meadows, E. E. Lord and R. I. Zacharias.

Among the important matters to be taken up by the grand council's live committees are the hotel inspection law, national one cent postage, the Wallin mileage bill, commercial travelers' exemption from jury duty. These reforms are of nation-wide importance. They were originated by this order, and are being vigorously pushed by its various legislative committees.

The following is a complete program of the convention:

COLUMBUS MAKES ANOTHER DISCOVERY

GEORGIA RETAILERS WILL HOLD CONVENTION HERE JULY 21-23

President Hardy Issues Call for Meeting and Praises Journal Firing Line for Aid Given Association

The majority of the local organizations composing the Retail Merchants' Association of Georgia having voted to hold the annual convention this year in Atlanta, J. W. S. Hardy, president of the association, has issued the following call for the retailers of the state to meet in Atlanta July 21 and 23:

To the Members of the Retail Merchants Association of Georgia, Greeting:

By authority duly vested in me, as your president, I hereby announce that your next annual convention will be held in Atlanta, July 21, 22 and 23. I sincerely hope that each and every city, town and hamlet in the state will be represented by a large delegation of her merchants. Several of the larger and a few of the smaller towns have already pledged themselves to send a solid carload of delegates. If all of the towns send even a fair per cent of the numbers they have designated we will have the largest convention ever held by this organization. There is reason to believe that our expectations will be surpassed.

You have every reason to feel proud of your association—it is composed of the leading progressive and aggressive merchants of the state.

During the past year your executive officers have been fortunate in securing the services of your ex-president, Louis W. Roberts, to tour the state in the interest of the association and the bills which we will urge before the next session of the legislature.

I appeal to our entire membership and to every merchant in the state to use his influence to see that his legislators are pledged to wipe class legislation from our statute books and to replace it with laws making all citizens amenable to one and the same law. This is just—this is fair—this is honest, and on and for these three cardinal principles this association has ever stood.

The merchants of Georgia can and should yield a mighty influence. They are of the people and for the people and pay an exceedingly large part of the expenses of our city, county and state government. His is the vote that elects the legislator, why not, therefore, should his right and his very mercantile life not be afforded just protection?

PRESS GIVES AID.

With pride and delight I call your especial attention to the fact that within the past few months some of the large daily papers of our state have paused to consider carefully the aims and objects of your organization. They have been impressed with the justice of our cause, they have not hesitated to publish our principles and platform. We have nothing to conceal; we court the fullest investigation and publicity. Honesty and justice demands that I should say that the Atlanta Constitution and Journal were the first papers in the state to open to us their columns and to tell the citizens of the state and the south that the retail merchant has rights that should and must be protected. This fair dealing put us in our true light publicly before the press of the entire state and learning the truth, many of them were not slow in according us and our efforts justice. We feel that we have accomplished much by this publicity and trust that our every act may be put down in black and white the state over.

We are expecting you to attend this meeting, more than that we are expecting you to bring any merchant in your town who may not now be a member. Our garnishment bill, and fraudulent check bill, fake information rating book and fake collection agency bills will be voted on by your legislators. It's your business to see that your and our interests are given justice—nobody can do this but you.

Atlanta is known far and wide for her hospitality and while our conventions are business meetings, for busy men, no doubt you will be accorded such entertainment as is appropriate.

Our program, our convention hall and our headquarters will be duly published in our paper, the Southern Merchant, as soon as arrangements have been completed. Special railroad and hotel rates will also be announced.

In conclusion, I wish to say that with the exception of a very few towns, the merchants of the entire state have given us hearty support, as for the dead ones, let's throw a mantle of charity over them. Your officers and committees have worked in the utmost harmony and to them you owe a debt of gratitude you can never repay.

Respectfully yours,

J. W. S. HARDY, President.

Waycross, Ga., May 16, 1913.

PLEASED PATRON WRITES THANKS TO SILVEY CO.

John Silvey & Co. are much gratified over a letter they have received from a satisfied customer. The letter was sent to them by the customer after he had opened the bills of goods which had been shipped him. The Silvey company say that it is a testimonial not only to the worth of the goods which they handle, but also to the value of merchants patronizing the Atlanta market.

The customer concludes his letter by saying: "It is with no degree of flattery that we tell you that your firm is now carrying the best, most up-to-date and complete line of merchandise they have ever carried. Verily, you ought to get more busines. This is what it takes to keep business in the south."

VERY NEWEST JEWEL IS THE SYNTHELITE

Beautiful in Itself, It Is Also Popular as Companion Setting for Diamonds

Newest in the line of jewels is the synthelite, says the Vollmer Manufacturing company, jewelers.

The new jewel has been in this country only a short time and those being sold now are practically the first to be seen here.

They are synthetically manufactured in Paris and are an imitation of the stone called the alexandrite which has been mined in Russia, but is now becoming quite rare. Genuine specimens of alexandrite are now approaching diamonds in value.

The new synthelite is much cheaper, but under the synthetic process of manufacture it is an excellent imitation. In color it is between the amethyst and ruby ordinarily, but under various lights there are great changes. At times it appears almost pale green, while brought under a strong artificial light it reflects a reddish light.

New Head of Credit Men

E. L. ADAMS.

CREDIT MEN'S ASSN. SHOWS GROWTH AND VIGOROUS ACTIVITY

Holds Annual Banquet and Election of Officers and Hears Gratifying Reports From Department Heads

E. L. ADAMS IS ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR NEW YEAR

Adjustment and Information Bureaus Perform Splendid Service—Membership to Be Increased to 200

That the Atlanta Association of Credit Men is one of the vital factors in the service of the wholesale market here was demonstrated at the annual meeting and banquet of the association held last Tuesday night at the Piedmont hotel.

The past year has seen several forward steps taken by the association. Its membership has been increased from 134 to 177. The adjustment bureau under the able direction of Ralph Rosenbaum, its chairman, has been put in smooth working order. Weekly noonday luncheons, adding much to the work-together spirit of the organization, have been instituted, and the information bureau under the direction of its chairman, H. B. Wey, proved of greater assistance than ever before.

Herbert E. Choate, the retiring president, was untiring in his efforts for the organization during the past year, and it is due no little to his efforts and those of H. T. Moore, the secretary, that the association has reached its present state of efficiency.

E. L. Adams was elected president for the new year and it is predicted that under his administration, the work already being done will be strengthened and the association be made to fill a still larger place of usefulness.

The association hopes within the next year to increase its membership to at least 200 and to secure quarters in the new chamber of commerce building. It is also hoped that a collection agency can be added to the adjustment bureau.

Other new officers were elected as follows: C. E. Elyea, first vice president; S. F. Boykin, second vice president; H. T. Moore, secretary; E. L. Rhodes, treasurer, and Ralph Rosenbaum, Bolling H. Jones, C. V. Logan, S. Freitag, L. E. Floyd and J. H. Harlan, executive committeemen.

The following were named delegates to attend the convention of the National Association of Credit Men in Cincinnati, June 17-20: President Adams, Vice President Elyea, J. L. Baldwin, S. Freitag, E. S. Papys, L. E. Floyd and Secretary Moore.

In the absence of former Congressman W. G. Brantley, who was to be the speaker of the evening, W. G. Brantley, Jr., his son, delivered a forceful address urging the business men to take a greater interest in the politics of the country.

Resolutions were passed indorsing legislation for a better garnishment law and to prevent issuance of fraudulent checks.

MR. CHOATE'S ADDRESS.

"The progress of our adjustment bureau," said Mr. Choate, the retiring president, in his address, "under the capable direction of Chairman Rosenbaum and his aids, and the active management of Trust Officer Ferris, is gratifying to a degree. While this adjustment bureau was organized in January, 1912, it cannot be said to have gotten fairly under way until about May or June following, and hence its real operations are practically confined within the fiscal year; and I, for one, regard the record it has made as truly remarkable.

"You have seen that not only is our fund intact, but that we have a comfortable surplus of assets over liabilities beyond that. With no further apprehension of having to put its affairs in the hands of adjustors, and assured patronage from the members of the association, with the experience that has been gained, and with the organization that has been perfected, its real life of usefulness has just fairly begun, and I feel that it has earned the confidence and support of every member of the association."

MR. WEY'S REPORT.

"On May 1, 1913, the members of our information bureau," said H. B. Wey, the chairman, in making his report for the year, "numbered 90, a net gain of seven members after allowing for all resignations and business changes during the year.

"While we regret to lose those who have heretofore affiliated with us, these resignations are confined mainly to members who have made little or no use of the service.

"The chief value of the information bureau is found in the constant and liberal use of its service by the members of the association.

"We have listed in our files the names of over 135,000 merchants who are doing business with the firms who compose the membership of the bureau. "Members should always bear in mind that the service of the bureau is purely reciprocal. When you ask your fellow member for information that you have reason to believe will be helpful to you in determining the advisability of extending credit to your customer, you should be willing to give as well as to receive."

WITH AUTO'S AID HUGULEY RIDES FAST ON SALES OF HIS AUTO OIL

He Makes Whirlwind Trips Through Territory in Machine—Not an Easy Type of Wholesale Executive

E. E. Huguley, president of the Huguley Oil company, photographed in racing trim.

Shown above, literally riding one of his steel barrels, E. E. Huguley, president of the Huguley Oil company, is the man who is, figuratively speaking, riding fast these days on sales of auto oil shipped in these steel barrels.

The ever growing number of motor cars in use which has brought the large demand for all things that go with them has caused this oil dealer to specialize largely on oil for automobiles.

He has been making regular sales trips himself, as well as having each of his salesmen feature this part of the company's line.

Mr. Huguley travels over the state in a small touring car and is talking his specialty so much that he is becoming known as "the auto oil man."

Before starting the Huguley Oil company, Mr. Huguley was for years in the oil business and is widely known to the oil trade through the south.

First of all, he is a salesman, with a long experience on the road back of him as a thorough training for his later managerial work. And he is still far from being an easy chair type of manager. He gives his salesmen a pace to follow by the sales he makes on his frequent whirlwind auto trips.

His own sales trips are usually in middle and south Georgia, but his company is covering a much larger territory.

VINEGAR DEMAND VARIES WITH VEGETABLE SUPPLY

Manufacturer Says Present Drouth's Affecting Garden Truck and Vinegar Sales

"Rain's needed badly to help the vinegar crop."

This was the reply of B. A. Hancock, manager of the vinegar plant on Marietta street—one of the factories that helps keep up Atlanta's reputation for diversity of manufactures—when he was asked "How's business?"

Some elucidation was needed, but it all became plain when Mr. Hancock explained it. The recent dry spell has had a decided effect on the sales of vinegar from the factory.

Whenever the supply of garden truck drop off down goes the demand for vinegar immediately and the effect of this quickly reaches from consumer to jobber and manufacturer.

Work is being pushed fast on the enlargement of the plant, which was agreed on when the vinegar works was recently incorporated as the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company. More new machinery will be installed in a few days and the general capacity of the plant quadrupled, says Mr. Hancock.

W. T. DUBOSE IS HERE FOR SHORT VISIT

W. T. DuBose, former editor of the Firing Line, is in Atlanta for a few days on a business trip and was a pleasant caller at the Firing Line office one day last week. He is looking well and seems to have fully recovered from the injuries received in the automobile wreck at Cartersville last winter.

"Yes," he said, I had a hard time of it but am on my fet again. I have recovered my general health and my nerves are much improved. I've just run down to Atlanta from Nashville on business. I will be here three or four days at least and perhaps longer. It is always a pleasure to be in Atlanta and to met with my old friends here."

RAMBO CALLS MEETING OF DRY GOODS MEN

Members of Local Division Will Hold First Gathering Here May 23

Dry goods jobbers of Atlanta and other cities of the third division of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association will meet in Atlanta May 23 for their first quarterly experience meeting.

At the recent annual convention of the association at Chattanooga the membership was organized into four divisions for the purpose of more active co-operation on local problems and the meeting in Atlanta this week is the first step toward following out this policy.

R. K. Rambo, of John Silvey & Co., chairman of this division, announces that practically every city of the division will be well represented, according to letters he has been receiving from the members. The third division comprises the principal cities of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida.

Those who have notified him they will attend are: W. C. Barnwell and H. R. Calloway, of Ragan-Malone company; J. R. Little, of Dougherty-Little-Redwine company; W. H. Wyatt, of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company; W. A. Ward, of Ward-Truitt company, of Atlanta; P. B. Hoffmeyer, of Hoffmeyer Dry Goods company, Albany, Ga.; W. W. Stovall, of Stovall-Pace company, Augusta, Ga.; Gershon Rothschild, of D. Rothschild company, Columbus, Ga.; E. E. Hall, of Covington company, Jacksonville, Fla.; E. L. Bryant, of F. E. Calloway & Co., LaGrange, Ga.; E. S. Epstein, of I. Epstein & Brother company, Savannah, Ga.; Mr. Frank, of Frank & Co., Savannah; John Silvey & Co. will be represented by Mr. Rambo and A. C. McHan.

The fourth division, who are are planning for a meeting in a few days at Birmingham, have assurances from every jobber in their division that they will be represented.

The division meeting in Atlanta will be the first concerted action of jobbers in this immediate section toward active co-operation on their local problems and the building up of the dry goods jobbing trade in this district.

Murray Brown, of the Goodall-Brown Dry Goods company, of Birmingham, the recently elected president of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association, will be here to attend the third division gathering. The dry goods men will be his guests at luncheon on the day of the meeting.

Fall Orders. You Can Look Two Ways at Once Summer Fill-Ins

Readiness is the keynote of mercantile success. Thought and forethought bring readiness. In business there's the look backward, the look around and the forward look. YOU CAN LOOK TWO WAYS AT ONCE, BUT NOT THREE. The backward look is stagnation; the latter two, progress. Be on the lookout.

Our salesmen will show you our bright, new fall lines. Our shipping department will rush you your summer needs. Look both to the present and the future. By salesmen and by mail, let us have your orders.

ON THE FIRING LINE WITH THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

WITH THE EDITOR

The U. C. T. Convention

The members of the United Commercial Travelers of the Georgia-Florida division will gather at Columbus this week for their annual convention. Columbus has prepared a true Georia welcome for them and the meeting promises to be one of the largest and most successful in the history of the division. The order is this year twenty-five years old and therefore celebrates its silver jubilee. Its record has been full of deeds of helpfulness and human brotherhood. From a small beginning it has grown to be one of the greatest fraternal organizations in America. To the Georgia and Florida division the Firing Line extends its congratulations and wishes for this division and for the entire order still greater success in their noble mission.

The Progressive Dry Goods Men

The first meeting of the dry goods jobbers of the third division of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association will be held in Atlanta May 23. This division was organized at the convention of the general association held in Chattanooga May 1 and includes the principal cities of Georgia, Florida and South Caroiina. The meeting here will be the first local gathering of the dry goods jobbers of this territory and therefore marks an important step in the development of the southern markets. It will constitute the beginning of a series of regular quarterly meetings which will have for their purpose the exchange of experiences and the discussion of topics for the general welfare of the jobbing business. The local dry goods men are to be congratulated on the enterprising spirit which resulted in the establishment of the third division and upon the good that will undoubtedly accrue from the proposed meetings.

The Georgia Retailers' Convention

The meeting of the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia is now assured for Atlanta. It will be held the latter art of July and will bring here hundreds of the most progressive merchants in the state. The gathering in Atlanta this year is most appropriate. The association has a number of remedial bills bearing on mercantile conditions which will be introduced in the legislature and urged for passage. The legislature will be in session at the time the convention meets thus giving the delegates the opportunity of appearing before the law-makers and presenting in persons the reasons why the legislation is both necessary and urgent. It is needless to add that the Georgia retailers will receive hearty welcome from the jobbers and manufacturers here as well as from the entire city.

FORSYTH, GA., PLANS BUILDING NEW HOTEL

Manager Clute, of Hotel Georgian, Gives Smoker at Which Project Was Discussed

With about a half hundred of Forsyth's representative business men present, the smoker given by Mr. J. R. Clute, the new manager of the Hotel Georgian, of Forsyth, on the evening of May 6, was a decided success.

Knowing full well the value of a hotel to a city as an advertisement and realizing that no hotel could properly succeed without the cordial co-operation and backing of the people of a city, Mr. Clute conceived the idea of inviting the business men of Forsyth to what he called a "get-together smoker." It was a novel plan for meeting the people of Forsyth, and for securing their co-operation and in its entirety the banquet was as delightful as it was novel.

At the conclusion of the delightful repast Mr. O. H. B. Bloodworth, acting as toastmaster, called on the various guests, who responded in short speeches, in which they congratulated Mr. Clute on his improvement in the hotel, assured him of their co-operation and expressed their hope for the fruition of his dream of a bigger, better and more modern hotel for Forsyth.

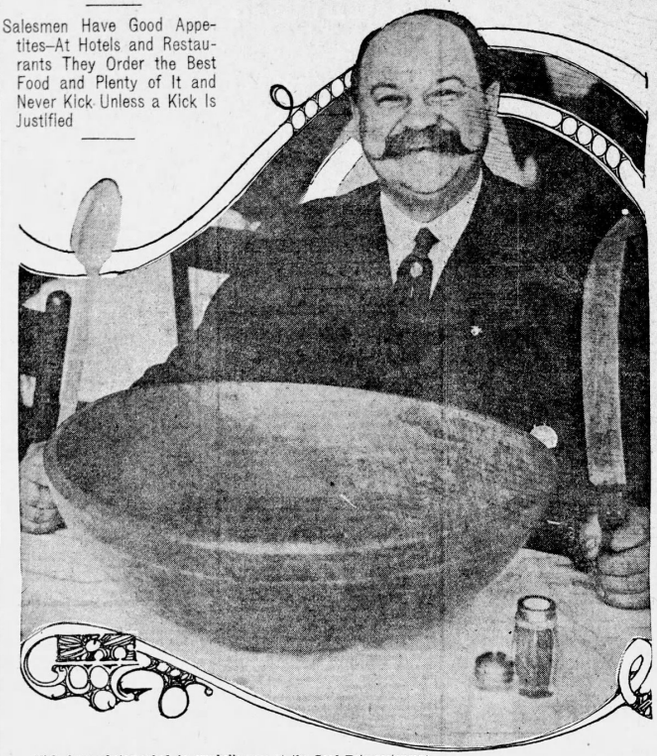
Those making speeches were Messrs. J. R. Clute, — Chamlee, R. B. Stephens, T. R. Talmadge, W. C. Hill, C. H. S. Jackson, W. L. Thickstun, R. P. Brooks, F. B. Willingham, T. E. Fletcher, B. S. Willingham, O. H. B. Bloodworth, Jr., F. N. Wilder, J. L. McGee and Cyrus Sharp.

Catching his inspiration from the enthusiastic speeches, Mr. J. R. Clute then laid before the assembly his dream of a modern, up-to-date hotel, with steam heat, water in every room, etc. He went further and stated that so confident was he that this hotel could be made to pay, if it were put in proper shape, that if the business men of Forsyth would organize a stock company, buy the hotel property and make the necessary improvements, he would sign a contract to run it for five years.

The following committee was then appointed by the toastmaster to confer with the business men of Forsyth in reference to Mr. Clute's proposition: Mayor F. N. Wilder, chairman; W. C. Hill, R. P. Brooks, R. B. Stephens and J. O. Hirod.

WITH SPOON AND BOWL, AYER PLAYS ROLE OF OLD KING COLE, THE MERRY OLD SOUL

Salesmen Have Good Appetites—At Hotels and Restaurants They Order the Best Food and Plenty of It and Never Kick Unless a Kick Is Justified



Nick Ayer, photographed in symbolic pose at the Good Eats restaurant.

Well, well! What 'tis; what 'tis?

This, gentlemen of the great fraternity of grip toters and customer persuaders, is truly none other than Nick Ayer, the jolly, big salesman, well-known U. C. T. and Georgia Travelers' association member, in his great symbolical tableau entitled "The Traveling Man's Appetite."

Let it be said in all fairness that such is not in fact the traveling man's order at the restaurant, nor, we hasten to add, is it Nick Ayer's—let no one get the wrong conception of this little scene.

But this, dear readers, may be accepted as a true impressionistic picture of how ye real traveling salesman's meals often appear in the minds of the hotel and restaurant men, and likewise and especially to the mind of the dear boss when he checks up the expense account—sometimes.

But the big bowl does indicate the tendency. Salesmen, say the restaurant people, are the best customers. They order the best and plenty of it.

At the little Good Eats restaurant, opposite the Piedmont hotel, where Mr. Ayer played the Old King Cole role and where many traveling men drop in for lunch, Manager Gillespie affirms this:

"They order freely and well," says he, "and the best thing about them is that they don't complain unless they really have a kick coming."

Who ever heard of a dyspeptic traveling salesman? Considering the poor meals served in some of the carelessly conducted hotels that make the need of the proposed hotel inspector so urgent, it is natural that some of the suffering salesmen should succumb and retire to home and sanitarium for repairs. And when digestion goes wrong they have to retreat from the firing line. Salesmen must meet the trade with a smile. They must be feeling good to sell goods. Health is needed more than at most other occupations.

Take the average man out on the firing line, and for a good, husky appetite, in regular working order, you've got to hand it to him.

NEW SOUTH'S SALES FORCE ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Salesmen and office employes of the New South Bakery, were guests of L. E. Rogers, secretary of the company, at dinner last Monday night.

Besides the eighteen of the sales and office force who were present, there were W. M. Selcer, president of the company, and W. M. Fish, of Jacksonville, vice president.

Business topics were put under the ban, good fellowship given free rein and every one of the Tip-Top bread folks enjoyed himself immensely.

B. B. Jones, traveler for Faust Spaghetti, has just returned to Atlanta from an extensive trip through Florida, Mississippi and Alabama. "There have been good rains in both Mississippi and Alabama," said Mr. Jones, and crops are looking good and business conditions are in fine shape."

JENKINS WRITES ON NEED OF POLITENESS

Cites Instance of Uncivil Treatment of Traveling Salesmen by Train Official

Editor Firing Line: On a Southern train the other day out of Brunswick for Jesup, was a very sick man—traveling salesman. He had acute indigestion and was suffering intensely. There was no visible way to help the suffering man. Wild with pain and drawn almost in a knot, he asked a ticket collector if there was a physician aboard the train. That lordly gentleman's reply was, "How the hell do I know?"

I want the readers of the Firing Line to know that it was not Captain Lowry that said this, though it was on his train. When Captain Lowry discovered the sick traveling man he did everything for him that he could, removed his baggage at Jesup and gave same to the hotel porter and helped the sick one off the train.

There may be some nice ticket collectors, and I would not say or do anything to injure those who have a fellow feeling, but what can the public expect of these men that know absolutely nothing about the first principles of politeness. The railroads would do well not to have such men on their trains where they come in contact with gentlemen and ladies. Something else would suit such people better.

It is like some hotel managers I know of that ought to be plowing. They have no talents for the business and have little or no regard for those whom they serve. It would not be so bad if the traveling public were not obliged to come in contact with them.

It has been our pleasure to ride with conductors like Captain Lowry, and to stop at hotels like the Melrose at Waynesboro, where every courtesy and attention is shown. Others would do well to learn of them, consider their ways and be wise.

A little more sleep, a little more slumber, a little more picking of the teeth, a little more folding of the hands, and a whole lot of indifference, makes countless thousands mourn.

The T. P. A.'s are striving to bring about better conditions, and it is our intention to report from now on those who do, and those who do not try to please the public. Yours truly,

W. M. JENKINS,
Press Chairman T. P. A.
Jacksonville, Fla., May 13, 1913.

HOTEL BILL GENERALLY FAVORED, SAYS SHIRLEY

He Will Be Applicant for Inspectorship If Bill Becomes a Law

Editor Firing Line:

Dear Sir—Since my last letter, two weeks ago, I've been very busy seeing the legislators representing the different counties. I've visited also some of the senators in the districts, and I've my first one to see yet who isn't in full sympathy with our sanitary hotel bill, which comes up next month, every one assuring me his support. I'm also having petitions signed by the merchants and traveling salesmen covering the state indorsing me for the position of state hotel inspector in the event said position is created by the legislature; and I feel sure it will go through without a dissenting vote. Everybody seems to know the good of it and all are in favor of it most heartily.

I've told you the many reasons why the inspector is necessary. And you knew it before. Now I'll tell you why I should receive the appointment. In the first place, I was the one who first agitated a hotel commission or a hotel inspector, and was appointed hotel inspector by the Georgia Travelers' association for about six months without compensation, and I didn't expect any when they appointed me; that was understood beforehand. I did so of my own free will and accord, simply to familiarize myself with the duties that go with the office. I couldn't make the hotels do anything—only ask them—as I had no official authority; still it was experience for me. Then, too, I got in touch with state hotel inspectors in other states; got their laws, also personal letters on what they were doing, how they went about enforcing the law, and lots of other useful information connected with the office. Having this knowledge, and being a traveling man, too, I feel that I should receive the hearty support of every traveling man and the traveling public in general for the position of state hotel inspector of Georgia. And this I ask of every one of you.

Being a member of the Georgia Travelers' association of Macon Council No. 290, and of Post D, T. P. A., I know I'll get their support. And the Firing Line has always supported me, too, for which I feel very grateful.

If any of you would like to take a petition around for me in your travels, and will drop me a line at Macon, I'll be more than glad to send you one. And I trust I'll have this pleasure from my friends.

Yours respectfully,
L. A. SHIRLEY.

SHACKELFORD SENDS NEWS NOTES OF COUNCIL 18

Last Meeting Was Interesting One—Large Delegation Will Attend Columbus Meeting

W. A. Webb, senior counselor, presided at our last meeting. Traveler Webb had just returned from a successful trip to south Georgia and Florida. The sight of Brother Webb is always a sure cure for a case of the blues.

H. M. Ashe, wearing his smile that won't come off, acted as page, and as he is a veteran of the order, lent great dignity to the office.

J. P. Armstrong was out shaking hands with the boys.

F. C. Hudnell mistook one of the boys for a customer, and was shooting the selling stuff to him, when he was stopped by the conductor.

J. S. Davison, as he always is, was very dignified, but became somewhat "hot" on a debate.

Eight new applications and two reinstatements were received.

Old No. 18 is wide awake, and setting a great pace for the other councils to follow.

A. L. Brooke, past counselor, and a good fellow that he is, had every one feeling better by his presence at the meeting.

W. C. McGill attended the meeting after two years' absence. Good for you, Traveler McGill. Get the habit.

R. L. Wallace, grand secretary, and member of No. 505, enlivened us with his presence, and in his graceful way explained his amendments of the constitution to us. No trouble to understand, when Traveler Wallace explains.

B. L. Lewis, past grand counselor, dropped in on us, and as it always happens, every one wanted to shake hands with him at once. Come often Traveler Lewis, you are always welcome.

No. 18 will have a full representation at the grand council meeting at Columbus Ga., this month.

Very truly yours,
H. D. SHACKELFORD,
Press Committee, No. 18, U. C. T.
Atlanta, Ga., May 16, 1913.

R. W. Johnson, who recently went with the Dixie Pickle and Preserving Works as a city salesman, is reported to be turning a nice volume of sales in his new connection. Mr. Johnson was formerly a packing house salesman here.

J. T. Wells, with the Malsby company, is expected back in Atlanta today from Nashville, where he has been since last Tuesday.

Tales of adventure along the way told by Atlanta Travelers

Specialty Salesmanship

"The regular salesman of staple lines," said an old traveler, "can, in a measure, systematize his work. He usually has the same run of customers, and their personal likes and dislikes and their business needs. The qualities of salesmanship, thus put in operation, can be made to do service for an indefinite period.

"But with the specialty salesman it is different. He is always seeking new customers, always introducing new lines to old ones. He must, therefore, always have the keen edge on. He must almost be a mind reader. He must always be a diplomat. Quick thinking to handle unexpected situations is a requirement. There is no such thing for him as taking it easy.

"The pieces fell to the floor."

"I knew an instance where a young paint salesman turned a humiliating situation into a victory by a rapid use of his gray matter. This young fellow carried a good line, but his company was a small concern. Their brands were practically unknown. He had little advertising support. His competitors represented a house that had long been established and went in for heavy and persistent advertising. Their goods, too, were all right.

"The young salesman and his competitor were seated on the veranda of a country hotel one afternoon amid the usual crowd of hangers-on around at such places. The competing salesman, in a good-natured enough way, it is true, began guying the youngster about his small concern and the paints it manufactured.

"'Oh, your paints,' said he, 'can't stand up with mine. It will take three coats of your stuff to do the same work as two coats of mine.'

"The youngster couldn't deny this. There was a loud guffaw from the crowd, while the other salesman continued his prodding. The gruelling was severe, and the young fellow's embarassment became acute.

"'It's a fact,' he finally said, 'that it takes three coats of my paint to equal two coats of yours. But your stuff will come off before mine and I'll prove it to the crowd right here and now.'

"'Go to it, kid,' said some one in the crowd. He's been handing it to you long enough.'

"The salesman went into the hotel office and returned with two small pieces of card board. These he moistened with his lips. He stuck one on the arm of the chair. It adhered at once. On top of this he placed the other. It likewise adhered.

"'These,' he said, 'represent your two coats of thick paint. They stick on all right at first, but look at them now.'

"The moisture in the pieces of card board were drying. The bent edges straightened out and the pieces fell to the floor.

"'Now lend me your cigarette book,' he said to one of the bystanders. Securing the book he tore out three of the thin sheets of rice paper. He likewise moistened these and applied them to the arm of the chair, one on top of the other.

"'How long do you think it will take for these to come off?' he inquired. 'To get 'em off at all, you'll have to scrape 'em off.' That's how your thin paint and your thick paint will act.'

"The guffaw this time from the crowd was at the other salesman.

"'You nailed him, kid,' cheered the man who had previously spoken. 'I thought you could do it, and turning to the crowd he said: 'Tell you what, fellows, I've got to have my house painted and I was thinking of using the other man's goods, but now I am going to give the kid here the order.'

"Another thing about specialty salesmanship. You often think you've got the order when you haven't. Sometimes even the order may be shipped and received and still your sale isn't complete.

"An instance of this kind happened to me while I was traveling for a paint house a number of years ago. A cotton factory was to give a big order to paint all its tenant houses in the mill village. The amount of paint required, I believe, was 2,000 gallons. Paint salesmen swarmed around the mill manager as thick as bees.

"I knew him pretty well and made him pretty well acquainted with my line. It took some time, however, as he didn't know much about painting. This was the first job he had handled.

"I went back to the hotel feeling confident that I could get the order, but there I remembered that I hadn't mentioned to the manager the special inducement that my house was offering. With an order for as much as a barrel of paint we were then sending free an 'agitator,' a contrivance to fit over the barrel with which to stir the paint before applying it.

"I went to see the manager again that night and told him of our agitator inducement. He seemed interested.

"Next day I was awarded the order. The manager said he was satisfied with my goods and cautioned me not to forget the agitator.

"Elated I sent the order to my house and continued on my ten days' trip through my territory. When I reached headquarters I found a letter from the manager to my firm telling them the paint had been received and was in his warehouse subject to their disposal. He didn't want it and wouldn't have it. Oh, that letter was a scorcher, but it gave no hint of what the trouble was.

"I took the next train and arrived in the merchants town that night. Early next morning I was at the mill village. Some of the houses had such a thick coat on them that they looked like they had been smeared with white tar. On others the coat was so thin that it looked like buttermilk had been used.

"I was at the manager's office when he came in.

"'Got nothing to say to you,' he exploded. 'Take your paint home,' and he entered his office. I followed him. He still refused to say anything further than that he wanted to be relieved of me and my paint.

"'See here,' said I, 'you might as well tell me what's the trouble, for I am going to stay here till you do, and what's more, you are going down to the warehouse with me and we'll straighten this thing out.'

"'Go out and look at those houses and see if you can straighten them out,' he snapped back. 'You said every barrel would have an agitator and there was not a single one in any of them.'

"'Surely, you didn't expect the agitator to be packed inside the barrel!' said I. 'What do you think an agitator is, anyway? Come with me to the warehouse and I'll show you something.'

"His curiosity led him to follow me. His head painter was with us also. As soon as the warehouse doors were opened I saw the agitator. It was just as it came, uncrated, unused. I tore the covering off, had the painter open a barrel of the paint, screwed the agitator on the barrel and showed how it would stir the paint so that it would be of uniform thickness throughout.

"Looked like buttermilk had been used."

"'Why didn't you do that?' said I to the painter.

"'I didn't know what that thing was for,' he replied.

"'Well, you might not have known,' said I, 'but at least you could have stirred the paint with a stick before applying it instead of daubing some of it on thick and some of it on thin.'

"'You see what the trouble with the houses is now,' I said to the manager. 'The paint was applied without so much as stirring it. Out of the first part of the barrel came the thin coats on your houses and from the bottom came the thick coats.'

"'That's enough; don't say any more,' he replied. 'I know I'm the biggest fool in the state and have got the biggest fool painter.'

"We returned to the office and the manager insisted on paying my traveling expenses for the trip, which I would not permit him to do. He fired his boss painter, got him another and the houses were successfully painted and the paint

SQUEEZE THE BOTTLE AND NOT THE LEMON, SAYS SALESMAN BROWN

Harry A. Brown, of the H. L. Singer company, showing the old and the new way of obtaining lemon juice.

Popular City Man Is Ready to Hand His Customers, Not a Lemon, but Lemon Juice in Bottles

Harry A. Brown, city salesman for the H. L. Singer company, wholesale fancy grocers, is not in the habit of handing his customers a lemon. Far from it, for he is one of the most popular and efficient men working the city trade in Atlanta.

But he is handing his customers something lemony—not lemon syrup or even lemon preserves, but lemon juice, just pure lemon juice, in bottles.

A new specialty and a good seller added to his line is just pie for any active city salesman. At least that's the way Mr. Brown regards his new product, except that he says lemon pie.

"To make lemonade or six lemonade drinks, or to fill the hundred and one uses to which lemons are put," says he, "it is not now necessary to keep a lot of lemons on hand, having them drying up or rotting. A bottle of my filtered juice kept on hand will be ready when needed, and it will keep for a week or ten days even after being opened.

"No lemon squeezing is necessary. The juice is filtered and all the seeds and fiber are thus removed. The juice is put up in Sicily and shipped to this country in barrels. The duty on lemons is a cent and a half a pound, including the weight of the crates. The duty on lemon juice is the same, but there is a great saving in weight, because the hulls and seed and fiber are absent."

Mr. Brown enjoys a large patronage among the retailers in West End and on the south side, and is accounted among the best salesmen in the business.

STEEDMAN IS ARTIST, MUSICIAN AND SALESMAN

Selling Feedstuffs Is His Business; Drawing Pictures, His Pastime

Nearly every salesman has his hobby. A. H. Steedman, who for years has been traveling out of Atlanta selling grain and feed stuff, qualifies for front rank among the hobby riders with one that is something of a rarity among firing liners, to say the least.

When not selling oats and such, Mr. Steedman is an artist. He is an artist when selling for that matter—an artist at getting the order. But his avocation, pursued industriously, is art with the brush and pencil.

It is reported on good authority that this versatile salesman has actually sold some pictures. He turns off pen and ink sketches during most any odd moments available for the purpose. He whiles away time on the trains in this manner. He also takes a turn occasionally at a bit of water color work.

Mr. Steedman travels the Georgia and the Seaboard for the J. D. Frazier company of Atlanta, and has been with this company for nearly ten years. He moved over to Atlanta not long ago from another part of the state and is fully imbued with the Atlanta spirit.

And besides being some shucks at selling grain and drawing, he is something of a musician, too.

Among the headliners of the new salesmen put on the road several months ago by the J. K. Orr Shoe company, are A. C. Barnes, who covers the coast section of North Carolina; F. P. Morgan, who covers the Montgomery territory, and A. C. McKinnon, who travels Alabama with headquarters at Selma.

John Whitman, of the J. K. Orr Shoe company, has returned from a successful sales trip through Florida. He visited Jacksonville, Plant City, Palatka, Tampa, Sandifer and Orlando.

PONY CARTS ENJOY STEADY POPULARITY

Auto Craze Can Not Replace Old Favorite in Youngsters' Affection

No matter what the situation as to buggies, the demand for pony carts has not been affected at all by the coming of the motor car, according to E. D. Crane, the vehicle and automobile dealer.

"Just as many pony carts seem to be sold now as in the days years ago before there were any automobiles," says Mr. Crane. "We sell one every now and then with just about the same degree of regularity as in the old days. The auto has supplanted the buggy to a large extent, but the fascination of a pony cart for the youngsters will likely never pass.

"I just sold one which was given a boy by his father as a reward for good work at school, and they are certainly great inducements to hard study. This boy kept after his father for a pony and his father agreed to get him one if he made a certain average at school. The boy buckled down and earned it. I don't guess that boy would trade his pony and cart for the finest big touring car in town, and so it is with any boy.

"There are a lot of buggies being sold yet, though of course, the automobile has reduced sales to little compared to years ago. But the autos haven't touched the pony cart."

ADAMS DELIVERS ADDRESS ON CREDIT PROBLEMS

New Head Credit Assn. Says South Should Patronize Home Products

The following is the address in part delivered by E. L. Adams, of the E. L. Adams company, in accepting the presidency of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men, to which he was elected at the annual meeting of the association last Tuesday.

"I fear the members of your nominating committee in selecting me for your president for the coming year have extended me a great deal larger line of credit than I'm entitled to and have demonstrated the fact that they are not as good credit men as they have credit for being.

"In accepting the trust I put you on notice now that I will ask leniency and will only promise—as so many of our customers promise—to 'do the best I can.' If I am not able to live up to 'terms,' blame your nominating committee for extending too much credit.

"Seriously, gentlemen, I feel highly honored in being selected as president of so great an organization as the Atlanta Association of Credit Men.

"In my estimation your organization occupies the position of chief physician to the commercial interests of Georgia and I might say the entire southeast, as many interests holding membership in this association are vitally concerned with business conditions over the entire southeast.

"I know of no organization whose activities touch all branches of industry and business as this one does.

"In my humble judgment more can be accomplished to correct present evils by the credit men in whatever line—demanding to know that he to whom he sells his goods is financially as well as morally worthy and further that no matter how worthy he is—he must pay his bills in accordance with terms.

"If this would be done by all it would not take long to bring about a readjustment and the consumer, who I believe is spending more than his income, would be forced to produce enough to supply his needs or do without.

"Referring further to the question of spending more than our income as a section it is to be deplored that so much money must be sent away for food supplies when they can be produced here—and for automobiles and insurance when they might be furnished by home enterprise—but how are people are to be educated to produce more at home, and when they must be brought to patronize the home labor, I do not know.

"It necessarily must be a campaign of education and if our Credit Men's association and other bodies organized for civic betterment could be the instruments for setting in motion some powerful influence that would wake up the masses to the situation a great benefaction would be accomplished.

"The press of the country has been bending its efforts along this line and has no doubt accomplished much, but there is much yet to be accomplished.

"Our collection laws are fairly good as a whole—though in my opinion they could be strengthened at some points without doing violence to other classes.

"In my opinion it is entirely unfair that a man with $400 or $500 capital may go into business and remain long enough to establish credit to accumulate $1,500 of assets and then go into bankruptcy and have it all set aside as exempt.

"Another defect I think lies in the slowness of action before the courts on suits of $100 and over where there is no city or county court.

"The great length of time necessary to obtain judgment practically bars us from resorting to the courts or accounts of this kind and we are left to the mercy of—too often—unscrupulous debtors.

"I realize that these are difficulties in our laws that will be hard to overcome and I do not mention them with any hope of our being able to accomplish removal of them—though I should be glad if we could do so.

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I am making no rash promises as to what we will accomplish the coming year. I only pledge you my best efforts and I bespeak the support and co-operation of every member of the association. If we can have this co-operation I think some progress may be expected—not as compared with the administration of my worthy and honored predecessor, but as a natural and healthy growth."

SALESMAN TELLS VALUE OF GOOD SHIPPING CLERK

He Is Connecting Link Between the Traveling Salesman and His Customer

"Not every man who can mark goods, write out dray tickets and make out bills-of-lading is a real shipping clerk," said Jack W. Evans, of the Atlanta Agricultural works. "Nor is the great importance of having an A No. 1 shipping clerk fully appreciated by every sales manager.

"The shipping clerk is the most important link connecting the traveling salesman to the customer and he should be a man who is in full sympathy with the traveling force, one who has the interest of his house at heart and above all a man who is thoroughly conversant with every detail of the business in which he is engaged. In a manufacturing plant especially is this true.

"In the various departments of any plant the workmen or even the foreman are only concerned and interested in doing a certain part of the work. The superintendent is too busy to give every little detail his personal attention and inspection, but there is one man whom the finished article finally reaches and his knowledge of every detail of the business should be so thorough that he could at a glance detect any defect that might exist and be capable of having such defect remedied in the shortest possible time and at the least possible expense—that man is the shipping clerk.

"The shipping clerk should also have more or less road experience, as this gives him a knowledge of conditions existing in certain territories, quickest routes to reach a given destination, and creates in him an interest in the proper packing and handling of shipments. Properly packed goods both make a favorable impression on the customer and preserves the finish of the article packed. Poorly packed goods destroys both.

"There should exist between the shipping clerk and the traveling force a friendship of the strongest character, an interest in the welfare and work of each other and a strong mutual pull for the best interest of the house represented. Nor can the traveling force be too careful in cultivating the friendship of the shipping force.

"I remember one insiance in my career which brought vividly to my mind the careless indifference of the traveling force toward the shipping clerk and the consequent ill results of it. In company with one of my best customers I walked into the shipping room and came face to face with a shipping clerk with whom my customer was acquainted. They shook hands cordially and as we started on I took from my pocket three cigars, passed one to my customer, put one between my own lips and restored the other to my pocket, never giving the shipping clerk another thought.

"Right then my troubles began. This shipping clerk possessed a remarkable loyalty to the house but he seemed to lose all interest in orders sent in by me and almost every week something turned up for me to straighten out. No willful substitutions or malicious mistakes could be laid at his door, but somehow the errors multiplied and my labors were increased to such an extent that it took my entire time and every power I possessed to prevent a breaking away of some of my best trade.

"Through an accidental remark dropped by one of the assistants, I one day located the trouble and with the least possible delay I quietly and pleasantly fixed myself with the shipping clerk, and although he most bitterly denied any willful intention of causing any confusion in the execution of my orders, it was a remarkably noticeable fact that from that time on my customers were better pleased with the perfect execution of orders and the manner in which the goods were packed than ever before.

"That this shipping clerk should have been discharged is a thought that has no doubt already entered your mind, but whether he should or should not have been is another story and does not disprove my contention that a thoroughly posted and loyal shipping clerk is one of the greatest assets any house can have and the one member of the house force that the traveling salesman should make his friend and confidant."

NEW CARDBOARD CASE PREVENTS DANGER OF RAW SCRAMBLED EGGS

M. D. McDonald (on the left), assistant manager of the Clark Wooden Ware company, shows the old way of handling eggs and the results likely to follow therefrom. The smile of O. E. Grady (on the right), member of the office force, indicates the advantages of the new way.

The Clarke Wooden Ware company are out to reform the grocers of the south in their method of handling eggs.

The cardboard egg case is the method to be used.

The grocer's clerk will not have to count 'em—so he will no longer get eleven or thirteen in the sack when in a hurry. He will fill the box and there you are—always an even dozen.

The box will be a boon to the cook who oversleeps and rushes to the store to get a dozen eggs real quick.

The eggs will be packed in the boxes by the grocer during the dull hours and when the customer says "a dozen eggs," all the grocer needs do is pass over the box already loaded.

When the delivery wagons turn a corner without regard to the curb the jolt is less liable to mean raw scrambled eggs if they are packed in these cases.

These points and some others will be talked up by the Clark salesmen who are out to get the boxes in use by every retail grocery store.

The company is also making egg cases suitable for shippers who may send them in crates ready packed in dozen lots for the retailer's convenience.

Another style of case is for the retailer to do his own packing of eggs which do not come to him already cased in dozen lots by the shipper.

It is expected grocery clerks will welcome the little boxes and it is sure they will be welcomed by the housewives who are accustomed to finding a battered egg when they are loosely packed in a paper bag.

WITH SOUTHERN RETAILERS

C. A. Fountain, the progressive Adrian, Ga., merchant, has just moved into a fine new store. C. D. Dickinson, who travels for Brown, Perryman & Greene company, called on him a few days ago and he says Mr. Fountain has a store to be proud of.

Barrow Hardware company at Bowden, Ga., was one of the concerns visited last week by E. H. Janes, traveler for the Dobbs & Wey company, and he tells us that Mr. Barrow can be quoted as being well pleased with business recently.

At Thomaston, Ga., a new gents' furnishing store has been started by O. S. Perdue, who has been connected with the mercantile interests of that town for some years. Claude A. Smith, who travels for the A. M. Robinson company, says the new Thomaston merchant is getting started off in nice shape.

"LIQUIDS" SALES FORCE TO HOLD CONVENTION

Salesmen of Atlanta Branch to Meet Here for Conference in June

Salesmen working in the five states covered by the Atlanta branch of the Liquid Carbonic company will gather in Atlanta during the early part of June for a convention.

Each office of this company holds regular conventions of the salesmen in their territory. The company has also made it the custom heretofore to hold an annual salesmen's convention at Chicago attended by all of the company's firing liners, numbering about one hundred and twenty-five. In the future branch meetings will be substituted for the general convention.

Salesmen under the Atlanta office who will meet in Atlanta are:

R. V. Haslett, S. H. Galloway, L. M. Ives, W. A. Gossett, John Gossett, M. S. Dickson, H. G. Fulenweider, L. R. Grimes, D. D. Batcheler, F. S. Davis, J. J. Jones, R. C. Millard, R. D. Latta.

H. H. Ware, manager of the Atlanta branch, goes to Chicago this week to attend a meeting of the company's managers.

What is a Real Business Man?

Why, he's the fellow that's right on the job day and night, looking after the leaks; getting ready for a rainy day; keeping the resources well within a safe limit; guarding the credit of the house; reaching out after new business. He's a regular conserver. He's a good man to pattern after—no difference what you undertake. He's the man that's sensible enough to apply business methods to his personal health. When is eyes begin to annoy him—give out easily, strain and will not permit him to do continuous, close work without unnecessary fatigue, he gets busy—has an examination made and gets glasses. That's simply good business. Suffice to say we've been fitting glasses for the southern people for fifty years, and—well, that's sufficient for a real business man to know.

ON THE FIRING LINE WITH THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

SAMPLES AND SHIPMENTS

George P. Byrd, the flour salesman, has advised Secretary Brownlee, of U. C. T. 505, that the latter should put his aeroplane to work and get his orders out sooner.

W. E. Pierce, member of U. C. T. council 505 and former traveler, is now in the insurance business. From all reports, he is making good at a rapid rate.

Bob Woodall, of U. C. T. 505, is now traveling for the Woolson Spice company of Toledo, Ohio.

The "ins" this week at Fain & Stamps are W. T. Bailey and J. C. Owens. They report a fine feeling existing among the farmers and merchants in their territory due to the recent rains. W. O. Stamps, of this firm, was so jubilant over the coming of the rains that it was with difficulty he restrained himself from going out on the streets and giving three loud hurrah.

L. C. Miller, the new traveler for Jones Brothers & Co., who began work Monday, made good immediately. He sent in a car load order from South Carolina for the Jones pickles, preserves and vinegar.

A large number of candidates were initiated last Saturday at the joint meeting of U. C. T. councils 18 and 505.

Judging from the fine orders sent in from Florida by R. S. Dawson, traveler for the Jones Brothers pickle products, business must be good in that state.

There are some good U. C. T. men on the John Silvey & Co. line up. The way they are coming up like little men and passing across a year's dues in advances shows this. Three of them have qualified in this manner in the last few days for one of the handsome pins that E. M. Lunceford, secretary of Council 18, is distributing to all who supply their part of the sinews of war in this manner. They are Zack Daniel, J. H. Roberts, and W. T. McCullough.

N. P. Cannon, secretary and treasurer of Atlanta Casket company, is out of the city for several days. He will return the early part of the week.

J. W. Murphy, of Atlanta Casket company, will spend today in Americus, Ga.; B. V. Brumfield at Little Rock, Ark.; J. A. Cook at Spartanburg, S. C.; W. L. Phillips at Greenwood, S. C., and F. M. Catlett at Tampa, Fla.

M. L. Sullivan and S. L. DeFord are the South Carolina travelers for the J. K. Orr Shoe company, who have been sending in some fine orders recently.

Jack W. Evans, of Atlanta Agricultural Works has been hustling during the past week getting dope on crop conditions in the foreign territory. Jack says he is going to pull a large business this year from the Cuban, Mexican and Central American territories.

H. E. Dean, superintendent of Atlanta Agricultural Works, has been busy during the past week having a line of implements gotten ready for display at the Georgia Retail Hardware association convention at the auditorium.

F. S. Dean, vice president of Atlanta Agricultural Works, has spent the past week figuring costs and discussing with the traveling salesmen the selling points of implements peculiarly adapted to the various territories.

Lawrence H. Moore, of Atlanta Agricultural Works, tells of many encouraging reports received from samples of new implements he has sent out. Lawrence anticipates a larger business during the next season in his territory than ever before.

B. L. Fox, Virginia salesman for Montag Brothers, who has been here for several days, is of the opinion that there should be more Atlanta houses sending salesman into that territory. They are doing fine now, but Mr. Fox says the merchants up that way seem rather interested in Atlanta and that here would get a good hearing if they can meet the nearby Baltimore competition. Come on up and try it, advises Mr. Fox.

All the travelers of the Consolidated Paper company were here yesterday to attend a sales conference. John W. Sayres, representing the General Roofing company, whose products the Consolidated company sells, was present and made an interesting talk on the subject of handling roofing. Those of the sales force who were present were: President T. J. Monroe, J. C. Mason, E. E. Shiner, and S. P. Smith. This is Mr. Mason's first visit to headquarters for six weeks. His home is at Cuthbert, Ga., where he usually goes to spend the week-ends.

C. S. Harley, of the Consolidated Paper company, sent in a fine bunch of orders last week from Columbia, S. C.

S. E. Stevens of U. C. T. council 505, who, together with his family, has been spending several weeks at Carrollton, Ga., will return to his home in Atlanta in the next few days.

F. E. Hood, of U. C. T. 505 was able to report at the E. L. Adams company yesterday.

W. R. Simpson, of Jones Brothers & Co., came in Saturday from a trip to south Georgia and brought a fine bunch of orders with him. He reports flat crop prospects in that section are good.

T. R. Lewis, of U. C. T. 504, was very busy last week taking applications for the order of the Bagmen of Bagdad. The initiations will be conducted at the Columbus convention this week.

P. S. Brownlee, secretary of U. C. T. council 505, says that it will take a log chain to keep him from attending the convention of the Georgia-Florida convention at Columbus this week.

Uncle Jeff is selling goods at his same steady pace. This Dougherty-Little-Redwine company traveler gets his regular run of orders, wet or dry. That two-horse team with which he visits the trade doesn't get much rest.

A new addition to the ranks of the house saelsmen of wholesale Atlanta is G. M. Little who has recently gone with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company. Mr. Little is not new to Atlanta, however, but has lived here for some years.

It was "shirt week" for Claude A. Smith, the A. M. Robinson company firing liner. He had an unusually good business on that part of his line.

Several of the Ragan-Malone company men will spend a part of next week in Atlanta looking after house trade. B. R. Pennington, Sam Hanes, W. M. Johnson and Carlton Hanes will be here.

W. C. Burnwell, notion buyer at the Ragan-Malone company, celebrated his birthday last week. The number of his years is not very high yet as he is the youngest member of the firm.

Harold G. Barnwell, of the house force of the Ragan-Malone company, who underwent an operation a few days ago is still at the sanitarium but is improving nicely.

Billy Sunshine, sometimes known as L. L. Dettlebach, has been off the road for the last week, confined to his home in Atlanta by illness, but is reported to be much better.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Hirshberg are just back from their five weeks' trip east. Mr. Hirshberg visited Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York on business, but spent most of his time vacationing at Atlantic City and New York.

The Binder Frame Manufacturing company have been having a very busy looking shipping room lately, due to a jump in their mail order business.

W. J. Swanson, the John Silvey & Co. traveler, is spending Sunday at Pensacola, Fla.

Hugh T. Burton, city salesman for John Silvey & Co., left yesterday for a visit of a couple of days to his old home at Social Circle, Ga.

V. M. Hyatt was the first John Silvey & Co. traveler to book a complete season order for fall goods. It came through last week.

H. P. Lovelace, of the Consolidated Paper company, is a persistent fisherman. Notwithstanding the threatening clouds yesterday, he was at his usual place at the River lakes, angling for the elusive bass.

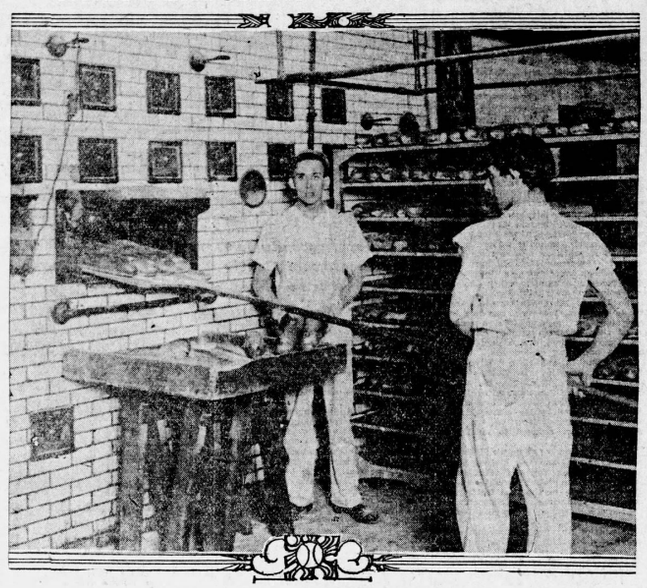
C. E. May, representative of the "Yours Truly" products, was working the city trade last week with the E. L. Adams company.

J. R. Thornton, of the S. P. Richards Co. traveling staff, is going out for his new season Monday. His fleet of trunks is loaded to the gunwales with new samples. He has just finished several busy weeks at the house overhauling his line and is ready now to "mop up" on fall trade. The other Company men are also well prepared for the get-a-way. J. M. Bennett and J. R. Huff will likely take to the road next week and K. S. Harrison, who has been on the sick list most of last week, expects to be feeling well enough to tackle the firms line with the rest of the bunch.

J. H. Arrington, for years representing Meyer Bros. Drug Co., of St. Louis, in the southeastern territory, has severed his connection with his old firm and is now in charge of the sundries department of Lamar, Taylor & Riey Drug Co., of Macon, who intend making extensive developments in this department. Mr. Arrington will make Macon his permanent home, moving there from Rome, Ga., his home for many years.

J. D. Maisby, of the Maisby company, has been in south Georgia for several days on a Big 4 traction engine deal.

UP-TO-DATE BAKERIES MAKE CLEANLINESS CHIEF FEATURE IN ART OF BREAD-MAKING



Removing the loaves from the oven. Scene in the oven-room of the "Uncle Sam" bakery.

Modern Factory Facilities and Scientific Equipment Enable Plants to Make Uniformly Better Bread Than Can Be Made at Home

In former times all articles of food and clothing were prepared in the home. Spinning, weaving, preserving and all forms of cooking were home industries. But under the development of modern industry practically all these operations are now done in sanitary factories, and done even better than the home can do them.

Baking bread is one of the oldest operations of cookery. The facilities of the up-to-date bakeries are now removing this industry from the home also, and uniformly better bread is the result.

One of the bakeries of Atlanta which is fast making Atlanta the bread market of the southeast is the Schlesinger-Sam" bakery.

Meyer Baking company, makers of "Uncle Sam" bread, which is known throughout Atlanta and a big radius of surrounding territory.

Cleanliness is one of the central features of the modern bakery. It is looked after perhaps more scrupulously than any other one point in the production of the loaves.

"In conformity with the ideal of absolute cleanliness," said a representative of the Schlesinger-Meyer bakery, "all the dough used in our bakery is kneaded and cut by sanitary machinery. Our ovens, as shown in the photograph, are faced with white tiling, and all our bakers wear spotlessly white uniforms. We are justly proud of the high quality of our bread. It is made from the best northwestern flour, whose glutinous properties make it nutritious and muscle building."

The Schlesinger-Meyer company is located at Madison avenue and Nelson street and is among the largest and most scientifically equipped plants in the country.

GIDEONS ORGANIZE BIG CAMP AT ATHENS

Visiting Presbyterians Will Address Atlanta Camp This Afternoon at Piedmont

An enthusiastic Gideon camp was organized last Sunday at Athens, Ga., by a party of Atlanta Gideons, who visited the Classic City for that purpose. The party consisted of C. H. Burge, president of the Atlanta camp; A. F. Todd, state president, and C. W. Hatcher.

The officers of the new camp are F. C. Thornton, president; Sam E. Wells, secretary; R. J. Hancock, treasurer, and G. W. Burney, chaplain.

At the Gideon meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Piedmont hotel Rev. L. C. Stumpf, of Highland, Kan., will deliver an address. Mr. Stumpf is one of the visiting Presbyterian commissioners. He is a Gideon also and was formerly a traveling salesman. The organization party will give a report on the newly formed camp at Athens, and the other organization work in contemplation. The public is cordially invited to attend.

LOCAL RETAILERS TO HOLD MASS MEETING

Will Convene on May 20 to Formulate Plans for Important Remedial Legislation

The retail merchants and wholesale credit men of Atlanta and Fulton county have been called to gather at a mass meeting to be held in the chamber of commerce rooms in the Empire building on May 20, at 3 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of formulating plans to urge before the legislature the passage of the proposed new garnishment law and the fraudulent check bill.

In addition to this, at the same time will be organized a local branch of the Retail Merchants association of Georgia, which organization originated the bills and is doing valiant work to have them put on the statute book.

"We hope every retailer and every wholesale credit man in Atlanta and Fulton county will meet with us on next Tuesday," said C. W. Hatcher, member of the committee who has issued the call for the mass meeting. "The two bills proposed are badly needed by the merchants of the state and we want to get the local retailers solidly behind them."

The other members of the committee are F. J. Paxon, C. V. Logan, and C. Tappan.

RETAIL GROCERS TO GIVE SUMMER HALF-HOLIDAYS

Beginning with the first Wednesday in June, the retail grocers and butchers of Atlanta will close on Wednesdays at noon for a half holiday during the months of June, July and August.

More than 225 retailers have already signed the closing agreement and others are adding their names as fast as the petition can be presented to them.

O. T. Camp, president of the Retail Grocers and Butchers association, is enthusiastic over the success with which the movement is meeting.

"The members of the City Salesman's association," said he, "are circulating the petition and any retailer who has not yet signed may secure a copy of the agreement from them or can telephone Francis Kamper or myself.

"We expect to have one of the biggest parades and celebrations ever seen in Atlanta on June 4, which will be the first Wednesday half holiday of the year."

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

Ever notice how often, after getting the worst of some friendly argument, you afterward think of the brightest kind of retort when it's too late to do any good?

It's happened to all of us hundreds of times.

Now, some shoe merchants let the same thing happen to their business. They don't get the new, snappy styles till the keenness of the demand has worn off.

Or maybe they put them in stock and then fail to keep them properly sized up during the season, which is almost as costly.

The RED SEAL Shoe Factory, right here in Georgia, is proving a big help to thousands of the best merchants in the South in keeping their stock attractive and efficient throughout the selling season.

It stands for QUICK SHIPMENTS AND LOW FREIGHTS.

Its use will mean for you a bigger, better shoe business on a smaller stock, without any accumulation of dead styles. Isn't it worth your consideration?

"MENTAL HEALERS" MUST TAKE EXAMS. IN ALABAMA

Court of Appeals Rules License Necessary for All Who Charge for Services

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 17.—Persons who heal diseases by "mental suggestion" and similar methods must stand the state medical examination as required by the code if they receive pay for their service, according to a decision handed down Tuesday by the court of appeals in the case of J. J. Smith vs. State, appealed from the Bessemer city court.

Smith was convicted in the lower court for the offense of treating disease without having obtained a certificate of qualification from the state board of medical examiners. The case was tried by the court without the intervention of a jury upon an agreed statement of facts. The court of appeals affirmed the verdict of the lower court.

Methods of healing used by Smith were, perhaps, the most remarkable in the history of the state. In the particular case relied on by the state for conviction, it is said, Smith gave his patient a little bottle of white pills to take internally and had her place her feet in a tub of water while holding in her hands the cords of a dry electric battery.

HOW HE "HEALED."

Smith styled himself a "Vittapathic and Scientific Healer," and the records in the case show that he describes his work as follows:

"In treating human diseases I bring about a state of thought in the patient which brings about the healing of the disease. If we can get a person to really thinking and believing he is getting better and is going to get well, he will get well. As to the little white pills I gave them they were merely predigested food. The electric battery is nothing but a little telephone battery. The reason the use of these things aids me in getting a person to believe he is going to be cured is because people all over the country are so accustomed to the use of medicine that by the employment of what appears to be such, in connection with my suggestion of health, I can bring about the desired mental action quicker and sometimes more effectively."

OPINION OF COURT.

In the opinion, written by Justice Thomas, the court of appeals holds that "those admissions of the defendant, in themselves, prove the wisdom of the law requiring, as a protection to the people, that the profession healer or curer who holds himself out to serve the public in that capacity, whatever be his system of treatment, have knowledge of those branches of learning named in the law, to the end that, while leaving him free to choose his own curative means, the public may be assured that the choice shall be made only after an intelligent understanding of the nature of the trouble he offers to treat and of the human body to which he assumes to minister.

"The fact that the remedy he adopts is entirely harmless and might be effectively used by an uneducated as an educated person does not, as seen, relieve the danger to the public resulting from entrusting their lives and health to a practitioner of cures who is ignorant of those things, a knowledge of which, science and experience have demonstrated to be highly useful and beneficial, if not to say necessary, in any system of treatment."

This decision of the court of appeals is a sweeping one and includes a large number of persons who have been healing diseases in many ways without complying with the laws covering this method of practice.

Charity Spent $5,000 To Probe Needs of a Woman Drawing $300

CHICAGO, May 17.—Records intended to show that the woman dependent upon charity received less than $300 during eighteen months, while approximately $5,000 was spent in investigating her condition, were produced today before the legislative committee investigating charitable institutions.

The beneficary was Mrs. Maggie Ustich. Two of her children were asphyxiated late last year.

A portion of the record of the case submitted by Rev. F. R. J. Lloyd, member of the legislative committee, follows:

"Charitable organizations rendering service, 16; courts rendering service, 2; individuals investigating, 82; physicians in attendance, 11; nurses in attendance, 3; pulmotors rendering service, 2; visits and interviews in regard to Mrs. Ustich, 105; cash paid to Mrs. Ustich by United Charities, $299; cash spent by all organizations, corporations and individuals investigating case, $5,000.

"This is one of the apparent abuses we are trying to correct," said Mr. Lloyd.

PRUSSIAN PRINCESS WEDS PRINCE HENRY XXXIII

Princess Victoria Margarete, of Prussia, Marries Henry, of Reuss

POTSDAM, Germany, May 17.—The marriage of Prince Henry of Reuss, and Princess Victoria Margarete of Prussia, only daughter of Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, was celebrated at the new palace here this morning.

The ceremonial was the same as is to be employed in Berlin on May 24, at the nuptials of her friend and comrade, Princess Victoria Luise, the only daughter of Emperor William.

The German empress took charge of the bride's ante-nutial toilette and placed on the young princess' head the historical princess crown, which is taken from the imperial treasury only for the marriages of Prussian princesses.

EXPERIMENT STATION FOR LONG STAPLE RESEARCH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
CHARLESTON, May 17.—The sea island or long staple cotton planters have appealed to the chamber of commerce to institute a study of the condition of the industry and secure, if possible from the government the establishment of an experimental station for long staple research, also getting the government cooperation for full data upon the production of long staple cotton and marketing conditions. The planters hope to effect methods which will save the industry, now so seriously threatened.

SENATOR LEWIS GIVES BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

ATHENS, Ga., May 17.—In a telegram received Friday by Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, accepted an invitation recently extended to him to deliver the annual baccalaureate address before the graduating class at the university in June.

DEBS BEGINS PROBE OF COAL MINING DISTRICTS

Former Socialist Candidate for President Is in West Virginia Investigating Conditions

(By Associated Press.)
CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 17.—Eugene V. Debs, Socialist candidate for president of the United States in the last election; Victor L. Berger, former Socialist member of congress from Milwaukee, and Adolph Sernor, of Illinois, are expected here today to investigate conditions of miners in West Virginia, as a result of the strike of coal miners in Kanawha county.

Appointed a committee by the national Socialist party, the three men, it is said, have been authorized to send a copy of their findings to President Wilson. The situation in the coal fields of West Virginia is undecided. In the Kanawha field there seems to be a condition of peace, the miners having returned to work as a result of proposals of Governor Hatfield, providing for a check weighman, a tonnage of 2,500 pounds, a semi-monthly pay and prevention of discrimination.

The United Mine Workers of America as a union, however, has not been recognized by the operators, a majority of the American miners have quit the Kanawha field and accepted positions in adjoining coal fields.

Conditions in the New River coal are uncertain. In this field recently was organized district No. 29, United Mine Workers of America, with a membership of 19,000. The coal operators granted all asked by Governor Hatfield in his recommendations to the Kanawha field, but refused to meet with the miners.

The resolution of Senator Kern, of Indiana, now before the United States senate, providing for a federal investigation of the labor trouble is accepted here and in the coal fields with conflicting emotions. A majority of the miners, however, favor the federal government intervention.

In addition to several supreme court decisions giving the right to the state executive to declare martial law, suspend the functions of the civil authorities and arrest and detain persons whom he believes are aiding and abetting an insurrection, Judge Samuel L. Littlepage, of the circuit court, yesterday upheld the right of the governor to do such things under procedure of martial law.

ENGLISH-GERMAN SQUABBLE SETTLED?

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, May 17.—Controversy between Great Britain and Germany over the Bagdad railway, which is to run under German auspices from Konia, in Asia Minor, to the Persian gulf, is approaching settlement satisfactory to Germany, according to an official statement.

The German government and the German supporters of the scheme who in 1911, took first steps toward an Anglo-German understanding, have been kept fully informed as to the Anglo-Turkish negotiations and they approve of the impending solution. They expect, however, to receive further compensation for the German concessions and that this will be arranged by direct negotiations between Germany and Great Britain.

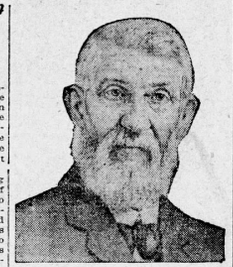
FARRABEE LOSES EYE FROM BOTTLE EXPLOION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
COMMERCE, Ga., May 17.—Mr. Luther Farrabee, a well known and prosperous young merchant of this place, had the misfortune to lose one of his eyes yesterday, by the sudden and altogether unexpected explosion of a soft drink bottle.

Mr. Farrabee had picked up a bottle out of the case and was preparing to open the same when it suddenly exploded with great violence, and a piece of the glass struck Mr. Farrabee in the eye, putting out the sight entirely and necessitating the removal of the eyeball. Mr. Farrabee was hastily carried to the Hardman sanitarium and the operation was promptly and skillfully performed and he is now resting well and on a fair way to recovery.

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative Tonic



MR. O. P. MILLER.

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to many elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided, as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan, and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative-tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. O. P. Miller, Baroda, Mich., who writes: "I am 80 years old and have been constipated for many years. Since receiving your sample bottle I have procured two 50c bottles and find that it is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for it to the very letter. I cannot recommend it too highly."

A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits, they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

PHAGAN THEORY IS UNCHANGED AFTER THREE WEEKS' PROBE

Most Searching Investigation Ever Conducted in a Criminal Case in Georgia Brings No New Developments

STATE WILL STAND BY THEORY AS OUTLINED

Fund to Pay Detective Burns Is Mounting—Greeks Sent in Subscription Saturday, Grand Jury Acts Soon

The hunt for the murderer of Mary Phagan has now been in progress for three weeks. Never before has there been such a thorough, exhaustive and efficient probe made of a crime committed in this state. And now the authorities are back to the theory which the city detective have claimed since a few days after the crime is the solution of the mystery of Mary Phagan's death.

Solicitor General H. M. Dorsey's consistent work on the mystery has served only to strengthen it is said, the theory of the city detectives as printed exclusively a week ago by The Journal.

In the three weeks which have passed since Newt Lee, a negro night watchman at the National Pencil factory, phoned Call Officer Anderson that he he had found the body of a white woman in the basement of the factory, the probe of what has been termed Atlanta's most atrocious crime has been in progress.

Practically the entire city detectives force has worked night and day on the mystery. Solicitor Dorsey's detective, the attaches of his office, and the deputy sheriffs have been on the job. The Pinkertons were called into the case shortly after the crime was discovered, and they have had several men continually at work on the case. In addition practically every private detective in Atlanta, and they are legion, has in the hope of fame or reward, been quietly lending his efforts to a solution of the mystery.

EVERY CLUE RUN DOWN.

As a result, every clue has been run down and every plausible theory, which found its way to the brain of one of the detectives, or was suggested by and amateur criminologist, has been worked. In every theory flaws have been found, and every one has been discarded by the state for the one first advanced by city detectives.

This theory is in brief that Mary Phagan arrived at the pencil factory between 12 and 12:30 o'clock Saturday April 26, and a short time later she was lured to the metal room and there assaulted; that the assailant knocked her unconscious; tied the cord around her neck, and dragged her into a dressing room; that the body lodged a door and left her there until late in afternoon when he dragged her to the elevator and carried her to the basement.

The detectives are of the opinion that the girl partially regained consciousness on the trip to the basement and screamed, her cries being heard by a passerby. The murderer then, they hold, tore a part of her underskirt away, and knotted it about her neck, using both it and the cord to complete the work of strangulation.

BURNS MAN CHECKS EVIDENCE.

Now that a Burns' investigator is at work on the case, checking up the work of the city detectives, the Pinkertons, the many professional and the several amateurs, who have worked on the mystery, and seeking for new clues and leads, there is no doubt that this has been the most thorough investigation of a crime ever known to the south.

The coroner's jury after hearing testimony in the case for several days ordered that two men, Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the factory, and Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, be held for further investigation by the grand jury.

The grand jury is now on the eve of taking up its probe of the mystery. But little evidence, however, is to be presented before that body that did not go before the coroner's jury. There will be Miss Monteen Stover's testimony that she visited the office between 12:05 and 12:10 on the fatal Saturday afternoon and found no one there, despite Superintendent Frank's statement that he did not leave his office from noon until nearly 1 o'clock. Then there will be the testimony of experts of handwriting, and the statements of the physicians who examined the murdered girl's body, and who made tests of the blood found at the scene of the crime, and that will practically cover the state's case.

"Bell Joined Mob In Singing 'Hang Helen D. to An Apple Tree'"

—Mrs. Longstreet.

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senators Smith, of South Carolina; Lea, Martine, Citron and Colt, sitting as a sub-committee will on Monday hear Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet in defense of her administration as postmaster at Gainesville, to which office she was denied reappointment by President Wilson. Mrs. Longstreet wishes it distinctly understood that she will not protest against the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. J. Hamm, but has asked a hearing with a purpose of vindicating herself in the eyes of the country.

Mrs. Longstreet's letter to the postoffice department asking reappointment, which forms a part of the files in the Gainesville case, is a spicy communication. It charges, among other things, that she has been made the victim of a conspiracy of "water power truste" and that Congressman Bell joined with a "mob" on election night in singing "We will hang 'Helen D.' to a sour apple tree."

The group standing at the left shows J. K. Ottley, of Atlanta; Mrs. F. H. Gaines; Dr. F. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott; Mrs. J. K. Ottley; Dr. John Timothy Stone, the new moderator of the U. S. A. assembly; Mrs. Stotne and Mrs. S. M. Inman.

The bottom left hand picture shows Dr. Robert M. Russell, the new moderator of the United Presbyterian assembly, being served by one of the college girls. At the right are Samuel Young, of Pittsburg, Miss Margaret Roberts and Miss Olivia Bogacki, Agnes Scott students, and Dr. J. K. McClurkin, chairman of the joint committee of the U. P. amud U. S. assemblies on basis of union.

Epitaphs for Old Prejudices Are Being Written in Atlanta, Declares William T. Ellis

The New Spirit of Religious Tolerance and Co-operation Is Manifest—Breezy Sketches of Some of the Big Men Attending the Assembly Meetings

By William T. Ellis

THE three marked events in yesterday's proceedings of the pan-Presbyterian gatherings were the swift and cordial acceptation of the concurrent action toward full union of the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church in the U. S.; the great social gathering in the afternoon at Agnes Scott College tendered by Atlanta to the visitors; and the social service mass meeting in the auditorium in the evening. Incidentally, the busy wheels of the machinery of all three assemblies ground out considerable routine business. The United Presbyterians had a spirited discussion over their publishing house in Pittsburg, while the U. S. A. Assembly discussed vigorously religious education and Sabbath observance.

If ever there were a popular assembly controlled wholly from the floor, it is this meeting of the largest of the Presbyterian bodies. Probably the blow to government from behind the scenes, which was administered on the opening day, has fostered this spirit, but the participation in the proceedings by the commissioners is general and vigorous. The parliamentary procedure was livelier yesterday morning than one commonly witnesses in the halls of Congress. Two ex-congressmen and one present member—Bennett, of New York, Scott of Illinois and Morse of Indiana—are members of this assembly. There were several allusions to the public officials who are Presbyterian elders, and the name of Senator Hoke Smith was applauded as one of them.

The efficiency of these commissioners is written large for every beholder to read. They are leaders of men, quick to grasp a situation, instant in action upon it, and skillful in debate. Once or twice the member from Buncombe county got the floor, but his reception was not cordial. Speaking on the hustings and speaking before this sober gathering, are two different things. The readiness of the men from the West to take part in debate has been remarked by those who are watching the proceedings.

BOUQUETS FOR ATLANTA.

Frequently visitors express surprise over the size of Atlanta, but oftener over the big way the city has of doing things. To entertain 1,500 strangers, insisting that every man whose wife is in the city be brought along with him, is a feat that is not common, yet Atlanta did it as she has done many other lavish hospitable deeds in the past few days, as if she were used to entertaining a thousand or two strangers every other week in the year.

"It was like being on a mountain top," said one of the commissioners yesterday, concerning the spirit in which the United Presbyterian assembly accepted the report of the committee on the basis of union, and ordered it sent to the presbyteries for consideration. In thus taking identical action, the two bodies that are negotiating for organic union have set the cause forward as fully and as rapidly and as heartily as their forms of government will permit.

One of the unadvertised and yet dramatic phases of this meeting is the frequent reunions of old soldiers who fought on opposing sides fifty years ago. The same battles are being seen from different angles by participants, and commissioners are retailing one to another really thrilling incidents of this sort. Captain English, a well known Atlanta citizen, has as his guest Dr. Dinsmore, of San Jose, Cal., and they recount the old experiences when they were in the same battles. But as one listener reported, "after a thrilling story, each soldier, filled with animation and with flashing eye, they sank back in their chairs and said in unison, 'It ought never to have been.'" There are men attending these assemblies who have not been here since they entered Atlanta with Sherman's army in the days when, as one Atlanta pastor aptly put it in a public speech, "The city sat in sackcloth and ashes, we furnishing the sackcloth and Sherman the ashes."

WRITING EPITAPHS.

One could make a book of the stories of the new spirit of religious tolerance and co-operation which is now animating the country. This occasion is writing the epitaphs of innumerable ancient prejudices. Rev. Dr. S. H. Chester, of the foreign mission committee of the U. S. church, told yesterday how, at the entreaty of the Presbyterians, the Southern Methodists had opened a mission just beyond the Presbyterian field on the Congo. When Bishop Lambuth went out to establish the mission, twenty-one native evangelists of the Presbyterian mission, volunteered as his helpers. So the first native preachers in the Methodist Congo missions are men trained after the order of John Calvin and the Westminster Confession of Faith.

Apropos of the presence of negroes as commissioners to all three assemblies, Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the autocratic First Church of Nashville, told a revealing story the other day. The First church belongs to the U. S. denomination and it has one negro congregation in the presbytery. The body was to meet in a small rural church, where prejudices were strong, and word came to Nashville that this church could entertain all the presbyters except the negro pastor, for whom it had no place. Straightway the eye went back that a bare quorum of the presbytery would go out to the village, convene, and immediately adjourn to meet in the First Church of Nashville, "which is not a Jim Crow church," the message ran. The country folk immediately responded that they would welcome the negro commissioner!

A FULL BLOODED CHOCTAW.

Of the several Indian commissioners at the different assemblies, the best known is Silas Bacon, a full blooded Choctaw from Old Goodlands, Okla., where he maintains an orphanage and school for more than fifty children. The devotion of this red Indian to social service reads like a story book. Concerned for the children on the reservation, he put a lame man in a carriage and sent him over the reservation to take a census of the children who needed homes. Bacon and his wife gave ninety acres of land and began to gather in the children. At times this Presbyterian elder and his wife slept on straw pallets that the children might have beds. Now the school has become one of the institutions of Oklahoma.

Another man who has done notable social service work, although he calls it "preaching the gospel," is Melvin E. Trotter, of Grand Rapids, who has a rescue mission

JAPS WANT EQUALITY WITH U. S. CITIZENS

Resolutions Adopted in Tokio Demand That Japs Have Equal Rights With Americans

(By Associated Press.)

TOKIO, May 17.—Representative Terutako Hinata and Kenzo Hayashi protested against the discrimination shown by the alien land ownership bill and condemned the lack of land and agricultural clauses in the *existing treaty. They scored the reckless agi*tators, who, they said, were merely playing the game of those seeking orders for guns and warships.

Resolutions were then adopted declaring that the Japanese in America must have equal rights with the whites and that this fundamental condition of the existing difficulty would uphold Japanese prestige and guarantee permanent peace.

The meeting closed with dignity and seriousness and, with the exception of the idea that granting naturalization rights, the Japanese in America would find a practical solution.

Wilson and Bryan Confer Over Japanese Situation

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secretary Bryan conferred with the president this afternoon on the Japanese situation. The president was taking a holiday but talked with the secretary of state about the answer of the United States against the Japanese protest in regard to the California anti-alien land law.

Segregation of Aliens On Passenger Trains

(By Associated Press.)

SACRAMENTO, May 17.—Segregation of aliens on passenger trains in California is sought by the state branch of the United Commercial Travelers in convention here. The grand council was asked today to take the matter up with the state railroad commission. Speakers who urged segregation said they often were put to inconvenience and their health was imperiled by the presence of "objectionable aliens" in firstclass coaches.

Japanese Newspapers Oppose War Talk

HONOLULU, May 17.—Japanese newspapers published as a whole, though mostly opposing the attitude of California toward alien land legislation, take the position that California does not represent the sentiment of the nation and therefore war talk is unjustifiable.

Nevertheless reports received here that the garrison is to be increased has caused uneasiness among the Japanese laboring population of 75,000 plantation laborers.

War Talk Condemned By New York Meeting

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Irresponsible war talk was condemned by most of the speakers at a mass meeting today organized partly by business and partly educational interests. Speeches made by the majority of the educational representatives in contrast to other addresses were sober and conservative. They expressed confidence that the Americans would side with the Japanese if the Japanese steadfastly pointed out the unfairness of discrimination.

It was however declared that the time had arrived when the Japanese must be given equal treatment with other peoples and the speakers condemned aggressions of the whites in the

SOUTH GEORGIA OPPOSES A NEW FEDERAL COURT

Grand Juries of Southern District Memorialize Senators and Congressmen

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Senators and congressmen have been memorialized by the feedral grand juries of the southern district of Georgia not to create an additional federal circuit in the state. The memorial was submitted by Cook Clayton, of Macon, clerk of Judge Emory Speer's court. It contains resolutions adopted by the grand jury of the several divisions of the southern jurisdiction. The resolutions are highly laudatory in their references to Judge Emory Speer, whose popularity was unavoidably brought into a recent consideration of this question by the Georgia congressional delegation.

Coinsidering that much of the clamor for another circuit, if possible, but another judge at all costs, comes from the city of Savannah and adjacent territory, the declaration of the grand jury for the

NEW YORK, May 17.—John M. Anhut was convicted of attempted bribery tonight by the jury before which he has been ontrial in connection with an attempt to free Harry K. Thaw from Matteawan by alleged illegal means. The young lawyer will be sentenced Monday.

In summing up, assistant District Attorney DeFord rehearsed Thaw's unsuccessful attempts to get his freedom and declared in the Anhut case Thaw, in desperation, sought illegal means to gain an end he could not accomplish legally.

Arthur Palmer, in summing up for Anhut, asked the jury to disregard Thaw's testimony, in view of his mental condition. He said Anhut was a victim of circumstances brought about

CHRIST'S SOCIALISM MUST GUIDE CHURCH, SAYS MR. M'DONALD

Editor of Toronto Globe Inspires Audience in Auditorium Meeting With His Conception of the Saviour

CHURCH MUST GO AMONG PEOPLE, NOT AWAIT THEM

Marion M. Jackson, of Atlanta, and Rev. Charles Stelzle, of New York, Add to Power of Big Meeting

Six thousand people in the auditorium last night listened spell-bound to a real man's conception of Jesus Christ.

The speaker was J. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, Toronto, Canada.

His subject was "The Church and Its Relation to Social and Industrial Conditions."

He spoke of the church, and he spoke of social and industrial conditions.

But between and above them he spoke of Christ, and his words were an inspiration.

He spoke of Christ as a personality, as a "Socialist," as a man with an ideal for the redemption of humanity. Only incidentally did he speak of Christ as the Son of God.

The sum of his argument was that the social and industrial problems of the world can be solved in one way, and only one way, and that is by applying to them the Socialism of Christ.

ALL OLD PROBLEMS.

He said these problems are not new, but age old. That the social problem of living together and the industrial problem of working together are as old as the human race. That since the sin of Adam was cast into the complicated machinery of human society, society has been out of joint. That the arrogant query, "Am I my brother's keeper?" epitomizes the agony of all human history.

He said the problem once was solved; that Christ solved it by coming into the world with nothing but an idea, and implanting that idea in the mind of one disciple. He said the most revolutionary thing in human history happened when that idea came from the carpenter of Bethlehem, and the idea, he said, was this:

Greatness lies in service, and kingliness lies in love.

The Christ idea drew the multitudes like a magnet, and a few hours before the end, when Jesus asked the question, "Whom say ye that I am?" the fate of humanity hinged upon the answer.

Back it came from Peter, "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God."

Then Christ said, "Upon this rock will I build my church," and the disciples went forth, and, by the establishment of the Christ ideal on earth, made real the solution of humanity's vexing problems.

"In the light of that marvelous first achievement," said Mr. McDonald, "why have we the problem today?

CHURCH'S SOCIAL APOSTASY.

"It is because," and here he turned to the ministers of the Presbyterian sitting back of him, "of the church's social apostasy."

The simple idea of a human brotherhood implanted on earth by Christ was forgotten in the imperial splendor of the Christian church when it was recognized and given authority by the Roman emperor. The church became so concerned with its institutional system that it lost the primal Christ impulse of social service. And that, said Mr. McDonald, is the tragedy of Christian church history.

In the modern situation, he continued, history is repeating itself. In the darkest hour of a far gone age there came the clear vision, and from the vision sprang the reformation. Yet again the church became an institution, holding authority directly from an earthly prince clothed in regal splendor.

LOSING SOCIAL IMPULSE.

HOKE SMITH'S EFFORTS FOR FARMERS BEAR FRUIT

Charles J. Brand Appointed Market Commissioner, Place Fostered by Ga. Senator

By RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—With the appointment today by secretary of agriculture of Charles J. Brand, of Illinois, as chief of the division of markets, the federal government put into operation a great constructive work for the benefit of the farmers that was agitated and pressed to a successful culmination by Senator Hoke Smith.

It was due to the initiative of the Georgian and largely to his individual efforts that congress at its last session provided an appropriation of $50,000 with which to inaugurate a market division in the department of agriculture.

"I am highly gratified that the department of agriculture has taken preliminary steps to the general work of the rural organization service with a view to helping the farmers market their crops," said Senator Smith tonight. "I have introduced at this session of congress a bill to broaden the scope and make permanent the work of the market division, but after a conference with Secretary Houston I have decided not to press it to enactment at this session. We are anxious to profit by the experiences of the experiment, the success of which is already assured."

SENATOR SMITH'S SUGGESTION.

Senator Smith first became interested in the question of a market division through his observation of the practical difficulties and the waste and unnecessary losses that the farmers shoulder in selling their crops. His suggestion of a market division in the agriculture department struck a responsive chord with the farmers' associations of the country. The Farmers' union and its officers got in behind the movement, and were a great help to Senator Smith in getting the original appropriation for this work.

Secretary Houston gave the following statement to The Journal tonight: "Mr. Brand is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has been in the service of the department nearly ten years, coming from Chicago, where for several years he had charge of the section of plant economics of the field museum of natural history. He has been engaged in several important lines of work during his connection with the department and for the last year had charge of the farmers' cooperative cotton handling and marketing and paper plant investigation into the bureau of plant industry.

"There has been an insistent and growing demand that the government take steps to help in the establishment of economic systems of distribution and marketing of farm products. Congress at the last regular session, made an appropriation of $50,000 to begin the work. We recognized that the business of farming is an important part of the market business structure of the country.

EFFECT ON PRICES.

"Somewhat better prices for the producer and lower costs or better products for the consumer and manufacturer are the aim of the work, but it is a difficult one, but much good is expected. Saving in selling and handling expense and reduction of loss through waste and improper business organization will be important features of the department, activities."

While farm credits will be one of the ultimate objectives of the new service, the officials of the department say it will not be possible to do anything material in that line just now for lack of money. There is a commission abroad studying the problem. Senator Fletcher of Florida originated the idea of sending the commission. Seven members of the commission were appointed by the president, and an appropriation for their expenses was made by congress. The remainder and the larger number of the commissioners were appointed by the several states.

It is expected that the first installment of this commission's report will be ready in November, and then the government will be in position to take up the work in line with the best practice prevailing abroad.

Nearly all of the European countries have extensive rural credit systems so arranged that their control is kept in the hands of the communities they serve. These organizations make loans smaller than would be considered by a bank and at a reasonable rate of interest.

They have done a great deal, it is claimed, to foster agricultural development abroad. David Lubin, of California, who was responsible for the founding by King Humbert of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, has been much interested in the formation of this rural bank system, and took it up at the meeting of the southern commercial congress at Louisville last summer. This congress endorsed it and furthered the appointment of the commission that now is studying the subject.

PUBLIC TARIFF HEARINGS ARRANGED BY HOKE SMITH

He and His Colleagues Reiterated Today That Hearings Are Open to Press

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Announcement today by Chairman Simmons of the finance committee that sub-committees considering the Underwood tariff bill had determined to grant more time to protesting manufacturers than at first was intended, aroused considerable interest at the capitol.

Although the effort of senate Republicans to force public hearings was defeated, minority leaders see in the changed tactics of the Democrats a concession which they claim resulted in the denunciation of secret consideration of the bill. Another interesting development was the determination of Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, a member of the sub-committee considering the cotton and chemical schedules, to have the private hearings conducted by him reported by a senate stenographer. This is an innovation which the Republicans assert was brought about through the insistence of Senators LaFollette and Bristow, who urged that the private hearings be published for the benefit of senators not on the finance committee. It also has been agreed that the finance committee will send to manufacturers the list of questions on costs and production proposed by Senator LaFollette.

Still another liberalizing feature resulting from the debate from the Penrose-LaFollette public hearing amendment, was the reiteration by Senator Hoke Smith and some of his colleagues that members of the press could attend the private hearings. Today Senator Smith conferred with other members of the committee and found they were agreeable to admitting newspaper representatives.

None of the tariff bill sub-committees held hearings today except Senator Williams' committee which gave a brief hearing to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis and Assistant Attorney General Denison on the administration features of the bill.

"We will try to have the bill ready for the senate by June," said Senator Simmons today, "but it probably will be a little later than that owing to the fact that the sub-committees have agreed to give a little more time to the manufacturers who are protesting against the rates in the Underwood bill. They have decided to do this owing to the insistence and persistence of some of the interests affected by the bill. We already have lost a whole week because of the prolonged debate on the reference motions but the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible."

to his appeal to the public to raise a fund to bring William J. Burns here to work on the Phagan mystery.

Subscriptions are pouring into his office, he says, and while many of them are for small amounts they show that the people generally favor the venture. Many checks have been received from persons out of the city, he says, and the total fund is now approximately $2,000.

One of the subscriptions received by Mr. Felder Saturday afternoon was from the Greek vice consulate in Atlanta, which sent him a check for $25.

Mr. Felder is confident of the ability of Burns, one of whose men is now on the job, to solve the mystery within a short time.

RIOTING IS CONTINUOUS IN CINCINNATI STRIKE

Governor Refuses to Send Troops, and City Begins Receivership Proceedings

CINCINNATI, O., May 17.—The refusal of Governor Cox to send troops to this city to control the strike of the employes of the Cincinnati Traction company, after spectacular riots in the early part of the day had influenced Mayor Hunt to ask for militia, was followed late today by the filing of a petition by the city of Cincinnati for a receiver for the company. Judge Georgehgan of the common pleas court before whom the action was brought, heeding pleas of attorneys for the traction company for more time in which to answer, adjourned court until Monday when he is expected to pass judgment.

Rioting was almost continuous today from the time the company attempted to operate cars until they withdrew all cars from the streets at noon, while a riot that occurred at the Brighton barns this morning probably proved the most serious, one a little later at Fourth and Vine streets was the most spectacular. Small steel beams, barrels of plaster and bags of cement were hurled upon a passing car from the upper floors of a 24 story building. The car was wrecked but no person was seriously hurt.

Members of the crew and other company employes riding on the first car out of the Brighton barns were assaulted and beaten almost into insensibility. Three of them are at a hospital in precarious conditions. Various other small riots occurred in which the crews of the cars were beaten or forced to flee.

Mayor Hunt asked Governor Cox for troops after the riot at Fourth and Vine streets. Receiving a negative answer he appealed to adjutant General Wood. When he had received no reply from the adjutant general, he directed city Solicitor Bettman to file suit for a receiver.

Governor Cox in refusing to send the militia said he had information that the police had not exhausted their resources to prevent rioting.

Mayor Hunt told the governor rioting was prevalent in this city and that the police were powerless to cope with the situation in case anything like a regular schedule was attempted by the traction company.

Tonight the system is completely tied up and the strikers appear content.

No Advance Made in Negotiations Over Bill

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Japanese negotiations over the California land bill have not advanced during the last twenty-four hours, and there is no expectation at the state department or at the Japanese embassy that there will be any developments in the immediate future. Governor Johnson has not signed the bill, so far as official Washington is advised, and that appears to be the necessary condition precedent to the resumption of the negotiations.

The officials are doing everything they can to discourage sensational stories of strained relations between the two countries, and Secretary Bryan again today admonished newspaper callers against speculating as to the government's policies. Mr. Bryan had a long conference with President Wilson, but it was said the relations between the United States and Japan were not discussed, although it was presumed at first that the conference was for this purpose.

eastern division came as a surprise to the members of congress.

"The faithful, fearless and able service rendered your state and country has attracted attention far and wide," reads the resolution of the eastern division grand jury, which resolution of course was directed to Judge Speer. It continues:

"No judge has rendered nobler service, no one has striven harder to do his full duty without respect to persons. We have noted with pleasure the manner in which even-handed justice is administered by this court."

The grand jury of the western division was not less laudatory in its praise of Judge Speer, as instance the following extract:

"We remember with appreciation the reform of court and jury body following your accession to the office."

The grand jurors of the northeastern division declared that "we feel indeed fortunate in having a judge of so much ability and learning to preside over its courts, and view with alarm the rumor that an attempt will be made to divide the district."

by Thaw and Dr. Russell, and had acted honestly as Thaw's counsel.

In charging the jury, however, the court said Thaw's testimony should be given careful consideration. Thaw said on the stand that he sent Anhut $25,000 when the defendant told him he had talked with Dr. Russell, and that the physician had promised to see that Thaw was released. Dr. Russell said that Anhut tried to bribe him with a $20,000 offer.

Best Remedy for Catarrh Supreme in Emergencies

Mrs. Susie E. Hall.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a splendid medicine for catarrhal diseases, as it is a remedial agent for all the mucous membranes of the body. Read what it did for Mrs. Susie E. Hall:

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past six months for catarrh of the nose and throat, and the result is fine. My brother said it was the best and purest medicine on the market, not only for catarrh, but for consumption (for which he was using it) and a great many other diseases. After trying it I know it to be a great strength restorer and nerve tonic. It gives me a fine appetite.

I shall always keep a bottle in the house in case of emergencies such as grip, spasmodic croup, cholera infantum and other diseases which approach in a hurry. I recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and to any one who writes me, I will be only too glad to tell them the good I have obtained through its medicinal properties." Mrs. Susie E. Hall, 2546 W. 25th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Many ailments that are supposed to be acutely local are really general. Catarrh, for instance, is often only the local evidence of a general rundown condition. To restore health, to get strength, vigor, energy, to be able to resist disease, you should take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It is a wonderfully effective aid to digestion.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY, by druggists, grocers and dealers. Should our friends for any reason be unable to secure it in their locality, we will have it shipped to them from their nearest dealer, express prepaid (cash to accompany order) at the following prices:—

4 Large Bottles.....$ 4.30
6 Large Bottles.....$ 5.90
12 Large Bottles.....$11.00

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey should be in every home and we make the above announcement so that you may become familiar with a source of supply.

TALLULAH SUIT TO BE STARTED ON MAY 26

State's Claim to Lands Held by Power Company to Be Argued at Clayton

The rugged little mountain town of Clayton, in Rabun county, on next Monday week, May 26, will form the setting for the commencement of the most important lawsuit ever brought to trail in the history of Georgia courts—the famous suit of the state of Georgia vs. the Georgia Railway & Power company to recover certain lands in and about Tallulah Falls. The importance of the case lies in the fact that the lands claimed by the state are now occupied by the power company as sites for the principal parts of its water power plant at Tallulah, which is about ready to deliver electrical energy to practically all the principal cities, towns and industrial enterprises in north Georgia.

In fact, the land in dispute is the keystone in the $27,000,000 electric enterprise and along with the right and title thereto is involved the entire business structure of that institution, already erected and closely associated with the industrial destinies of over half a million people.

SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

The case will come to trial in the Rabun superior court, Judge J. B. Jones presiding, at a special term of the court. It was set for a special hearing so that it might be given a full and complete trial by jury without interference by any other case. Both sides will be represented by eminent counsel, Attorney General Thomas S. Felder and Watkins and Latimer appearing for the state, and King and Spalding, Hooper and Brandon, C. T. and L. C. Hopkins, and H. H. Dean for the power company.

Both parties to the suit have been preparing the case for court for nearly eighteen months, during which time a most exhaustive search through ancient and modern records has been prosecuted. The archives of the state have been literally sifted for the original plats and grants affecting the property in litigation. All the old field notes of surveyors dating back as far as 1820 and 1830 have been dug up, as well as different maps and plats of land lots. These, together with original surveys and grants made at the time the land was ceded by the Indians will be put in as evidence for one side or the other.

ALL POSSIBLE EVIDENCE SECURED

Not only will these ancient documents figure in the trial, but there will also be evidence secured at a comparatively recent date, during the administration of several governors of Georgia. Governor Hoke Smith, in order to verify the surveys among the state's records, organized a surveying party during his administration and sent it all over the territory involved in the suit. It was under the direction of Professors Strahan and Kock of the engineering department of the University of Georgia, men selected not only for their skill and experience but also for the reason that they had no business alliances that might bias them in their work. Governor Slaton also sent this part yto Tallulah for an additional survey, and their evidence will be introduced during the trial. Every conceivable evidence considered necessary has been gathered and every possible step taken by both sides, even to the taking of interrogatories from witnesses whose attendance at the trial is in doubt.

HISTORY OF THE SUIT

The present suit arose from Claims of the Georgia Conservation association, with Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet in active leadership, to the effect that certain of the lands occupied by the power company had their titles still vested in the state and were therefore illegally possessed by the company. These claims were presented to Governor Hoke Smith first and then to Governor Joseph M. Brown, and later to Governor John M. Slaton. After their investigations each decided there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the state's bringing suit to recover the land.

The leaders of the conservation association then appealed directly to the legislature for the enactment of a measure ordering the executive department of the state to bring the suit, and the legislature, at the last session, passed the resolution, whereupon the governor and attorney general and the lawyers for the power company began preparations for the trial which is to begin at Clayton next Monday week.

It is expected that at least 100 persons will go to Clayton for the trial, including lawyers, witnesses, representatives of the power company, the state and the conservation association and others interested.

Curl Shoots His Bride Then Kills Himself

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 17.—J. J. Curl, arrested by the federal authorities last Wednesday on the charge of receiving fraudulent checks through the mails, late today shot and probably fatally injured his bride of two days and then shot himself, dying an hour later. Curl failed to appear in court this morning for hearing, having been released from the county jail on $1,000 bonds.

The shooting brought to an end the romance of Miss Margaret Haffey, of Kansas City, now Mrs. Curl, and according to physicians probably also will end her life. Last Wednesday Miss Haffey arrived to wed Curl, but found him in jail. On Thursday, however, Curl obtained bail. That afternoon they were married. Miss Haffey declaring she had faith in Curl, despite the charge against him.

When Curl did not appear in court today, postal inspectors began a search. Locked in a room at a hotel, the two were found, both nearly dead. Curl died soon afterward. Officials believe that despondency over the charges against him caused Curl's act.

K. P.'S KEENLY INTERESTED IN GRAND LODGE CONTESTS

Leopold Is Opposed by Brannon for Grand Keeper of Records and Seal

The greatest interest has been aroused among the Knights of Pythias in Georgia in the race for grand keeper of records and seal at the grand lodge meeting which is to be held at Waycross on Wednesday and Tuesday of next week. The contestants are to be Mr. William H. Leopold, of Savannah, the present grand keeper of records and seal, and Mr. William H. Brannon, of Talbotton. Mr. Brannon is now a supreme representative and is chairman of the finance committee of the supreme lodge, having been appointed by Supreme Chancellor Thomas H. Carling to the latter position. He has recently announced that he intends to offer for the place of grand keeper of records and seal, and there has been quite a campaign waged in his behalf by some of his close friends.

Mr. Leopold has held the position for more than ten years. His record in the office is a splendid one, and the fact that Mr. Brannon is to oppose him is said to have come as a great surprise to him. The contest, while it will be an entirely friendly one, will nevertheless be spirited, and it will be the most important matter given attention the morning of the second day of the grand lodge convention. The local delegation of Knights has been much interested in this coming contest as both the candidates are very well known throughout the state.

There will also be a race for grand outer guard between some of the prominent members of the order, as this office is looked upon as a stepping stone to grand chancellor.

FRIDAY'S RAIN WAS WORTH MILLIONS TO GEORGIA

Assistant Agricultural Commissioner J. J. Brown Says It Was God-Send

Millions of dollars were saved to the cotton growers of Georgia by the rain which began late Friday afternoon and continued throughout Friday night, according to J. J. Brown, assistant commissioner of agriculture.

"This rain came right at the critical moment—the turning point in the crop situation," said the assistant commissioner. "The farmers were beginning to grow discouraged and less than a 40 per cent stand of cotton had been made; seed planted weeks ago had remained dormant or were rotting in the ground. This rain will cause a large portion of these seed to germinate and within a week or two good stands of cotton will be growing on thousands of acres which up to now have been almost barren of the plant.

"Even the cotton which had sprouted was seriously retarded by the long drouth. It will now most likely take on renewed life, and with no further handicap, develop rapidly. There will be a great deal of replanting and although it is very late in the season, with favorable conditions the replanted cotton should do well."

Weather Forecaster Von Herrmann reports that the rain was general throughout most of the states of the cotton belt being heavier in many sections of Georgia than it was around Atlanta. The rainfall here was .84 of an inch. The entire fall for the month of May, which is exceedingly low, has so far been .88 of an inch.

This Thief Used Wagon To Cart Away His Booty

A wholesale potted plant and flower thief has been at work in West End and he used a wagon to carry away the booty.

That much is certain, according to evidence secured by the detectives working on the case. A horse's footprints and marks made by heavy wagon wheels easily discernible where the wagon has been backed up to the porch for the purpose of taking on valuable flowers and ferns.

The largest loss was reported by Mrs. H. H. Fuller, of 259 Oak street. All of the vegetation on her front veranda was carted on some time Friday night or early yesterday morning. At the same time the thief paid a visit to several of Mrs. Fuller's neighbors and helped himself to the plants that appealed to him most.

The losers declare he secured enough to decorate a large conservatory.

THIS ANXIOUS WIFE SEEKS HER MISSING HUSBAND

Mrs. Alice Elliott is apprehensive concerning the whereabouts of her husband, O. W. Elliott, who left home Wednesday in the company of another man, with the expressed intention of attending to some affairs relative to the fruit vending business in which he is engaged. He failed to return home on Thursday, as he had announced, his wife grew uneasy, and fearing foul play, applied to the local police force for assistance in locating him.

The couple live at 275 Ashby street, and Mr. Elliott has never left home this way before, according to his wife's declaration.

LAWRENCEVILLE HOME IS GUTTED BY FIRE

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., May 17.—John M. Jackson, a prosperous young planter residing on his farm near here, lost his home and contents by fire Friday evening. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have caught from a defective stove flue.

As the fire was out of the city limits the Lawrenceville fire company was powerless to render any assistance. There was no insurance.

BAPTISTS WILL GIVE 17 MILLIONS FOR MISSIONS

Committee So Recommends. Georgia Baptists to Give Ninety Thousand

BY REV. ALEX W. BEALER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 17.—The committee on apportionment has recommended that the Baptists of the south shall contribute for missions during the coming year the sum of $17,078,250. Of this sum $646,500 is to be raised for foreign missions and $431,750 is to be raised for home missions.

Georgia Baptists will be asked to give $90,000 of this for foreign missions and $40,000 for home missions. The convention will have submitted to it the proposition to appoint an educational board with a secretary for propagating denominational education. A committee will be appointed to examine into the minutes of the report next year. The proposition is meeting with disfavor. It will hardly be carried out, as many of the brethren are opposed to the establishment of any other boards at this time.

The convention on motion of Dr. John E. White, of Atlanta, adopted a resolution to appoint a committee of seven to look into the methods of the convention and see if they are in keeping with the times in which we live. Dr. Burrows objected to the resolution because he thought it was not fair to the secretaries of the convention. It was beyond the grasp of his mental calibre, he said. Dr. White explained that the resolution only looked to making more effective the convention in its work. This resolution was only to make the machinery of the convention more in keeping with the age in which we live than that of the age in which our fathers lived. It looked only to the enlargement of the convention which was running under the rules that were in force forty years ago.

The morning session of the convention was spent in considering the interest of the Sunday school board at Nashville. The chief interest of the session was centered about the proposition to do away with the international Sunday school lessons.

For the last fifty years the evangelist denominations have been using a uniform Sunday school lesson. For a number of years there has been a growing sentiment that the Baptists should prepare an independent series of lessons for themselves.

A committee was appointed last year to consider the matter. Dr. E. G. Dargan, of Macon, Ga., read the report of the committee. Its findings were that the convention was not yet ready to take action. There is a strong possibility that the lessons may be so reconstructed as to permit the Baptists to accept certain portions of them to meet the needs which they all feel.

The committee is aware that other methods for solving the question have been suggested, in view of the progress already made and advances already in sight, and the present uncertainty as to how they may gain the great end all are seeking.

The committee urges that nothing radical be done, but that all shall seek the best way of teaching the Scriptures of the living God.

S. E. Tulle, of Kentucky, presented a memorial from the general association of Kentucky asking that the convention take steps to prepare its own Sunday school lessons. Dr. Tulle made a striking speech, in which he urged that the convention should see that lessons to be taught to children of Baptist parents by Baptist teachers should be selected and prepared by orthodox Baptists.

He was followed by Dr. K. R. Sampey, of the Baptist members of the international lesson committee. He gave a history of the movement and its present. It is his firm conviction that we should not alienate others who loved the Lord Jesus Christ, but that we should affiliate with them as far as possible. Some one asked why there was a lesson of Christmas and Easter. The reply that many Baptists demanded this, but the Baptists had arranged for a different lesson on these occasions.

Dr. J. R. Gambrell, of Texas, was called for by the convention. He said some of the best friends he ever had were Catholics.

"All of them were not Catholics now," he said. We ought to be Baptists but nice Baptists." He declared that the day of the tyranny of the uniform lesson was over.

"They would not go away at once but would gradually disappear like the wrinkles on the horns of a yearling."

He believed that no child ought to reach the age of seven years without knowing about God, Christ, Baptism and church membership.

The great lessons in the international series were moving in our direction and we ought to be patient. We ought to co-operate as far as possible with other Christian denominations.

Dr. H. W. Virgin, of Tennessee, declared that Baptists were not as strong as they used to be, their orthodoxy was being sapped and it was due largely to the international uniform series of lessons, he said.

Mr. George W. Truett, of Texas, asked the brethren not to be hasty. It was best for the Baptists to co-operate as far as possible with other religious bodies. In all the other denominations there were Baptists, but it had never occurred to them that they were. We should not drive them off but we should work with them just as far as possible and in this way many of them may be won and brought where they belong. We are brethren with all who love Jesus Christ.

Dr. I. J. Vanness, of the Sunday school board, said that the board would adopt the graded lessons for the intermediate department to the Baptist needs thus seeking to put doctrinal emphasis where it was needed. The report of the committee was adopted, leaving the question to be brought up again next year. The delegates and their visitors were given a ride over the city this afternoon in twenty street cars and eighty-five automobiles.

G. M. A. COMMENCEMENT AT COLLEGE PARK FRIDAY

Unusually attractive announcements and invitations are out for the 1913 commencement at the Georgia Military Academy in College Park next Friday evening. The exercises will be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium in College Park.

William Cole Jones, of the staff of The Journal, will deliver the commencement address. Thirty-eight seniors will receive their diplomas.

NO FREE CONCERT AT AUDITORIUM TODAY

There will be no free concert at the auditorium-armory this afternoon, owing to the fact that the building is occupied by the Presbyterian assembly. It is expected that the free concerts will be resumed next Sunday, and due notice will be given the public. Important concerts by the Atlanta Music Festival chorus are also being planned for the summer.

"SKY-PILOT TO THE LUMBER-JACKS"

FRANK E. HIGGINS.
Famous missionary, who is attending the U. S. A. assembly sessions.

One of the most picturesque figures at the assemblies of the Presbyterian church, also one of the most earnest and convincing, is Rev. F. E. Higgins, who is superintendent of a logging camp in Mississippi as well as a minister of the Gospel.

He is really the "sky pilot of the Lumber Jacks."

Mr. Higgins roughs it with the lumbermen, lives their out-of-door life, works with them shoulder to shoulder, and preaches to them the religion of the golden rule.

He is a stalwart preacher, a man who is used to snow shoes, to mackinaws, and to camp life, as well as to the pulpit; but he is also one of the most eloquent ministers of the Presbyterian church.

He has a heartiness and a force that he has brought with him from the lumber camps, and a picturesque manner that makes him interesting and distinctive, even among such an unusual gathering as that of the Presbyterian assemblies.

Other delegates are earnest and well known ministers. He is the "Lumber Jack's Sky Pilot."

Mr. Higgins will preach this morning at 11 o'clock at North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Five-Year-Old Tot Plants His Mother's Pearls For Beans

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Charles Frederick Von Glahn, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Von Glahn, of Berlin, Germany, has original ideas in floriculture. The young disciple of Luther Burbanks was caught by his nurse on the roof garden of a prominent Broadway hotel yesterday planting his mother's $8,000 string of pearls in one of the flower boxes.

Young Charles had seen workmen on the roof planting some large round seeds. He stole to his mother's room and obtained her string of forty pearls from her jewel box. He had several of them planted when the nurse found him. They were all recovered.

MINERS WILLING TO TESTIFY TO SENATE

Senator Kern Has Many Letters Alleging Peonage in West Virginia Mines

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—More than a thousand letters, petitions and telegrams have been placed on Senator Kern's office desk urging the passage of his resolution for inquiry into the condition in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal mine region of West Virginia.

Today the senator received a letter from a man in New York, who wrote that he had been induced to go into the West Virginia mines under false representations, compelled to pay his own expenses and to get away, was forced to steal his way out to avoid the mine guards. The man offered to testify.

City Clerk Kills Self By Dizzy Leap From Oakland City Hall

(By Associated Press.)

OAKLAND, Cal., May 17.—Harold E. Magill, city clerk committed suicide today by leaping 200 feet from the fourteenth story of the new city hall to the roof of a lower part of the same building.

Magill obtained a permit to go to the roof and while the permit was being prepared asked the clerk if he thought a man could drop 200 feet and be conscious on striking. He told one of his associates yesterday that he had not slept for three weeks and had walked miles in an attempt to tire himself out that he might gain some rest.

JAMES M. GRIFFIN IS GIVEN A PROMOTION

By RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—James M. Griffin, of Atlanta, has been given a promotion in the United States coast and geodedic survey, with which he has been connected for some time. Griffin has been appointed disbursing clerk of the service, with headquarters in Washington. His father, Colonel R. J. Griffin, of Atlanta, held this same office under the last Democrat administration, when Senator Hoke Smith was secretary of the interior.

Man Dies in Cell As Jury Votes to Hang For Murder

(By Associated Press.)

ALMA, Kan., May 17.—Paul Roberts, on trial for the murder of Anthony King, a restaurant keeper, was found dead in his cell today.

The case went to the jury last night, and the judge instructed that if a verdict was reached it should be delivered this morning. The jury room was directly over Roberts' cell, and it is thought Roberts heard the jury proclaim him guilty of first degree murde rand drank poison. The verdict was read in court today.

Commencement Exercises Complete

BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 17.—Prof. W. H. Maxwell, principal, has about completed arrangements for the commencement exercises of the Sixth district A. and M. school, May 25 to 27. The commencement sermon will be preached in the First Baptist church here on Sunday, May 25, by Rev. W. L. Hubbard, of Dade City, Ala. He will be heard by a large congregation, as he has a fine reputation as a preacher. Other exercises will take place Monday and Tuesday, the graduating exercises occurring Tuesday at 11 a. m., when a class of ten will be addressed by Hon. John N. Holder, formerly speaker of the Georgia house of representatives. The school is closing its best year's work and its future prospects are quite encouraging.

DEMOCRATS AGREE UPON PROGRAM FOR CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Officers of the Democratic National and Congressional committees today mapped out a program for active co-operation in the coming congressional and presidential campaigns and placed it in the hands of a joint committee composed of National Committeemen Palmer of Pennsylvania; Howell, of Georgia; Sells of Texas; Lynch, of Minnesota, and Cummings of Conecticut and two senators and three representatives acting for the congressional comittee. President Wilson has expressed himself as being in thorough sympathy with the program. The plans are designed to concentrate campaign strategy.

Invest in Diamonds Before the New Tariff Advances Prices.

Selections Sent Anywhere Prepaid. Attractive Monthly Payments Allowed.

Under the old tariff no duty was levied on uncut stones or "rough" diamonds. Only 10 per cent duty was paid on cut or polished diamonds.

A 20 per cent duty on polished diamonds and 10 per cent on rough has been recommended by Congress to the Senate and this schedule is almost certain to be adopted.

In addition to this, the big diamond syndicate has raised prices since January, $15.00 to $30.00 per carat.

This means an advance in the American market within the next few months which will range from $15.00 to $60.00 per carat according to size and grades.

BUY A DIAMOND ON MONTHLY PAYMENTS NOW AT THE OLD PRICES

You can get a correctly graded diamond from us by paying only one-fifth cash. The balance, plus 6 per cent simple interest, can be settled in ten equal monthly payments.

ORDER A SELECTION ON APPROVAL.

We are glad to send selection packages on approval to prove that our grade and prices are right. We pay all express charges on such shipments whether you purchase or not.

If not already known to us, you can refer to your bank or two or three merchants.

WRITE FOR DIAMOND BOOKLET.

You should read our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds." It quotes net prices on all grades and weights; explains fully all of our attractive selling plans. You can certainly buy diamonds more intelligently after reading this interesting booklet.

Call or write for this booklet and ask also for 160-page illustrated catalogue "J."

GOV. BROWN OFFERS REWARDS FOR LYNCHERS

Acts on His Own Initiative in Heard and Columbia County Cases

Governor Brown Saturday afternoon offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of every person who participated in the recent lynchings of negroes in Heard and Columbia counties. The governor acted on his own initiative in offering these rewards, the sheriffs of the two counties named not having requested him to do so.

On May 5, John Henry Moore was taken from jail at Appling, Columbia county, and lynched by a mob. He had been arrested near Martinez, in that county, for marauding, and it was charged that he tried to kill the sheriff when he was taken in custody.

The other lynching occurred on May 13 at Franklin, Heard county, and Sam Owensby was the victim. He had been jailed for the murder of Brooks Lane, a prominent white man.

These are said to be the only lynchings which have occurred in Georgia this year. Following each Governor Brown communicated with the sheriff of each county and inquired if he desired him to offer rewards for the lynchers. He also requested them to furnish him with official statements concerning the lynchings. Both of the sheriffs supplied detailed information, but neither recommended that rewards be offered.

It was then that the governor, acting on his own motion, offered the rewards. In the proclamations Governor Brown takes occasion to remark:

"The state's process for enforcing her laws is definite and complete. She has not abdicated the power to apply that process nor does she permit her power to be usurped by any person or combination of persons. She does not concede that anarchy in any form nor to any degree shall supplant her statutes."

GOV. BROWN APPOINTS BOARDS OF VISITORS

Governor Brown Saturday morning announced the appointment of new boards of visitors to the state university at Athens, school for the deaf, at Cave Spring, and Georgia academy for the blind, at Macon. They are as follows:

Board of visitors to the University of Georgia—Prof. A. W. Van Hoose, Rome; Prof. Otis Ashmore, Savannah; R. W. Hunt, Eatonton; Judge S. B. Brewton, Hinesville, and A. Homer Carmichael, Jackson.

Board of visitors to the School for the Deaf—John Awtry, Marietta; J. C. Bennett, Commerce; Ernest Camp, Monroe; Dr. J. S. Daniel, Danielsville; Dr. W. B. Tate, Cassville; Dr. E. H. Richardson, Cedartown; James B. Nevin, Atlanta; W. A. Wood, Dublin; R. O. Ross, Winder; John L. Herring, Tifton.

DR. STRICKLER TO MAKE HOME-COMING ADDRESS

Dr. G. B. Strickler, well known in Atlanta as formerly pastor for thirteen years of the Central Presbyterian church, will make a home-coming address before the Sunday school of his former church Sunday morning. Dr. Strickler, who has come to the city to attend the assemblies, is now professor of systematic theology in Union Theological seminary, Richmond, Va.

Dr. R. M. Russell, moderator of the U. P. assembly, will preach in Dr. Ogden's pulpit Sunday morning. Before the young women's Bible class in the Sunday school an address will be made by Rev. A. J. Phillips, general superintendent of the Sunday schools of the Southern Presbyterian church.

COMMISSION HAS POWER OVER GAS COMPANIES

Judge James K. Hines, special attorney to the state railroad commission, has rendered an opinion to the commission in which he holds that it has the authority to compel a gas company to enlarge its plant and extend its lines, provided the contemplated improvements are justified by reasonable conditions.

During the past few months a number of complaints have been filed with the commission from Georgia cities, notably Atlanta and Savannah, in which the complainants sought an order from the commission to compel the gas companies to extend their mains into streets hitherto unserved.

AGENT RECEIVES NOTE ON DAY MISSING MAN DIED

On Thursday morning A. M. Conway, of the Royal Casualty company, received a note from Florida, near Smyrna, signed F. A. Garrity, in which the writer stated that his mother had not heard from her son, John E. Garrity, for six years, stating further that she held a policy issued to him, No. 270,921.

That night J. E. Garrity, an engineer on the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, died in a local hospital.

Mr. Conway at once notified the family, as soon as he read the Friday's papers, of the man's death.

SISTER OF ATLANTIAN IS DEAD AT BUFFALO

Mrs. Mary C. Trowbridge, sister of Joseph E. Fenn, an official of the Western Union Telegraph company in Atlanta, died Saturday morning at her home in Buffalo, N. Y., according to special dispatches.

Mrs. Trowbridge was seventy-three years of age, and her death was not unexpected.

Besides Mr. Fenn, she is survived by a brother and a sister. The funeral services will be conducted in Buffalo at the residence, 924 Michigan street, and the interment will be at Talmadge, Ohio, on Monday.

MRS. MAISINA WILSON DIED SATURDAY MORNING

Mrs. Maisina A. Wilson died at the family residence, at 272 North Jackson, Saturday morning. She was sixty-seven years of age. She is survived by her husband, Captain W. T. D. Wilson; two sons, W. T. W. and A. C. W. Wilkelke, and three daughters, Mrs. J. T. Parham and Miss Nell Wilson.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the residence, with interment at West View. Rev. C. O. Jones will officiate.

An Editoral to Your and Our Friends---The Doctors

Atlanta has every right to be proud of the physicians who attend her health.

It is largely due to their watchfulness that Atlanta is as healthy a city as it is. It is directly due to their skill and knowledge and enterprise that Atlanta is now considered the medical center of the South, that patients travel from the borders of the South to consult with her specialists; that she has such splendid, well equipped hospitals and sanitariums.

But it is to the family physician to whom we would speak directly.

There are hundreds of you in Fulton county engaged in the conservation of the health of 200,000 or more people.

Your responsibility is very great.

And the responsibility that the filling of your prescriptions entails is great.

We speak as prescription druggists, who are keenly alive to all this. In proof whereof we might submit---that our Prescription Departments are in the hands of men of intelligence, experience, judgment and ability---that these men are in hearty sympathy with the policies that rule our stores. They know that between right and wrong there is no twilight, there is only one way to fill a prescription, and that is to make it exactly as the doctor has written it. Nothing "just as good" will do; it must be just what is asked for even to the minutest portion of a grain.

We do not mean that we have "cornered" honesty, that is impossible with all the fine drug stores in Atlanta. We domean the prescriptions left with us are sure to be right, and that prices will be as low as is consistent with the use of only pure, fresh drugs.

Bathing Caps

For a Woman Much of the Pleasure of Swimming Depends Upon Her Cap

Many a woman would enjoy a swim if that awful bugbear of "wet hair" would down.

We have made sure that these bathing caps will keep out all the water, let the wearer swim, splash, dive, do as she will.

They are of pure rubber, absolutely impervious to water, and more, they are smartly, prettily fashioned and may be had in the color to match your bathing suit.

Some of the novelties are.

Rubber fringed caps, fringe in self colors at 75c

Maroon caps, fringed in back, at 85c

Straw colored caps trimmed in light green at 75c

Light green caps, trimmed in red, at $1.00

And many other combinations.

Regulation diving caps that pull well down over the head, at 35c

A little Bottle of a Wonderful Perfume Free With Trentini Talcum Powder or Soap at 25c

Riquard of Paris brought out the bright star of all perfumes when he introduced the now well known Mary Garden.

Now he has added two other odors to vie with his Mary Garden—Trentini and Geraldine Farrar. If such a thing is possible, they will be even more popular in the summer than Mary Garden. Their odors are lighter, more delicate.

Monday, you may have free a 25 cent trial size of either of these extracts with every 25 cent box of Trentini's Talcum or Trentini Soap. Done merely to introduce you to an extract of highest quality, one that you will like and want.

ODORONO

Pronounced Odor-o-no

We heartily recommend it as a meritorious and effective preparation, making it no longer necessary for one to be subject to excessive perspiration. It is pleasant to use. It keeps the skin, even in the warmest weather, in a sweet, healthy condition.

Dress shields may be dispensed with when Odorono is used.

In odd pear shaped bottles.

Have You Ever Thought of Quality in Connection with Shoe Polish?

We have and do, just as we do with all merchandise that we offer the people of Atlanta.

We have found that the life of of the shoes is often traceable to the kind of polish used, and the frequency of its use. No question—shoes are benefitted by an oily polish of the right sort.

Here are some of this sort—we believe more than any store in Atlanta shows.

Adapted for cleaning and whitening white canvas, duck, Nu-Buck, Buckskin and cravenette shoes and belts.

Sea Foam does not cover the soiled spot, but it removes it at once, so that you cannot see where the shoe was soiled. No waiting for shoe to dry—does not whiten the sole. Does not stiffen canvas or leather. Does not mat the nap on Nu-Buck or Buckskin—specially priced for Monday at 9 and 21 cents.

Shoe brushes and daubers of all kinds. Small Brushes for cleaning shoes 5 and 10 cents each.

Personal Messages Deserve Fine Stationery

There is a certain sense of satisfaction to be derived from the use of fine stationery. It might be compared with that of good taste in dress. It denotes a certain self-respect, and more, it is in a delicate, but none the less certain manner, complimentary to the one you are writing to.

It is this kind of stationery that we have gathered here for your choosing—good taste stationery—nothing bizarre or flashy rather, neat; and still many novelties, but novelties that have come to stay—because they are a little more attractive and distinctive than the stationery generally shown.

Withal, prices are moderate—there are a few kinds that have taken their place in the list of correct stationery.

Best Berlin linen paper and envelopes, white with gold initial, in a neat shouldered brown box. Splendid value.

Paper and envelopes 50c

Correspondence cards and envelopes 50c. By mail 5c extra.

Initial correspondence cards and envelopes in exquisite tints of purple, blue, pink, brown and light green.

Each card is gold beveled by hand.

A new note paper and envelopes. The envelopes have the slashed flaps so greatly favored right now. To be had in white and colors.

With gold edges at 65c.

With plain edges 50c. By mail 5c extra.

A new departure in men's stationery—a box containing the long tablet that men like and envelopes of best linen paper. The envelopes are long and narrow.

The box 65c. By mail 5c extra.

The stationery "de luxe", a high novelty and a beautiful one. The initial is a hand stamped, steel engraved, gold leaf letter.

In many tints as delicate and dainty as water colors. The paper itself shows a new pressed surface that adds to the attractive way it is finished, surely it will appeal to the most fastidious woman.

All initials on azure, light green, pink or brown.

The box 75c. By mail 5c extra.

Vacation Pictures

"Yes, they all came out well because we used an Ansco Camera and Ansco films."

Have you seen the 1913 models of Ansco Camera?

Old time camera lovers are enthusiastic over them. They have features about them that no other camera can boast—they are patented. One of these features is a new finder that makes it certain that you will not cut off any part of an interesting picture, but this is only one of the many features that our camera specialist will show you. And this we insist upon—everyone that expects to own a camera this vacation time should for his own satisfaction see the new Anscos.

They are the last camera-word. They are priced from $2.00 to $85.00.

Buster Brown cameras for $2.00. They take clear, clean cut pictures. Ideal for beginners; for those who just want to "take pictures." Load in daylight. The best value on the market. A roll of six exposures costs 20 cents. Mailed on receipt of price, subject to return, (charges paid) if not satisfactory.

We develop your films free, regardless of where purchased.

Amateurs have learned that we do strictly high-class work at very moderate cost. That is the reason we have what is probably the largest developing, printing and enlarging laboratory in the South.

We guarantee to make all prints on prize winning Cyko paper.

We recommend for all cameras and kodaks that fast Ansco film, with true color values.

Sizes to fit any machine.

DECATUR, County Seat of DeKalb County, Is

Decatur

The town of Decatur and the county seat of DeKalb are attracting more attention than any section in Georgia outside of Atlanta.

The reasons for this are many. Atlanta is growing rapidly, and land is growing dear, and the question is, where can a man of moderate means live, and at the same time be conveniently located for his business, and raise his family where they will have the social life they desire; and above all, where his children may be educated.

In this respect Decatur is ideal. It is one of the oldest towns in North Georgia, and its ideal life and traditions are the best.

Its schools are famous. Agnes Scott College—founded by a Decatur citizen—now ranks among the first colleges in America. The Public School System provides for four high school grades, preparing boys and birls for the best colleges in the country. There are approximately 600 children in the public schools, and by Fall the new $25,000 school building will be completed. This will make three buildings, thereby providing the best facilities for educating the young of any town in the South twice its size.

In other respects Decatur has more than kept abreast of the times. To put it briefly, read this, and while you read, THINK!

Population, 3,600.

5 miles cherted streets.

$40,000 new street work now under way.

18 miles tile sidewalks.

11 miles water mains.

14 miles sewers.

2 street car lines.

1 railroad.

Electric lights.

Gas in the near future.

$100,000 hotel contemplated.

2 banks and a dozen or more stores.

And

Atlanta only 25 minutes away!

All of these go to make Decatur the ideal residence town.

Decatur also offers inducements to the investor. Conditions have made it logical. It is the county seat of one of the richest counties in the state. It is the center of a splendid system of paved roads. You can reach Atlanta by three automobile routes.

Atlanta itself is partly in DeKalb, and its best development is positively right toward Decatur.

That Decatur is being gradually filled with beautiful homes is manifest, but few realize that one of the most splendid approaches is being provided by the Druid Hills Company, right up to the corporate limits of Decatur, and that the town of Decatur is completing it to the courthouse.

Decatur and DeKalb county real estate is enhancing in value because of the rapid growth of Atlanta. It has the added advantage of being in the center of an interesting and important civic movement.

WHY HOMESEEKERS ARE GOING TO DECATUR

Conditions as Seen by a Non-Resident of That Popular Suburb—Points That Attract

By S. S. HOWLE.

Does Decatur as a town and as a residential suburb of Atlanta prove equal to all the good things that have been said in the advertising campaign of the board of trade of that place? So strong have been the claims made in these advertisements, during the past few weeks, that hundreds of Journal readers have been asking the above questions. The writer has been doing some personal investigation that is, he has been getting first-hand facts on Decatur. It is his opinion that there has been no exaggeration made in the copy that has been running in The Journal for the board of trade. If I may offer criticism it would be to say that the copy has not been strong enough and that there are many things about Decatur that have been left untold. There are really so many attractive features about the place that words fail to imply their meaning and one, to really appreciate the place, must do as I did, go see for themselves.

Only an Imaginary Line Separates Decatur From Atlanta.

Every town and community lays strong claim to "ideal location." It matters not what the altitude and climatic conditions are they all make this time worn claim. So I am not going to say that Decatur is an ideal residence section, but will prove it by bold facts.

In the first place Decatur is really a part of Atlanta, even if the citizens will not admit it. There is really a good reason why they will not claim themselves a part of the Gate City. It is this. They are proud of Decatur. They like Atlanta; her citizens; her commercial enterprises and the Atlanta spirit, but like the name of Decatur better than that of Atlanta. But I am digressing. After all there is only an imaginary line between Atlanta and Decatur, from a territorial standpoint. To be convinced of this fact board a trolley car on Edgewood avenue at Five Points, ride for twenty-five minutes and you will land in the very heart of Decatur. Unless you know exactly where the incorporate lines are you will not know when you are outside Atlanta and when in Decatur. I mean by this that there is a solid row of residences from the time you strike Inman Park until you are in Decatur.

Another way of convincing yourself of the closeness of Decatur to Atlanta is to go in an automobile from the center of Atlanta out Peachtree street, then into Ponce de Leon avenue out through Druid Hills. It is the same story here as by car line. Unless you know or some one points out the lines to you there will be no knowledge of passing out of the one into the other.

Closeness to Atlanta Makes Decatur Desirable.

The point that I wish to make by pointing out the above fact is this, Decatur, while not an acknowledged part of the city, is so close that it has every advantage of a city and still is void of the many disadvantages. Many of the citizens are found among Atlanta's best-known business men. They live in Decatur for its educational and social advantages and do business in Atlanta because of its commercial advantages.

Decatur is uniquely located from a geographical standpoint. It is the county seat of DeKalb county, but with this, the splendid court house there stands just six miles from that of Fulton county and the same distance from the state capitol building.

But with its nearness to the center of Atlanta, the town of Decatur needs no smoke ordinances. Why should they have such laws? There are no factories. It is a community of residences and pretty homes. A place of quietude and rest for the weary man who desires to get away from the busy affairs of the great commercial centers of Atlanta.

Vital Questions Answered.

Where shall I make my home? Where bring up the children? Where can I best educate my children? Each of these are vital questions to every father and mother. These very questions should be correctly answered before the permanent home is purchased.

Where can I find a community enjoying all of these advantages, yet subject to none of the disadvantages, of a large city? As I have already said, sooner or later these questions arise in the minds of men who desire to live in comfort; to bring up and educate their children to the best advantages and under healthful conditions; to enjoy the best of social conditions along with modern conveniences usually found in large cities, and at the same time live near the open country and in clean country air, while being close enough to a city to enable them to carry on their business or professional duties without inconvenience.

Can and does Decatur fill every one of these requirements? Here are the facts, answer for yourself. Decatur is only six miles from Atlanta. Reached by two splendid electric lines. Connected with Atlanta by a network of splendid highways and automobile drives. Located on an elevation higher by fifty feet than Atlanta. One modern $20,000 high school building completed a year ago, and another that will cost a like amount to be finished by September 1, and that great southern college, Agnes Scott, almost in the center of town, offer unexcelled advantages. Churches of every denomination. A citizenship of refined and cultured people. Paved and cherted streets. The citizens enjoy to the fullest extent the best of municipal improvements, such as an abundant supply of pure water, a modern and ample sewerage system, electric lights, tile sidewalks, etc. Beautiful trees, flowers and rose gardens, the gifts of Nature, add to the beautiful freshness and picturesqueness and the perfect environment.

Such are some of the advantages that are offered in Decatur. Is it your ideal location? Is it your ideal for a home?

Standard of Citizenship.

I was impressed with the splendid citizenship of Decatur. While it is the home of many wealthy people, my impression was that they do not measure the worth of a citizen there by the amount of money he has—not by the dollar unit—but by his character. Decatur is a community of splendid moral environment. Manhood counts there, and if a man measures up to their high moral standard, such person is cordially received and given the proper place in the social affairs of his community.

Why Decatur Is Well Known.

The citizens of Decatur have not been slow to realize the natural advantages of their town for a residence section. That outsiders might know of these, the board of trade was organized. This organization is composed of some 150 representative citizens who are interested solely in the work of making Decatur an ideal home or residence section. Unlike similar organizations in the majority of communities, it is not seeking to locate in its midst business enterprises or manufacturing plants. As an organization, it works constantly with a surprising amount of energy and progressive spirit for the extension of municipal improvements and the location of desirable "home builders." It is this co-operation that is building Decatur. It's as example of thrift and enterprise that might well be followed by other towns and even large cities.

Agnes Scott College.

Today Decatur is known all over the union as the seat of Agnes Scott college, an institution ranking among the very best colleges for young women in the United States.

This institution is splendidly equipped for the great work it has undertaken for the higher education of the women, both in the excellent dormitories, laboratories, library, and other buildings that have been erected upon its spacious campus, but especially in the highly trained men and women who compose its faculty. This institution draws its patronage not only from every state of the south, but from many northern and western states as well, and the presence of the college in Decatur has induced many of the most desirable families to make their homes in the town.

Educational Advantages.

To the family in which there are children the importance of living where there are good and ample school facilities cannot be overestimated; and in this particular Decatur is ahead of almost any community that can be mentioned. The people of Decatur have always laid great emphasis upon the importance of education, and, even in the early history of the town, it was famous for its schools.

Donald Fraser School.

The Donald Fraser high school, for boys, plays an important part in the educational facilities of Decatur, preparing, as it does, students for the best colleges and universities of the country, and supplementing in a most admirable manner the public school system of Decatur.

Public Schools.

More than three hundred white boys and girls attend the public school, where they are taught by a faculty of nine or ten in a modern school building, recently erected from the proceeds of a bond issue for that purpose.

Kindergarten.

The Woman's club of Decatur supports in connection with the public schools a free kindergarten, which is highly appreciated by the people of the town.

In addition to these school facilities, consisting of a free kindergarten, a modern public school system, the Donald Fraser high school for boys, and Agnes Scott college for girls, the boys and girls of Decatur enjoy the advantages offered by the many educational institutions of Atlanta, such as the Georgia School of Technology, and the various professional and business colleges of this city. These institutions, on account of Decatur's excellent street car service, are as accessible to the people of Decatur as they are to many of the resident sections of Atlanta itself; so it can be fairly claimed that the residents of Decatur enjoy the advantages not only of its own educational institutions, but of the educational advantages of the great city of Atlanta, with its many schools, colleges, lecture courses, musical associations, and other refining and uplifting influences characterizing any modern city.

A Review of Real Estate Conditions.

Decatur real estate offers some remarkable opportunities. While the development in and surrounding the town has been phenomenal it has not brought about "boom" prices. The growth might be termed steady but rapid. Property valuations have increased considerable over that of two or three years ago, but considering the location and advantages of the town, the prices asked for lots and homes there are perhaps lower than that of any other section within a radius of ten miles around Atlanta.

It seems that there are unusual opportunities for home buyers as well as for the investment seeker. Perhaps one reason for the lowness in prices is the fact that the entire surroundings were not controlled by one large estate. Those who owned the lands were willing to sell for moderate prices, realizing that with each sale made their other holdings would increase in value.

The growth and development of Decatur has attracted the best of Atlanta's real estate men, as will be observed from the advertisers on these pages. The list includes E. P. Ansley, Foster & Robson, J. M. Worsham, manager of the Decatur department of W. E. Treadwell & Co.; L. P. Bottenfield, Chalton Barrett and E. Rivers Realty company.

Stone Mountain Car Line Opens Up Valuable Territory.

One of the latest developments along the route of the Stone Mountain car line is Altoloma, situated about two miles beyond Decatur on the Georgia railroad. The new car line is expected to be operating cars by September 1, and Altoloma has a double frontage on the new line. This entire property contains about 155 acres, and is being subdivided into one-quarter acre to five acre tracts, and is being promoted by W. P. Cole, of 1408 Candler building, who has made subdivisions a specialty for the past ten years. Unusually attractive terms have been arranged for the accommodation of purchasers, and the property's transportation facilities, together with its large lots and attractive terms should meet with the ready approval of the investing public.

Electric Lights and Power.

In the development of Decatur as a residential and commercial center, no influence is more potent than that of the electric light and power company now serving the territory with these vital elements of growth and progress. The Decatur Electric Light, Power and Water company is an adjunct of the Georgia Railway and Power company, of Atlanta, and the same high character of service and the same reasonableness of rates as those prevailing in the Capital City are to be found in Decatur.

11 EDGEWOOD AVENUE

DECATUR

Prices of lots in DECATUR will average from 25 per cent. to 60 per cent. less than they will in equally as desirable communities in Atlanta.

DECATUR has all the conveniences of a city of 10,000 people. If its present percentage of growth continues, it will have more than 10,000 people in 5 years.

Here are a few prices that are under the present intrinsic value of properties.

$9,000—Lot 100x250, 10-room residence. This is possibly the most STRATEGIC corner in DECATUR. Has a splendid view and is at the intersection of three broad cherted streets. Loan $3,000. Terms.

$8,600—Lot 95x250, SIXTEEN (16) rooms, THREE (3) baths, THREE (3) toilets. You can rent out these 16 rooms in 16 minutes if you want to. The house alone could not be duplicated for $9,000. Will take renting property in part exchange. Loan $4,000.

$5,000—Buys 6-room house on cherted street with 1 1-2 acres. Chicken runs, etc.

$3,000—Vacant lot on Candler street, 90x300. Can't buy adjoining lot for less than $3,500.

$1,500—Vacant lot on Clermont avenue, 60x220. Nothing in three blocks under $30.00 per foot. May take less.

Winona Park

When you buy a lot in Winona Park, you may not know who your next neighbor will be, but you will know WHAT he will be. These lots are in 1½ blocks of the car line, in the most exclusive and desirable section of Decatur. An architect is working out a beautiful building scheme for the park, and two more large new homes will be built at once.

3,000 Presbyterians

Visited Decatur Saturday afternoon to see Agnes Scott College. They were pleased with this Decatur institution. In addition to the college, DECATUR now requires two buildings for its Public School System, and a new $25,000.00 building will be ready by Fall. In 1913-14 there will probably be 1,000 pupils in DECATUR schools. Not a bad showing for a town of 3,600 people!

MAYOR REITERATES HIS CHARGES ARE TRUE ONES

Explains Veto of Cummings Report—Grand Jury Welcome to Evidence

Mayor Woodward on yesterday made public the text of a message he has prepared to send to the city council, in which he throws further light on his action in vetoing the report of the council committee which exonerated Chief Cummings from charges made against him.

Mayor Woodward reiterates that his accusations are true. In one message the mayor says:

"Because one man or department has gone along and conducted its business contrary to the city charter, does not justify the other in doing he same thoing. It would be no justification for a band of burglars to burglarize a bank because another band had burglarized the same bank the week before."

The mayor then reviewed his charges. He says the evidence can be had by the grand jury if it wants it. His message follows:

TEXT OF MESSAGE.

Atlanta, Ga., May 17, 1913.

To the General Council, City of Atlanta:

Gentlemen: I have declined to put my seal of approval upon the actions of the committee appointed to investigate charges or statements that I had made in a veto message to your honorable body, because of the fact that I am more thoroughly convinced, since attending some of the meetings of that committee and hearing the evidence given, that I was entirely correct in every statement made therein.

All the accusations made by me were absolutely correct and are borne out by the records of the city, and if the investigation had been conducted upon lines with a desire to ferret out and get good results, the city would have been the beneficiary. But, the report of the committee shows that it was the intention of that body to excuse and palliate.

There can be no excuse for violating a city law. Because one man, or one department, has gone along and conducted its business contrary to the city charter, does not justify another in doing the same thing. It would be no justification for a band of burglars to burglarize a bank because another band had burglarized the same bank the week before. While this may be a strong comparison, I have no desire to appear offensive or harsh.

BIDS ON ENGINE.

As to the matter of bidding on a fire engine last October, I stated that the city could have gotten an equally better engine for less money. There was a letterp resented at that meeting of the board of fire masters offering 10 per cent discount on one of the engines and the only excuse that was offered was that no member of the board read the letter making the 10 per cent discount. That being true, it is evident that the board of fire masters of last year were not as thorough in their work as they should have been. Your committee, in an apologetic way, admits the truth of the accusation of this part of my message.

As to the question of buying fire hose for the past twelve years, I showed plainly by the records of the city, that for the first six years of Mayor Joyner's administration, that he received a rebate of 10c per foot on every foot of 2 1-2 inch standard hose that he bought. This was a special rebate made to him, but he turned it into the city treasury. During the past six years, under Chief Cummings' administration, with the same quality of hose being bought, there has not been a rebate of any amount. The statement of the committee that during the last six years there was hose bought from them there was during the Joyner administration, does not prove that the city should not have received the same discount. The committee had declined to. It could have satisfied itself by the records that Chief Joyner bought as much hose during the last two years of his administration as in 1905 and 1906 as he did the four years previous, and all of that hose carried a five-year guarantee, which the fire department was in good shape and should have been relieved of buying considerable hose. On the other hand, if he had not been thus mindful he could have gone along and purchased the usual amount of hose and have forced the earlier years of the Cummings' administration to buy a new outfit. I cannot be said that the brand of hose that Chief Joyner bought was not as good as the hose that has been bought since, according the reports of the fire department, as there is nearly 6,000 feet of the hose still inservice that was bought during the Joyner term.

ABOUT THE STATIONS.

The statement in the committee's report that there had been two new fire stations installed during the Chief Cummings' administration is offset by the fact that there were two new stations installed during the last two years of the Joyner administration. The committee states that during the past six years there has been a superior quality of hose bought. If that be true, why should it not carry a better guarantee, when, in fact, the guarantee has been decreased from five years to three years? This evidently does not verify the statement that the hose was superior to that bought previous to that time.

Another plain and evident fact was presented to the committee, and is of record yet, that the city should have saved $240 on one transaction that was made the first part of this year, which has not been paid yet. Under the old order of things, the chief had purchased 2,000 feet of Eureka hose at $1 per foot. When the matter came to my attention I requested Mr. West to get bids on that class of hose. He did so, and the bid was 10c per foot less, with a 2 per cent discount if paid within ten days. This was a saving to the city of Atlanta upon the same class of hose of $240. This one transaction alone should be plain evidence that the city should have been receiving these kind of prices for the past six years, if the system of competitive bids had been carried out. Such transactions as this denote a woeful lack of business methods.

Another very grave question that came before the investigating committee was the fact that Mr. R. E. Davidson gave evidence on the witness stand that he had made Chief Cummings a present of $400. There was no one to deny this but Chief Cummings himself. I am candid to state that I absolutely believe every word that Mr. Davidson uttered in this regard. The only question in my mind is as to whether it was a present or a direct trade, as the records of the city and bank deposits denote the latter. The committee, if it had desired, could have investigated the records in the comptroller's office. It would have found that on April 22, 1912, after the No. 12 engine had been bought the past October, that a voucher was drawn for $9,000, and that a warrant was drawn also on the same date to pay that voucher; that the $9,000 warrant was deposited in the bank on April 24, 1912, and that Mr. Davidson drew his personal check for $400 on April 25, 1912. This is borne out by the check that was presented in evidence and b ythe stub book from which the check was drawn and both appearing on the 25th day of April, 1912. It will be seen by this that there were only three days in which the financial part of the transaction was consummated. This certainly bears the earmarks of a transaction that was to be settled up as soon as the engine was paid for.

TWO WOODWARD

In conclusion, it further appears, from reading the report of the committee, that they are inclined to discredit nearly all of the evidence that was given at their hearings that tended to cast reflection upon the manner in which the business of the city had been carried on in the fire department, both by the board of fire masters and the chief of that department, when in fact, absolute perjury can be proven on one witness, if not more, that appeared on that side of the case. All of the statements that are made in this communication can be verified by evidence and records, and if it should be the desire of the grand jury to handle this matter, the same shall be furnished them.

I desire to emphatically state that there is not one word of this whole transaction intended to offend any one, but I consider it my duty in the transaction of the business of my office to let the people know how their business is being carried on, and I further regard any man that would allow his personal feelings to enter into his public work, an unsafe man to serve the public.

Respectfully,

J. G. WOODWARD, Mayor.

FRENCH DEPUTY DISLIKES UNDERWOOD TARIFF BILL

Gerald Expresses Objections to Administrative Clauses, His Reasons

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 17.—The Underwood tariff bill, as far as it relates to French industry, was energetically condemned today at a meeting of the National Association of Industry and Commerce.

Deputy Georges Gerald expressed his objection to the bill's administrative clauses, which instead of relieving the great hindrances which he declared exist in trading in the United States, increased them arbitrarily.

"When Mr. Underwood and his friends say they are only applicable to professional defrauders," said Gerald, "this affirmation is not sufficient for French exporters. No already know too much about the administration of the American tariff.

"The world has seen how the United States by its Panama canal act has violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and how the state of California has violated the United States treaty with Japan," said Deputy Gerald. "The projected tariff, which seems intended to subsidize American ship and American shipping, violates twenty treaties, yet I still hope that France and the United States will be able to arrange a practical agreement."

M. Lebon, former commerce commissioner, regretted that "the United States, although professing the desire to live on good terms with all the world, does not give any practical proofs of this to France."

Former Foreign Minister Hanotaux and former Commerce Minister Delombre were at the meeting.

THE GENEALOGIST

By Mrs. Minnie E. Hogan

(The Origin of the Presbyterian Church.)

The people of Georgia, and especially of Atlanta, can never fully realize the great blessing that has been conferred upon them in the assembly of this great Presbyterian gathering of Christian men and women. The influence of this association will be felt for many years to come. How well I recall the fiftieth anniversary of the Southern Presbyterian church, celebrated in the auditorium, and the day that great throng of ten thousand people gathered to praise God in prayer and song. It was one of the most impressive gathering ever held in Atlanta. There are many I recall who have since made their last journey, to receive "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Now we have this great Presbyterial convention, the largest that has ever been held in the whole world, a union of strength. You people of Atlanta and Georgia have received a blessing indeed. Among this noble throng there is none other more beloved and appreciated by his southern and national friends than Rev. Richard Clark Reed, D. D., LL. D.

"The Rev. Dr. Reed was born at Harrison, Tenn., January 1, 1851. He graduated at King college, Bristol, Tenn. (A. B., 1873), and at Union Theological Seminary, Hampton-Sidney, Va., 1876. He became pastor at Charlotte Court House, Va., 1877; Franklin, Tenn., 1885; of the Second Presbyterian church, Charlotte, N. C., 1892. Since 1898 he has been professor of church history in the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Columbia, S. C. In theology he is conservative, loyal to the Calvinistic system as contained in the Westminster standard.' " Dr. Reed missed being elected moderator of the southern assembly by only nineteen votes, and his friends feel he would have possibly tied with Dr. Stone had they all been present to cast their votes for him.

In Dr. Reed's "History of the Presbyterian Church of the World," he has given the clearest and most instructive view of the origin of this great denomination, showing his conservative loyalty to John Calvin's teachings. He begins with the year 1536 in Geneva, Switzerland, when "William Farel, a Frenchman of ardent and resolute character, was the first to preach Reform doctrines in Geneva." He writes: "The Romanish priest on hearing the presence of Farel, took immediate steps to rid the city of his pestiferous influence. Hoopering him with the title of Devil, they very soon had their emissaries handling him with violence and pelting him with spittle. The brave preacher escaped, to return again in two years, and defend the truth of God against all comers. He held his ground this time and was permitted to see the citizens, assemble in general council, in the cathedral of St. Peter, lift up their hands and sweep that their wished to live in accordance with the holy Scriptural law." This oath was taken on the 24th of May, 1536, and maks the first decisive victory for the reform faith."

"Later on, in that same year of 1536, Calvin essayed to pass through Geneva. He was on his way to seek refuge for a second time in the city of Basel. He had planned a quite life of literary labor, a life congenial to his taste, and suited to his reserved and shrinking disposition. Farel heard of his being in the city. He believed that Calvon was just the man to aid him in his arduous and perilous task of making the reformation thorough and permanent in Geneva. He hastened to see him and lay the matter before him. Calvin was not at all inclined to such a sphere of labor. Farel, growing more and more earnest, finally invoked a curse on Calvin if he persisted in his refusal. Calvin's conscience was aroused and took sides with Farel, and then, as ever he put inclination aside, and yielded to that former monitor.'

"From the first he and Farel set before themselves, as the aim of their efforts, practical righteousness. They sought reformation of doctrine in order to reformation of life. Taking the people at their word, they began, not only to teach them that law of God, by which they had sworn to order their lives, but also to constrain them to keep it. Calvin framed and forced a confession of faith. The Calvin council demanded that all the citizens should swear allegiance to it. The magistrates were first required to take the oath. Those who refused were dismissed. Each magistrate was required to administer the oath to all the people in his district. Those who resisted were excommunicated and banished. The effort to carry this severe measure into effect was a practical failure. Opposition to the zealous reformers grew. The civil council changed sides, and favored those who advocated lax doctrine. It enjoined the preachers to administer the communion to all, irrespective of character. This the preachers positively refused to do. The result was their banishment when they had labored together only two years."

"After a short while the people repented. They preferred Calvin and his rigid discipline to the wild disorder that sprang up and developed in his absence. Of the four magistrates who were at the head of affairs when the two reformers were *banished, one was killed while at*tempting to escape arrest, one was beheaded, the other two fled and were sentenced to perpetual exile. The distracted city sent a deputation to invite Calvin to return. It required much solicitation to overcome his reluctance. At length he consented, but only on condition that the people should submit to the exercise of discipline. He entered the city again in September, 1541, amidst general rejoicing. At once he took steps in connection with the civil authorities for the revision of the ecclesiastical system. A number of ordinances were drawn up; and on the 20th of November, 1541, 2,000 citizens assembled in general council and approved these ordinances by a majority vote. This marked another decisive victory for the reformation and that day has been called the birthday of modern Presbyterianism."

We have another well known and much appreciated Tennesseean here, Mr. William T. Ellis, of Swathmore, Tenn., editor afield of The Continent. From the pen of Mr. Ellis we have a study of the founder of Presbyterianism in America, from which I am giving some paragrpahs that are very interesting. Francis Makemie (1658-1708), was born in the county Donegal, near Rathmelton, Ireland, and after missionary work in the Barbadoes, he settled in Somerset county, Md., afterwards he removed to Virginia, where he entered into trade. The following is what Mr. Ellis has to say of Him:

The one great personality of "the peninsula" is the founder of American Presbyterianism, Rev. Francis Makemie, of Ramelton, in the north of Ireland. Other notable names appear in the annals of the eastern shore from the day that Captain John Smith touched there in 1608. George Fox blazed like a beacon through the colony in 1673, for the Quaker folk found tolerance here, on Lord Baltimore's grant, ere William Penn's plantation was established to the north. But the one name which abides in brightest luster, so that even the unlettered natives know it, is that of Francis Makemie, the young Irish Presbyterian minister who landed on the peninsula in 1683, and straightway set up at Rehoboth and the first thoroughly organized Presbyterian church, later extending his labors over a wide area, and in 1706 founding the first Presbytery of America at Philadelphia, of which he was chosen the First moderator. What history has been written by Presbyterians between the meeting of the little assembly of 1706 and the three great gatherings in Atlanta in 1913?

Certain distinctive Presbyterian qualities gave Makemie his pre-eminence. He was not the first Presbyterian clergyman to land on these American shores. Others had been before him; and othe congregations, of a semi-independent or semi-Episcopalian character, had been formed. But it remained for this young Irishman, who had been ordained by the light of the fires of persecution and at a time when Presbyterians in Ireland and Scotland were being harried and hunted like wild beasts, to erect a church after the strict manner of Scotland; and then to gather, Presbyterian fashion, all the scattered members and groups of the same order into one body, and subject to the law of the Presbyterian church. The old Presbyterian passion for civil adn religious liberty flamed brightly in young Makemie's breast, and he stoutly contended, by *tongue and pen, for the prin*ciples which have since become peculiarly American, as they then were Presbyterian.

After a woman makes up her mind she does something else.

THIEVES ROB TOWNS AND SELL GOODS TO FENCES

Three Kansas and One Missouri Town Robbed by Experts—One Under Arrest

PARSONS, Kas., May 17.—Thieves have robbed stores in a half dozen Oklahoma towns of thousands of dollars worth of goods and disposed of their loot to "fences" in Parsons, Wichita, Kansas, and Joplin, Mo., in the last six weeks, according to the Parsons police.

The finding of a great quantity of the stolen Oklahoma goods in the second hand store of Joseph Mermeistein here yesterday led to his arrest and arraingement on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

A negro arrested at Claremore, Okla., was said to have confessed selling the goods to Mermeistein and to have given the names of several of his confederates.

J. H. Aimer, secretary of the Merchants Association of Vinita, Okla., and S. R. Briscoe, manager of a store recently robbed at Welch, Okla., identified apart of the Mermeistein goods as stolen from Vinita and Welch.

Hancock, George Harrington, Lucien L. Harris, Jr., W. S. Lounsbury, W .V. McMillen, Samuel Meyer, Jr., G. H. Morrow, Thomas H. Pitts, W. M. Stephenson, H. F. Scott, J. R. Smith, C. C. Thomas, M. L. Thrower, Ed L. Wright, Herbert L. Wiggs, W. S. Witham, A. J. West, W. Woods White, C. E. Winn, Sam H. Yanmey, Jr.

There will lalso be a dozen or more ladies in the party, wives and daughters of the members of the organization.

The present trip is to renew the friendships made thirty-four years ago when the Old Guard went on its historic mission of peace to the north. This peace mission was enthusiastically endorsed by military and citizens in every part of the union. The Old Guard will be entertained this year by many of the same organizations which welcomed them in 1879. Members will assemble at the Piedmont hotel at 9:30 o'clock. The whole battalion will march to the station.

The first stop to be made will be at Washington. They will be met at the train by distinguished Washington military organizations, headed by the famous marine band. The survivors of the Washington Light infantry will form the guard of honor. President and Mrs. Wilson will receive them at the White House, and Mrs. Wilson will be presented with a unique bouquet of eGorgia flowers, picked from the yard of her old home at Rome, Ga.

RECEPTION FOR VISITING VETERANS MONDAY NIGHT

Atlanta Camp 159, U. C. V., Will Entertain at State Capitol

Northern and southern veterans of the civil war who are in Atlanta to attend the four big Presbyterian assemblies have accepted the invitation of Atlanta camp, 159, U. C. V., to meet with it Monday evening in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol.

In addition to a number of informal speeches a musical program will be rendered. Mrs. Albert Spalding will lead the veterans in singing old-time songs. Members of the other Atlanta camps will also participate in the meeting.

An ostrich can eat tacks, but it can't lay a carpet.

There's many a hitch, likewise, in the business of a teamster.

Even if a man doesn't hesitate he may be lost anyway.

PROBATION BILL SLATED FOR THE LEGISLATURE

Is Measure Giving Criminal Court Judges Power to Suspend Sentence

The bill giving all criminal court judges in Georgia legal authority to suspend sentence, and giving counties the right where they deem it wise to appoint purobation officers, which lacked only 13 votes of becoming a law last year, will be re-introduced this June in the legislature.

The measure has the sanction of the prison association of Georgia, and the changes which it provides for have been indorsed by practically all the superior court judges in the state. The object of the bill is, of course, to eliminated initial injustice in Georgia's penal system by investigating the case of the individual offender at the time he comes up for trial.

It is contended that no matter how upright the judges and officials may be, a crtain proportion of injustice is bound to creep in due to the system under which people accused of a crime, or misdemeanor, particularly minor offenders, are hurried through the courts to the chaingang.

The section of the bill wich relates to the appointment of probation officers has reference to the probation of adults, and will by no way affect the laws already in force with relation to the handling of delinquent and wayward children.

The necessary safeguards are contained in the measure. For instance, no person convicted of a crime, the maximum penalty of which is more than ten years' imprisonment, shall have the right to benefit by the act. Under this law, it shall be the duties of the county probation officer to investigate the case of any person about to be brought before the court, to ascertain the history and previous conduct of the person arrested, and such other facts as my ashon whether he or she may be properly and safely released on probation under the provision of this act.

The measure has been given the careful consideration of judges, solicitors and criminal court lawyers throughout this state and they are practically unanimous in commending it.

AGED FARMER HANGS HIMSELF IN HIS BARN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LITHONIA, Ga., May 17.—T. L. Poole, an aged farmer living near here, was found dead by members of his family about 8 o'clock tonight, hanging, with a rope around his neck, to a beam in his own barn. He is said to have committed suicide, ill health being given as the cause.

SEC'Y OF STATE BRYAN TO SPEAK HERE JUNE 2

Member of Cabinet Will Start Tech's Great Quarter-Centennial Commencement

William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, will visit Atlanta on June 2 and will speak in the first program of Tech's great quarter centennial commencement celebration.

Announcement of this was made last night.

It was stated that the whole of commencement week will be one of the biggest that Tech ever has known, and that in college affairs it will wake Atlanta to the bigness of one institution that is here. Some 200 alumni already have signified their intention of returning to attend the celebration during commencement week, and it is anticipated that numbers of others will make their plans to be here.

Mr. Bryan's speech Monday night, June 2, will be the first word in the great week.

Mr. Bryan will come directly from Washington, and will go from Atlanta next day to Auburn, Ala., being on the program of Alabama Tech also for a commencement speech.

Commissioner of Education Claxton will be another of the speakers on Tech's commencement week program.

WILL REVISIT HOME FOR FIRST TIME IN 26 YEARS

J. Fred Zimmer, one of Atlanta's best known and best liked barbers, leaves Atlanta Tuesday for New York. He will remain in the metropolis until May 29, when he sails direct to Hamline, on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. Mr. Zimmer will revisit the town of his birth, Barre, which place he has not seen since he left there for America in June, 1887.

Mr. Kimmer stands high in Masonic circles in Atlanta, and has for nearly fourteen years been proprietor of the barber shop on the top floor of the Grant building. About two years ago, he created considerable favorable comment by placing in his shop a sign reading, "The barbers in the shop are well paid, and do not accept tips." His shop is said to have been one of the first in the United States to take this stand to do away with the tip evil. He is anticipating with much pleasure his return visit to his kinspeople and the town of his birth for the first time in twenty-six years.

MADAM PEVSNER LECTURES TWICE THIS SUNDAY

The Jewish Educational Alliance will celebrate Peace day this Sunday afternoon with an entertaining program which will begin at 4 o'clock, the principal speaker to be Madam Bella Pevsner, of Palestine, who during the past week has delivered three lectures in different parts of the city.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Madam Pevsner will again deliver a lecture to the Jewish Educational Alliance, choosing for her subject, "Can the Problems of Nations Be Solved by Economic Freedom?" This topic is one of special interest, and an open discussion and debate will follow her remarks.

DATE FOR SEED CRUSHERS' CONVENTION IS FIXED

The annual convention of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia will meet at the Atlanta Beach hotel, Atlantic Beach, Fla., June 2 and 3. Secretary F. D. McCarley, of Atlanta, has sent out this announcement to the members.

Plans are already under way to have the Central of Georgia Railway company run a special train direct from Atlanta to Atlantic Beach, arriving there at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, May 31, arriving at the Atlantic Beach hotel in time for breakfast Sunday morning.

SECRETARY OF STATE TO TESITFY IN LAND CASE

Secretary of State Philip Cook leaves Saturday afternoon for St. Charles, La., where next week he will appear as a witness in the federal court in a big land fraud case. The man to be tried is charged by the government with using the mails to defraud. He was offering vast tracts of land in Georgia at ridiculously low prices and claimed that his title to the property was based upon grants made by the state in 1794. These old land grants were declared fraudulent and void by the legislature of Georgia more than a hundred years ago. Secretary Cook will testify concerning them.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN TO DELIVER ADDRESS

Hon. W. S. Bennett, of New York city, and one of the visiting Presbyterian commissioners, will speak on the subject of the "Rural Church and Factor of the Country Life," at the First Methodist church Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The speaker was formerly a member of congress, and is at present a member of the home mission board, which dispenses some $2,000,000 yearly. He is a thoroughly equipped and practical man and most interesting speaker. The public is extended a cordial invitation to hear him on this occasion.

CHIEF BEAVERS SEEKS WIFE OF CHARLESTON SUICIDE

Chief of Police Beavers has been requested to make a careful search for the wife of Joe Green, who committed suicide in Charleston, S. C., during the early part of April.

A communication addressed to the head of the department here carries the intimation that the man's name was not really Green, but is believed to be Joe Miller.

The letter recites the fact that the suicide's wife has been in this city and may be here yet.

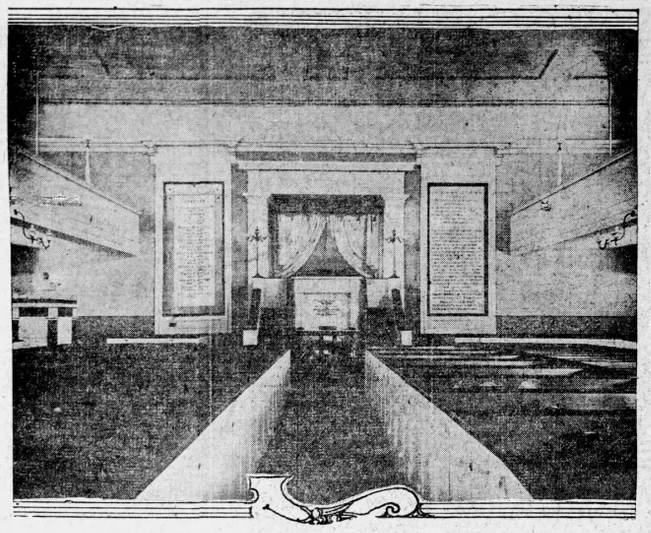
COUNTY PAVING EXPERT TO ARRIVE THURSDAY

A. E. Christniift, of Baltimore, has accepted the offer of the Fulton county board of commissioners of a position as binder paving expert, and will report here for duty on Thursday.

Mr. Christniift has eight years' experience with paving work in the city of Baltimore ,and is considered an expert on asphalt materials.

He is to receive a salary of $2,000 per annum and will hold office at the pleasure of the board of commissioners.

INTERIOR OF CHURCH WHERE WHITFIELD PREACHED



Interior of the "Old South" church, the First Presbyterian church of Newburyport, Mass., which was founded by Whitfield in 1746. Whitfield's burial place is just beneath the pulpit. On the extreme left tsands Whitfield's cenotaph, and the Bible used by him still rests on the pulpit.

WHY SHOULD WE HAVE PHYSICAL TRAINING IN GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL?

BY DR. THEODORE TOEPEL.

The goal of education in our public schools is not merely learning or mental discipline, but power and efficiency. A century ago, when farming was almost universal, the home could furnish physical and manual training and could educate to efficiency, industry and responsibility. The disappearance of farm life has crippled the educational efficiency of the home, and the whole burden of education is thrown upon the school.

City life means work in hot, ill-ventilated rooms, and the use of brains almost to the exclusion of the heavier muscles. This necessarily means increase of disease and weakness. The strain falls heaviest not on the tough muscles, but on the delicate nerves. We must train our boys and girls to meet and endure under unfavorable conditions a strain vastly greater and more severe than fell to the lot of our ancestors. Hence our system of education must make it its first business to train young men and women of overflowing vitality, of sturdy and abounding health, of toughness and endurance, of great power and efficiency.

Physical training, properly directed, does directly or indirectly reach and mold every organ in the body from the digestive system to the highest centers and powers of the brain. "Health"—whether physical, mental, moral, or religious—"comes in through the muscles and flies out through the nerves."

The size and power of man depends primarily upon how fast and far he can grow. A half-grown or stunted organ cannot possibly develop fully and normally, and remains a source of weakness and probable center of disease. Hence, in the lower grades we need mainly play and games to stimulate physical growth, and just enough work to stimulate the development of the sensory organs and the higher centers of the brain. Intellectual fatigue during this period is a sin. Any output of energy which does not result in physical growth, especially if it demands the combustion of food and material which might be added to the growing tissues, is a permanent loss and injury to the organism. Hence, during this period the playground is a better means of education than the schoolroom! the game than desk and book.

The girl enters a period of physical change during her stay in the grammar school. At about ten her increase in height and weight falls to a minimum. Nature has begun to save and economize. Then some three or four years of very rapid increase in height, followed later, but partially overlapped, by a similar period of increase in girths. She enters the high school long, lank and awkward, as if she had been violently stretched; she may leave it a few years later rounded and graceful as a woman with full height and weight, but with tissues still immature.

The growth in height has been an expensive process and has necessitated changes in the form of all muscles, arteries, veins and nerves. Nearly all the organs of the body are remodeled at the same time. Very large amounts of waste products are poured into the blood. This threatens to clog and poison every organ. Hence, the pubertal period, while one of very low death rate, is one of maximum morbidity; one of a very large amount of disorder, if we do not wish to call it sickness. Anemia or poverty of blood and pallor are very often apparent. The appetite for healthy foods sinks. The clogged brain may become so dull that even a bright girl may temporarily be almost stupid. She suffers from cold, and is disinclined to the active exercise which she sadly needs. Constipation, headaches and other disorders are altogether too prevalene. The weakness of the muscles and bad habits of posture may have started spinal curvature.

The first year of the high school demands close application and hard mental work just when she is least able to meet this demand. Frequently home duties occupy more or less of her time, or lessons in music or painting add to the already heavy burden. Often the young woman of twenty or thirty pays the penalty of mistakes made ignorantly at ten or sixteen.

The seat of the difficulty in the girl entering the high school is that the waste is not rapidly and completely removed from the blood, the appetite is poor, or disordered; hence the tissues of the body are not properly nourished at the very time when the most nourishment is needed to enable the organism to successfully complete the metamorphosis. The waste can be removed only when and as it is completely oxidized; therefore lung capacity is of fundamental importance. The average girl at this period has for each pound of weight hardly more than three-fourths of the lung capacity of the boy of the same age, and he certainly has none too much. Experiments prove that rational and regular physical training will give the girl at this age lung capacity at least 20 per cent above that of the average girl of this age.

The exercise increases and improves the appetite and stimulates all the vital organs by flooding them with pure and healthful blood. The nervous system is "toned up," the tissues are nourished properly, disorders already started on their course are corrected.

The ideal system of physical training for young girls comes only from long and careful experiment. Otherwise we may increase the fatigue and disorder which we should remove. The aim is largely hygienic; therefore the large muscles must be used. To stimulate the lungs the exercise must be vigorous The girl is anything but strong and mature; hence, the exercise must be light. The girl has little endurance; therefore active exercises and rest periods must alternate rapidly as in any good game. If inexperienced supervision allows exhaustion or even fatigue then probably more harm is done than good. The light dose of exercise should be more like play so that she will repeat it at home. The main idea is to give refreshment and recreation from the nervous strain and long sitting of school hours. If we want healthy school girls and women we must have a wise and well directed system of physical training in the girls' High school.

JACOBS' PHARMACY

As a Business Serves, So It Grows

THIRTY years ago, the druggist was about as poor a speciman of business man as you could find. He never advertised; he sold his pills when people came after them, and kept the policy of his store in the back room with his pestle and mortar.

As the older residents know, Jacobs' Pharmacy has led the retail drug business up to its present high commercial standard. We put prices on a fair and equable basis, we established a standard of quality and eliminated unreliable and habit forming drugs, we bought direct from manufacturers and gave the public the benefit instead of middlemen, and we gave the public our personal guarantee of good faith by offering to return his money whenever a customer was dissatisfied with a purchase.

No business continues to grow faster than its competitors without giving superior service. 29 years ago we had but one store. Today our ten stores make Jacobs' Pharmacy accessible to every resident of the city, and our mail order department carries us all over the world. Our ten stores fill more prescriptions a day than any other ten drug stores in the South. And the name, Jacobs' Pharmacy, represents to the public the strongest possible guarantee of superior quality, honest price and fair treatment.

Do You Know Your Baby's Food Is Fresh?

INFANTS have not strong digestive organs and it is dangerous to feed them stale food; hence mothers should be careful to know that the dealer's stock is fresh. During the hot months especially, the larger proportion of infantile sickness is due to stale or sour food.

Jacobs' Pharmacy buys direct from manufacturers, and the large output of our ten stores gives us quick sales. We are constantly receiving fresh supplies, and guarantee absolute freshness and purity. All standard brands, at lowest prices.

Robinson's Patent Barley, 18c; lb. 35c.
Jacobs' Sugar Milk, lb. 35c.
Horlick's Malted Milk, 38c, 75c, $1.00.
Baby Brand Condensed Milk, 20c.
Eagle Brand Milk, 15c.
Borden's Malted Milk, 40c, 80c $3.30.

How Can Anyone Be Beautiful

With WRINKLES and a FLAT CHEST?

NOTHING so quickly ages and discourages a woman as wrinkles. Yet every woman can keep her skin beautiful, firm and youthful looking; and it is possible also to have a well developed bust and fine neck and arms, without dieting or doping her system to destruction.

Robinnaire Skin Tonic feeds the skin through the pores. Massage with it for a few minutes daily and you will not have wrinkles, or if already appeared they will soon disappear unless very deep, and even then they will become almost imperceptible.

To Develop Bust and round out neck and shoulders, Robinnaire's Skin Tonic is an excellent and rational treatment. It makes the skin soft, firm and white, and is in every way beneficial in its action. Neither greasy nor sticky. 50c.

Finish the Toilet with Pure Talcum

Absorbent, Cooling and Beneficial

Jacobs' Violet Talcum, a very soft, antiseptic, pure talcum prepared from best ingredients, delightful to use and beneficial to the delicate tissues of the skin. Cooling, absorbent and very soothing and healing if skin is sensitive or sunburned; protects from action of sun and wind. Its perfume is light and refreshing. Large box, sifter top, 15c.

Daisy Fly Killer, 15c.

Pyramid Fly Catcher, 3 for 5c.

Phosphate of Iron, Quinine, Strychnia

AS a strengthening tonic physicians have used and endorsed this prescription for generations. Probably nothing gives better results, but the intensely bitter taste has made it very objectionable, and many sensitive stomachs reject it.

In Jacobs' Elixir Phosphate of Iron, Quinine and Stryennia the bitterness is largely overcome. Even children take it readily and it is not objectionable to the sensitive patient. The results are most gratifying. 1-4 pt., 25c; 1-2 pt., 50c; pt., 85c.

TEMPERANCE MEETING OF PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLIES

Great Gathering on Sunday Evening at 8 o'Clock at Wesley Memorial

The union temperance meeting of the Presbyterian bodies now holding their assemblies in Atlanta will be held at the Wesley Memorial church, corner Auburn avenue and Ivy street, Sunday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock. Ex-Congressman W. S. Bennett, of New York City, will preside. Addresses will be made by Rev. J. C. Galloway, D. D., Gastonia, N. C.; Dr. T. S. Glyce, Sherman, Texas; Rev. J. F. McCrory, Pittsburg, Pa., and Prof. Charles Scanlon, Pittsburg, Pa.

The fact that the church in which the mass meeting is to be held is so accessible to the center of the city, that the topic of the meeting is one of general interest and that the speakers are men of national reputation, makes it probable that a large crowd will gather in the splendid auditorium in which the meeting is to be held. This meeting will be under the auspices of the temperance committee of one of the assemblies.

Dr. Galloway is chairman of the commission of the Associate Reform synod, now in session in Atlanta, and is also chairman of the home mission board of his church. He is a leader in all lines of work of the associate reform of his Presbyterian church.

Dr. Glyce is the retiring moderator of the Presbyterian Church of the United States. He is president of Austin college, Sherman, Texas, and is prominently identified with the work of the Presbyterian church in his state.

Dr. McCrory is the leader in reform work in western Pennsylvania. He is chairman of the temperance committee of the United Presbyterian church.

Prof. Scanlon is the general secretary of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America and is one of the leading Prohibitionists of the country. His name has been proposed several times as candidate of the Prohibition party for the presidency. He was appointed to represent the United States in the anti-alcoholic congress held in London, and for the second time at the meeting of the same congress at The Hague.

CHRIST'S SOCIALISM MUST GUIDE CHURCH, SAYS MR. M'DONALD

tion of the intellectual and the well-to-do."

The genius of Presbyterianism, he said, is its democracy, and "where is the John Knox who will stand forth and demand the will of God and the rights of man?

As in the words of Lloyd George to a prosperous Presbyterian congregation, "the splendor of the sunshine of our face has blinded us to humanity's suffering."

And, said Mr. McDonald: "What shall we say to these things? The answer is that the Christian church, if it would be Christian, must go back to Christ. It must take up his attitude toward the social and industrial problems of the day. What does this involve? It involves a revision of the church's program toward those beyond its pale. Too much of the church's effort is to get men into the church. Christ's effort was to go among men and implant the Christ idea. The business of the church is not to getinside the four walls of Presbyterianism or any other 'ism' there is, but to get out of the church and into men the redemptive power of the gospel. The church must be impelled by that primal motive for humanity, the divine impulse of the Christ ideal of socialism. There must be in the church more power, more light and more uplift."

Though Mr. McDonald read from a manuscript, which is contrary to the methods of most orators, he lost nothing thereby, but on the contrary seemed to add emphasis to his utterances by using the sheets in his left hand gesture. He rose often to heights of superlative eloquence. The vast audience drank in his words, and as he unfolded his magnificent conception of the Saviour they broke forth in wave after wave of applause.

TWO STRONG APPEALS.

The two other speakers were Marion M. Jackson, of Atlanta, and Rev. Charles Stelzle, superintendent of the Presbyterian bureau of social service in New York, who made a very forceful twenty-minute talk on the church's duty toward the social problems of the day. Mr. Stelzle said the great unrest prevailing throughout the civilized nations, and beginning to manifest itself among the peoples where Christian missionaries have been at work, is the outcome of Christianity, and thats the Christian church must not now step aside and, unscrupulous agitators, but must face the situation and in the name of Christ decide what it will do.

Mr. Jackson spoke on "Christian Citizenship and the Social Evil." He told something of the civic crusade in Atlanta. Its difficulties and its final success, and in conclusion declared that Christian men and women cannot undertake to deal with the social evil until they have cleared their own skirts.

The audience was one of the largest that has attended a meeting in the auditorium. It was an earnest, enthusiastic audience, and it listened with close attention to all the speakers, joined heartily in the singing, and kept their places, almost to a man, until the final word of the benediction.

TODAY'S PROGRAM.

Today visiting ministers will supply the various pulpits of Atlanta, and the activities of the assemblies and synod meetings will be held at 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon and at 8 o'clock tonight.

The afternoon mass meetings will consist of a meeting of Sunday school workers in the Central Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock; a mass meeting for women at the Central Congregational church at the same hour; a mass meeting on church and country life at the Baptist Tabernacle under the auspices of the home mission boards, also at 2 o'clock, and a mass meeting for men at the auditorium at 4 o'clock.

Interesting programs have been arranged and speakers will be heard.

At 8 o'clock tonight there will be a meeting to discuss ministerial relief, at the Harris street Presbyterian church and at the same hour colleges of the churches will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Baptist Tabernacle.

Routine work of the various assemblies will be resumed tomorrow morning.

CARTOONIST BREWERTON SKETCHES SOME OF THE BIG PRESBYTERIANS

COMMISSIONERS AND LADIES ARE GUESTS AT RECEPTION BY AGNES SCOTT STUDENTS

About two hundred daintily attired college girls out on the campus of Agnes Scott yesterday afternoon made about two thousand commissioners and "Mrs. Commissioners" glad they'd come to the Presbyterian assemblies in Atlanta.

They served to them fruit punch. They led their visitors through the shaded campus walks and the college buildings and then served to them salad and ice cream. They had an orchestra play for the northern guests "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie" as only a southern orchestra can play those tunes.

And then the young ladies grouped themselves on the steps of the main building and while "Mr. and Mrs. Commissioners" cheered for the sheer joy of being alive, they sang:

"I'm a Hottentot from Agnes Scott,
A player of basketball!
I jump so high I scrape the sky,
And never, never fall.

"So now three cheers and each who hears
Will raise it with a vim—"

(And they did, too—)

"Hi, rickety, hickety, hoopety, hee—
E-E-E—
What's the matter with A. S. C.?
SHE'S ALL RIGHT!".

It was a glorious afternoon for the Presbyterians.

The announcements of the affair proclaimed it a reception given in honor of the visiting commissioners and their wives by the Presbyterians of Atlanta. But in the memories of the events those "Hottentots from Agnes Scott" will occupy a great big niche.

The receptions lasted from 4 until 6 o'clock. About half of the guests went out on a special trailh, the rest on street cars and in automobiles.

The entertainment committee from the Presbyterians of Atlanta included the names of 250. There was a receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Dr. F. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott; Mrs. Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Inman, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Marion McHull, and Miss Nannette Hopkins, of the college faculty.

The receiving committee members estimate that they shook about half a million hands.

There were guests from practically every state in the union, from China, Japan, India and one from Alaska, who forgot that the temperature was a bit higher than he had been used to.

Everybody met everybody else, and the girls were kept buzzing like bees.

They made everybody feel at home. They went about it by taking in tow every lonesome-looking commissioner they saw.

"This," a blue-eyed young lady would say, "is our main building. And this is Lowry Science hall, and this the library, and this the Jennie D. Inman hall, and—oh! did you ever hear how Agnes Scott college was founded?

"Why, you see, it was this way—" She would trip alongside the smiling commissioner, prattling like a child telling a fairy story.

"You see, Mrs. Agnes Scott had two sons, and one fought in the northern army and one fought in the southern army, and—" she would pause for breath—"and—and she founded this college in honor of the one in the southern army and endowed it, and started it off, and here it is. And it's the best college in the world, too," she would conclude triumphantly.

Too much praise cannot be given to the officials of the college and to the young ladies for the splendid manner in which they entertained the visitors. It was a guest but was glad he or she was there.

Practically all of the leading commissioners and their wives were present, and the "movy" men were there, and everybody else who could find an excuse for being there.

They all enjoyed it from the minute they entered the campus green until the young ladies assured them over and over again that "we're so glad to have had you" and cheered them good-bye with their "Hottentot" yell.

for the "down and outs." He can tell stories from the hour of men from the gutter who have been lifted into newness of life and usefulness of citizenship by the old gospel. In fact, Dr. Potter himself is a graduate of the gutter, and his speech is the most picturesque that will be heard at the assembly, with the probable exception of the utterances of Higgins, "The Sky Pilot of the Lumberjacks," a commissioner who has figured often in the magazines.

About as big as a half peck of potatoes is Rev. Frank W. Bible, of Hanchow, China, whose home is in Philadelphia, but who is known to the commissioners of the U. S. A. church as the most brilliant speaker on China in this country. At present he is inconspicuous and always in the background, but before the assembly is over his will be one of the names written in red.

Another young man from China who has been a great factor in shipping the twinking of the south upon that county, is Rev. Lacey Moffet, of the U. S. church, a forerunner of the present laymen's movement.

HIS NAME IN HISTORY.

Apropos of China, another man in the city, whose name already is fixed in history in connection with the history of China, is Hon. John W. Foster, secretary of state under President Harrison, former adviser to the Chinese government and China's representative in the peace negotiations after the Chino-Japanese war. General Foster is a member of the permanent judicial commission of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

Of the younger crop of laymen who are making over the churches of America, there are several in Atlanta this week. None arouses more interest than Mr. George Innes, of Philadelphia, the leader of the laymen of the United Presbyterian church. Mr. Innes found himself making money so rapidly that his fortune was getting the better of him. He quit long enough to go around the world, and to think things over. He returned and offered himself without salary for the promotion of foreign missions. After a time he found that he was losing his identity as a business man and being classed as a missionary official, so he now gives one month in the year to his large business enterprises, and eleven months to Christian work. He is executive secretary of the United Mission campaign. One of the curious by-products of his interesting career is that there is a flourishing town in the northwest named after him.

Simultaneously with the meetings of the men, the missionary women are holding sessions, and these are of great importance. Many women who are prominent figures in society are also heart and soul in foreign mission work. The women delegation is here from Philadelphia, another from New York, and another from Chicago. The women have their own boards and send out women missionaries and maintain mission schools.

Sunday's services will not be sessions of the assemblies, but regular church meetings, with popular sessions in the afternoon and evening. All of church-going Atlanta will have a chance to hear the visitors, while the commissioners themselves will seek out the famous preachers of their churches.

COMMISSIONERS ARE INVITED TO TUSKEGEE

Presbyterians Extended Invitation to See Great Negro Institution

Booker T. Washington, through Rev. A. F. Owens, has extended a cordial invitation to the Presbyterian commissioners and their friends to visit the industrial plant where 1,650 students are taught daily in forty-two different industries under 200 instructors.

The distance from Atlanta to Chehaw, near the location of the school on the Western Railway is 136 miles and the round trip can be made in a day.

Special rates will be explained by Rev. Owens to the commissioners. Those returning home by way of Montgomery can stop over between trains at Tuskegee.

Paint Battle Waged On Woodbury Campus By Tech and Georgia

The Woodberry school campus on Peachtree street, with the statuary peculiar known as the "Orphans," was the scene of an exciting battle Friday night in college circles.

The Tech boys are as violently opposed to any hue but their yellow in these decorations, as are the "Georgia boys to an eclipsing of red and black on the Lucy Cobb "goat" foundation.

Since the great Tech victory in Athens, the Orphans have been resplendent in white and gold, albeit bearing evidences of hasty application, under local pressure. This last night they set a guard to keep them in the same mind.

*About the midnight hour the Geor*gia boys stealthily approached and executed an impressionist effect on the Orphans, when a shrill Tech whistle brought a battalion to the scene, and red and black paint pot and brush were left in their precipitate flight.

Segadlo dancers wondered at the sudden disappearance of Tech partners, and their as mysterious reappearance, somewhat disheveled from the chase.

Meanwhile the Woodberry Orphans in their blended yellow and red and black look as if they had not quite made up their mind and are suffering from a case of mistaken identity.

ACUTE SITUATION GROWS OUT OF HOUSTON STRIKE

HOUSTON, Tex., May 17.—An acute situation has grown out of the strike of 600 union carpenters declared several dayh ago. Master builders have refused their demands for increased wages and announced today 300 strikebreakers are en route to take the place of strikers. The builders issued a statement declaring they would not again employ union men. The strikers say they are confident of securing their demands.

Page Got Sweet on Jessie Wilson But Lost Brazen Nerve

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secret service men, after a five weeks' hunt for the origin of a mysterious midnight telephone call to Miss Jessie Wilson, one of the president's daughters, discovered that it was only a mischievous page boy of the house of representatives bent on a lark in a dull session and that he was now safe at home in Texas, where he could not even be officially spanked.

The White House telephone tinkled at midnight and a voice said:

"I want to talk tuh Jessie."

Then, it developed, the little chap lost his nerve and hung up, while the secret service men began a wild chase, finally tracing the call to the Republican cloak room of the house to find that everybody on the house side of the capitol knew who did it.

SENATE HAS NOT YET RATIFIED CANAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The canal treaty with Nicaragua, accepted by the Mangia government, but yet unratified by the United States senate, would give the United States the exclusive right to build an interoceanic canal by what is known as the Nicaraguan route, once considered a competitor to the aPnama canal.

The treaty was negotiated about the time the American marines and blue jackets landed in Nicaragua and aided in maintaining the government against the revolution. Negotiations have been at a standstill for some time.

PRESBYTERIANS HEAR OF CANNIBALISM

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 17.—Cannibalism in its worst form exists among natives of the New Hebrides islands, in the South Pacific, according to a *statement today by Rev. Thom*as Gilan, at the Presbyterian assembly of New South Wales. Human flesh is looked upon as a luxury and tribal wars invariably end with a "banquet," unchecked by the authorities, he declared.

GEORGIA BANKERS MEET IN AUGUSTA IN 1914

Haynes McFadden, of Atlanta, Named Secretary of Bankers' Association

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 17.—The Georgia Bankers Association met this morning at 10:30 o'clock for their final session for the year. The committee reported the following officers who were unanimously elected.

L. P. Hilyer, Macon, president; L. D. Council, Americus, first vice-president; R. O. Barksdale, Washington, second vice-president; C. H. Shelton, Brunswick, third vice-president; L. C. Milledgeville, fourth vice-president; J. S. Calhoun, Cathersville, fifth vice-president; Haynes McFadden, Atlanta, secretary; E. C. Smith, Griffin, treasurer.

The meeting of next session was referred to the executive session but only one city has asked for this honor and that was Augusta.

Orville A. Park was unanimously *elected attorney for the Georgia Bank*ers' association after he had been bitterly opposed by several members of the association. P. Coles and Carl H. Lewis, of Atlanta, were two of the most bitter opponents to the election of Mr. Park as attorney for the association the ensuing year.

Motions for adjournment were offered and other filibustering tactics made in the determination to prevent the Macon attorney from being re-elected, but he was victorious. The controversy between the two Atlanta men and the other members of the association was one of the most lively personal disputes that has been witnessed since the association was formed. Frequently a member of the association would interrupt the Atlanta bankers and appeal to the chair to rule them out of order.

J. G. Crafts, a young banker from Hartwell, Ga., declared that Mr. Coles was not acting with decency in taking up the time of the convention in denouncing Mr. Park as association's attorney. A score or more of bankers interposed and finally Mr. Crafts withdrew his remarks and Mr. Coles expressed regret of having spoken so hastily. Both Mr. Coles and Mr. Lewis are members of the executive council. Frequently the delegates broke forth with mad remarks that so upset the chair that the convention was in a tumult. After spicy talks were heard from the two Atlanta men especially adjournment was taken.

DR. LOVEJOY ELLIOTT SPEAKS HERE MAY 22

Head Worker of Hudson Guild Will Deliver Last of Ethical Lectures

Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, head worker of Hudson Guild, New York, and distinguished sociologist and religious leader, has accepted the invitation of the committee for ethical lectures of Atlanta to deliver the concluding lecture of the 1912-'13 series. Dr. Elliott will speak at Cable hall, Thursday evening, May 22, at 8:30 o'clock, upon the subject, "The Driving Power of Social Discontent."

As assistant leader of the Society for Ethical Culture of New York, of which Dr. Felix Adler is leader, Dr. Elliott has succeeded remarkably during the past fifteen years in applying at Hudson Guild, on the west side of New York, the principles of social service in religion. He has put into successful operation a new idea of social settlement work, which has won the recognition of leading sociologists and educators in this country and in Europe.

Ray Stannard Baker, writing in the American Magazine, says of Dr. Elliott and his work: I have selected Hudson Guild to illustrate the new spirit of modern social settlements in America, because better than any other, it has proven, through its headworker, Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, the possible transformation of our churches into lay cathedrals for human betterment—a process now manifesting itself in New York. Here, at Hudson Guild, the spirit of the ethical movement as a religion—that culture of self is valueless unless spread where those live who have never known the fullness of life—is applied in a thousand working ways."

BAXTER, OF KNOXVILLE, MAY BE COMMISSIONER

He Is Suggested for Office Declined by Fuller E. Callaway

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—George W. Baxter, of Knoxville, Tenn., may be appointed Indian commissioner by President Wilson. The office wasit endered recently to Fuller E. Callaway, of LaGrange, Ga., but he declined it. Baxter's chances of appointment are considered exceeding bright.

Today, Secretary of Interior Lane, declared that he had chosen three men, any one of whom would be acceptable as an Indian commissioner. The names of these men, their record and qualifications, have been forwarded by the secretary to President Wilson, and it is regarded as certain that one of them will be named. George W. Baxter's name was among the three.

Senator Lea, who presented Baxter to Secretary Lane on yesterday, is encouraged over the success he has encountered, and will take up the matter of Baxter's appointment with the president next week.

COLONEL HUFF WILL BE TRIED FOR CONTEMPT

Case Is Postponed From Monday Until Tuesday Morning

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 17.—Colonel W. A. Huff will be tried in the federal court for contempt next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge W. I. Gribb, of the northern district of Alabama, will preside and Oliver D. Street, United States district attorney, will conduct the prosecution.

The case was formerly set for trial on Monday, May 19, but Attorney General T. S. Felder has a case before that state court of appeals on Monday and will be unable to appear in court here as attorney for Colonel Huff. The contempt charges against Colonel Huff were brought after he had sent two caustic letters to Judge Emory Speer about the rulings of the federal jurist in his bankruptcy cases. Judge Speer will have the following witnesses subpoenaed:

Emory Speer, Alexander Akerman, Cooper Moorecock, E. Y. Mallary, John F. Cone, A. J. Cobb, of Athens, L. M. Erwin and Cecil Morgan. Colonel Huff will go to trial without witnesses.

ALBEMARLE'S HEAD WILL BANQUET M'CORMICK MEN

Rev. George H. Atkinson to Be Host to Theological Seminary Alumni

More than 100 guests have been invited to enjoy the hospitality of Rev. George H. Atkinson, president of the Albemarle Normal and Industrial institute, Albemarle, N. C., on Monday evening.

From 5:30 to 7:30 on that evening Mr. Atkinson will give a banquet at the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, in honor of the alumni of McCormick Theological seminary Chicago, of which seminary he is a graduate.

Mr. Atkinson states that all members of the four Presbyterian bodies now in session in Atlanta are cordially included in this invitation. In addition to these, a number of other guests will be present at the banquet.

STRAIN OF LONG HOURS IS TELLING ON WILSON

President Puts in Fourteen Hours a Day—Is the Hardest Worked Man in America

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WASHINGTON, May 17.—"The hardest worked man in America," is the title given to President Wilson by his private secretary.

Executive decisions that direct the affairs of the nation are made at night by the president.

The central control station of the great machinery of government is a secluded room on the second floor of the white house, where Mr. Wilson works alone in silence while the world sleeps.

A black leather-covered note book, which nobody but himself reads, is the Domesday book on America, for it contains the secrets of state and confidential thoughts of the president written by his own hand.

This book has loose leaves that can be detached and fresh ones put in. The sheets are the size of business letter paper. Most of the entries are made in shorthand "pot hooks," a system of writing which Mr. Wilson has practiced for many years.

JEALOUS OF FILING CABINET.

The private study contains a flat top desk and a filing cabinet. The president is more devoted to his black leather note book and his plush cabinet than to any other possession. No secretary or clerk may touch them. He works over the filing case with the precision and skill of a system expert. He has his own plan of indexing and can instantly turn to any paper which he has put away.

At 9 o'clock this morning the president leaves the main part of the White House, after having breakfasted with his family, and goes to the west wing of the building, a long extension, one story in height, devoted to executive offices. He carries with him the precious black notebook. Private Secretary Tumulty and a stenographer join him. The notes written the night before in the study are checked off and the plans thought out are outlined for the private secretary to put into operation.

After an hour of this work, the rest of the president's day is taken up by appointments, previously arranged. Cabinet officers, senators, representatives, political friends from many cities, delegations of organizations and citizens of every class endeavor to get audiences with the president. It is not difficult either if they have some business or subject of general welfare to present.

NO TIME FOR STUDY.

Thus the day is completely absorbed. There is no opportunity to read, to study, to think, to plan. The important papers of the day are picked out by Mr. Wilson and taken to his private study for night consideration. After dinner he seeks relaxation of this study, his black notebook and his filing cabinet.

At first he set 10:30 p. m. as the hour to quit work and go to bed. But he has not been able to keep to schedule. For the past few weeks the president has been able to get out of his study before 11:30 o'clock. The night work is beginning to tell on him.

To conserve the strength and avoid a physical breakdown, Mr. Wilson is endeavoring to take a Saturday holiday each week, but so far he has not been able to carry out the plan. Although he tries to run away from the White House and the tremendous pressure that pervades its atmosphere, he is dragged back each time. Two weeks ago he essayed a week-end outing afloat in the yacht Mayflower, going down the Potomac into Chesapeake bay, but a storm drove him back early with an unpleasant and unfinished holiday. On Saturday morning last he ran away early for an automobile trip to Mount Vernon, but the California-Japanese affair drew him back to Washington early in the afternoon for conference with the secretary of state. The result was a Saturday night and Sunday of serious thinking and work in his study.

DOES NOT BETRAY FATIGUE.

It is difficult to tell from mere observation when the president is tired. His normal actions are so methodical and measured in pace that they betray no variation from day to day, regardless of strain. His face is so bony, with skin so tightly drawn over angles and high spots, that there is no deepening of lines or the tenseness of features observable in most men under pressure. Color of countenance he has not, so pallor of cheek is to him a normal condition.

Perhaps the only indications of the strain which the president is experiencing are to be found in his manner rather than in his appearance. He is even more measured and reserved in speech and action than he was when he entered the White House. He is attempting to conserve his mental forces with scientific care and precision.

Underneath the calm exterior there is an active nervous system, although people say that Mr. Wilson has no nerves. It is beginning to show itself now and then. Standing in front of a chair with his hands on the back of it a few days ago, his fingers unconsciously drummed a tattoo. When reading a message personally to congress a few weeks ago there was a nervous note in his voice for a few moments.

The general manager of the United States government has a big job merely directing the ordinary duties of administration. But when there is added the ceaseless pressure of politicians for office and the attempt to institute many reforms of great magnitude in such a president has more than one man can physically accomplish.

Private Secretary Tumulty is watching his chief and trying to shield him from as many troubles as possible, for once let the president get a subject in hand he goes through it with a thoroughness that requires laborious effort.

Mr. Wilson will not admit he is working too hard, or that he is tired some nights. He has been a little more than two months in the White House and during that time he has scored two long credit marks.

1. He has not uttered a complaint about anything or anybody.
2. He has not spoken a cross word.

BROTHERLY AGREEMENT IS BASIS OF SUIT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 17.—Alleging that a mutual agreement between two brothers amounted to a contract to leave their property to each other, and that it took precedence over a will made later, Columbus Bierce, of Memphis, Tenn., filed a contest in federal court for the western district of Oklahoma yesterday on the disposal of properties belonging to W. W. Bierce, now deceased, aggregating $1,000,000.

W. W. Bierce, a cotton buyer, died here December 2, 1911. Mrs. Ellen Bierce, his widow and principal legatee under the will which already has been probated, is the principal defendant. It is alleged the contract between the brothers was made by letter.

ATLANTA PRINCIPAL IS AGAINST STATE BOOKS

Miss Mamie Pitts, of State Street School, Answers Representative McCrory

Atlanta, Ga., April 29, 1913.

Editor The Journal:

In a recent issue of your paper you published a letter under the caption, "Representative McCrory Arraigns for Bill He Will Offer." I get from the letter that the representative "intends to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature for the state to have printed by competitive bids the books used in the public schools of the state."

In the "arguments" that follow, the representative makes such erroneous statements that I feel assured he did not have the proper data for reference. He says: "I wish every parent in Georgia would look through the readers that are taught in the common schools in Georgia and find one little piece written by a Georgia author." I have before me a set of Lee readers, the books used in the state schools. Book Three has a contribution from Joel Chandler Harris. Book Four has Georgia representation in Frank L. Stanton, Sidney Lanier and Henry W. Grady, while Book Five has no less than twelve southern writers, including three selections from Sidney Lanier, one from Will H. Thompson and one from Henry W. Grady, not to mention "The Conquered Banner," by Father Ryan, who, as is well known, lived and worked in Georgia during a part of his rather brief life.

Surely we are not so narrow as to wish to eliminate the other selections taken from Shakespeare, Bunyan, Scott, Milton, Burns and the rest, all of the highest literary merit.

He asks: "What histories are taught in the common schools written by Georgians?" I reply that the common schools of Georgia are now using Field's "United States History" and Evans' "History of Georgia." Miss Field was a Georgian, and for many years a teacher in the Atlanta public schools. Mr. Lawton B. Evans, son of General Clement A. Evans, and superintendent of the Augusta public schools, needs no introduction to Georgia people.

I might add that Hunnicutt's "Agriculture" and Branson's "Speller" are written by Georgia men. Both of these books are used in the state schools.

Referring to the situation in Ontario, about which Mr. McCrory goes into detail, the Saturday Evening Post of a recent date points out clearly that if the comparison of the American and the Canadian books is pursued, the more the apparent price-discrepancy dwindles.

Ontario, doubtless, gets what she pays for, and we are yet to learn how to obtain something for nothing. I should deplore the passage of any law in Georgia that would sacrifice quality for cheapness in textbooks. These are not to be bought by the page. We should inquire into the content, and leave the number of pages to adjust itself.

Representative McCrory says that the state is already in the publishing business, but adds with commendable frankness that certain published records, though offered at cost, are bought by not one person in a thousand, which proves it to be barely possible that the state, as a book publisher, might not meet the requirements of a fastidious public.

Hear then the conclusion of the matter. The children of Georgia deserve the best textbooks that can be secured, and the best are not always the cheapest. Skilled workmanship commands a good price. Authors of merit do not give away their wares.

The state has always been notoriously penurious in dealing with her public schools, and I trust that she will never add the painful episode of forcing Georgia children to prepare themselves for the world's work with tools made by the "lowest bidder."

Respectfully yours,
MAMIE L. PITTS.
Principal of State Street School, Atlanta.

CAPTURER OF FAMOUS WOMAN SPY IS DEAD

LAS CRUCES, N. M., May 17.—Captain R. W. Fall, father of United States Senator Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico, died here yesterday. He was born in 1838 in Frankfort, Ky. In the Civil war he was a scout on the staff of General Forrest, of the Confederate army, and captured Higs Cashman, a famous federal spy.

GOVERNOR TRAMMELL HAS PHOTO SHOT WITH COWBOYS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—"Governor Trammell is certainly an accommodating person; more so than most governors," said one of the cowboy crew of four from the state of Washington, when Thursday the governor stood for a picture with the cowboys.

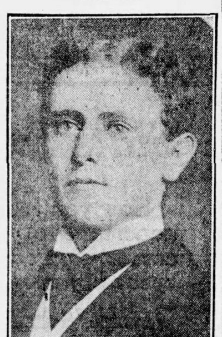
The governor was busy, very busy, and disturbed too with the way things have been going of late—not exactly to please the chief executive. But all the same the cowboys who are making a 20,000-mile ride to include every state capital in the country and get photographs of themselves with the governors were solicitous and the governor cooperative. Other governors have done the same thing, but they haven't done it so graciously. Governor Trammell can give many people lessons in the art of politeness; if you are going to do a thing—do it graciously, and thereby win praise, even if it be from a cowboy; if you have to decline—do it courteously—there's the stuff!

The cowboys are typical of the west—they are from the ranches, and had been talking for a long time of taking a sure enough horseback ride. The longest ever made so far of record has been of 2,500 miles; they are going to beat it by 17,500; they have covered 6,500 miles of the distance, having started from Olympia, Wash., May 1, 1912; they had been out a year and fifteen days when they were in Tallahassee. They expect to reach San Francisco by June 1, 1915, where they will have an exhibition, and a part of the show will be an Arabian horse that they are carrying with them. If the horse makes the entire 20,000 miles he will be a wonder; their other horses, which are of the finest types, are not expected to hold out. In fact, they have had to change more than once already.

The party is composed of George W. Beck, R. G. Payne, J. B. Ransom and C. C. Beck. Beck says he is done with the cowboy work after this. "The open range is a thing of the past," he said, "and the old cowboy days will soon be a memory."

MILTON H. M'CLURE BACK ON THE JOB

Manager of Jacobs' Marietta Street Store Fully Recovered



MILTON H. M'CLURE.

It will be of interest to the scores of friends of Milton H. McClure, manager of Jacobs' Marietta street store, to learn that he is again back on duty after an illness that has incapacitated him for a year. He has only recently recovered from a serious operation and recuperation was slow.

Mr. McClure, who is considered one of the most competent and successful drug store managers in the city, began his connection with Jacobs' Pharmacy at his main store in February, 1909, and was then in the prescription department. A few months later he was transferred to Peters street as an assistant and took the management of the prescription department which he built up wonderfully by his careful attention to business and knowledge of the delicate work.

In August, 1910, he was made manager of the Marietta street store when the first good vacancy occurred. Under his direction the store has progressed wonderfully and a splendid business has been built up. His showing has been remarkable despite the torn up condition of the street and now that the work is finished there is a big future before him.

An important feature of suburban drug stores is the prescription business. This he has increased fully 50 per cent and bids fair to carry his success still further.

Mr. McClure's personality has gained for him scores of friends and his strict attention to business is an asset valued highly by his employers.—Advt.)

GUYTON FARMERS ARE NOW REAPING PROFITS

GUYTON, Ga., May 17.—The farmers of this community who were fortunate enough to get in their seed on reaping their anticipated rewards. Only about one out of every five truck farmers succeeded in getting their seed up from the early planting of potatoes and string beans, which are considered an early crop for this part of Georgia, and are bringing good prices. Mr. H. P. Perdue, one of the early truckers, will be the largest shipper of potatoes as well as onions this season. The latter crop is an experiment crop here, but bids fair to be one of the most profitable.

Mr. Perdue will get about 1,000 crates of onions that will class with the finest on the market to each acre, for which he has been offered an average of 75 cents per crate. His potato crop will average equally as well, and he expects to ship 15,000 barrels during this season. Colonel R. W. Sheppard, who is among the largest growers of beans in this county, has about 135 acres that he has planted in beans and potatoes, and are among the finest prospects for the season.

FAKE SMALLPOX PATIENT CAUSE OF CONSTERNATION

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Consternation was caused in the Union station today when an unidentified Syrian immigrant, awaiting a train for the south was believed to be suffering from smallpox. A policeman escorted the unfortunate to a local hospital, declining to permit him to board his train. It was found that he was afflicted with measles.

A number of departing and incoming members of congress and government officials were carefully herded away from the suspect. Several hurried to be vaccinated. An effort will be made today to learn the man's name and his address.

Rain Hurts Manchester

MANCHESTER, Ga., May 17.—The streets and sidewalks of Manchester are considerably damaged by recent heavy rains. Estimates place the loss at from $2,000 to $5,000. Chief Pike, of the street forces, has abandoned construction work temporarily and is busily engaged with his road machine and other apparatus in getting the streets and sidewalks back in their former excellent conditions.

Old Cruiser for Sale

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The old cruiser Newark will be offered for sale by the navy department. tl was built in Philadelphia in 1888 at a cost of $1,284,000, and until recently was on duty as station ship at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Good Crops at Buckhead

BUCKHEAD, Ga., May 17.—Many farmers in this section are rejoiced to see the rain, which is falling steadily here today, the first rain in more than five weeks.

The stands of cotton and corn is the poorest for many years and many cotton will rest for several years.

CHATTANOOGA AN OASIS FOR SHRINERS' CARAVANS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 17.—Chattanooga today was an oasis in the route of the caravans of mystic Shriners, returning from their pilgrimage to Dallas, Tex., and fully five hundred wearers of the fez halted their camels in the shade beneath the date palms to partake of the zemzem, to refresh themselves from the spring of Chattanooga's royal welcome and let the mountain breezes blow the dust of the desert from their garments.

The first of the pilgrims to arrive were those of Damascus temple, of Rochester, N. Y., the largest caravan was that of the Lu Lu temple, of Philadelphia, which came in two sections shortly after noon. These had been invited to be the guests for the day of the local Alhambra temple. Before they stole away the Shriners of Lu Lu temple entertained them with a public drill by their crack patrol.

ATHENS, Greece, May 17.—The Greek government has decided to prolong for another month the suspension of the payment of specie by the state banks, despite the protests of the committee of the Bourse.

NO CAROLINA STATUTE ON IMPORTATION OF LIQUOR

Webb Bill Merely Confers Authority for Such Law, Says Court

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The parcel post records of the postoffice for the month of April show that Atlanta continues to hold its own as a mail order center and general distributing point. The city ranks twenty-fourth, outstripping half a dozen other cities that have a much larger population. Among this number may be mentioned Indianapolis, Louisville, Denver, Seattle, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Portland and Columbus, Ohio.

The most wholesome feature of Atlanta's parcel post record, however, is the fact that the merchants of the city dispatched 184,000 parcels during the month, and that the postoffice received for distributing in the city only 50,790. The balance of the trade was largely in favor of Atlanta, and if this fact were considered in fixing the relative rating of the postoffices of the nation, Atlanta would take even a higher stand than is given her. For instance, both Rochester and Washington, D. C., outrank Atlanta in the general classification, but in each of the cities the number of parcels received were larger than the number of parcels sent out.

The relative rating of the cities, however, is computed from the total number of the parcels handled by the postoffice, and in this respect it is not a fair index of business conditions.

Considered in connection with her would-be commercial rivals in the southern territory, Atlanta is in a class by herself. Birmingham is not even accorded a place among the first fifty postoffices of the country. New Orleans ranks thirty-first, Richmond thirty-seventh, Memphis thirty-ninth and Nashville forty-fifth, the total parcel post business of each falling far short of the 200,000 mark. Indeed, Louisville did not touch the 200,000 mark for the month.

J. A. M'CORD WILL SPEAK TO EMORY BOYS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
OXFORD, Ga., May 17.—Hon. J. A. McCord, vice president of the Third National bank, Atlanta, will deliver a lecture at Emory college this week on the "Proposed National Currency Changes." This lecture will be delivered under the auspices of the department of political economy, Dr. E. H. Johnson being in charge.

Mr. McCord has been in Washington, D. C., appearing before the congressional committee which will recommend changes in our banking and money laws. Several courses in banking are offered at Emory by Dr. Johnson, but he desires to secure the services of a practical banker to talk to his class.

The old car line with the mules for motive power that have been a fixture for many years between the Covington depot and Oxford will soon be replaced by a substantial roadbed and electric cars. This change was announced when the owners of the present system applied to Secretary of State Cook for an amendment to their present charter to increase the capital stock, which would permit them to make the much needed improvements.

Scores of Emory alumni will be greeted by these changes in a few months when they return to their alma mater and when the fall term opens next September it is hope that the trip will be made to Oxford in an entirely new fashion.

Texas Press Association

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 17.—The Texas Press association today decided to maintain a representative at Austin during legislative periods to keep the members informed of the progress of all bills affecting the associatoin. It was further decided that the press would not support any candidate for office who did not come out unequivocally and state his position with reference to matters that might affect the newspapers.

W. J. BRYAN INVITED TO ADDRESS FLORIDIANS

Secretary of State Asked to Tell Legislature What He Thinks of Referendum

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—Secretary of State William J. Brayn has been invited by the house of representatives to address that body next Monday night on the initiative and referendum, which measure was recommended by Governor Trammell and is now before the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan are coming south, leaving Washington tomorrow, to look over the building of their new winter home at Miami.

Undertaker Acquitted

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—A verdict of acquittal on the instruction of the court was returned at Belleville, Ill., today in the case against William H. Degen, an undertaker of East St. Louis; William U. Halbert, of Belleville, former public administrator, and Michael Kenley, East St. Louis jailer, who were charged with conspiracy to defraud the estate of the late James Connor, a hod carrier.

Degen collected $1,122 for Connor's funeral. When the payment came before the probate court for approval the court ordered an inquiry.

The prosecuting attorney agreed to a verdict of acquittal, as objections by attorneys for the defendants prevented certain testimony by the probate judge on which the prosecution expected largely to base its case.

At the trial it was testified that the coffin, for which $600 was charged, was worth $85; that in the funeral procession there were three carriages instead of 19 paid for; and that there were no flowers, for which $35 was paid.

Navy Solicitor Dead

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Henry M. Butler, former solicitor of the navy, died late last night, after a illness of more than two months. His body will be sent today to his home in Columbus, Ohio, for burial. Mr. Butler, who was fifty-six years old and unmarried, was appointed to the navy department by President Taft, with whom he attended Yale.

Prep Frat Convenes

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., May 17.—It was announced yesterday by Richard F. Yates, of this city, secretary-treasurer of the Grand Interfraternity Council, a preparatory school fraternity organization with 500 chapters scattered through the United States, that the annual convention will be held in New York City June 23 and 24.

Chautauqua at Waycross

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 17.—Practically all details for the second annual chautauqua, which opens here May 21 for seven days, were completed today. There will be a special program for chautauqua Sunday. The program as now arraged includes three entertainments a day, and it is expected that several hundred out-of-town people will attend.

Deaths and Funerals

MR. ABNER BROWN.

Mr. Abner Brown, aged forty-five, died at his residence, 72 West Harris street, Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The body was removed to the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, and will be taken to Grantville, S. C., Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, for funeral and interment. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss Lucile Brown; a brother, L. M. Brown, Lexington, S. C.; three sisters, Mrs. W. Reynolds, Augusta, Ga.; Mrs. Susie Sigler, Monock, S. C., and Mrs. Will Devore, Clearwater, S. C.

MRS. MARY LAWRENCE.

The body of Mrs. Mary Lawrence, who died Friday, will be taken Sunday morning at 5:30 o'clock to Molena, Ga., for funeral and interment.

When You Think of Those Departed

Does it occur to you in what condition are the bodies of these loved ones? Has the earth with its water and vermin penetrated the protected remains and destroyed it? Remember:
Steel vaults RUST AND DECAY.
Brick or slate vaults LACK ADHESIVENESS AND CRUMBLE.
A few short years and nothing remains of either vault, casket or corpse.

With Our Method Permanent Preservation Is Assured

Absolutely air, water, vermin and ghoul proof.

Indorsed by undertakers, physicians, health officers and cemetery sextons.

Use the Egyptian Burial Vault

The longer the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT is in the earth the harder it becomes.
As time passes it solidifies and becomes a compact stone, thus preventing the penetration of tree roots, water or worms and keeps the remains dry and permanently preserving the body.
The cost is small, usually less that asked for an inferior vault. Remember the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT is the vault that positively protects, accept no substitute.
By insisting on it you remove any cause for worry or doubt in the future as to the permanent preservation of those you cherished. When an undertaker suggests this vault it indicates the excellent service and high quality of the articles he handles.
If your undertaker does not have the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT, wire or phone our Atlanta office and we will fill your order without delay through our nearest representative.

1913 APPROPRIATIONS TO EXCEED REVENUES

Comptroller Wright Estimates Revenues at $5,673,005, and Appropriations $5,904,567

In his annual report, just written, which covers the condition of the state's finances during 1912 and contains a number of recommendations, Comptroller General William A. Wright estimates the state's revenue from an sources during 1913 at $5,673,005 and it appropriations for the same period at $5,904,567, the latter exceeding the former by $231,562.

Of the total estimated revenue $3,958,984 is raised by ad valorem taxes and $1,714,021 from special taxes and other sources. The comptroller recommends—

That appropriations be held down in future unless the revenue is increased from other than present sources.

That the laws be amended so that small co-operative telephone companies, operated farmers solely for convenience and without regard to profit, be returned for taxation to the county tax receivers instead of the comptroller general as at present.

That the near-beer license tax law be amended so as to put the collection of near-beer taxes into the hands of tax collectors instead of ordinaries, and that the tax collectors be allowed the same compensation for their collection as was formerly allowed them for the collection of taxes on liquor dealers.

That the law imposing a tax of one-fourth of 1 per cent on the gross receipts of soft drink manufacturers and wholesale dealers be amended so as to require them to make their returns to the county tax receivers and pay their taxes to the county tax collectors instead of to the comptroller general.

That the legislature provide for a thorough revision of the state's revenue system so that there shall be a uniform system of assessment on all kinds of property.

That the terms of tax receivers and tax collectors be increased from two to four years in order that these officials may be better fitted to discharge the duties of their offices.

That a law be enacted which will give the comptroller general department the power to investigate the affairs of investment comuanies before they are granted licenses and which will permit that official to exercise a general supervision over the business of such companies.

That the law authorizing the commissioner of agriculture to draw warrants on the tsate treasurer for certain expenses of his office be repealed and that the authority to draw thees and all other warrants be left with the governor.

CONDITION OF TREASURY.

The comptroller general's report shows the condition of the treasury on January 1, 1913, to have been as follows:

Balance in treasury, January 1, 1912	$ 727,076.00

TAX RATE UP TO LIMIT.

It is pointed out in the report that notwithstanding the marvelous increase in assessments the tax rate reaches the full constitutional limit of one-half of 1 per cent. The increase in taxable values is shown by a table covering the years from 1880 up to and including 1912. In the former year the property on the digest was $238,934,126, railroad, telephone, telegraph and similar corporate property, $12,490,525—total, $251,424,651. In 1912 the property on the digest was $704,337,228; railroad, telephone, telegraph and similar corporate property, $118,021,114—total, $842,358,342.

	1880	1911	1912
City and town real estate	$49,007,286	$215,649,410	$232,177,295
Improved and wild lands	90,493,822	197,772,983	199,152,376
Live stock	21,017,674	45,071,823	43,264,896
Farm implements	2,971,372	10,602,942	10,150,799
Household furniture	9,156,404	25,806,928	26,232,675
Merchandise	12,012,755	38,971,929	41,571,526
Money, etc.	25,513,005	52,004,236	50,534,356
Cotton factories	1,640,000	38,235,403	39,645,923
Ironworks, etc.	295,640	1,361,579	1,235,469
Bank capital, including surplus	4,667,567	26,835,860	40,788,171
Railroad and other corporation property	9,886,129	121,729,438	158,021,114

In 1880 property returned by colored taxpayers was valued at $5,764,293. Last year the property returns of the colored taxpayers aggregated $34,703,449.

ATLANTA SHRINERS HAD A BIG BACON FRY YESTERDAY

The upper picture shows the nobles of Yaarab temple in a parade of jubilation and welcome to Potentate Forrest Adair when he got home from Dallas yesterday, after directing there the campaign that won for Atlanta the 1914 gathering of the Shriners of North America. The lower picture caught Mr. Adair just as he was about to whisper in to the ear of Yaarab camel some plans for that occasion.

POTENTATE FORREST ADAIR SAYS "I WON'T FORGET THE JOURNAL"

Editor The Journal:

From the very beginning I have felt confident that Atlanta would get the next meeting of the Imperial Council of Shriners, but I knew we would have to put up a hard fight as Memphis had been in the field for several weeks before we entered.

On last Monday, the day before the convention met, I told our boys in a caucus to look out for some suprise as I had some intuitive suspicion that silent work was being done against us in another direction.

This surprise was sprung at the last moment on Wednesday morning just as the committee met, but we were ready for it and had our forces well in hand and succeeded in keeping them so and avoiding any stampede.

When the committee's report was read favoring Buffalo, the "dark horse," I immediately addressed the chair and offered as a substitute that Atlanta's name be substituted for Buffalo. I then addressed the meeting and when I laid stress upon the fact that the citizens of Atlanta had raised over $75,000.00 in one day for their entertainment the applause was deafening and I knew we had "the bacon."

Only one city has heretofore raised that amount, and it took Los Angeles two months to do it.

The Imperial Council could not help showing due appreciation and admiration or a city with that kind of spirit.

I have not forgotten the fact that The Journal's editorial "COME ON ATLANTA" and its front page story the day before our canvass began, so stirred the people of Atlanta that the one-day result was wired all over America as a unique accomplishment that could be pulled off only in Atlanta.

I shall never forget this appeal The Journal made and the hearty response of our citizens.

FORREST ADAIR.

PASSENGERS MUST FOREGO THOSE APPETIZING MEALS SERVED BY W. F. WEAVER AT BOWERSVILLE

Judge J. K. Hines, Special Attorney for the State Railroad Commission, Renders an Interesting Opinion on the Unusual Petition of Proprietor of a Wayside Eating House

A unique opinion, one which is both humorous and serious, has been furnished the state railroad commission by its special attorney, Judge J. K. Hines, on the question of whether the commission has authority to require trains to stop at certain stations in order that their passengers may obtain meals.

The question was raised by W. F. Weaver, proprietor of an eating house at Bowersville, Ga. He petitioned the commission for an order compelling the passenger trains of the Elberton Air Line railroad to stop at that place sufficiently long for passengers to eat.

Mr. Weaver's petition was submitted to Judge Hines with a request for an opinion on the authority of the commission in such cases. The opinion follows:

"Mr. Weaver wants the commission to require the Elberton Air Line railroad to stop its morning train long enough at Bowersville for the traveling public, who are inclined to eat, to get breakfast there. This train leaves Elberton at 6:40 a. m., passes Bowersville at 7:43 a. m. and reaches Toccoa at 8:55 a. m., where it connects with the Southern train which passes Toccoa at 9 a. m. for Atlanta.

"Mr. Weaver stands ready to furnish the eating house and the breakfast, if the railroad company would be or could be made, so considerate of the hungry travelers as to stop its train at Bowersville long enough to permit them to get breakfast.

"The situation is comic and tragic. Here are the enticing breakfasts, for which Bowersville is famous; and here are the drummers, those early birds of trade, who are ready to do justice to these feasts; and yet the Elberton Air Line railroad rushes them through Bowersville, empty, and with aching voids in the regions of their abdomens.

"I note that you wish my opinion upon the question whether the commission has authority to grant Mr. Weaver's request, and to require this company to stop its morning train long enough at Bowersville for travelers to breakfast there. Is there any remedy for Mr. Weaver, the drummer and the traveling public at large

HAS AUTHORITY, BUT—

"I would not be rash enough to say that the commission could not in any case require a railroad company to stop its trains long enough to permit the traveling public to breakfast, dine or sup. You have general supervision over all railroad companies doing business in this state, and can require them to establish and maintain such service and facilities as are reasonable and just. A situation might become so acute as to make it necessary for the commission to compel a carrier to stop at some station long enough to permit its passengers to eat. I think, in such a case, the commission's action could be successfully defended against the usual objections that it would violate the commerce and due process clauses *of the federal constitution. Such ac*tion would only indirectly affect and burden interstate commerce by making the carrier haul in the case of each passenger an additional load equal to the weight of the meal taken at the wayside inn. Nor would such action of the commission deprive the carrier of its property without due process of law and take its property without just compensation.

"The establishment of wayside eating houses along the lines of the carrier might lessen its revenue from its dining cars; but such loss would not involve the taking of its property without due process of law. The business of the carrier is to furnish transportation. Incidentally it may furnish to its passengers meats and drink. The commission may require the carrier to maintain facilities which will lessen its revenue from this side-line, without running roughshod over the sacred paladium of our liberties found in the Fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States.

"We are not without precedent for such action. In the exercise of its police power the state passed a statute requiring its railroads to keep on each passenger car an adequate supply of good, pure drinking water at all hours during the day and night. If the carrier can be compelled to furnish drink, why cannot the commission under its broad powers hereinbefore alluded to, compel them to furnish facilities for meat and bread?

CASE NOT STRONG ENOUGH.

"But under the facts in the record, Bowersville does not make a case which would make action by the commission reasonable and just in the eye of the law.

"It must be borne in mind that evolution is going on in transportation. It is working slowly, but it is at work. Time and speed are the essence of traffic. Whatever hinders speed in transportation is doomed. The wayside eating house stands in the way of celerity of travel, and is gradually disappearing. Lunches and dining cars are displacing dinner houses. The process is inevitable.

"To interfere with the management of a railroad by its officers, and to require it to stop its trains so that its passengers can breakfast at a given point on its line, the public necessity for such action must be clear, and the public convenience must demand such facility.

"As the situation at Bowersville does not present a case of such public necessity and public convenience, the travelers on the Elberton Air Line must forego the pleasure of the good breakfasts which Mr. Weaver served there."

ANDREW CARNEGIE WILL CONGRATULATE EMPEROR

BERLIN, May 17.—Andrew Carnegie is coming to Berlin to congratulate Emperor William on his twenty-five years' peaceful reign.

The Frog Tried Hard To Get Arrested But "It Wasn't Any Use"

Will Bailey, a Decatur street "shine" known as "the Frog," tried for three hours Saturday afternoon to get somebody at police headquarters to arrest him, but without success. They just wouldn't do it without the warrant which Bailey said was out for him, and although the negro aided officers to hunt through every file at the station in search of it, it was not found until late in the evening.

It was reported early Saturday afternoon that a warrant charging Bailey with larceny had been issued by Justice of the Peace Powers. So when Call Officer Bailey met the negro on Decatur street shortly afterward he told him to go to the station and proceed to get locked up.

"Suttinly, boss, suttinly," replied "the Frog," and beat it to the cooler.

Bailey tried the desk sergeant first. "I've come to git arrested," he announced.

The sergeant couldn't find the warrant. Neither could the detectives, the chief, the policemen, the matron, or anyone else.

"The Frog" turned disconsolately away and sought Officer Bailey again.

"It's no use, boss," he told him. "Nobody else 'll 'rest me. Ah reckon you'll have to do it."

The officer went back to the station with "the Frog" and after a long chase the warrant was discovered. Bailey was locked up for ten minutes, when he was released on a promise to Judge Powers to come to court at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

"The Frog's a good nigger," the judge said. "And I guess any man that tries to get arrested as hard as he did, will be at court all right when the time comes."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. SHERAM

Mrs. Mary M. Sheram died at her home on Ponce de Leon Place, Friday afternoon, May the 9, 1913, after many long months of pain and suffering. She has gone to be with her Maker, whom she loved and served throughout her life.

She was born July 3, 1850, at Johnstonville, Ga., and was the only daughter of John Johnston, of Johnstonville, who will be remembered by many of the first settlers of Monroe county, as a prominent and successful planter. Mrs. Sheram lived at Johnstonville until 1886, when with her family, she moved to Atlanta to make her home. She is survived by five daughters: Mrs. Thomas E. Fagan, of College Park; Mrs. Walter L. Merritt, of Stone Mountain; Mrs. Harry B. Ferguson, Mrs. Lena S. Matthews and Miss Sallie Sheram, of this city, and one son, John D. Sheram, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Also two brothers, J. M. Johnston, of Macon, Ga., and W. F. Johnston, of Johnstonville, Ga. Her life was one of love and gentle kindness, and in the lives of hundreds of friends and loved ones, long will live her sweet memory. To know her was to love her, for she combined all the beautiful qualities of mind and heart with a life of perfect consistency.

The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon May the 11, from the residence, by Rev. N. B. O'Kelly, and the interment was in West View.

FLAGLER'S CONDITION REPORTED CRITICAL

GLADYS HANSON COMES HOME AFTER ANOTHER SEASON'S SUCCESS

Charming Atlanta Girl, Who Has Won New Laurels in Belasco's Production, "The Governor's Lady," Is Happy to Be With Her Family and Her Friends

Miss Gladys Hanson Snook, the Atlanta girl who has put her city on the theatrical map by obtaining a widely recognized success, returned home Saturday afternoon and will be with her family at their residence on Cleburne avenue for a month or more.

On July 1 she plans to sail for Europe to spend the remainder of the summer, returning in the fall to play in David Belasco's latest production, "The Governor's Lady," in which she takes one of the leading roles. Later in the season she will probably be starred in another Belasco play.

Miss Hanson is glad to be here, and her delight in coming home is more than matched by that of her many Atlanta friends, who welcome her return. They have watched her rapid rise in dramatic circles with interest and pride, heightened by the knowledge that deserved success in the north, east and west has not lessened her love for Dixie and the people who claim her as their own.

She comes back to us this year with new laurels. In "The Governor's Lady" her work helped not a little to make the play a winner. It had a long run in New York last winter and in other large eastern cities, winding up the season in Gotham by appearing before crowded houses in the leading theaters of the city. Miss Hanson's reputation for beaty and charm and for histrionic ability advanced considerably in the course of the season's run.

Her career is one without parallel in later day stage annals. True, she has had her disappointments, but it is seldom that a young actress gains the heights reached by Miss Hanson with more rapidity. Since she "broke into" the theatrical game several seasons ago in Daniel Frohman's adaptation of "The Spoilers" she has played under the management of the foremost theatrical men in the United States and with actors who are recognized stars. She was with E. H. Sothern; was Kyrle Bellew's leading lady; played with Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, acknowledged to be America's best actress, and now, in Belasco's company, her star of fortune has never been so brilliant.

"I would not give up my work," declares Miss Hanson, "for anything in the world. What success I may have obtained was the result of some very hard work, but it was worth it. Any girl with the pluck and the perseverance and the ambition can do the same. She will find that the stage is no easier and no harder than any other profession, and that it has its rewards as well as its disappointments."

YAARAB PATROL IS ARRESTED IN MEMPHIS

Victorious Atlanta Shriners Sentenced to Take Three Drinks

Atlanta's victorious Shrine patrol and drum corps will roll into the Terminal station this morning at 10 o'clock over the Southern railway from Dallas, Tex., where they stormed the annual convocation of the Shriners and secured the next great meeting of 1914 for this city.

The patrol and drum corps are taking their time to get back by spending a day at Hot Springs, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn. The members took a day off at the famous bath resort on Friday and took in the sights of the town. They departed that evening arriving in Memphis yesterday morning.

There they were met by the Memphis Shriners and placed under arrest charged with having beaten Memphis out of the next annual convocation. The prisoners were marched into court presided over by the imperial potentate and given the limit of the law for their success in bucking Memphis at Dallas.

"I will sentence all of you," said the judge, "to three drinks each and twelve months in Atlanta. That is the most severe form of punishment that I can think of."

The criminals were then released on their own recognizance and carried for an automobile ride over the city.

The welcome accorded the town was as rouseing as it was sincere. The Memphis Shriners proved good losers and even better entertainers. There was nothing too good for the Atlantians. When the victors left for home they had the promise of every arresting officer to attend the grand convocation here in 1914.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WILSON OCCURS THIS AFTERNOON

The funeral of Mrs. W. T. B. Wilson, the esteemed Atlanta lady who died at her residence, 372 North Jackson street, at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, will be held at the residence Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. C. O. Jones, pastor of Grace church, will officiate. Interment will be in West View.

The following gentlemen will act as pallbearers and are requested to meet at Barclay & Brandon's chapel, on Ivy street, at 2:15 p. m.: Captain T. J. Donaldson, J. A. Forsyth, J. J. Hastings, S. T. Weyman, Aldine Chambers and F. W. Vaughn.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY OSTEOPATHIC ASSOCIATION

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 17.—President, O. Y. Yowell, of Chattanooga, vice president, A. L. Dykes, of Bristol; secretary and treasurer, J. Erle Collier, of Nashville. The above officers were elected Saturday afternoon at the closing session of the Tennessee Osteopathic association, in convention in this city.

H. Vielhe, the retiring president, will represent the Tennessee association at the annual convention of the American Osteopathic association, to be held at Kirksville, Mo., next August.

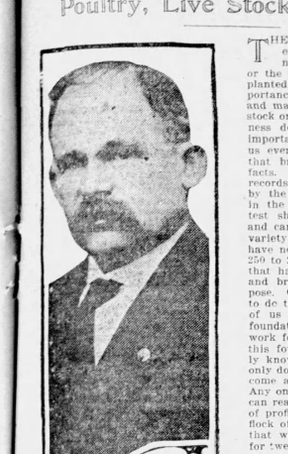
POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Importance of Carefully Breeding Poultry, Live Stock and Pigeons



THERE are but few people who ever enter the poultry business, the live stock business or the raising of any crop that is planted who ever realize the importance of care in line breeding and mating either their birds, live stock or seed. Any one's future business depends absolutely on these important details. We have before us every day many object lessons that bring to our memory these facts. For instance, the wonderful records that are now being made by the different varieties of hens in the National Egg Laying Contest show what careful selection and careful breeding will do for a variety of chickens. It would have never been possible to secure 250 to 284 eggs per year from hens that had not been properly mated and bred, especially for this purpose. Of course it takes a lifetime to do this work, and there but few of us who are willing to lay a foundation and have patience to work for many years to build from this foundation when we absolutely know to a certainty if we will only do this that results will surely come and it will pay in the end. Any one who has ever kept poultry can readily see when a big per cent of profit there would be in a large flock of hens, say several thousand that would produce 250 eggs each for twelve months at the price eggs are now selling for. When one man can easily attend to 2,000 or 3,000 laying hens, with a flock of this kind of hens he would have a regular gold mine.

These hens can be had, but it takes time, patience, selection, proper feeding and breeding to secure them, and only those who have the patience and are willing to wait for big results in the end are the ones who will reap this reward. There are very few of this class. However, there are some who are reaping the benefits of this work now that started out many years ago not only with poultry, but with cattle, hogs, horses and seed especially. Haphazard or slip-shod methods would have never produced the Holstein cow that now holds a butter record of forty-two pounds of butter per week and a milk record of fourteen gallons of milk per day. It takes brains, science, patience and money to bring about such results, but it is being done every day. Some people enjoy doing this work and working to these ends and hundreds of people get the benefit of their work, but there are not enough of thes who are willing to be so patient as to lay the proper foundations and keep them going. So few people appreciate the time and money it takes to do this, and so few that are willing to pay the price to get some of the benefits derived from these many years of hard work.

It would pay any one starting with poultry to pay $5, $10 or $20 per sitting for a few eggs from such birds as have been bred to produce over two hundred eggs each per year, and it is money well spent to pay $500 for a bull calf out of a cow that has milked 1,000 to 1,200 gallons of milk in one year, and it is certainly a good investment for any farmer to put $10 in one bushel of corn seed that would plant six acres of a variety that would make ten bushels per acre more corn than it would to use the ordinary seed. As you can readily see if you had paid $10 for this bushel of seed which would make $9 difference in it and a bushel of ordinary seed, for the same labor and the same land used you would easily receive in return sixty bushels more corn than if you had planted the ordinary seed. This applies to animals, poultry and seed, and the man who has the patience to carry on this work never receives full reward for his work.

It requires at least seven generations to build up a true type of anything, and after it passes over the seventh generation it will reproduce a large per cent like the original. Then it is usually safe to say that a pure seed or a variety of fowls can be called pure and depended upon after it passes this stage, so you can readily see how long it takes to build a foundation and to establish a fixed type. Usually line breeding will show wonderful improvements during the second, third and fourth years, but in the fifth and sixth years it usually has a tendency to drop back, but after the sixth and seventh years by careful selection and careful breeding it breaks over very fast in the opposite direction for a big improvement, and it is no trouble after that to continue to improve very rapidly.

For instance, I know of one expert corn breeder who has spent years building his corn to where he thought he had the best in the world. He secured as high as sixty-four bushels average per acre and it seemed impossible for several years for him to get away from this amount. Science, work and study showed him during the next three years where he could make more than one hundred bushels average per acre, and he is now carefully increasing this amount every year and there is no telling eventually what he will accomplish.

Ninety-nine per cent of the people who produce crops of all kinds, and animals and fowls of all kinds have but little regard or pay but little attention to the breeding behind what they are starting with, and it is a big mistake not to do so. That is where one of the heavies losses come to every one who is not being careful enough in this respect. We can no more afford to go in blindly and not know exactly what we are doing than we can afford to make foolish investments in any other lines, and if we expect to get profits out of our feed and labor we must know where we are and what we will receive for our work and investments, and unless we know exactly what kind of seeds we are planting and the class of stock we are using to breed from we can never hope to make a profit out of our work.

Yours very truly,

Tommy Lee

WANTED—REAL ESTATE WANTED—REAL ESTATE

HOUSE WANTED AT ONCE

6 OR 7-ROOM bungalow or residence on north side, with all conveniences, direct from owner. Will not consider an old house. Property must be located between Ponce de Leon and Sixteenth streets running north and south and between Myrtle and Spring streets east and west. Answer PROMPTLY, "W," Box 14, care Journal.

REAL ESTATE—Sale or Exchange REAL ESTATE—Sale or Exchange

Fourteenth Street Residence for Sale or Exchange

$3,000 to $5,000 SURE PROFIT

ON FOURTEENTH STREET, West, just a few doors from Peachtree, we own a strictly modern up-to-date and practically new residence of nine rooms. This place also has a cement driveway, a garage and the lot is 50x180 to an alley, and is on the South side of the street. The house itself is attractive, has all conveniences—the street, as everyone knows, is one of the most select North Side Residence Streets.

We will sell this property $2,000 under value. On this basis: $6,000 cash will be required, balance of $6,500 will be divided into seven or eight annual payments, if desired—$3,000 to $5,000 profit here sure in next three years. Several parties have applied for lease at $75 per month. This means about 7 per cent net on the investment.

Or we will exchange the property for well located income city property, accept or pay difference.

CLOSE IN BARGAINS

MARIETTA STREET.—Extending back to the railroad, at $375 per front foot. Any concern looking for a close-in location, with railroad facilities cannot possibly find a more desirable site.

ON THE NORTH SIDE OF MARIETTA ST., one square further out, we have a corner lot, 58x135, at the bargain price of $325 per front foot. Here is a certain money maker for some one.

SOME REAL ESTATE agents advise a close-in investment on the West Side. That is our advice also, and, as West Mitchell street will be the main thoroughfare to the West, we offer a bargain in a close-in tract on that street, lot 55x117, improved with brick store and eight-room residence. Our price for a few days is $125 per front foot. Property across the street and adjoining is held at from $200 to $250 per front foot. This is also a sure money maker.

BARGAINS IN LOTS

IF INTERESTED in South Side property, you cannot find anything more beautiful than the lots in Brownwood Park. This property is located on South Moreland avenue. The lots range in price from $7 to $15 per front foot, and are from 50 to 70 feet in width, so you can have all the frontage you want. The lots all have good depth.

OUR EAST POINT SUBDIVISION lots range from $7 to $15 per front foot. There is nothing to excel this property in the East Point, College Park or Hapeville districts.

OUR "GRAND VIEW" lots, just off of Ponce de Leon avenue, overlooking the city, are unexcelled by anything on the North Side. These range in price from $30 to $50 per front foot. Call on us for plats and particulars regarding anything on the above list.

ACREAGE

106 ACRES between Decatur and Stone Mountain, on new street car line. This tract fronts the highway for a distance of 1,050 feet, and the land lies very nicely. Price $150 per acre. Here is a good subdivision for you.

225½ ACRES on Powers' Ferry road at bargain price of $90 per acre.

HOMES

WE HAVE just as desirable homes for sale as can be found in or about Atlanta. In fact, we think we have the choicest. We do not annoy or run after prospective buyers. If you will tell us what you are looking for, we will submit what we have and leave it to your good judgment to make your own selection. It doesn't make any difference how humble or how grand a home you want—a cottage or a palace—we will be pleased to confer with you.

IF YOU have property to sell, we will be glad to handle it, if it is good, salable property.

Parcel on Harris Street Near Spring Brings $400 a Front Foot—Ponce de Leon Sale—Half Interest in Whitehall Corner Sold—Haverty Furniture Company Leases Wing Candy Factory Building—Luckie Street and Small Sales

Several smaller transactions, embracing a pretty fair variety of properties, were announced on yesterday. These included two semi-central sales, another Whitehall street transaction, some residence and some vacant lot sales. There was also an interesting lease announcement on Auburn avenue.

HARRIS STREET SALE.

Marsh Adair of the Adair & Holt agency, has sold for a client to Mrs. Mabel H. Moody and D. W. Hale a parcel on Harris street west of Spring. The aggregate consideration was $20,000 or $400 a front foot.

This property adjoins the northwest corner of Harris and Spring streets, and consists of a double ten-room house on a lot with a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of 180 feet.

RESIDENCE SALE.

J. F. Mayfield, of the Harris G. White agency, has sold for Mrs. M. P. Huggins to Mrs. Kate G. Ryder No. 346 Ponce de Leon avenue, residence property, for $13,000.

This is a ten-room, two-story brick veneer residence on a lot 38x321.

WHITEHALL STREET SALE.

The Martin-Ozburn Realty company has sold for Alex Reeves to a customer a half interest in a large, irregularly shaped parcel at the northwest corner of Whitehall and Humphries streets.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS OF DEAF-MUTES

This class at St. Mark's Methodist church in Atlanta is the original of several now found in the south. W. F. Crusselle, manager of a department of the Atlanta Constitution, started this class in 1904. It now includes in its membership practically all of the deaf-mutes in Atlanta, of several denominations. In the front row appears Ira W. O. Connor, principal of the Georgia school for the deaf, Cave Springs. He is holding his hat in the picture. At his left is James L. Mayson, city attorney, superintendent of St. Mark's Sunday school. At Professor Connor's right is W. F. Crusselle, founder of the class and its teacher still. None of these three gentlemen is either deaf or dumb. At the right of Mr. Crusselle is John Amos Todd, secretary of the Memphis Deaf-Mute association.

NO MOOSE ON RIVERS AND HARBORS COMMITTEE

Underwood, However, Gives 37 Committee Places to the 15 Progressives

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Progressive will have representation on fourteen of the sixteen most important house committees and in all will have 37 committee places, Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, and Progressive Leader Murdock have agreed upon such a plan.

As there are fifteen accredited Progressives in the house, some will have places on more than one committee. Rivers and harbors and agriculture are the only important committees on which the Progressives will not have representation.

LLOYD'S CHIEF CLERK POISONED BY MILITANTS

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON, May 17.—The discovery of the words "Votes or destruction" on the paper containing a powder supposed to be a seidlitz powder, but which was taken with fatal effects by Mr. Thomas Watt, chief clerk of Lloyd's register of shipping at Middlesborough, is mystified an already strange case.

Mr. Watt arrived at his office one morning complaining of a headache, in order to relieve it he sent an office boy to a chemist's shop for three seidlitz powders.

He opened one, drank what seemed to be its contents, and immediately became ill. Death occurred in a few minutes. The doctor who was called was not satisfied as to the cause of death, and placed the matter in the hands of the police.

The latter took possession of the paper from which the powder had been taken and also two unconsumed powders. They found written in pencil in printed characters on the inside of the used package the words "Votes or Destruction," and the same words were written in a similar way on the outside of the other packets.

On the instructions of the chief constable Mr. Henry Riches, the whole of the seidlitz powders in stock at the shop were seized and examined, but there was no trace of writing on any of them. The packets upon which the writing was found were microscopically examined. The pencil marks on the inside of the packet were found to be fresh and bright.

Had the writing been done before the packet was packed some crystals of the powder would probably have been found to be adhering to the lead marks, but not the minutest speck was discovered, and the police are consequently satisfied that the words were inscribed after the packet was opened and not before.

Detectives are now endeavoring to find the writer. The contents of the stomach have been submitted to an analytical investigation. The inquest was opened, but was adjourned after formal evidence of identification. This was given by Mr. William Watt, of Rutherglen, Glasgow, who said his brother enjoyed good health and liked his work. He had only recently returned from a holiday. Mr. Watt was thirty-seven years of age, and leaves a widow and two young children.

LON L. FLOWERS GIVES UP INTEREST IN NEWS

BY CRANSTON G. WILLIAMS.

COVINGTON, Ga., May 17.—Lon L. Flowers, one of the founders of the Covington News in 1902, has disposed of his interest to Mrs. Edwin Taylor, who is now sole owner. Mrs. Taylor assumed connection with the News several weeks ago upon the death of her husband, who was one of the founders.

Mr. Flowers has not decided upon his future business course, but it is thought he will continue in the newspaper work. He has been identified in the newspaper business in Covington for twenty-nine years, having had continuous service. His first work was done with S. W. Hawkins, on the Georgia Enterprise. And later he worked with J. W. Anderson on the Covington Star, and then with Carl G. Smith.

TWO THOUSAND ATTEND NEWTON COUNTY FAIR

BY CRANSTON G. WILLIAMS.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

OXFORD, Ga., May 17.—In the historic old village of Oxford, which has been linked among the educational traditions of this state for three-quarters of a century, the Newton County School fair and oratorical contest was held today.

This is the first spring school fair ever held in Georgia, and Newton county was the pioneer in the grammar school work that is being carried on with such crowning success.

Two thousand people viewed the exhibits displayed, and formed the audience which attentively heard the contests in oratory. The exercises continued throughout the day, and the noon hour was spent in enjoying dinners on the ground.

The contest in oratory and recitation was held in the old Emory college church, and throughout the exercises the building was filled to its utmost capacity. The winners in these events were: Oratory, first, Grady Brooks, of Flint Hill; second, Campie Daniel, of Mansfield; third, Morris Robertson, of Newborn. Recitation, first, Miss Elizabeth Benton, of Newborn; second, Miss Lois Owens, of Starrsville; third, Miss Frances Geer, of Mansfield. Spelling, Warren Quillian, of Oxford. Reading, Miss Lillian Epps, of Mansfield. Grammar, Miss Dorothy Campbell, of Mansfield. Composition, Keller Melton, of Oxford, and Cecil Marbut, of Almon, tied.

The exhibitions from each school in Newton county were displayed in a mammoth tent which had been erected in front of the chapel.

The exhibits were in the charge of Prof. J. O. Martin, county school commissioner of Newton, and Miss Clyde Willis, who is in charge of the domestic science work in this county. This is one of the great moves of the millionaire philanthropist, N. O. Nelson, of New Orleans, La., who is carrying on this great domestic science work in the counties of middle Georgia.

Each school had their displays in booths around the tent, and each teacher strived to arrange his booth in the most attractive manner. The Henderson school was awarded first prize for the best general display.

Starrsville was awarded the prize for the greatest improvement on school grounds; Flint Hill, for the great improvement on school building; Palmer institute for the greatest improvement on interior of school building; Mansfield, for the school reading the greatest number of library books; Newborn, for making the highest per cent of attendance, and for the highest grade average; Flint Hill, for the school having the largest number of contestants.

There were contests in cooking, drawing, composition, sewing, displays of vegetables, varieties of wood.

Mark Burnham, of Starrsville, was chosen for first prize for the best article made from wood. His prize winner was a workbox, made entirely by hand, from rough lumber.

A large number of prominent people were present during the events of the day. Among them were Colonel Sam J. Tribble, of Athens; H. Y. McCord, of Atlanta; Prof. Alfred Akerman, of the State university, Athens; Major R. C. Culm, of Atlanta; Miss Estelle Coleclough, who has charge of dometsic science in Morgan county.

DRY WEATHER HUNTING THE FARMERS 'COTTON

FORT GAINES, Ga., May 17.—The continued dry weather has caused the farmers of the county no little trouble in not getting up a stand of cotton. In many places they have planted over and still have no tsand or seed to plant again.

It has been over a month since the farmers have had rain enough to bring up cotton. There is about a half a tsand now on the land at present, while many farmers are chopping and plowing the scanty cotton that has come up.

It is getting very serious now with some of the farmers and the negroes are discouraged too over the outlook for a cotton crop.

Birthday Party

Little Miss Elsie Gordon entertained with a birthday party Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gordon, on Jackson street, the event being in celebration of her seventh anniversary.

Thirty-two young friends were invited, games and childish amusements being provided for their entertainment.

The decorations for the house were in pink green, sweet peas being the flowers used.

The little hostess wore a dainty frock of white mull and pink ribbons.

Eloped Forty Years Ago With Man Who Leaves Her Fortune

NEW YORK, May 17.—After forty years of struggle to support herself by running a little bake shop in New York, Mme. Charlotte Francoise Rausseau has learned that the man with whom she eloped in France when she was only sixteen years old, had died leaving her a fortune of over $100,000.

The little gray-haired woman, who is now sixty-one years old, was the only child of Henry Courdant, a wealthy oil refiner in Lille, France, when she fell in love with her father's coachman, Adolph Gruseu, eighteen years old. They ran away to Brussels to marry, but their happiness lasted only a few days, for the enraged father succeeded in separating the couple. The broken-hearted girl later escaped from her home, but was unable to find her husband, and, in desperation, she came to America to seek her living.

The letter she has just received from a friend in France informs her that the courts have been looking for her for the past four years, since her husband died leaving her about 500,000 francs in money, a cross of the Legion of Honor and sealed papers addressed to her.

The woman had heard during the past forty years only vague reports to the effect that her lost husband had gone to Algieres in the foreign legion and that he had died fifteen years ago. Supposing him dead she married John Bousseau in this country, but he died a few months after the wedding.

Mme. Bousseau is planning to return to France and spend the rest of her adys there.

Mrs. Irwin's Matinee Party

Mrs. Rush Irwin entertained at a box party at the Atlanta Saturday afternoon and after the matinee the guests were entertained at tea.

Mrs. Irwin's guests included Mrs. J. N. McEachern, Mrs. Henry Brittain, Mrs. Charles Forrest, Mrs. Eugene Booth, Mrs. F. H. Spratlin, Mrs. Howard Dobbs, and Mrs. John Arnold.

"LADIES' NUMBER" OF TREASURY PAPER ISSUED

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secretary McAdoo has just issued a "ladies' number" of the treasury department's official weekly paper. This publication circulated under the name of Treasury Decisions, and embodying opinions by the treasury department and the courts on customs on internal revenue questions, has a long subscription list among officials and business interests.

While usually dry and technical, treating of such subject as duties on steel, iron and lumber, this week's issue possesses a distinctly feminine touch, and is of importance to every woman in the land and to the pocketbooks of most of the men. It deals with drawback on chewing gum, drawback on corsets, drawback on shoes, duties on ladies' collars and cuffs, trimmed hats, wholebones, needle cases, slipper ornaments, aigrettes, beaded necklaces and bags, dress buttons, mesh bags and a score of other articles of feminine wear.

Narrow Movement of Stocks Was Irregular With Lower Tendency

There Was Further Pronounced Weakness Among the Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and St. Louis, San Francisco Securities

NEW YORK, May 17.—The effect of today's trading on quoted values of stocks was slight. Speculative interests was gone from the market and the volume of business was hardly sufficient to preserve the semblance of life in the dealings. The narrow movements of the leading stocks were irregular with a lower tendency. After opening at a small decline, prices moved above yesterday's close, but later eased off again on the appearance of some selling orders. Not a few of the issues which professed to are active did not appear on th etape today. It was the second day in which there wer eno transactions in Lehigh Valley.

A few stocks broke away from the list and moved widely. Canadian Pacific was again under pressure and broke nearly three points. There was further pronounced weakness among the Rock Island, the St. Louis and San Francisco securities, selling of which was a conspicuous feature of yesterday's trading. The substantive explanation was offered of the weakness of these issues, decline of which ran from 1½ to nearly 3 points.

St. Louis and San Francisco common and second preferred, Denver and Rio Grande preferred, Baltimore and Ohio preferred and New York Air Brake were low records for the year, ½.

Substantiation of a substantial gain in cash by the banks as a result of the week's operations were fully borne out by the bank statement. The actual cash gain amounted to something like $6,400,000. Changes in loans and deposits were small, only $5,776,000 and $1,776,000 respectively.

Mercantile agencies in their weekly reviews reported the continuance of a fairly good volume of general business, with manufacturing lines in buoyant condition. Preparations for the harvesting of the winter wheat crop remaining in the South must be well on some time or other before the new crop can appear on the market, and while this will undoubtedly so to a considerable extent, such movement will depend to a large degree upon the prospects for the new crop, which so far have promised no such setting.

Reports of need of rain continues to pour in from all parts of the eastern half of the country, these have been treated with considerable skepticism because of the fact that the same kind of crop remaining in the South must be still in some price

Signs That Powerful Interests Were Buying Wheat Caused Rally

Bullish Sentiment Was Increased by the Fact That May Delivery Ruled Tight and Led the Upturn in Last of the Session

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 17.—Signs that powerful interests were taking the bear side of the market on account of the sharp declines gave the wheat market today a decided rally. The close was steady at prices varying from ¼c under last night to ¾c advance. Latest trading left corn off to a like amount up, oats unchanged to ¼c higher and provisions with a gain of 5c to 15@17½c.

Speculators who had been figuring that some of the wheat in Chicago would be available for delivery on July contract received a rude shock today when it became apparent that unless there was a great deal more wheat here than the best heat here would be advanced to a point where it would be entirely sold by July 1. Bullish sentiment was increased by the fact that the May delivery ruled tight and led the upturn in that part of the session.

The drift of the market was contrary to Grain Trade precedent. Usually the bears who seemed to have the whip hand owing to weather in both winter and spring crop news, were the ones who were ready to agree on seven day drafts instead of eight.

Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour today equalled 1,038,000 bushels; primary receipts of wheat were 464,000 bushels, against 393,000.

Cash traders had the narrowest market of the week. Doubt as to the truth of talk of large deliveries on the part of the Hinds & Hinds offerings.

Premium prices were pushed higher. Actual transactions, though, were few.

FEW DIVIDEND CHANGES EXPECTED IN INDUSTRIALS

Equipment Companies Showing Good Increase in Net Earnings Over Year Ago

Wall Street Journal says:

It is expected that of all the equipment companies, the American Locomotive company, will show the largest surplus earned on its common stock for its year ending June 30. It is practically certain that this company will show in the neighborhood of 9 per cent on its common stock after all charges, compared with less than one-half of 1 per cent in the year ended June 30. Resumption of dividends on the common stock is not expected this year, however, as the company has some financing to do in the near future on account of notes fall due. The company has not paid a common dividend since 1908, and because of the fluctuations to which the company's business is subject, officials are inclined to go slow in resuming payments on the common issue.

The American Car and Foundry company pays 2 per cent on its common stock and although it showed a very good surplus after all charges for the year ended with April, 1913, there are no expectations of an increase at least until the company's business shows more strength. The company's report for the last fiscal period is expected to show between 5 per cent and 6 per cent on common equivalent to about 1½ per cent last year.

Railway Steel Spring company paid a dividend of 2 per cent on the common stock in May, and it is not probable that it will pay any further dividends on its common stockholders this year. This company is almost free from equipment concerns in this it does not depend altogether on the buying of the railroads. The surplus, over and above maintenance of existing equipment are slight and show very little change from year to year, although in 1912 there was a considerable surplus after all charges and preferred dividends. Unfilled orders now on hand are sufficient to cover the common dividend requirements for the next year.

The International Harvester company, of New Jersey, will probably pay 2 per cent on the preferred after this year's payment of 1½ per cent on the preferred. As this is the first annual report issued by the new company and its subsidiaries, it is difficult to make comparison with former years. The last year's report showed 7 per cent semi-annually on the common. The company has a position in the common for dividend disbursement, but it is doubtful if any action in that direction will be taken at the next meeting.

The American Can company directors have decided to pay off the remaining 8¾ per cent on the back dividends on the preferred stock this year. Earnings will be sufficient according to officials to do this. It is also possible that an initial dividend on the common will be paid the first of next year.

While the Pressed Steel Car company is in excellent financial shape at present, the directors took no action looking toward dividends at the last meeting, after declaring a dividend of 2 per cent in January, reflecting the severe slump in the buying public regard the stock as on a regular 4 per cent issue, stating that they declared the January dividend out of surplus earnings of the year of 1912. Action during the remainder of this year is more uncertain.

TWO MINERS KILLED AND 16 ARE ENTOMBED

Rescue Party at Belle Valley, Ohio, Driven Back by Gas

(By Associated Press.)

BELLE VALLEY, O., May 17.—Two men are dead, three are probably fatally wounded and 16 others entombed as the result of two explosions tonight in the Imperial mine of the Ogara Coal company. The 16 men caught by the first explosion are imprisoned a mile and a half from the entrance of the mine.

At midnight hundreds of persons, attracted to the scene of the explosion, were in absolute ignorance of the fate of the entombed miners.

A rescue party entered the mine, but its members were driven back by the deadly gas. Miners doubt whether the men in the mine will be found alive. Additional relief was summoned from Cambridge, 20 lies north of Belle Velley. Superintendent S. T. Mathews, of the O'Gara company, and Deputy State Mine Inspector Ellwood, a number of physicians and a score of volunteer relief workers left Cambridge on a special train soon after the explosion.

Friends and relatives of the entombed miners gather about the mine and it was with difficult that they were restrained from entering the tunnel. Twenty miners left the workings just a few minutes before the first explosion occurred.

NAVAL POST-GRADUATE DEPARTMENT COMMENDED

Johns Hopkins Professor Congratulates U. S. Naval Academy

WASHINGTON, May 17.—High commendation of the recently inaugurated post-graduate department at the United States Naval academy is contained in a letter to the navy department from Dr. J. S. Ames, director of the physical laboratory at Johns Hopkins university, who declares he never has known an educational scheme "which seems to be so well thought out as that now in practice in your post-graduate department."

"From the standpoint of our navy," he adds, "I think it is of the utmost importance, for I cannot but believe that those young men will return to their active service keen in their professional knowledge and filled with a desire to make their profession recognized not alone in this country, but also abroad."

He says he has never known a body of men so hard working, so full of enthusiasm, so eager to obtain knowledge which they can use for the good of their profession as naval officers."

SANDERS WALKER CANNOT LIVE, SAY PHYSICIANS

MACON, Ga., May 17.—B. Sanders Walker, Jr., one of the most wealthy real estate owners in Georgia, who swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets last Wednesday night through mistake, realizes that he must die. Two of the best physicians in the city have been attending him and both say that his death is only matter of time.

He swallowed the poison about 3 o'clock in the morning and did not realize his fatal mistake until after 6 o'clock next morning. The physicians say that the poison had three hours' time to absorb in his system and that despite their determined efforts to combat the effects of the drug that he will in all probability die.

He is able to be up at his High street residence and walk around. No pain is felt whatever, but attending doctors say that he cannot live. He is the son of B. Sanders Walker, of Monroe, and is among the wealthiest citizens of Macon. Great sympathy is expressed for him here.

MAYORALTY RACE WILL BE HOT AT WAYCROSS

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 17.—Unless the local political dope is badly wrong voters this year will se one of the warmest contests for mayor the city has known in many elections. It has become known that Mayor Harry D. Reed will not offer for re-election because it is said of his lack of time to attend to his own affairs and the city's too. It is talked by many that former Mayors John M. Cox and A. M. Knight will be candidates, also that former Alderman James Sinclair will enter the race before long.

Two of the present members of council, H. Hengeveld of the Second and Scott Beaton of the Fourth, are mentioned as probable candidates. J. T. Watt and H. J. Benton, well known business men, are mentioned as possible candidates. J. E. T. Bowden, who has stated that he will not run, may get in the race in the event Knight and Cox are candidates.

BURGLAR ROBS MAYOR OF HIS WATCH AND TROUSERS

ROME, Ga., May 17.—A burglar was discovered last night in the home of Mayor Yancey on Broad avenue, and after a grapple with the mayor he escaped through a window, carrying off the mayor's $300 watch and a pair of trousers.

Mr. Yancey was awakened by the noise of the man moving about in the room. He jumped from his bed unarmed, and dived at the intruder, who broke away from his grasp and went through the window, escaping in record time up the street. The police were notified, but so far have obtained no clue.

Medical Scandal

VIENNA, May 17.—A great scandal has been discovered as the result of a murder charge. It seems that it has been the habit of a certain museum to forward by post to unknown correspondents deadly bacilli at "popular prices." The investigations have been made in connection with the case of a man named Hopf, under arrest at Frankfort-on-Main, who is alleged to have murdered his first and second wives by means of disease germs. It appears that bottles of deadly "cultures" cost only 50 cents each. Wins Fortune and Then Comes Back To Claim Wife of Eighteen Years Ago

MRS. L. O PARKER, OF COLLEGE PARK.
And the vine-covered cottage, where she liver eighteen years, gaining her livelihood by selling the flowers she raised. She has been courted and won again by the now wealthy man with whom she "agreed to disagree" eighteen years ago.

Mrs. E. A. Parker, of College Park, Famous for the Flowers She Cultivates, Meets Man She Married Thirty Years Ago for First Time in Eighteen Years—Now Mr. and Mrs. Parker Are on a Second Honeymoon

A husband and wife met in a downtown Atlanta office the other day for the first time in eighteen years. Thirty years ago they had married, separating eleven years later, only to meet again last week and become reconciled. Now they have gone to Florida on their second honeymoon.

The wife is Mrs. Loula Oregon Chisolm Parker, better known as L. O. Parker, the name which appears on the small business card which has made her a prominent personage with Atlanta florists as the owner of Cottage Garden, College Park, where sweet peas and roses grow by the thousands near a little vine-covered house.

For nearly twenty years she has lived here, where her husband, E. A. Parker, battled for the fortune which he had sworn to make on the day he left her long ago. At last he has made it—if $100,000 can be called a fortune—has come back to her, and found that after all there is no place like "home, sweet, home."

Their meeting last week was entirely accidental, although friends had been working for some time to reconcile them. Mr. Parker had to come to Atlanta from Jacksonville on a business trip. While here he visited the office of his brother. As he walked in the door, he saw Mrs. Parker sitting there.

It was the first time they had seen each other in eighteen years. Mr. Parker's hair had turned white, his beard was white; Mrs. Parker's hair was gray and her face had wrinkles which it had never known a score of years ago. They declare that they should not have known each other had they met on the street, but some subtle intuition told the one who the other was as they gazed into each other's eyes.

"Howdy," said Mr. Parker.

"Howdy," said Mrs. Parker.

HAD TO COURT HER AGAIN.

He took her home that night, but later returned to his brother's home in Atlanta. He had to court her all over again, he declares. But it was not many days before the love of twenty years gone had crept into the hearts of both, and now you will not find a bride or groom in the country more loving and constant than this old couple who have become man and wife again after a twenty years' separation.

In many ways Mrs. Parker is a remarkable woman. When a mere high school girl in her home town of West Point she edited, printed, and distributed a newspaper, probably the first in Georgia to be published by a woman.

She had been an editor for a year, when she took up telegraphy and got a job as operator at Barnesville, Ga. Mr. Parker was at that time publishing a paper there, and he persuaded her to become his business partner.

He soon found that she was invaluable to him both inside and outside the office with the result that they signed up a life partnership at the marriage altar.

For eleven years they lived happily at Barnesville. Then, to use their own words, they "agreed to disagree." Mr. Parker set out to seek his fortune.

UNSUCCESSFUL AT FIRST

Going north to New Jersey with a herd of registered blooded horses, he began to trade them to the shrewd Yankee farmers. Mr. Parker says they got the best of him. At any rate, he soon dropped what money he had and found that instead of gaining a great fortune he had lost a small one.

He would not return to his home shattered and broken and penniless; but resolved to try his luck again. For twenty years he bought, sold and traded horses and farming lands and other real estate in Virginia, North Dakota, Texas, Pennsylvania, Georgia, and Florida. Suddenly he found himself becoming rich.

In Jacksonville he now owns valuable real estate, he has much property in Atlanta, he owns land in Barnesville and many parts of Florida.

All these years his wife had been tending her sweet peas and her shrubbery in College Park. For many months past she has been all alone in her cottage, content to plant a little seed, watch it grow and blossom, and reap the rewards thereof from the large orders which daily fill her mail-box.

From time to time she had heard from Mr. Parker, but she had never seen him from the time he left her eighteen years ago until the day they stood face to face in an Atlanta office.

"It wasn't business that brought him there," she declares. "He just had to come."

They are going to Florida for a little while, they say, but expect to keep the place in College Park as a summer home.

"I shall plant my sweep peas on Mr. Parker's lots," says his wife, "and they will be so beautiful that people will just have to buy them."

MACON BANKER DYING OF POISON DOSE

B. Landers Walker Took Poison Instead of Headache Medicine

MACON, Ga., May 18.—B. Sanders Walker, prominent banker and real estate agent of this city, who took poison last Wednesday night is unconscious and believed to be dying early this (Sunday) morning.

A few hours after he took the poison by mistake, thinking it was asparin, Walker was told by his doctors that he could not live more than a few hours. He resigned himself to his fate. Mrs. Walker collapsed at first, but bore up bravely on Friday, and Friday night Walker climbed from his bed, dressed and held a reception to his friends who gathered.

He told them the end was near. Today he drew up his will. This afternoon Uremic poisoning set in, as doctors had expected, and the end is near for him.

Women in Distress

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

PARIS, May 17.—While motoring through the forest of Fontainbleau last summer M. Gaston Daumas, a tutor, and two of his pupils came upon a party stranded owing to the breakdown of their motor car.

The victims of the accident, Mme. Blanche Boepler and Mme. Pottier, asked M. Daumas to give them a lift as far as the town of Fontainbleau, and the teacher gallantly invited them to get into his car. They had only gone a mile or so when the car skidded and the ladies were thrown out and severely injured. Ignoring the fact that it was they who had requested M. Daumas to help them on their way, the ladies brought an action against him for damages, and the court has just awarded them $2,000 damages.

King Edward's Memorial

PARIS, May 16.—The memorial to King Edward is now rapidly approaching completion. The Rue Edouard VII and the Place Edouard VII will be among the gayest streets of Paris, for though there will be many shops there, these will be occupied exclusively by jewelers and venders of costly luxuries for the beau monde. The proprietors of these shops have already begun the work on installation, and the street

MYSTERY OF DEATH OF PRINCE RUDOLPH SOLVED?

Countess Marie Larisch Will Tell How Heir to Austrian Crown Died in 1889

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

VIENNA, May 17.—All the world knows that on January 30, 1889, the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, the heir to the Austrian crown and the only son of the aged emperor, and the Baroness Mary Vetsera were found dead at the hunting box of Meyerling, near Vienna. But to this day it has never been authoritatively stated how the prince and the baroness met their end. The secret is at last to be told, and it will be revealed by one who played an important part in the drama, and whose testimony is unimpeachable.

It is the Countess Marie Larisch, a niece of the late Empress Elizabeth of Austria, who has decided to speak, after a silence of twenty-four years, and her narrative is as sad and terrible a story as was ever been told.

The Countess Larisch is probably the only person living who is able to tell the whole story. She was the confidante of the poor girl who died with the prince, and her story of the greatest of European court mysteries will be eagerly awaited.

An official account of the death that was given out at the time attributed the princes' death to apoplexy.

It was known for certain that a merry party, which included Count Hoyos and Prince Philip of Coburg, brother of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, had been dining at the hunting box with the crown prince the night before. It was Count Hoyos who first sent the news of the death to the emperor.

But rumors added that there had been a scene of wild disorder in the hunting box, widely varying results as follows:

That the crown prince had been shot by a gamekeeper.

That he had been hit on the head with a chair by the duke of Braganza.

That the Baroness Mary Vetsera (whose dead body had also been found in the hunting box) had wounded him because he wanted to break off his relations with her.

As the doctors refused to certify apoplexy as the cause of the crown prince's death, it was announced officially that the prince had committed suicide.

The last letter written by the baroness and found in the hunting box had been addressed to the Countess Marie Larisch, a niece of the late empress of Austria, and only daughter of Duke Ludwig of Bavaria. Rumor had it that [illegible] her cous-
